GOSPEL TENT MEETINGS

Mrs. Davis, National Representative of King's Daughters, to Speak.

MINISTERS ON THE PROGRAM.

Salvation Army to Inaugurate Summer Meetings on Watchung Avenue Tonight.

Mrs. I. C. Davis, National Representative of the King's Daughters and one of the founders of the organization, will be present at the opening of the Salvation Army's Gospel tent tonight and will make an address. The service will begin at 8 o'clock and a special program has been arranged. Among the ministers who are expected to be present and speak are Rev. Drs. J. A. Chambliss and Anderson, and Revs. Musson and Shoop, and representatives from the following organizations: Rescue Mission, W. C. T. U. and the West End Tabernacle.

A fine musical program will be rendered by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra under the direction of Martin A. Korff, and those who attend will be assured of good music.

Services will be held every evening except Monday and Wednesday. The speaker for Friday evening is James F. Parker. Saturday evening a service will be conducted by the children. Sunday evening Lieutenant Colonel Cox, editor in chief of the Army's publications in this country, will speak on "Charters, Past and Present."

The tent is located on Watchung avenue between Fourth and Fifth streets and everybody will be welcome.

PHYSICIAN RECOVERS FOR SERVICES RENDERED.

William H. Abbott, of North avenue, was the defendant in a suit in the District court this morning brought by Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, who sought to recover for professional services rendered. Harry C. Runyon represented the complainant and V. W. Nash, Jr., the defendant. Judgment for $107.31, which includes interest, was given Dr. Clawson. No defense was offered.

Besides Dr. Clawson, who testified in his own behalf, other witnesses for the complainant were Mrs. Laura Hangliter and Mrs. Harriett Tabor, nurses.

Fairview Cycle Club's Fair.

The Fairview Cycle Club held a successful fair at the home of Charles Beckman at 83 Fairview avenue, yesterday afternoon and evening, and $50 was netted. A portion of this will be used to purchase new uniforms for the baseball team. Edmund J. Kenney and E. Franklin Lowe were at the candy booth; Charles Beckman at the fancy table, Ward Birch in charge of ice cream cones, Valentine Goldsmith at the cake table, Conville Harper at the lemonade and root beer well, while Harold Hamilton served ice cream. A shooting gallery and magic lantern show were features.

Start Greenbrook Road Work.

Mobus & Burke, the contractors, who have the work for widening and macadamizing Greenbrook road, from Gavin's Corner to the borough dividing line at Dunellen, began this morning to stake the road out for operations. The first job will be that of excavating, it being necessary to remove several hundred loads of dirt, before starting the work of macadamizing. A coating of oil will serve as the top dressing to hold the dust down.

Car Jumps Track.

Arlington avenue trolley car No. 259, in charge of Motorman Moore, and Conductor Dumont, jumped the track west of Park avenue on West Fourth street at noon today and ploughed up about ten feet of the road outside of the rails on the south side of the street. The derailment was caused by pieces of crushed stone on the rails. The car was put back on the track by her own power and the line was blocked for about ten minutes.

George Miller Injured.

George Miller, of West Front street, employed as a brakeman on Conductor Charles Dodwell's 8:30 commuter's train, had his foot crushed in the yards at Jersey City, yesterday morning and had to be brought to his home, where he is under the care of Dr. Albert Pittis. It is not believed that he will lose his foot.

Will Attend Haymakers' Council.

Past Chief Haymakers Wagner, Osland, Armstrong, Willard have been appointed by the local Haymakers' lodge to attend the meeting of the Great Council at Camden, August 2. After the meeting a banquet was served.

FIGHTING FOR FORTUNE

Mrs. Zerega's Children May Get Part of a Million Dollar Estate.

THE WILL IS PROBATED.

Twelve Heirs to Share Great Fund in Surrogate's Court in New York.

Contest of the will of Augustus Zerega, a millionaire shipping merchant, prominent in New York city in the early eighties, may result in a big slice of the estate, estimated at more than a million dollars, come to Mrs. Virginia Zerega, of Park avenue. Action has been begun in the Surrogates' Court, New York in the matter of the distribution of the estate, which has been held in trust since the death of Mr. Zeregt, in 1888. The Plainfield woman is the wife of Albert Zerega, an adopted son, and has been a resident of this city for about fifteen years. Her children are Miss Bertha Zerega and John Zerega, a pupil at the city high school.

The estate is valued at $1,168,424, and the contest for its division, begun by the two sons and a grandchild of Augustus Zerega, will request its division among about a dozen heirs, among them Mrs. Virginia Zerega. By his will, Mr. Zerega bequeathed all his real and personal property to the executors and trustees, the income and rentals to be paid to his widow, Eliza M. Zerega, during her life, and then divided among the heirs. Mrs. Zerega died on March 26 last, at the age of 100, and her will was admitted to probate yesterday. The petitioners allege that their income from the estate has been entirely cut off since Mrs. Zerega's death.

A provision of the will is to the effect that none of the beneficiaries shall receive a share of the estate unless he or she be solvent, and if solvent, the bequest is to be formed into a trust and the income paid to the beneficiary until such time as he or she shall become solvent. It is probable that this will complicate the adjustment of the estate, which, it is believed, will only be settled among the heirs after lengthy court proceedings.

SENTENCE DAY IN UNION.

Yesterday was sentence day in the Union County Court and Judge Atwater disposed of the following cases:

George Canfield, Elizabeth, convicted of abusing two girls, was given two years in State prison.

Alfred Dixon, Elizabeth, for atrocious assault, was given one year in State prison. It was his third conviction.

Joseph Weinshein, for assault on an agent for prevention of cruelty to animals, was fined $100. His son Harry, who assisted him, was committed to the county jail for three months. John Jakolsky, who also participated, was consigned to jail for two months.

Albert Burns and Lawrence Brugsy, for larceny and atrocious assault, were committed to the Rahway Reformatory.

Raymond Porisky, for stealing shoes, got three months in the county jail.

Frederick Swick and John McCay, of Summitt, pleaded guilty to robbery and assault. They were placed in charge of the probation officer for two years.

William H. Munn, of Elizabeth, pleaded guilty to check forgery and Anthony Kudick, aged seventeen, of Plainfield, pleaded guilty to stealling a bicycle. They will be sentenced next Wednesday.

HIGHLAND PARK REALTY.

The foundation piers are laid for the new Refromed church on Leland avenue and Midway avenue, which will be 25x45 feet when completed, and will add much to the desirability of Highland Park.

Morris S. Trimmer, of Washington, Morris county, has purchased twelve lots in Highland Park, located on Sumner avenue and George street.

Thomas A. Moore has also purchased two additional lots on East Second street in this section. Francis Mackin, of Newark, a real estate operator and investor has bought fifty lots on Leland, Emerson and Sumner avenues.

Scarlet Fever Epidemic Over.

With the release of quarantine on four scarlet fever patients yesterday, the disease is now practically killed as an epidemic. There are now but five cases, and three of the patients are in the isolation ward of Muhlenberg hospital. There are no cases of typhoid or diphtheria in the city.

PAST EXALTED RULER RECEIVES AN EMBLEM

Past Exalted Ruler Clarence E. Teel, of Plainfield Lodge 885, B. P. O. E., who is the local lodge's delegate to the Elks' convention to be held at Los Angeles July 14, was the recipient of a handsome gold watch-fob emblem last night, when the presentation was made in connection with the lodge meeting by David J. Carney. Mr. Teel, who leaves for the West on Monday, spoke a few words of appreciation for the emblem, the presentation of which was a surprise.

The emblem, which is of solid gold, represents crossed American flags and between them an elk's head. Surmounting the head is a large diamond, centered between the antlers. The reverse of the emblem is appropriately inscribed.

The local lodge will keep "open house" at the club rooms during the Charter Day celebration, and will be prepared to royally entertain visiting Elks. The house committee has charge of the arrangements for entertainment, and the members have volunteered to arrange things so that some of the lodgemen will be at the club rooms to welcome visiting Elks at all times.

DR. L. D. BULKLEY IN BEHALF OF A "LEPER"

Dr. L. Duncan Bulkley, of New York, who is a brother-in-law of George P. Mellick, has taken up the cause of John R. Early, now isolated as a leper by the District of Columbia health authorities. He said yesterday that Early's latest plan to gain his freedom was to dismiss his wife and mother-in-law, who now feed and care for him, and throw the burden of supporting him entirely upon the District.

"Mrs. Early and her mother now live in the same house with Early," Dr. Bulkley said yesterday, "though the are separated from him by a wall. The man knows he is unjustly detained, and he will send the two women away and compel the health officials to provide for him. He has already cost them several thousand dollars.

"The authorities are determined not to let Early go because that would be to confess they were mistaken in their diagnosis. Washington reports assert that Early has refused to be examined further. That is not true. He is willing to submit to as full a clinical examination as may be desired, but he wisely declines to allow further samples of skin to be removed for microscopic examination. A clinical examination would be sufficient fully to demonstrate that he did not have leprosy.

"The authorities may be able to block Early's habeas corpus proceedings by insisting that they first have these skin samples. Their political influence seems to be very strong. I have lately received assurances that a prominent political leader has become interested in the case, however, and may use his influence to obtain the man's release."

Mrs. Mary Brokaw.

Mrs. Mary Brokaw, widow of Alexander Brokaw, a resident of Lincoln for many years, died of heart trouble at Muhlenberg Hospital last night, where she had been under treatment for several weeks. She was about fifty years of age and was identified with the New Market Baptist church. Mrs. Brokaw had been living during the past year or so with her cousin, W. J. Nelson on Prospect avenue, the borough. The funeral service will be held from the residence of her brother. Abraham DeWitt Smalley, Front street, Dunellen, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church will officiate. The burial will be at Bound Brook.

Park Club to Celebrate.

While the big display of fireworks on Monday night in connection with the Charter Day celebration, will probably attract the greatest number of people, the Park Club has made arrangements for its annual display at the club. There will be tennis in the afternoon on the club courts, followed in the evening by a dance and the fireworks.

Jewishs Evangelist to Speak.

Miss Annie O'Beirne, an associate of Dr. T. M. Chalmers in Jewish work, will address the regular meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance on Madison avenue Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Miss O'Beirne will also conduct the meeting of the Rescue Mission in the evening.

The Plainfield Branch of the McAll Auxiliary has given up its meetings for the summer. They will be resumed in September.

MISS N. F. WILDEY WEDS

Daughter of C. F. Wildey Marries Hart Scudder Farlee.

REV. DR. ZELIE OFFICIATES.

Miss Edna Wildey Maid-of-Honor and Charles F. Wildey, Jr., the Best Man.

Miss Natalie Frances Wildey, of Central avenue, and Hart Scudder Farlee, of New York, were married last night at the home of the bride's father, Charles Frederick Wildey, on Central avenue, in the presence of about seventy-five guests from New York, Brooklyn and this city. Rev. Dr. John S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white satin. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Edna Wildey, as maid-of-honor, who was also gowned in white satin and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Charles Frederick Wildey, Jr., a brother of the bride, was the best man.

An orchestra furnished the music for the occasion, rendering the wedding march and also playing during the reception which followed the ceremony. The spacious veranda and lawn were attractive places during the reception and the supper was served out-of-doors. Later in the evening the bride and groom left for a month's sojourn in the mountains and upon their return will reside on Watchung avenue, this city.

The bride is a favorite in the younger set, and is well-known throughout the country as an expert tennis player. She generally plays in the women's doubles with her sister, Miss Edna Wildey, and has valuable prizes in numerous big tournaments. She was the recipient of a large collection of gifts of great value, including a two-seated automobile, of the racing type, from her husband.

Mr. Farlee, who is a relative of Mayor and Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, is also well-known here in social circles and is popular in a large circle of friends and acquaintances. He is engaged in business in New York as a stock broker.

DEPOSITS INCREASE HALF MILLION IN SIX MONTHS.

In another column of this issue appears the financial statement of The Plainfield Trust Company as of the close of business yesterday. A comparison of the figures shown with the report of December 31, 1908, indicates that the Trust Com has made great strides during the past six months, its assets during that period having increased more than one-half a million of dollars. Its deposits, now amounting to two million, six hunred and thirty-four dollars, are the largest in its history; in fact, larger than those of any other institution in this vicinity. Its profit account has increased from $156,000 to $180,000, while out of the current earnings $5,000 has been written off the cost of the banking house and equipment, reducing it from $90,000 to $85,000.

These figures are very gratifying to the management, as well as to the five thousand depositors of the institution.

Mrs. Anna E. Prentiss.

Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Prentiss, aged 56, died at her home, 29 Greenbrook road, North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, having been a sufferere from cancer for more than a year. She leaves one son, Thomas, of Phillipsburg, and a daughter, Mrs. Carl Abele, of North Plainfield. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 from her late residence and the interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

Note Suits Started.

Through his counsel, Francis J. Blatz, George W. Miles, who has taken assignment of the claims of the Navesink Distilling Company, has brought suit to recover the amount on five notes given for whiskey bond. The action is against F. J. Andrews, J. Lidowitz, Peter Elentert, Andrew Dura and Alexander Guralski. The cases will come before the district court at Trenton next Tuesday.

—Pineapples, sour cherries, currents and gooseberries for canning and preserving are among the special offerings at Neuman Brothers' today. This fruit is the choicest grown and the prices are reasonable.

Mrs. William Abbe, of 820 Webster place, accompanied by her children, will leave tomorrow for several months' sojourn at South Woodstock, Conn. Mr. Abbe will join his family the latter part of July.

As a business man he's thorough, and concerning Town and Borough,
He's a perfect mine of varied information.
When you deal with Mr. Emmons, you will ne'er be handed lemons,
For he's Johnny-on-the-spot-less reputation.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF TRINITY'S JUNIOR C. E.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held its closing exercises for the season in the lecture room of the church yesterday afternoon. In addition to the forty-three juniors present, there were also many visitors, who thoroughly enjoyed the fine program, which was in charge of Mrs. R. V. Kinney, the superintendent.

The exercises opened with a song followed with prayer by Rev. John Y. Broek, the pastor of the church. The first number on the program was a flag drill, in which these children took part:

Albert Baker, George Rockafellow, Warren Kellogg, Howard Allegar, Ronald Schenck, Edward Addis, Malcolm Sheppard, Harold Bach, Donald Willett, Arthur Seader, Howard Willett, Harold Woolley, Russell Sears, Alfred Willett. In this exercise Miss Helen Leitheusser was the goddess of liberty.

This was followed with "The Peeke Sisters," the leader of which was Mrs. H. A. Humbert. The following took part: Marion Woolley, Adelaide Cole, Alice Auten, Beatrice Tier, Elsie Tier, Jennie Sears, Elisabeth Chickering, Helen Leitheusser, Maude McAfee. In this exercise Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl was the accompanist at the piano.

Other features were a pantomime and a reading by Mrs. H. A. Humbert and a recitation by Alfred Willet. After the entertainment there was a social time. Mrs. R. V. Kinney, superintendent, was in charge, assisted by Lawrence French, assistant superintendent; Mrs. Lafayette Rosenstiehl, superintendent of the beginners' department, assisted by Miss Helen Leitheusser. During the exercises, Rev. Mr. Broek gave a short and informal talk on the American flag, which delighted the children and held their close attention.

Mrs. Kinney presented to about twenty-five children Junior C. E. badges for regular attendance during the past year. There are sixty children on the roll with an average atendance of forty. During the past year, from April to April, the society raised $56.17 and since April 1 last, there has been raised $38.33, the announcement of which was a source of encouragement to all. The society will not meet again until fall.

Sunday-school Class Picnic.

Mrs. William H. Kirch's Sunday-school class at Trinity Refromed church, enjoyed a picnic yesterday. The party spent the day near Seely's Mills, Scotch Plains, where lunch was enjoyed and other forms of amusement helped to pass a pleasant time.

Grace Church Choir Wins.

The Olympics suffered defeat at the hands of the Grace Church Choir club yesterday morning by the score of 8 to 4. The batteries were: Grace Church, Walls and Martin; Olympics, Cottrell and Mygatt.

TO OIL THE STREETS IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

It has finally been decided that the oil to be used on the streets in North Plainfield is what is known as Standard asphalt oil, made by the Standard Oil Co. After numerous tests this oil seems to give the most satisfactory results, and its use will be an economy, it is said, which will save the borough about $300 a year, or the cost of one watering cart.

The streets to be oiled are Watchung avenue to Mountain avenue; Somerset street to Greenbrook road; Grove and Washington as far as Rockview avenue. Craig place and Prospect place are also to be treated with the oil.

MR. M'CUTCHEN HEADS BOROUGH TAX BOARD.

North Plainfield's Special Tax Commission, which has the equalization of the tax assessment under consideration and which is to co-operate with Mayor Townsend in the effort to bring about a result will be satisfactory all around, me last night and informally discussed the subject. Charles W. McCutchen was elected chairman. Another meeting will be held tonight to go deeper into the subject.

"Trixiania" Is Dead.

"Trixiania," William Briggs' famous trick dog, which died Tuesday within an hour after it met with an accident on Park avenue, had an interesting history. It was the last member of a celebrated litter of one family owned by Mr. Briggs from birth and naturally the loss is keenly felt. Mr. Briggs appeared in a great many amateur minstrel shows with his dog, and one occasion recently appeared at Proctor's theatre. The dog was beloved by all who knew him and Mr. Briggs had him well trained.

Baby Camp Is Open.

The King's Daughters' baby camp on the mountains is now open for the reception of sick babies. Those in charge of this work are desirous of informing the local physicians of this fact so that in case they have occasion to make use of the camp they will know that everything is in readiness for their care and treatment. Persons desiring to contribute to this work can send the same to The Daily Press and the donation will be acknowledged.

Will Test Fire Boxes.

Chief T. O. Doane announced today that at 10 o'clock Saturday morning he will make a test of fire alarm box 48, at Front and Abbott streets, 84 at Fourth street and Grant avenue, 53 at East Seventh and Berckman streets and 17 at Westervelt avenue and Orange place.

Arrangements for Race Meet.

The Plainfield Driving Club has completed arrangements for handling a large crowd at the race meet Monday afternoon. Stages will meet all trolley cars on Park avenue to convey people to the track. The races will be started promptly at 2 o'clock.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Coddington, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bateman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Gaston, Miss Safford and Miss Elizabeth Vanderveer returned Monday evening from Lake Minnewaska, where they spent several days with the State Editorial Association.

The engagement is announced of Miss Katherine M. Barcalow, daughter of Mrs. John Barcalow, of Altamont place, and Cecil Hoffman, of High street. Miss Barcalow is the grand-daughter of the late Culver Barcalow.

Mrs. John R. Davis, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Stewart Kenney, on West High street, returned on Monday to her home at Whitehouse Station.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gaston, of Maple street, left Monday for Lake Hopatcong, where they expect to spend the summer months.

Rev. A. E. Woods, who was too ill to preach in his pulpit in the Baptist church on Sunday, has recovered, and is out again.

Miss Ida Fleming, of Mercer street, left yesterday morning for Vermont, where she will visit friends.

Mrs. Evelyn A. Calhoun and Miss Angie Warner, of Newark, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Slater.

Harry Messler moved his family to Plainfield Monday, where he expects to make his future home.

Miss Amelia Porter, of West Cliff street, is attending the teachers' convention in New York city.

The Epworth League held a social last evening on the lawn in the rear of the Methodist church.

Miss Jane Messenger is a guest of Mrs. A. J. Cortelyou at Neshanic.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of the late Robert Murphy were held at the house this morning at 8 o'clock and at St. Mary's church, Plainfield, at 9:30. The services, which were in charge of Rev. Father Schwartz, rector of St. Mary's church, Stony Hill, of which Mr. Murphy was a member, was well attended by the neighbors and friends. Interment was made in the St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

The Ladies' Circle of the Baptist church held an all-day sewing bee yesterday, at the home of Miss Laura Borrman, Westfield road. The meeting was well attended and an enjoyable as well as profitable day was spent. Refreshments were served at midday, the girls of the church acting as waitresses.

Montross and Albert will be the battery used by Manager Frentz in the game against the Garwood A. C. Saturday afternoon. The visitors are said to be coming up strong and expect to put an end to the local teams winning streak.

Excelsior H. & L. Co. hold a drill at company headquarters tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. Excelsior expects to turn out at last 25 strong in the firemen's parade, which will be a feature of the Plainfield Charter Day celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer and two children, Ester and Edward, sailed this morning on the steamship George Washington, for a two months' European trip.

Mrs. Charles N. Flanders, who has been spending several weeks with her neice, Mrs. Nellie Cottrell, at Bayonne, returned home today.

The regular monthly communion of the Baptist church will be held at the close of the morning service Sunday.

John VanNosdall, of Front street, has been entertaining relatives from New York State.

Five Acts at Proctor's.

"The Amsterdam Singing Four," a high class quartet, will be added to the fine bill at Proctor's theatre, today, makig five acts in all for the rest of the week. The sketch, "Will Against Will." Mme. Ami, the operatic singer, and other acts are up to the Proctor standard, while the French models never fail to attract. They will remain this week.

—North avenue received another coat of oil yesterday, the second this season, and it is the hope of the street department that it will hold the dust down until after the Charter Day celebration.

The fans are greatly interested in the game to be played at Crescent Oval, Saturday between Plainfield and New Brunswick. A brass band has been engaged and will discourse lively airs before the game, during the innings and after the contest.

Manager Dorflinger will depend on Ortleib to hold New Brunswick down Saturday. He was successful last week, and feels sure he can repeat the trick. It is not known who will oppose him, but Driscoll will have a good one on the firing line, all right.

This will be "Dave" Driscoll's first appearance here Saturday since he played first base and captained the Plainfield team two years ago and the fans will undoubtedly give him a warm reception.

Dalton, also a former Plainfield player, will be in the lineup. He is a speedy fielder and can do things with the stick, sometimes.

Driscoll wants to make the Plainfield-New Brunswick a seven game series, instead of five. It looks good to the fans and doubtless will tend to revive interest in the game.

PRESBYTERY PLANS FALL MEET

New Brunswick, July 1.—The New Brunswick Presbytery decided Tuesday to hold their fall meeting at the First Presbyterian church, here, on September 21. Yesterday's session was held in the Magyar Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Paul Hamborsky is pastor. The presbytery approved of the sale of this church to the St. James' M. E. church for their property and $13,000 in cash. Dr. W W. Knox, of the First Presbyterian church, was moderator, and forty-seven delegates were present from the thirty-nine churches.

Sidney Zandestra, a Princeton graduate, was ordained, and will take the Lodi church. He has been at work among the immigrants on Ellis Island. A vote of thanks was extended to Dr. Ingram for his good work at the Trenton church, and also to a Mr. Cook, of Trenton, who recently made the church a substantial gift. Rev. Paul Martin, of Princeton, read a paper on "The Candidate for the Ministry." A feature of the session was the luncheon of Hungarian dishes.

—Assessor H. C. Van Emburg has shown the proper spirit in displaying two small American flags from his office windows in the city building on North avenue. If the offices faced North avenue they could be seen to better advantage.

Prizes awarded: $5.00 gold piece, winner, Levinia Hand, 34 Fairview avenue, North Plainfield. $2.50 gold piece second, Edna Stout, 132 Westervelt avenue, North Plainfield. Special prize, to third winner, Rose Andrews, 142 Grove street, North Plainfield. Honorable mention: Poster No. 8, William Giese, 48 Westervelt avenue; poster No. 10, Marjorie Cooley, 122 Westervelt avenue. The lettering features of Poster No. 6, Miss Edith Bechtel, deserves mention. Inasmuch as the committee found great difficulty in selecting the second prize winner, the necessity of mentioning the name of Rose Andrews became apparent even more more than making honorable mention. They therefore decided to award a third prize.

DOVER LOSING A LANDMARK.

Dover, July 1.—The dismantling of the Jackson homestead on East Blackwell street, to make room for the new Livingston building, removes another landmark and marks the gradual passing of the old buildings, "built to stay." The Jackson house was erected nearly three-quarters of a century ago. The framework was mortised together, while the nails used were of wrought iron, made in the Boonton Nail Mills.

The timbers used in its construction were rough chestnut logs, hewed and shaped with the broadax. Some still have the bark on and are apparently in as good condition as when put in place. The workmen in knocking the old building to pieces experienced as much difficulty in its dismantling as the carpenter of today would have in putting such a structure together. The Livingston building about to be erected on the site, will be three stories of brick, with a store on the ground floor.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

William Himer, who was employed on the Walker farm, near Hurffville, fell headfirst out of the hay mow Tuesday and was seriously injured.

Mill No. 3 of the Portand Cement Company, at Vulcanite, which has been idle since last October, will resume operations on July 6, giving employment to 300 men.

Attacked by a savage bulldog John Black, thirty-nine years old, of 1500 Haddon avenue, Camden, was badly bitten on both hands yesterday. The wounds were cauterized at Cooper Hospital.

William B. Wills, editor and proprietor of the Mt. Holly Herald, has returned home, after undergoing an operation for appendicitis in a Philadelphia hospital.

While calling upon a sick friend at Mercer Hospital in Trenton, Mrs. Katherine Tindall, sixty-three years old, mistook an elevator shaft for a stirway and fell to the bottom. She sustained severe lacerations and bruises about the body.

John Bockelman, collector for the Atlantic City Gas Company, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of embezzling $850 of the company's funds. Magistrate Hughes held him under $1,000 bail for court. Bockelman made no denial of the charges.

The graduation exercises of the Bayonne High School took place Tuesday evening in Lincoln School. The address to the graduates was by Dr. J. J. Walsh, dean of Fordham College, whose subject was "The Old and the New." There were twenty-nine graduates in the class.

Jacob Dinde, a sleepwalker, made one of his periodical trips at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, and fifteen minutes later was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Paterson, with a ruptured artery in his right leg. He had stumbled against a chair, fell heavily to the floor and awakened.

In Jersey City Tuesday at Grand and Grove streets, a horse driven by John Johnson fell down an open manhole. A block and fall was used to rescue it. A few seconds before the horse fell into the hole Michael McLaughlin, a wire splicer for a telephone company, crawled out of it.

Because Elizabeth Foley, a servant in a boarding-house at 200 Pavonia avenue, Jersey City, refused to purchase steak for his supper on Monday night, John J. Quinn, a claim agent, broke her jaw. She is in St. Francis' Hospital, and Quinn is held without bail, charged with atrocious assault and battery. The girl weighs only ninety pounds. Quinn is a big six-footer.

When Andrew Wasillewski was arraigned in the Camden Police Court Tuesday on a charge of the larceny of clothing belonging to W. M. Miller, of 1140 South Tenth street. Miller's wife remarked, "Why, he's got my husband's underwear on now." "How do you know" inquired Recorder Stackhouse. "I was told so," was the reply. Wasilewski was held in $300 bail.

Rev. Father Snyder, rector of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, appeared before Recorder Mara in the Bayonne Court Tuesday, and accused Herbert Cora of throwing stones at him. He also charged that Cora had threatened to kill him unless he left town. The trouble was the outcome of a split of the church. Cora was fined $5 and put under $100 bonds to keep the peace.

Intent on securing control of Atlantic City's entire beach front outside the boardwalk for a public park the council has vited to spend $250,000 in buying rights of property owners in the strand. Prices ranging from $10 to $75 a foot will be paid those owners who turn over the desired control, while others who refuse will be taken to court on condemnation proceedings, to secure title for the city.

Had No Eidence Against Saloons.

Jersey City, July 1.—Because he did not have evidence to prove the typewritten charges he made against a number of saloon-keepers, charging them with violating the excise laws, Samuel Wilson, superintendent of the Civic Righteousness Federation, was repulsed last night in his effort to have the excise commissioners take cognizance of his complaints. Wilson appeared before the board and submitted a long list of names, urging that licenses be refused the saloons named. President Lippincott returned the list, declaring evidence was necessary.

Arrest Murder Case Witness.

Trenton, July 1.—The police believe they have an important witness in the case of the unknown man who was found murdered last Sunday. Early this morning they arrested Mikogan Wedun, twenty-two years old, of 317 Federal street. Wedun is a Pole and can speak but little English. According to the puollice he was seen Friday night taking a walk with the victim. Wedun returned home alone and said nothing about the whereabouts of his companion. Since the tragedy he has been in a very severe nervous state and acting suspiciously.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The South Plainfield A. C. will play two games next Saturday instead of one. They will play the Plainfield A. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Steengraffe, of South Plainfield Heights, spent yesterday in Plainfield.

A successful lawn festival was held last night on the lawn of First Baptist church.

Clarence Conners has returned after spending a short vacation at Niagara Falls.

William Hamilton was in New Market on township business yesterday.

ON HIS CHUM'S DARE THIS BOY LOST LIFE.

With a jocular remark that he would either "sink or swim," Thos. Martin, thirteen years old, to show two companions that he would not take a dare, plunged to his death in the Rahway river at Cranford Tuesday afternoon. With his chums, he had been wading about the river bank, the trio finding much sport in jumping to and from a float moored nearby.

As young Martin was unable to swim, he was a little more cautious than his companions, which caused them to jolly him. But when one of the lads dared him to dive into the water, Martin showed his grit, and taking a position on the float, remarked:

"Well, I won't take a dare. Here goes. I'll sink or swim!"

He had no more than uttered the last word when he dived into the stream. When he did not reappear his friends, becoming frightened, ran to Elizabeth, where they notified Edward Schindler, a truckman, who recovered the body.

Drs. J. L. Perkins, F. B. Gilpin and C. W. MacConnell were summoned, but when Schindler brought the boy's body ashore there was evidence their services would not be required. The physicians, however, tried every means of resuscitation before the body was removed to the police station, from whence it was taken to the parents' home.

NARROW CULVERT IN DEFIANCE OF ANDOVER.

Newton, July 1.—The fight between the Lackawanna Railroad and the Borough of Andover over a culvert on the cut-off has reached the point where the railroad company is excavating for a structure with a twenty-four-foot passage. This ignores the demands of the borough officials, who, backed up by the whole town, say that the throat of the culvert must be two rods wide.

In making this move the railroad claims that it wants to prepare for a friendly suit or injunction proceedings with the borough to test the rights of each in the matter.

While the railroad company is issuing this invitation to bring action, the borough officials are waiting somewhat on the prosecuting attorney's advice.

All the testimony in the land appeal case of R. H. McC. Potter against the Lackawanna Railroad was heard yesterday, following the inspection of the land in question Monday, and the case will doubtless be given to the jury late today. The following witnesses, some of them experts on land values, were sworn on behalf of the plaintiff: Elias N. Millen, John J. Staton, Nathan A. Stackhouse, Theodore F. Young, James Hardin, Luther Hill, Samuel S. Wills and William K. Longcore.

BABY EATING POISON AS MOTHER HAPPENS ALONG.

Chatham, July 1.—Had not Mrs. John Parse, of Raymond street, gone after a pail which she needed, it probably would have resulted in the death of her two-year-old son, Harold, Tuesday afternoon. Harold had been playing near the Jerry Polly house, next door, when he found a package of paris green that had been left under the dooorsteps.

The lad opened it and soon began eating the contents, and was coming in the yeard when he was seen by his mother, with the green substance over his face. She at once telephoned for Dr. B. A. Prager. The child was ill when the physician arrived, but responded favorably to treatment and is none the worse for his experience.

Seashore Real Estate.

BUNGALOW LIFE AT PORT-AU-PECK ON THE SHREWSBURY—Bungalow colonies, originally a California institution, are springing up all over the east. Many persons of means believe this to be the most healthful manner in which to spend a vacation. It takes them away from the irksome forms of conventionality and puts them in close touch with nature. It enables them to roam through the woods or sail over the sparkling waters, getting fresh air, sunlight and exercise, which has built many a rundown body up to the exacting requirements of our rushing twentieth century pace. The cooling breezes of the Atlantic meet and mingle with the ozone from the woods, forming an atmospheric combination which carries health and vigor through every pair of lungs inhaling it. These are the conditions at Port-au-Peck on the Shrewsbury. In addition you have fishing, hunting, sailing, canoeing, motor boating, golfing, tennis, bathing and all other forms of healthful, vigorous sports in this section, no matter in what direction you turn. The out-of-doors man or woman will find no more attractive place on this continent in which to spend two or three months or week ends in search of recreation and health. For indoor sports there is a large club-house available with bowling alleys and billiard rooms and is especially equipped to give those small affairs in case you should want to. Thirty bungalows now under construction, from $2,000 up, including the plot, 50x150 ft.; deep driven artesian well water, absolutely pure. Send for booklet. Yours for the asking. You are invited to visit Port-au-Peck as our guest. For further particulars see Chas. Matt, Port-au-Peck Realty Co., 1328 Broadway, corner 34th street. Telephone 1266, Murray Hill, New York City, or Dr. George E. Boston, 1 Madison street, telephone 282-L, Plainfield, or J. T. S. Hunn, 1218 Prospect avenue, telephone 445-R, Plainfield. ## ARRESTED FOR THEFT AT PEDDIE INSTITUTE.

Benjamin Reischman, twenty, a student in his second year in the Peddie Institute, a preparatory school at Hightstown, N. J., was arrested in a pawn shop in Park Row, New York, yesterday while trying to pawn a diamond college fraternity pin. Later he was arraigned before Magistrate Cornell and held in $1,000 bail as a fugitive from justice. He is wanted in New Jersey.

Rev. Romain Rivenberg, a teacher at Peddie Institute, appeared in corut as complainant against Reischman. Rivenberg said that for some weeks money, jewelry and other articles have been disappearing from rooms at the institution. Among the articles taken was a watch that was presented to Mr. Rivenberg by students, and which the owner valued highly because of its associations as well as its intrinsic value. It is charged that Reischman took this watch.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Fire Arms and Other Deadly Weapons," approved April 9, 1895.

Whereas, Experience has shown that the discharge of fire arms, fire crackers, rockets, bombs and other explosives known as fire works within the streets of the City of Plainfield is fraught with danger to persons and property; and, in the judgment of the Common Council, a proper regard for the peace, good government, order and well-being of the City requires that the practice referred to should be more strictly regulated. Now, therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 1 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows: "Section 1. That no person shall fire or discharge any cannon, gun, fowling piece, pistol or fire arm of any description, or set off or explode any fire cracker over three inches in length, rocket, bomb, or other explosive fire works, or other thing containing powder or other combustible or explosive material within the limits of the City of Plainfield, under a penalty of a fine not exceeding Twenty Dollars for each and every offense; provided, however, that this section shall not apply to the use of any such weapons at any military exercise or review or target practice duly authorized by the military authorities of this State, or by the Common Council or the Mayor, or in the lawful defense of the person, family or property of any citizen; and, provided further, that this section shall not apply to the discharge of blank cartridges, fire crackers, rockets, bombs, torpedoes, or other fire works on private property not within the limits of any public street, lane, highway or other public place of said City on the Fourth day of July, or on the Fifth day of July in cases in which the Fourth day of July shall fall on Sunday, the first day of the week."

Adopted by the Common Council, June 23, 1909; approved by the Mayor, June 23, 1909.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

"My dear child! What are you doing here in this dreadful place with this dreadful person?" she demanded shrilly.

"My dear! Les covenances!" cried madame.

"Ethel! I am surprised! Come away at once!" demanded Horace.

"Oh, I say, you know, Miss Ethel, really!" echoed Almeric. "You can't stay here, you know!"

Pike stopped them with a gesture and said:

"I'm her guardian, and she's here by my authority, and, what's more, she'll stay by my authority."

Horace turned to the earl.

"Lord Hawcastle, will you insist upon Ethel's leaving? It's quite on the cards we shall have a disagreeable scene here."

Hawcastle smiled evilly.

"I see no reason for it. We're here simply for Mr. Pike's answer. He knows where he stands, and he knows where we stand," said the earl suavely, and the American met his smile evenly.

"I reckon you're right so far," he said.

"And your answer will be yes?" asked the earl, but Pike shook his head.

"You're wrong there," he answered, and Hawcastle changed front in an instant.

"Perhaps you are right, Mr. Granger-Simpson," he said. "There may be painful things done. Better your sister were spared them. Take her away."

Pike snapped at them all and moved to the door, where he faced them.

"Miss Ethel, you'll stay right where you are!" he commanded, and, paying no attention, Pike turned to Hawcastle.

"You're here for an answer, you say?"

"Yes," answered the earl, after an instant's pause, and Dan went closer to him.

"An answer to what?" he demanded, looking the other in the eye.

"An answer to our request that you accede to the wishes of this young lady," replied the earl uneasily.

"And if I don't what are you going to do?" demanded Pike quickly. Horace at once broke in.

"Ethel, you must go!" he implored. But Pike waved him to silence.

"Tell her. Why do you come here sure of the answer you want?" he insisted savagely.

"A gentleman would spare her that," said Hawcastle, with uneasiness, and the American laughed.

"I won't!" he snapped. "Speak out! Why?" But the earl would not answer directly, so Pike turned to Ethel.

"This afternoon I tried to help a poor devil, a broken down Russian running away from Siberia, where he'd been for nine years."

Ethel half rose in her chair and faced him eagerly.

"A poor, weak thing," he went on, "hounded like you've seen a rat in the gutter by dogs and bootblacks. Some of your friends here saw us bring him into this apartment. They know we've got him here now. If I don't agree to hand over you and $750,000 of the money John Simpson made it means that the man I tried to help goes back to Siberia and I go to an Italian jail for two years or as much more as they can make it."

"Nonsense," cried Hawcastle. But Ethel waved him aside and turned, with a withering look on Pike.

"I knew you had some further humiliation in store for me. Do you think I would believe that an English nobleman would stoop"—

Pike interrupted her ruthlessly and bitterly.

"Stoop?" he cried. "Why, ten years ago in St. Petersburg there was a poor devil of a revolutionist who in his crazy patriotism took government money for the cause he believed in. He made the mistake of keeping that money in the house, when this man"—he pointed to Hawcastle—"knew it was there. He also made the mistake of having a wife this man coveted and stole, as he coveted and stole the money. Oh, he made a good job of it! Don't think that tonight is the first time he has given information to the police. He did it then, and the husband went to Siberia"—

Hawcastle was the picture of amazement and horror as he staggered up.

"A dastardly slander!" he cried.

"And he'll do it again tonight!" Pike went on. "I go to an Italian jail"—he whirled and pointed an accusing finger at Mme. de Champigny—"and that same poor devil of a husband goes back to Siberia!"

"It's—it's a ghastly lie!" croaked Hawcastle, his face livid.

"You came for your answer," went on Pike stridently, "and, by the living God, I've got it for you!" He stepped to the door of the inner chamber and threw it open.

"Ivanoff!" he called, and the Russian came into the room. At the sight of him Hawcastle fell back against the mantel, and the countess collapsed in a heap on the floor. Ivanoff saw none but her and, striding to her, lifted both clinched hands above her head.

"Ivan—oh, mother of God!—Ivan! Don't kill me!" she gasped.

For a moment he stood over her, then collapsed into a chair, where he wilted, sobbing violently.

IVANOFF SAW NONE BUT HER.

"He has betrayed me himself!"

CHAPTER XVII.

FACE TO FACE.

If the roof of the building had collapsed and had left the persons there assembled in the room confronting death itself, there could have been no more complete astonishment.

It was Horace who first appreciated the somberness of the crouching, terror stricken woman upon the floor.

"Helene!" he whispered, but Pike stepped forward and waved him back.

"You stand back!" said the lawyer. "She's his wife!" And at the words Horace fairly staggered. Daniel went on, pointing to the cringing Hawcastle, "And there's his best friend."

The words seemed to rouse some of the fighting St. Aubyn instinct in the earl, and his eyes flashed.

"It's a lie!" he cried hoarsely. "I never saw the man in all my life before."

"The lady seemed to recognize him," said Pike grimly. "I guess you won't have to jab your memory too hard. It's only ten years to St. Petersburg, Mr. Glenwood!"

"Almeric, go for the police!" ordered the earl.

"No, no!" cried the countess. "I can't stand it!"

Pike laid his hand upon Ivanoff's shoulder and spoke loudly:

"Call 'em in! We're ready!"

Almeric, with a frightened glance around, stepped to the doors and threw them wide, calling as he reached the passage:

"Tell that officer to bring his men here!"

He turned and again entered the room, and Pike's face lit up unpleasantly as he looked at him, then softened as he turned to Ethel.

"I want you always to remember that I consider it cheap at the price," he said.

There was a quick step without, and Von Grollerhagen entered, followed by Ribiere. For an instant he glanced about the circle and then spoke in a clear, ringing voice.

"There will be no arrests tonight, my friends," he said, and at the words Hawcastle sneered openly.

"This man goes, too!" he declared violently. "Call those carabinieri!" he reiterated to Almeric.

Von Grollerhagen smiled sweetly and raised his hand deprecatingly.

"The officer is not there. You see, the carabinieri have been withdrawn."

He turned to Daniel. "For you, my friend, I have relinquished my incognito." Pike stared at him uncompromisingly, and the German turned to Lord Hawcastle.

"This man Ivanoff," he said, "is in my custody."

For a moment the two men measured each other, and then Hawcastle burst out violently:

"By whose authority? Do you know you are speaking to the Earl of Hawcastle?"

Von Grollerhagen smiled. Ribiere stepped forward and addressed Hawcastle directly.

"More respect, sir!" he cried. "You are addressing the Grand Duke Vasili of Russia!"

Hawcastle paled and fairly staggered into the arms of his son, who reeled from the shock. The others stared uncomprehendingly, and Pike looked up with a curious frightened look upon his lean face. Quite slowly he moved to the table and rested a hand upon it and with the other caressed his chin. His eyes were looking straight ahead, and he murmured in awestruck tones:

"Good Lord! And think what—why, I've been calling him—doc!"

The grand duke perceived the agitation on Pike's face and came forward to take his hand.

"My friend," he said gently, "it has been refreshing." He spoke to Ribiere.

"I shall take the man Ivanoff's statement in writing. Bring him to me with you."

Preparatory services will be held at the Congregational church tomorrow night and the communion service will be held Sunday morning, with reception of members.

WON MIXED FOURSOMES WITH NET SCORE OF 86

There were eight couples that engaged in the mixed foursome golf tournament at the Plainfield Country Club, competing for a trophy offered by the club. The play was close and exciting from the start to finish, Miss Alice Titus and Garthwaite Carman winning with a net score of 86. The course was in fine condition and the cool breeze made it a real pleasure to play the game.

Miss Martha Robert and C. B. Morgan and Miss Margaret Goddard and William T. Glenney were tied for second place with a net score of 89, while Miss Maude VanBoskerck and Arthur Murphy came next with a score of 90. Another good score was a 92, returned by Mrs. Arthur Wellington Opp and Henry D. Hubbard. Still another score below the century was a 94, posted by Mr. and Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton.

The scores:

Miss Alice Titus and Garthwaite Carman, 102, 16-86; Miss Martha Robert and C. B. Morgan, 101, 12-89; Miss Margaret Goddard and William T. Glenney, 92, 3-89; Miss Maude VanBoskerck and Arthur Murphy, 94, 4-90; Mrs. Arthur Wellington Opp and Henry D. Hibbard, 100, 8-92; Mr. and Mrs. H. Reeve Stockton, 101, 7-94; Miss Daisy Elsberg and Dr. F. C. Ard, 113, 11-102; Miss Louise Cragin and E. T. Willson, 119, 17-102.

GOLF.

The annual handicap rating of the League of Connecticut Golf Clubs has been announced, and 524 names appear on the list. According to custom, men in this league are handicapped from scratch to 17, and those who have sent in their names but do not appear are listed at 18. B. P. Merriam, of Waterbury, the Connecticut champion, is at scratch with Charles H. Seely and W. K. Shepard. The Connecticut championship tournament is scheduled to be held over the links of the Greenwich Country Club next week.

It has been found necessary to shorten a couple of the holes at the Richmond County Country Club as a result of real estat eencroachment, but as work is being pushed on the new course the members will not have to wait long before the conditions will be better than ever. The fourth hole of 125 yards will have an island green, and the brook has been dammed to make a water hazard at the short seventeenth.

Although unable to do himself justice in the open championship tournament at Englewood last week, Tom Gourlay, the Forest Hill Field Club professional, lost no time in making amends on returning to his own stamping ground. He went round in 71, a new record for the rearranged course. His 37 for the long outward journey was especially good.

There is a chance that Tom Vardon will be seen in a series of exhibition matches after he finishes his four months' engagement with the Onwentsia Club. Before starting for the west the Briton said that he could get George Duncan to come over in the fall. Vardon believes that he and Duncan would draw well as partners in a series of foursome matches. Duncan, it will be remembered, was to have come over here for a series of exhibition matches, but the Hanger Hill professional backed down at the eleventh hour.

The dates for the seniors' tournament that was to have been held at Apawamis on October 7 and 8 has been changed to September 29 and 30. This will avoid a conflict with the women's national championship tournament at Philadelphia.

BASEBALL.

As soon as Jack Peacock gets through at Princeton he will do the regular twirling for the Y. M. C. A. team. Peacock is one of the best pitchers in his class and should be a big help to the locals.

The Plainfield team will be seen here Saturday for the first time in their new uniforms.

"Red" Waller, who was somewhat in the limelight earlier in the season, has been lost sight of recently.

It is reported that Bowerman may return to the Giants' lineup, provided he can exchange himself for two players.

Balloon Ascension.

Among the many attractions during the "Charter Day Celebration Festivities" will be a great balloon ascension at Highland Park each afternoon at two o'clock, beginning Saturday, July 3, and continuing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 5, 6 and 7. Since this will be the first time in the history of Plainfield that its citizens have been given an opportunity of witnessing a balloon ascension there is no doubt it will prove one of the leading features of interest and amusement.

Westfield Rejects Voting Machine.

The vote Tuesday on retention or rejection of the voting machine in the First ward at Westfield was 13 in favor and 90 against, with one defective ballot thrown out. This was about one-third of the polling strength of the ward. The First ward, in the last Presidential election, polled 336 Republican and seventy Democratic votes.

The Plainfield Rescue Mission will unite with the Salvation Army in its opening meeting tonight in the tent on Watchung avenue.

BOYS' TRACK MEET ON HUNT CLUB GROUNDS

An intermediate track meet was held on the grounds of the Watchung Hunt Club, yesterday afternoon, the affair being arranged by Stanley Bellows. There were about twenty entries and the meet was a success in every particular. Arthur Van Zandt finished first with 26 points, Henry Zook second with 16 points, Mead Holstein third with 13 points, and Voorhees Borden fourth with 10 points.

In some of the events the official time was not kept, simply declaring the winner. Henry Zook won the 150 yard dash against strong competition. Arthur Van Zandt won the shot-put, the distance being 20 ft. 6 in.; also the running high jump, 50 in.; running broad jump, 13 ft. 9 in.; standing broad jump, 7 ft. 6 in., while Mead Holstein won the standing high jump.

Voorhees Borden won the mile and half-mile races, Lyon and Clement Moore being string competitors for first place. Warren Butler was timer of the meet.

DANGEROUS POLLUTION OF THE DELAWARE TOLD.

Trenton, July 1—That the water of the Delaware river used for drinking purposes by the city of Trenton is polluted to a dangerous extent was the testimony given before Vice-Chancellor Walker yesterday by Arthur G. Fowler, assistant to the chief of the division of sewerage and water supply of the State Board of Health. Mr. Fowler was called as a witness for the State in the proceedings instituted by the attorney-general to prevent the city of Phillipsburg from further polluting the river.

Mr. Fowler said he had made analyses of about fifty samples of water taken from the intake of the Trenton supply, from the pumping station, the resevoir and the Statehouse. Two analyses were made of each sample, and in all but three instances the presence of colon baccilli was discovered. Even in these three cases one of each of the two samples showed the baccilli. Mr. Fowler also testified that at Phillipsburg colon baccalli were found in one one-thousandths of a cubic centimeter, which is the approximate equivalent of a teaspoonful.

There were about 75,000 bacilli to the cubic centimeter. He said that more than one and a half tons of solid matters is deposited from the Phillipsburg sewage system every twenty-four hours.

The presence of colon baccilli does not of itself necessarily indicate the presence of the typhoid germ, but when found in certain qquantities in water it indicates that probability that the typhoid germ is present. Mr. Fowler's testimony throughout was a severe criticism of the quality of the water furnished to the inhabitants of Trenton.

Even in the reservoir colon baccilli were found in analyses of one-tenth of a centimeter of water or about two drops.

WIFE'S MARRIAGE VIEWS FAIL TO HOLD HUSBAND.

Asbury Park, July 1.—Mme. Constanze Chevalier, a Prussian lecturer, whose views during the past winter were often in print because of her ideas regarding modern American wives and their duty toward their husbands, was here yesterday afternoon in search of her own spouse, who is known as Arthur Chevalier on the stage. For the past ten days Mrs. Chevalier declares she has not heard from him, and she knows of no reason for his silence, for she claims to practice what she preaches as far as the relations between husband and wife are concerned, and she holds to the aphorism that 'man should do the thinking and woman should do the loving." This is the reason she journeyed all the way from Atlantic City here.

The husband of whom she is in search is younger than she. Mrs. Chevalier declared yesterday afternoon, being thirty-three years old. He is a lecturer, musician, hypnotist and magician, and for several past seasons has been giving entertainments in this resort and in Atlantic City. He is French, though born in Germany, wears his mustache a la Kaiser and is short and slight of build. In this city Mrs. Chevalier called on the different hotels where he had stopped hitherto when in town, but in vain, and she left town discouraged and worried about 6:30 o'clock.

Before departing, however, Mrs. Chevalier declared that if her husband was all right and she found him she would start upon a trip at once to tell American girls how to be good wives and mothers.

—The delicate aroma and choice mixture of our teas and coffees make them the most used in the city. Fine as silk for icing. Neuman Brothers, grocers.

—Miss Mamie Clark, of 434 West Fourth street, celebrated the anniversary of her birthday last night, and she received many gifts, including a diamond ring and diamond locket from her mother.

DE VOE'S PREDICTION FOR JULY'S WEATHER

Weather Prophet Arthur J. De Voe, of Hackensack, who, at the beginning of June, called the turn on the weather for the month of brides and roses, is out with his forecast for the month of July.

Here is what the weather seer had to say from his lair up in Bergen county last night:

"The weather will continue hot until July 4. On the 4th and 5th there will be heavy thunderstorms. Following the thunderstorms it will get cool. It will be cool on the 6th and it will be still cooler on the 7th. From the 5th to the 25th of July the weather will be ideal. There will not be any hot weather. It will be the finest July that we have had in many years.

"If you remember I told the people the kind of weather to expect in June. I said that it would break records for a long, continued hot spell. I guess I was pretty near right. Now watch my prediction for July. The hot wave is leaving us fast. It has gone to Europe. Europe will feel its effects in a few days."

Professor William Wiener, the Barringer High School forecaster, who does not attempt to forecast the weather for more than a day or two ahead, said that the present temperature will prevail for a day or two at least. Speaking of the month of June, Professor Wiener said:

"There were but four clear days in the month. By clear days, I mean where there is 100 per cent. of sunshine. Today had 100 per cent. sunshine and can be reckoned as a clear day. The early part of the month was cloudy and rainy. From the 20th to the 27th came the hot spell. It was one of the longest and most remarkable stretches of heat that the month of June has known. The average temperature for the seven days was 80 degrees. As you recall, immediately preceding the hot spell we had a day that was more like January than June. Altogether it was a freakish month."

According to the official thermometer, yesterday was five degrees cooler on the average than the preceding day.

PERSONAL.

Raymond Poole, of Pittsburg, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Walter Emmons, of Somerset street.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Woodhull, of West Front street, left today for her summer cottage at Lake Hopatcong.

Francis J. Blatz moved yesterday to his ne whome, 517 West Front street, at the corner of Elmwood place.

The Misses Ray and Anna Warnock, of Craig place, are entertaining their cousin, William Lawrence, of Brooklyn.

Somerset's "Grand Old Man," former Congressman Alvah A. Clark, sails on Saturday for a three months' European tour.

Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, of Duer street, returned home today after a pleasant visit with relatives at New Vernon, Morris county.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dayton and children leave tomorrow for Klinesville, Hunterdon county, where they will remain until the first of September.

Mrs. S. Hockberger and son, Ferdinand, of 325 East Fifth street, will leave tomorrow for Long Beach, Gloucester, Mass., where they will remain until September. Mr. Hockberger expects to join his family in a few weeks.

CHATHAM BOY BITTEN IS DEAD OF RABIES.

Frederick Maurer, Jr., fifteen years old, died yesterday morning in Overlook Hospital, Summit, where he was taken last night suffering from rabies. The boy was the son of Frederick Maurer, of Southern boulevard, Chatham Township. The elder Maurer is clerk of the township.

The boy was bitten on May 28 by a fox terrier belonging to Dr. E. H. Hammill, of Chatham. The dog was killed and its head sent to the Pasteur Institute, New York, for examination. The institute declared that the animal was suffering from rabies.

The Pasteur treatment was given the boy, but a few days ago his condition became serious, and Tuesday it was deemed advisable to have him sent to the hospital in Summit.

W. H. Hoagland on Trial.

W. H. Hoagland, a drug clerk employed at Rahway, is the defendant in the Union County Court before Judge Atwater today on a charge of performing a criminal operation on February 15 last, the result of which Miss Jennie Crowell, also of Rahway, died. The trial will probably be finished today.

Emma Amelia Kratzel.

Emma Amelia Kratzel, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kratzel, Jr., died this morning at the home of the parents on North avenue, Dunellen, from convulsions. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the parents' home, and the burial will be in Westfield.

USE FOR TAG DAY FUND

King's Daughters to Pay Off Mortgage on the Day Nursery.

WILL IMPROVE BABY CAMP.

Institution on the Mountain Ready to Receive Sick Little Ones of the Poor.

At a meeting of the City Union of the King's Daughters yesterday, the treasurer reported that the receipts from "Tag Day" amounted to something over $1,300. It was decided to use $1,000 of this fund to pay off a mortgage outstanding on the Day Nursery building, which has unexpectedly come due this summer.

Most of the remaining $300 will be used for much needed improvements to the Baby Camp on the mountain. A separate kitchen sixteen feet square will be erected back of the main building, and a cool range will be installed in this. Heretofore the matron has had to get along as best she could with two or three oil stoves set up in a shed connected with the main building.

The Camp had to be opened on June 25, a week earlier than usual, in order to care for a sick baby which the doctors said would certainly die if it was not taken away from the heat of the city. When it reached the camp on Saturday it was almost unconscious, and it is now so much better that it raises its head and smiles and takes its food regularly. If any other doctors know of sick children which they would like to send to the Camp, the institution is now open to receive them, and they will be taken there at any time. Anyone having hammocks or swings or Victor phonograph records which they are willing to give to the Camp, may be sure they will be much appreciated there. Any contributions of this sort may be left at the store of Messrs. Powlison and Jones, who will arrange to have them taken to the Camp.

At the request of the City Physician, the King's Daughters have promised to take charge of an emergency hospital to be established at Police headquarters during the Charter Day celebration. They will have a nurse in attendance there during each of the three days.

SELBY—YOUNG.

Wedding at Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church.

A large gathering of friends of Frank Lee Selby and Miss Mary A. Young met in Mt. Zion A. M. E. church Wednesday evening to see them united in marriage by the Rev. J. T. Diggs, the pastor of the church. The edifice was decorated with palms and ferns intertwined with flowers. A. P. White, the organist, played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the couple arproached the altar.

The bride was attired in a gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by two maids, Misses Eliza Ragsdarl and Pattie Hinton. The best man was Michael Hinton. A reception was held at the residence of E. Mc. Kennon, 632 West Fourth street. The groom is a son of Major Selby. Robert Johnson and Charles Jefferson were the ushers.

Joseph Mastronio Acquited.

Joseph Mastronio, of Westfield, was arraigned before Justice Toucey and a jury at Westfield, yesterday afternoon, charged with non-support and cruelty to his wife. After two witnesses were sworn and testified, W. G. DeMera, of counsel for the defendant, asked for an acquital. Justice Toucey then charged the jury to acquit the defendant on the grounds of insufficient testimony. Paul Q. Oliver, of Westfield, represented the town.

Independence Day at P. C. C.

In planning for the observance of Independence Day, the House committee of the Plainfield Country Club, has arranged to hold a dinner dance at the clubhouse tomorrow night and also on Monday night. Monday will be a big day at the club, numerous events in golf and tennis having been scheduled and in addition there will be many social events.

—Charter Day Celebration, July 5, 6 and 7.

—Malcom & Coombe, members of New York Stock Exchange, whose Plainfield offices are in the Babcock building on West Front street, are offering an issue of gilt-edged bonds guaranteed by the Consolidated Gas Co. of N. Y., at a price which yields an income of nearly 5 per cent. to the investor. Descriptive circulars are given on application.

DOG CATCHER BITTEN BY PREACHER'S HOUND

Dog Catcher William Bryant, colored, was severely bitten by a brown hound early this morning, and carried his bleeding right arm in bandages as the result of the encounter with the canine's teeth. The animal rushed at him on West Fourth street, near Plainfield avenue, while he was "off the job," but "got away." Bryant, who was badly scared, hastened to Dr. Boone's office, where the wound was cauterized, and later came to police headquarters, vowing vengeance on the biting dog. Its owner will be called to task by the police.

According to Bryant's story, he was on his way to a store, when the dog, which he describes as a "long, brown hound dog," dashed at him, and jumping up, bit him twice in the right fore-arm. Bryant shook the animal loose and it ran away, being taken into the house. At police headquarters today, the Dog Catcher bemoaned the fact that as he was not "on the job," he didn't have his revolver with him.

Bryant says that the dog belongs to the "Foot Washers," and that they declare it shall never have a dog license. He says that sometimes it stays at the preacher's house, and sometimes at the houses of various "sisters" of the church.

TO REBUILD BRIDGES THROUGHOUT COUNTY

A $10,000 increase in the county appropriation for brides and culverts was made by the Board of Freeholders at its meeting at Elizabeth yesterday on account of the recently discovered necessity for building four new bridges in the county. The appropriation is now $48,300, instead of 038,300. At the time that the original budget for bridges was made extreme economy was observed.

It has been found that the bridges over the Rahway river at North avenue, Cranford, and over the Passaic, at Summit, will have to be rebuilt at a probable cost of $18,000. The Elm street and Henry street bridges in Cranford will also have to be rebuilt. Besides these facts, nearly $25,000 has been spent out of the appropriation of $38,300.

The bridge committee reported that it recommended building a new bridge at Cranford, and bids for the work will be received at the next meeting of the board. It was found that the present bridge was too light and inefficient, having been built in 1877. The years of wear have made the bridge so weak that it sways under heavy traffic, and it is beyond repair. The abutments, however, are sound, and will not be removed, but will be extended. The new bridge will be either truss or plate girder of heavy design, and have the same span as the old, and a width of sixty feet.

The Hetfield road bridge in Linden was reported to be unsafe for travel, one of the abutments having fallen away. The committee advised the building of an iron beam bridge to replace the old one at a cost not to exceed $1,500.

The two long bridges over West Brook at Henry and at Elm streets, Linden, are too crude for present use. Steel beam deck bridges of spans of 22 to 24 feet and widths of 55 feet should be erected.

A committee was appointed to confer with the Morris county Board of Freeholders upon the line bridge at the Morris turnpike over the Passaic. It is said to be unsafe.

New sidewalks and a new railing over the Cedar brook, in this city, will be put in at a cost not to exceed $800.

A request from Alfred C. Banta, of Rosele, for a new bridge or culvert on St. George's avenue, between the Wheatsheaf Hotel and Wood avenue, was referred to committee.

The board decided that hereafter it would advertise for bids for any public work whose cost was to be as low as $300. It was the opinion of the board that in this matter lower rates could be secured. Part of the advertising will be done near the place where the work is to be done and part in Elizabeth. Advertisements will be placed in two newspapers.

Narrow Escapes on the Railroad.

Joseph Kmosko, who works for a Somerset street cleaning and dying establishment, had some narrow escapes from being killed by trains on the railroad near Richmond street last night, while in an intoxicated condition, and put up such a stiff argument with Patrolman Anderson, who tried to lead him off the railroad to safety that he had to pay a fine of $5 at his hearing before City Judge Runyon today.

NEW OFFICERS OF UNITY LODGE ARE INSTALLED

Officers of Unitey Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., were formally installed last night by Deputy Grand Chancellor Frederick Sears and his staff, and the ceremonies were witnessed by a large turnout of Unity men as well as a number of visiting Knights from Perseverance Lodge, where officers are to be installed tonight.

Samuel Rothberg was intsalled as chancellor commander of the lodge, and the officers who passed through the installation formalities are Vice-Chancellor J. D. Anderson, Prelate George Dean, Master of Work W. L. Hetfield and Inner Guard Harry Werner. The lodgemen chosen as master of arms and outer guard could not be present, and will be installed at a future meeting. Deputy Grand Chancellor Sears was assisted by Vice-Grand Chancelor Asa Pope and Grand Master at Arms Frank Putnam. There were informal speeches by the installed officers.

PLAINFIELD BOY WINS TRIP THROUGH THE U. S

Julien Linke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linke, of West Second street, is a very happy boy, all because he won second place in the New York American contest, and will be one of a party to enjoy a forty-five days' trip throughout the United States. He received 496,802 votes, his nearest competitor being Thomas Smith, of New Durham, with 292,954 votes. Every possible comfort and convenience will be afforded the young tourist and every item of expense will be borne by the New York American, even to furnishing a special eacher for the trip.

The American party will leave New York over the Pennsylvania Railroad Monday noon, July 19, and the following day will be spent in Washington. After a sight-seeing tour there the party will be proceed to Pittsburg, Chicago, Kansas City, Emporia, Hutchinson, Dodge City, Kan., LaJunta, Col., Colorado Springs, Denver, Las Vegas, Albuquerque, N. M., Winslow, Williams and Grand Canyon, Arizona, Los Angles, and other important points in California, Portland, Ore., Seattle Wash., with a visit to the Alaska-Youkon Pacific Exposition, and returning will tour Yellowstone Park, then to Mammoth Hot Springs, Wyo., and will touch St. Paul, Minn., and Chicago and then to Niagara Falls and home over the New York Central.

The party will travel in a special Pullman car, and will comprise schoolboys, schoolgirls and teachers. They will cross more than a score of States and Territories, swinging entirely around the country from ocean to ocean and from the Canadian border to the lower sections of the Great Southwest. After their return the New York American will purchase the best stories of the trip for publication in the newspaper.

CHARTER DAY COLUMN FELL ON A PAINTER.

Cornelius Dailey, a painter, engaged in painting the columns for the Charter Day celebration at Grant avenue and Front street got a nasty fall yesterday afternoon when the column which he was at work on toppled over into the street with Dailey underneath it.

Fortunately his head missed the curb in the fall, or there would have been a different story to tell. He was badly shaken up, but resumed work after a few minutes' rest while the column was being reset.

Plainfielders Go Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A Timmerscheidt and three children, of 340 Franklin place, left yesterday on the North German Lloyd Line's new steamer, George Washington, for London, where Mrs. Timmerscheidt and the children will remain while her husband goes to Shanghai, China, to take charge of the numerous banking institution controlled by the German Asiatic Bank Company, a wealthy and influential concern. Next Spring Mrs. Timmerscheidt and the children will join her husband and they will make their home in the foreign reservation in China.

Annual Outing of Employes.

The annual outing of the employes of "The White Store" will be held at Chimney Rock on Monday, August 2, at which time the store will be closed all day. The trip will be made in a stage and there will be the usual festivities.

STEALS SILVER SPOONS FROM AN APARTMENT

Entering the apartments of John I. Brokaw, of 186 East Front street, with a pass key sometime yesterday, a sneak thief ransacked the place. Among his booty was twenty-five valuable silver spoons. Mr. Brokaw did not discover his loss until about 10:45 o'clock last night, when he returned home. The matter was reported to the police.

The silverware was in a bureau, two drawers of which had been wrenched open by the thief in his search for valuables. A dozen of the spoons had heavily carved handles, and were engraved with the initials "J. I. B." Twelve more spoons had twisted handles, and the twenty-fifth spoon was a valuable piece, treasured as an heir-loom.

Mr. Brokaw, who was in the hallway of his apartments at about 4 o'clock, says that he believed that the burglary was committed previous to that time. A copy of The Daily Press, delivered by a newsboy at about 3:30 had been thrown in the hall-way, so that it rested against the door, and the position of the paper was unchanged when Mr. Brokaw returned to enter his apartments late in the evening. This shows that the entrance was effected previous to the time the paper was delivered. The door bore no marks of violence, and Mr. Brokaw declares that entrance was gained by a pass key.

OAK TREE SCHOOL PUPILS AT REUNION

A reunion of the Oak Tree School pupils was held at Boynton Wednesday with over 100 classmates and guests present. The majority of the former pupils were over seventy years of age at their gathering, some reaching eighty-seven and eighty-eight years, but all were boys and girls again Wednesday.

Noah Laing, a partial cripple, because of a gunshot wound received forty-six years ago at the battle of Chancellorsville, was accompanied by his two sisters, Mrs. Catharine Tice and Susan Barnett, who were still in their teens when last the group was together. Luncheon was served under the trees. An address was made by Rev. W. Z. Mundy, of Syracuse, who had been a pupil with the others. Mr. Mundy reviewed his early days and caused much laughter by recalling to those present some of the escapades that had occurred during their school career. He paid touching tribute to the former pupils who have died, and expressed the hope that those assembled would live to see several more reunions of a similar nature.

COUNTY'S CHARITY NOT IMPOSED UPON

The Board of Freeholders, at its meeting at Elizabeth yesterday, heard read a letter from George H. White, head of the State Department of Charities and Corrections, which recommended that this and all other counties in the State conduct investigations to learn whether there are not persons being supported in State or county institutions who have relatives legally liable for their support.

Mr. White stated that the charge was made that the public was supporting persons that ought to be supported by private individuals, and that he did not know how much truth there was in it.

No action was taken by the board on the letter, because, according to Director King, Union County had such an investigation five years ago, whereby it had saved four or five thousand dollars. Another investigation is not deemed necessary at this time.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and somewhat cooler tonight; Saturday fair. Maximum, 92; minimum, 66.

Funeral of Frederick G. Moeller.

The funeral of Frederick G. Moeller, faher of Bernhardt Moeller, the superintendent of Hillside cemetery, took place this afternoon at 2:30 from his late home at the cemetery loldge. The services were conducted by Rev. Frank Fletcher of Atlantic Highlands. The burial was in Hillside.

—Fancy Georgia peaches, Rockyford muskmelons, pineapples, blackberries, raspberries, cherries, gooseberries, etc., the choicest fruit to be found, can be had at Neuman Brothers at prices to suit.

STATE VICE-COUNCILOR AT FRANKLIN COUNCIL

State Vice-Councilor Everett Gray, of Jersey City, paid a fraternal visit to Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., last night. There was a large attendance of Juniors from all the local Councils as well as Scotch Plains, Dunellen and New Market.

After Mr. Gray installed the officers-elect of Franklin Council, and presented an emblem to the past councilor, he made a stirring address on the principles of the order. He brought the very latest news to the Council regarding the progress of the order in the State, showing that during the past year there has been a large increase in membership and interest and the financial condition of the Councils were reported to be good. After the address, refreshments were served by the good and welfare committee of Franklin Council and a social time was enjoyed.

WHITE STORE EMPLOYES SURPRISE THE MANAGER

The employes in "The White Store," of which A. E. Force is the proprietor, gave their manager, J. J. Varley and Mrs. Varley, a pleasant surprise at their home in Orchard place, last night. Early in the evening Mr. Force called at the Varley home and invited the family to take an automobile ride. Upon their return about 8:30 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Varley were surprised to find their house illuminated and a large company gathered there to greet them.

It happened to be the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Varley and the fact made the affair all the more enjoyable. The evening was given up to music, sociability, dancing and refreshments. There were violin selections by Charles Cregar and Irving Bininger; piano selections by Miss Flossie Buckley and Lawrence O'Neil, and parlor games added to the enjoyment of the occasion. Later refreshments were served and dancing enjoyed.

The committee of arrangements comprised Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe, Miss Guinee, Miss May Hughes, Miss E. Flanagan and Miss Wilhelmina Hossenger. Those present were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Force, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Farley, the Misses M. Dinneen, J. Dinneen, H. O'Keefe, A. Mahoney, L. VanWinkle, E. Flanagan, E. O'Keeffe, May Hughes, Wilhelmina Hossenger, B. Aller, V. Burner, K. Neylon, M. Bray, E. Guinee, F. Buckley, J. Fuller, J. Willever, Mrs. Thomas Burke, D. J. Wren, Irving Bininger, L. O'Neil, Charles Cregar, G. Varley and A. E. Force, Jr.

THE LATE JOHN McCLAREN A NATIVE OF THIS CITY.

John McClaren, whose death occurred at Kellerton, Riggold county, Iowa, on Friday, June 11, was a native of this city, having been born where the safe works' building stands on Clinton avenue, October 20, 1838. He was a brother of Mrs. Sarah A. Milliken, of West Front street, the only surviving member of a family of ten children. Mr. McClaren was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McClaren, and the place where he was born was known for many years as the McClaren Farm.

Mr. McClaren was sixteen years old when he went to Mason City, Ill. He followed different occupations in the west and at the time of his death was engaged in farming. He married Adelia Sutley, of Kellerton, and four daughters and one son survive. Mr. McClaren visited Plainfield last fall, according to his custom every four or five years. Mrs. Milliken had everything in readiness to go to Kellerton to visit her brother, when she was suddenly taken ill and had to postpone the trip. Soon afterward she received word of her brother's death.

Orchestral Players Invited.

The chairman of the Citizens Music Committee, T. W. T. Maxwell, desires to emphasize the invitation to the orchestral players who have not attended rehearsals for the Charter Day open-air celebration in the City Park, Jully 5, at 3:30 in the afternoon, to come and play in the orchestra. The celebration will be held rain or shine as the platforms will be under cover.

Vendor's Licenses.

According to Borough Collector of Taxes George F. Brown, licenses issued in the city for street salesmen will be valid in the borough but for the privilege of selling souvenirs in the streets of the borough only a badge will be necessary. These badges will be for sale at the tax collector's office.

RETAIL PRICE OF ICE 45 CENTS PER HUNDRED

The Crystal Ice and Coal Company, the new concern composed of local business men, began to manufacture ice yesterday at the new plant on Madison avenue, and is now doing business. The plant is running day and night, the total output of ice being sixty tons every twenty-four hours. Four local men thus far are engaged in the retail business. They are Harry B. MacDonald, Fred Ivamy, S. A. Sabbacher and J. E. Watson & Co. They purchase ice at the plant and will sell retail throughout the city and borough, the territory being divided up so one will not conflict with the other.

The new plant is probably one of the finest and best equipped in the country, and is capable of doing all that is claimed for it. The equipment was installed for manufacturing sixty tons a day and that quantity is guaranteed. The water used is pumped from artesian wells on the grounds, thoroughly distilled and boiled before frozen into cakes. The scheme is known as the "can system," and comprises the very latest patents. Owing to the great care used in the making, physicians have recommended the ice for household purposes. The retail price delivered is 45 cents a hundred pounds.

COUNTY FUNDS FOR UNION'S HOSPITALS

The regular annual appropriations of the county for the support of the hospitals were made by the Board of Freeholders at its meeting at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon. The total is $22,000 for the four institutions, and it will be paid next January. The items are as follows: Elizabeth General, $8,000; St. Elizabeth, $3,750; Alexian, $3,000, Plainfield, Muhlenberg, $3,250; Summit, $2,000.

The board adopted a resolution authorizing County Collector N. R. Leavitt to borrow the sum of $150,000 on a note or notes of the county to defray county expenses until December. This proceeding, which is done annually, will probably be dispensed with after this year, under the provisions of a new law giving the Freeholders the right to reserve any balance which may be in the treasury after all the bills have been paid. The collector will hereafter keep this money and use it instead of borrowing from outside sources.

The Surrogate's reports were found to be $861.03, according to a report by the committee on surrogate's accounts.

YOUNG LAWYER ILL WITH TYPHOID FEVER.

Alfred Donnelly, the twenty-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Donnelly, of Housatonic, N. Y., who is ill at Truell Inn with typhoid fever, was not so well yesterday, being left in a weakened condition from hemorrhages. Two trained nurses are in attendance.

Young Donnelly was graduated from the Law Department of Columbia University, and during his college days was a leader in track athletics, having won many notable prizes for short and long distance running. He possesses unusual musical talent, being the leader of a large orchestra which gave concerts at Mendelssohn and Carnegie halls, New York; Newark, Brooklyn and other cities in the east.

The young man had walking typhoid for two weeks before coming to Plainfield, where his father had charge of J. W. Harriman's horses at the horse show. He was immediately placed in charge of a physician and has been fighting hard against the disease ever since. Owing to the fact that he is at Truell Inn, near which a portion of the Charter Day celebration is to be held, those in charge have been requested not to make any more noise than necessary in that vicinity during the day and efforts will be made to prevent the discharge of fireworks or firearms of unusual size. Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly are with their son.

Will Attend Y. W. C. A. Conference.

The Y. W. C. A. will be well represented at the conference to be held at Silver Bay, Lake George, during next week and the week following. The Plainfielders will leave here Tuesday night, and will return July 16. Those going from this city are Miss Amy Tapping, secretary; Miss Elizabeth Goddard, Miss Minnie Line, Miss Helen George Miss Dorothy Randall, Miss Edna Snediker, Miss Isabelle Scarborough, Miss Florence Jennings, Miss Ada Clark, Miss Anna Hodkin and Miss Harriet Mattison.

CHARTER DAYS' EVENTS

Many Entries for the Athletic Games on Monday Afternoon.

PRIZES FOR THE FIREMEN.

Business Section Is Decorated—More Contributions Are Acknowledged Today.

As the days of the big Charter Day celebration approach interest increases and the money continues to come in. Fifty-five dollars more was received this morning.

A handsome wicker easy chair was also received from Stern Bros., of New York, and has been placed among the other prizes in the window. It has not yet been decided how this chair will be disposed of as a prize. It was said this morning that some one would be offered the chair provided he would ride in the parade, but that is uncertain.

The entries for the athletic games have closed with the following entries: 100 yard dash, Howard Craig, C. Laurance, Ralph Schoonmaker and George Linke.

Sunday-school Athletic League relay—Crescent Avenue, Congregational, First Baptist and First Presbyterian.

Baseball throwing—H. Craig, F. A. Hickey, W. P. Banks, John Fratts, J. E. Driscoll and George Linke.

The carrying race has four entries; the obstacle race four; the one-mile run three; the three-mile run four; the one-mile relay (open) two; the Y. M. C. A. of this city and the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. The 220 yard dash (open) has four and the 60 yard dash for boys four.

Following is a list of the contributors toward the fun:

|---|---|
| Susan B. Yates | $25.00 |
| Drs. C. W. & B. F. Leonard | 10.00 |
| Cash | 10.00 |
| George Conover & Sons | 5.00 |
| William R. Ball | 5.00 |
| Total | $55.00 |

An error occurred in copying the route of the firemen's parade which was published yesterday. Below will be found the correct route: Form on East Front street, right resting on Watchung avenue. Front to Grove, to Lincoln, to Somerset, to Fairview, to Watchung, to Pearl, to Somerset, to Front, to Park, to West Fifth, to Liberty, to West Eighth, to Crescent, to Seventh, to Madison, to Fourth, to Watchung and disband.

The fire company coming the greatest distance to take part in the parade will be awarded the Woodhall silver trumpet. The best appearing company will get the Plainfield Fire Department's cup and the best uniformed company will win the Slonim cup. All these prizes are on exhibition in the window at Charter Day headquarters.

Arrangements were made today for the reception of the invited guests at the Casino Monday at noon. Tomorrow night the reception Committee will hold a meeting at headquarters at 8 o'clock.

The work of decorating the buildings in the city goes merrily on and by tomorrow night it will be almost an impossibility to find an undecorated building along the lines of march.

TONY HAD A REVOLVER; GOT HIM A HEAVY FINE.

A drunken man with a loaded revolver threw the Italian colony on Cottage place into a wild panic last night. The drunken man was Tony Lundangello, and he was arrested by Patrolman Birmingham upon the complaint of Olive Pasquale, whom he threatened to shoot. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and spend fify days in the county jail, at his hearing before City Judge Runyon.

Tony, whom the Italians say always carries a revolver, took on a considerable load of booze in the afternoon and was real scrappy when he came back to the row. He met Pasquale, who is one of the trio arrested last Sunday for shooting crap, and sought to pick a quarrel with him. Pasquale told him he had been in trouble with the police recently and wasn't going to take any more chances right away. Tony got and drew the revolver, at which the group scattered and Pasquale hunted up Patrolman Birmingham.

Erecting Leland Avenue Church.

The new Leland Avenue Reformed church, accompanied by a large force of men, arrived in Plainfield this morning, and the work of putting the portable building together is now in progress. The building will be in readiness for the first service to be held Sunday morning.

Preparatory services will be held at the Congregational church, tonight in charge of the pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Russell Runyon and Edgar Starker were initiated into Wm. G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., at the regular meeting Tuesday night. Another candidate who became afraid of the "goat" is said to have acquired "cold feet" and failed to appear for his degree.

It is reported that Sunday, July 4, will see a wedding of a prominent young woman of this place to an equally prominent young man of Garwood, but the names of the couple are being withheld because they want to surprise their friends and neighbors.

The Jr. O. U. A. M., Daughters of Liberty and the Patriotic Order Sons of America will attend a special service in the Presbyterian church on Sunday, and will listen to a patriotic address to be delivered by the pastor, Rev. E. L. Brown.

Emma, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kratzel, Jr., died yesterday morning. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the parents' home on North avenue. Rev. W. W. Knox will conduct the services.

The Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society will take a trolley ride tonight going over "the loop" which includes New Brunswick, Perth Amboy and Rahway. The car will leave from in front of the postoffice at 7:30.

The Methodist and Presbyterian church nines will play ball tomorrow afternoon at the Madison avenue grounds. The game will be called promptly at 2 o'clock.

The case of the State against John and Mary McFadden came up for trial in the Middlesex county court today. They are charged with illegal liquor selling.

George B. Coffee, Jr., who became a benedict last week in Somerville, has started housekeeping in the east half of the Hell residence on Front street.

Harry Bird has returned to his home in Philadelphia after a short visit to his sister, Miss Nora Bird, of this borough.

Mrs. William Terry has returned from a visit to her brother Harold Terry at Whitehouse, N. J.

Mrs. Lucy Heil, of Newark, was a visitor with her brother, Bernard Siriski, yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Middlesex Water Co. will shortly build a new pumping station about a mile from the station now in use, down Cedar brook. The plant will be situated near the point where the mill race from the pond joins Cedar brook.

L. D. Randolph and William Johnson have purchased the hay on the Macadam property and are now engaged in harvesting the crop.

New barns are being built by Oscar Thorne on the property recently vacated by the Rev. C. W. F. Attlee.

Stillman Randolph, of Plainfield, a former resident of the village, spent last evening with friends here.

Elmer Teeple has just returned home from a short but pleasant vacation spent near Philadelphia.

Miss Irene Miller and Miss Nora McDonough spent yesterday with relatives in North Plainfield.

Miss Julia Smith has returned to her home in Perth Amboy after a visit with friends here.

The Misses Katherine Richards and May Keefe visited friends in Plainfield yesterday.

The Rev. C. W. F. Attlee, of Plainfield, was in town last night.

Charles Randolph was in Plainfield yesterday on business.

Proctor's All-Star Bill.

Proctor's new bill today includes George Grant, wire comedy juggler; McKissick & Shadney, colored team in a great comedy act; Baker & Wendell, a slam-bang comedy skit; the famous Amsterdam Quartet, which made a hit yesterday and the DeWitt models, all new poses, together with five reels of motion pictures.

Mrs. F. W. Morse, of 918 Union street, is spending a few days at Bradley Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Sullivant, of 504 Watchung avenue, have no intention of removing to New York in the fall. An item to that effect has caused them much annoyance.

PERSONAL.

E. B. Maynard, of North avenue, who has been detained at home by illness, is much improved.

Isaac Elliott, of West Front street, who underwent an operation early in the week, is improving.

Frederick Wenzel, of West Front street, who has been very ill, is reported as being slightly improved.

Freeholder and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, of Westervelt avenue, leave today for Lake Hopatcong, where they will spend the summer at their cottage.

Mrs. Harry Butts and son, of New York, who have been spending a few weeks with Miss L. A. Billett, of East Second street, have returned home.

Mrs. John Groendyke, of West Front street, who was operated upon at the hospital recently, continues to improve under the care of Dr. G. W. Endicott.

Miss Mabel Trembath, of Madison avenue, who has been seriously ill at the hospital, following an operation, is now much improved and it is believed will have a speedy recovery.

Mrs. James S. Pray, of East Sixth street, will leave Wednesday, July 7, for a two weeks' sojourn with relatives and friends in and about Hampton Falls, N. H. This will be her first visit there in several years and is anticipated with much pleasure.

Mrs. E. E. Parvin and children, of 1202 Watchung avenue, will leave Saturday, July 10, on the Steamship St. Paul for a six weeks' tour of England. Mr. Parvin will remain in Plainfield during his wife's absence, business preventing him from accompanying her on the trip.

Miss Lucy Diehm, of West Hoboken, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. J. H. Clark, of East Sixth street. Miss Diehm is a graduate of the West Hoboken High School, Class '09, and will pursue a high course of study at Barnard College in the fall. She was also editor in chief of the High School Mirror, a school paper.

Miss Ruth Thompson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, of 307 East Second street, and a teacher in the public schools of North Attleboro, Mass., returned home Wednesday from her summer vacation. Miss Thompson attended the commencement exercises of the Massachusetts State Normal College at Westfield, Mass., before returning home, she being a graduate of the '08 class.

—Charter Day Celebration, July 5, 6 and 7.

FOR "THE DAY WE CELEBRATE"

Special For The Fourth And Charter Day

This store is patriotic. We celebrate with the best of them, but we do our "4th of Julying" before that day. Tomorrow we make our big noise. Come—watch us celebrate and get your share of the bargains.

Such a soaring and sky-rocketing of values. Such a fizzling of prices. Such an explosion of profits. Every department is bursting with bargains, a breaking of past selling records on every hand and business booming with an unknown bargain spirit.

Let our celebration prepare you for your celebration. Two celebrations will occur Monday, July 5th—the celebration of the 4th and Charter Day. Just 40 years ago this City received its first charter and the day will be observed in connection with the glorious.

Seashore Real Estate.

BUNGALOW LIFE AT PORT-AU-PECK ON THE SHREWSBURY—Bungalow colonies, originally a California institution, are springing up all over the east. Many persons of means believe this to be the most healthful manner in which to spend a vacation. It takes them away from the irksome forms of conventionality and puts them in close touch with nature. It enables them to roam through the woods or sail over the sparkling waters, getting fresh air, sunlight and exercise, which has built many a rundown body up to the exacting requirements of our rushing twentieth century pace. The cooling breezes of the Atlantic meet and mingle with the ozone from the woods, forming an atmospheric combination which carries health and vigor through every pair of lungs inhaling it. These are the conditions at Port-au-Peck on the Shrewsbury. In addition you have fishing, hunting, sailing, canoeing, motor boating, golfing, tennis, bathing and all other forms of healthful, vigorous sports in this section, no matter in what direction you turn. The out-of-doors man or woman will find no more attractive place on this continent in which to spend two or three months or week ends in search of recreation and health. For indoor sports there is a large club-house available with bowling alleys and billiard rooms and is especially equipped to give those small affairs in case you should want to. Thirty bungalows now under construction from $2,000 up, including the plot 50x150 ft.; deep driven artesian well water, absolutely pure. Send for booklet. Yours for the asking. You are invited to visit Port-au-Peck as our guest. For further particulars see Chas. Matt, Port-au-Peck Realty Co., 1328 Broadway, corner 34th street. The Brooklyns stopped the Giants in their winning streak on Wednesday by taking the first of a double-header. Mathewson got after the Trolley Dodgers in the second contest and shut them out, 3 to 0.

"Dave" Driscoll has notified Manager Dorflinger, of the Plainfield Baseball Club, that he will have his strongest lineup here tomorrow afternoon. He is not sure who will pitch, but a first-class box artist will do the honors.

"Red" Waller has been heard from. On Wednesday he pitched for Jersey City against Providence, and was defeated by a score of 3 to 2. He allowed but six hits, while Cronin gave Jersey City but three hits.

MRS. DAVIS ADDRESSES GOSPEL TENT MEETING

The Salvation Army held its first meeting in the large tent on Watchung avenue, last night. About two hundred were in attendance, including several local pastors. The service was opened with song and instrumental music led by Martin A. Korff, John LeMatty, superintendent of the Rescue Mission, led in prayer, Rev. O. J. Shoop read the Scriptures, Mrs. John Manley sang "No Night There." Mrs. Captain Hewett, who, for many years, was a prominent Kings' Daughter in her home town, introduced Mrs. Isabella C. Davis, one of the ten founders of the International Order of Kings' Daughters and Sons, who made the address of the evening.

After the address, Mrs. Straubel, representing the Army's Social work and her daughter, sang a duet, and in closing Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss made a stirring address with a strong appeal to the unconverted. James F. Parker will speak at the services tonight.

DR. PROBASCO RESIGNS AS Y. M. C. A. DIRECTOR.

Because of a pressure of other duties, Dr. Norman H. Probasco tendered his resignation as a member of the board of directors at a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last night, much to the regret of the board and the association in general. John G. MacLaughlin was elected to fill the vacancy in the board. He has long been interested in the work of the association and in the Men's Club of the First Baptist church. He was one of the organizers of the Men's Bible class of that church and is now its president.

Dr. Probasco has been identified with the association for several years and has always shown a deep interest in its welfare, especially that of the physical department and this will be missed greatly although he will still retain his membership.

BOROUGH TAX BOARD GETS DOWN TO WORK.

Another of the North Plainfield Special Tax Commission was held in the school building last night, which was attended by the following members of the commission: C. W. McCutcheon, W. J. Conroy, A. C. Pleydell, John P. Emmons, G. T. Rogers and W. J. Buttfield.

Some of the borough tax books were looked over and some idea of the work which confronts the commission was gathered. Meeting will be held from time to time until the matter is thoroughly threshed out, when the increased public will be given the results of the commission's deliberations.

PANHANDLER SENTENCED TO 60 DAYS IN JAIL.

Thos. Brogan, aged forty-two, who claims to be a railroad man and gives Philadelphia as his home town was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail by Borough Recorder Dolliver this morning for panhandling.

Brogan was arrested by Chief Weiss yesterday for begging, making a house to house canvass for money, clothes and food. He became abusive when refused and threatened those who failed to respond with money. He was drunk when captured by the officer.

Bids for School Addition.

Proposals for the building of the addition to Public School No. 3, at Scotch Plains, will be received by the Board of Education of that place, Friday night, July 9, at 8 o'clock. Specifications are now on file at the office of the board at the school, where they can be consulted between the hours of 1 and 6 o'clock on July 3, 6, 7, 8 and 9. The bids will be opened July 9 at 8 o'clock in the evening.

The Souvenir Booklet.

There is general adverse criticism regarding the Charter Day souvenir booklet, the concensus of opinion being that it reflects no credit on the city. In fact the booklet falls away below the standard. There is little within the covers regarding the Plainfield of today.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield Board of Health is after the street railway because of alleged unsanitary condition of cars. An inspector will board each car at Broad and Elm streets and report on the sanitary condition of the cars, the report of the inspector to be forwarded to the company, and unless the conditions are remedied prosecutions will be started.

Sprinkling the streets with tar was resumed in Westfield yesterday. The work was held up for a couple of weeks on account of the objections of property owners.

The young people of Branch Mills Sunday-school gave an entertainment at the chapel last evening for the benefit of the Sunday-school.

The choir boys of St. Paul's church of Westfield are in camp at Gardiner, N. Y., in charge of Rev. Sidney Cross.

The Merchants' Association of Westfield have voted to keep their stores closed all day July 5.

Mysterious Fire at Pinto Home.
No. 3 chemical engine from the West End was summoned by telephone at 10 o'clock this morning to the home of W. A. Pinto on West Eighth street, to extinguish a blaze on the roof. The fire made a hole abouttthree feet square. How the blaize started is a mystery. Chief Doane will investigate the matter more fully this afternoon. While the apparatus was on the way to the fire a rubber tire came off a wheel and had to be sent to New York to be repaired.

Surrpised Mrs. J. H. Parks.
Mrs. James H. Parks, of Park avenue, Scotch Plains, was given a surprise party at her home last night by a large number of friends and neighbors in honor of her birthday anniversary. The company met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Franklin K. Mathiews and then went to the home of Mrs. Parks. The evening was spent in a social way, while music and refreshments were added features.

PROPOSALS

For Addition to School No. One.

Pursuant to resolution adopted by the Board of Education of Fanwood Township, on June 30, 1909, said Board will meet at School No. One, Scotch Plains, on Friday, July 9, 1909, at 8 o'clock p. m., to receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing materials for the construction of an addition to school No. One as provided in the plans and specifications now on file at the office of the Board of Education at School No. One, Scotch Plains, where they can be consulted between the hours of one o'clock and six o'clock p. m. of the following named days: Saturday, July 3; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 6, 7, 8 and 9, respectively.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Addition to School No. One" and addressed to the District Clerk.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the District Clerk will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received previous to the hour designated and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board,
T. J. NICHOLL,

G. A. R. HEADQUARTERS AT THE STATE HOUSE

New Jersey veterans who served in the departments of the Union Army representing this State during the Civil War are to have permanent headquarters in room No. 26, on the second floor of the State House, Trenton. These accommodations have been obtained largely through the attention given the matter by Governor Fort, who was interested in the need of some permanent headquarters for the New Jersey departments, Grand Army of the Republic, by the present department commander, James F. Connelly, recently elected at the annual encampment.

The different State departments, Grand Army of the Republic, have been assigned permanent headquarters in the capitols or State Houses, in a very large number of the States in fact, in nearly all outside of the South.

For the last twenty years the Department of New Jersey, Grand Army of the Republic, has been seeking for headquarters in the State House at Trenton, and the most they received heretofore has been permission to send the valuable papers and books not in current use to the State House for storage in its cellars.

Latterly the reason assigned for non-compliance with the request of the Grand Army of the Republic for headquarters has been that the State House was overcrowded.

Department Commander James F. Connelly, immediately after the encampment at Atlantic City, took up this very important matter with Governor John Franklin Fort, who has during the last winter done all in his power to bring to successful conclusion important Grand Army matters pending, in and out of the Legislature.

After two or three weeks of conference with the State House Commission Commander Connelly received last week advice from Governor Fort that at last he had been successful in obtaining a permanent home or headquarters for the Grand Army of the Republic, Department of New Jersey, in the State House, and that Room No. 26, on the second floor of that building, would hereafter be known as said headquarters.

While commenting on this matter the other day Commander Connelly said that he considered this of the highest importance to the Department of New Jersey, Grand Army of the Republic. Having had no permanent headquarters for the last forty-three years, and the department commander being chosen annually from different sections of the State, the vital records, which are necessarily turned over from one to the other, have been mislaid in a large measure, lost or destroyed.

When these facts, were presented to Governor Fort, recognizing their importance, as in a few years the Grand Army will be an institution of the past, and then the archives belonging to it will be of the highest value, he obtained the necessary headquarters, and to the Governor the members of the Grand Army are today throughout New Jersey expressing their best thanks and gratitude.

The importance of having some one place in New Jersey for the State's G. A. R. headquarters is apparent to all persons who realize the difficulty and trouble that veterans are often caused when verifying their records for a pension. Moreover, it is imperative that the records be kept in good condition.

The only complete copy of the annual reports, so far as known, is owned by the New Jersey Historical Society. As the G. A. R. was considered part of the military establishment of this State, the Legislature, some years ago, passed a law appropriating funds for printing annual reports, especially that of the encampment list of members and mortality list. It was planned for a full line of these yearly reports to be kept in the Adjutant General's office. But that office is short twelve complete sets, the copies covering the first twelve years of the G. A. R.'s existence.

The rapidity with which the ranks of the Civil War veterans are being decimated is another reason for affording them permanent place as headquarters. It is estimated that there are remaining today between 16,000 and 17,000 veterans of the War of the Rebellion in New Jersey.

KNIGHTHOOD FOR PASSAIC MAN

Passaic, July 2.—Pope Pius X has made Edmund G. Hurley, of Meade avenue, this city, a knight of St. Gregory, and has conferred on him the degree of doctor of liturgical music.

Mr. Hurley is one of the leading authorities in this country on Gregorian music. For years he has been organist and director of music in the Roman Catholic church of St. Paul the Apostle, at Columbus avenue and Sixtieth street, New York. He preceded George H. Jahn as organist and director in St. Nicholas' church, this city.

MASTER OF THE TRAIFF.

One of the secrets of Aldrich's strength is his ability to charm and convince men at close range. It is an art which he has been practicing ever since upon graduating, says Robert Wickliffe Woolley in the July Van Norden Magazine, from an academy in East Greenwich, R. I., fifty years ago. He started on his busines career as a grocery clerk in Providence. He is now in his 68th year and has announced that he will retire at the expiration of his present term, March, 4, 1911. Yet his eye is bright, his cheeks as ruddy and his step as springy as when he entered the Senate in 1881, the successor of the late Senator Ambrose E. Burnside. His knowledge of statecraft is superb and his insight into human character was never so keen.

A fellow Senator may enter his committe room with all the avowed intention in the world to browbeat or bulldoze him, and Aldrich unhorses him with good humor before he has uttered three sentences. He may persist in a half-hearted way and even harangue for an hour or so, but that eagle eye is piercing him through and through, and he realizes all the while he has failed utterly in his mission. The cultured and courteous chairman of the powerful committee on finance is sizing him up for future reference—it matters not whether he be Democrat or Republican. If the visitor be of either the La Follette or the Rayner type, Mr. Aldrich simply smiles, tells a good story or so and is politenes personified, but he realizes that that man will lbe of little or no use to him. He can't be persuaded or convinced against his will. Let it be any one of a score of other Democrats or Republicans and the time of the Rhode Island Senator is most profitably spent, without dropping the slightest hint of the fact to his guest.

THE WORLD'S FINEST STATUTES

The eminent French master, M. Auguste Rodin, thus writes: "It is very difficult to designate for you a single one or even three chefs-d'oeuvre as being the finest of all sculpture. To tell you the truth, I see rather three epochs, each of which is full of masterpieces. Amongst these masterpieces it hardly seems to me possible to choose one rather than another.

"All the antique is admirable and all the gothic and all the renaissance also; and in all countries and down to the nineteenth century inclusive.

"After that, save some rare exceptions of recent date, it is even more difficult to select anything as best."

Pressed further, M. Rodin, in an intreview, thought that if all but a trio of the masterpieces of all the epochs were to be doomed to destruction, he would most wish spared the Nike of Samothrace, Donatelo's St. George and Michael Angelo's Night.—From "Which is the Finest Statute?" in the June Strand Magazine.

Arrested as a deserter from the navy, Henry Simon, of Locust and Sycamore streets, Camden, was locked up in Camden Wednesday.

EXPLORER WELLMAN ON WAY TO POLAR STATION.

Tromsoe, Norway, July 2.—The Walter Wellman airship party for the North Pole expedition sailed yesterday for Spitzbergen, to prepare for the hazardous aerial flight. Wellman declared before his departure that he believed the airships shed, which was totally destroyed during the terrific gales last winter, could be repaired in time for the expedition to make its flight before the end of August. Wellman's son and a companion are at Spitzbergen, the base of supplies, doing all possible to repair the damage done to the shed.

Wellman has made one attempt to reach the North Polel in his gigantic dirigible, the America, but was driven against the cliff of a mountain near his camp and his machinery so badly damaged that he was compelled to abandon the attempt that year.

Wellman returned to Paris, leaving his son and two companions at Spitzbergen to take care of the base of supplies, while he had alterations made in the America. During the past winter the balloon shed was totally destroyed by the gales. One of young Wellman's companions was killed.

When Wellman first heard of the destruction of the balloon shed he declared he did not believe it would be possible to make an attempt this year. Later reports, however, indicate that he will be able to repair the damage in time to make the attempt some time in August.

It is Wellman's plan to sail his machine from the spot where Herr Andre inflated his monster balloon in his fatal atempt to reach the North Pole. Wellman believes he will have more success with a dirigible balloon, and he is confident that he will be able to reach the Pole.

BISHOP M'FAUL SAYS SPEECH WAS MISQUOTED.

Trenton, July 2.—In a preface to his address to the graduates of the Sacred Heart Church Parochial School Wednesday night Bishop McFaul declared that in the reports of his criticism of American universities, made at the commencement exercises of St. Francis Xavier's College, New York city, recently, he had been misquoted in many particulars.

The bishop declared that he had not spoken disparagingly of college students, and that much of the address he was reported to have made was never delivered by him.

Bishop McFaul told the audience exactly what he had to say in New York and declared that he had no intention of receding from the position he took there. His remarks, he said, had been based on the magazine articles written by Harold Boice, in which the charge was made that professors in several of the American universities had taught doctrines subversive of Christian faith and Christian morality.

The bishop said he had criticized the heads of institutions that permitted such a thing, but that he had not brought the student body into his discourse.

He read an extract from a speech by President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton University, in which the educational system of the United States, including both schools and colleges, was severely criticised.

FINE GIFT TO SUMMIT CHURCH.

Summit, July 2.—The board of trustees of the M. E. church announced Wednesday that it had received from the members of two families a gift aggregating $25,000, to be used to pay for the erection of a parish house and an addition to the present edifice. The donors stipulate that their names shall not be made public, and require an amount equal to their donation shall be raised within a certain period.

The trustees also announce that the amount required has been subscribed, and within a few days work on the parish house will be started. The building is to be of stone, as is the transept of the church, which will double the seating capacity of the edifice. The parish house and transept will cost $75,000, and when completed the church will be one of the finest architecturally in this part of the State. The trustees expect to raise the needed $25,000 by fall.

WOMAN DEAD; GAS TURNED ON.

Hoboken, July 2.—Mrs. Frederika Dockery, of 1205 Washington street, was found dead in a bathtub in her apartment Wednesday. The room was filled with gas which escaped from a jet fully turned on. The door and window in the room were tightly closed.

Mrs. Dockery made arrangements last week with a woman to sell her household effects to her for $275. The woman was to pay the money Wednesday. When she rang the bell of Mrs. Dockery's apartment she received no response and told the janitress, who notified the police. All the indications point to suicide.

Mrs. Dockery was a mystery to her neighbors. She lived alone, and no one has been found that knows she had any relatives living.

Mike—Phat have we got t' eat this mornin'?

Nora—We ain't got to eat nothin' if we don't want to.—Widow.

New Jersey's Leading Grocers and Butchers

THE LOVER.

All the love that was mine to know
I gave you over and over;
I was no man's friend or his foe—
nothing at all but your lover.
Shall this thing cease when the body of me waits for the earth to cover?
Shall the strength of the year that went to make this love complete
Die like a frail thing spent, with a weakling heart's last beat,
Shall I only serve at the last to make a greener earth for your feet?
Shall the love that was like a sword break when the sheath must rust?
Shall it fail of its great award, shall it fail of its ancient trust
When the empty, useless hulk of a man goes down to the dark, and the dust?
Beloved, life is a little thing, but the love that it holds is great Truer than joy or suffering, stronger than time or fate.
Shall only the love of the Crucified endure while the ages wait?
Nay, then of this be sure, though I pass from your sound and sight,
Love shall increase and endure, aye,
even in death's despite
It shall be a hand on your hand all day, a torch for your feet at night.
—Theodosia Garrison in Hampton's magazine.

Weathered; Oak. 12-in. top. 8-in. base. 15-in. high. Reg. $1.00.

That basement store we started with in Newark back in Civil War Days has become the big, busy, 5-building organization you see to-day—all because we never would stand still! The people's demands for broader varieties, better displays, more departments, a low price in plainly marked figures, and CREDIT that never hurt but helped, have been met by us more and more liberally year after year—and now see what it's made us: "New Jersey's Largest Exclusive Furniture House," with over 145,000 square feet floor space given up to our one business. There's a reason behind it all!!

BANG GO RIBBON PRICES!

26,000 Yds. Loom Ends in This Most Remarkable of all Ribbon Sales

By odds the largest lot of Loom Ends of Ribbons that we have ever secured comes to us from the leading manufacturer of St. Etienne, France, from whence most of the fine ribbons come.

There are fully 26,000 yards in this notable purchase, including a wonderful variety of weaves in plain and fancy effects in all wanted widths and colors, and in various lengths.

The feature of the sale is that we will not cut any of the pieces yet we price them by the yard; the only penalty attached is that you must buy the full piece whatever length it may be; but the remarkable prices which the name will make you eager to buy all you can afford.

Regular prices run from 10c to as high as $2.50 the yard. We are going to sell them, tomorrow, at these astonishing prices—

| Values to 2.50 a Yard | Lot 1 | Lot 2 | Lot 3 | Lot 3 | Values to 2.50 a Yard |

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

A carrier pigeon labeled "No. 60" was killed by striking the wires of the West Jersey and Seashore electric line at Pitman Tuesday.

In a fight with a stranger, Harry Maher, twenty-five years old, of Fifteenth street and Taylor avenue, Camden, was badly bitten on the face and side yesterday. He was cared for at Cooper Hospital.

Wanted on a charge of deserting his wife and three children, Albert Beck, of Lawnside, was arrested at Trenton yesterday by County Detective Smith and locked up in the Camden county jail.

While Mrs. E. L. Kastner, of Woodbury, was passing through Washington Park in a trolley car some one threw a bundle of papers into the car, striking her in the face and rendering her unconscious.

Twelve-year-old Louis McGuirk, of 61 Marshall street, Paterson, was playing with a toy blank cartridge pistol in the rear of his home Wednesday when the gun exploded suddenly and badly lacerated one of his fingers.

Recorder Martin Keffer in Atlantic City, Wednesday, held a "shirtwaist court," in which he appeared without his coat. Attorneys and court attaches were given the same privilege to doff their coats, and several followed the court's example.

While on a visit to Camden Wednesday, John Brooks, a fireman of Washington, D. C., was bitten on the eye by an insect. The eye was so badly swollen that he thought he had been blinded. The visitor was relieved at Cooper Hospital.

Stephen Ezorsky, eleven years old, of 546 Straight street, Paterson, while swimming in the river opposite the Riverlawn Sanitarium Wednesday afternoon, was seized with cramps. The boy was assisted from the water by two companions.

Burned about the hands, face and body, Clara Aytheway, sixteen years old, of Risley, was taken to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, last night, in an apparently dying condition. The girl was burning brush at her home when her dress became ignited.

While Mrs. William Jessup was rocking her eighteen-month-old daughter to sleep yesterday in front of her home, 147A Nunda avenue, Jersey City, a boy threw a lighted firecracker that exploded in the baby's face, burning her. Dr. J. M. Jones, who is attending the child, says she may lose the sight of her left eye, fragments of powder having lodged in the eyeball. The boy escaped.

The Paterson Orphan Asylum building fund received a substantial addition Wednesday, when William M. Dufford, treasurer of the association, found in his mail a check for $1,000 from Arthur Ryle as his subscription toward the construction of the building. This is an entirely new contribution and will be added to the $85,000 raised by the recent "Flag" campaign waged by the association.

Harry Walker, the contractor and builder, of Gloucester City, who, it is thought, has met with more accidents than any other contractor in the State, and who has had both legs fractured, both arms broken and received other injuries at various times, met with his nineteenth accident yesterday, and is again using a cane to aid him in walking. He was driving a stake at a new house on Hunter street, when a hatchet blade flew off the handle and struck him on the right foot, inflicting a wound.

Jennie Wade Circle, No. 40, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, of Paterson, was instituted Wednesday night at Sons of Veterans' Hall, and its officers installed by Past Deputy President Inez C. Pierson, of Garfield Circle, Jersey City. Besides the nineteen members of the newly instituted circle there were present a nmber of the grand officers and delegations from Lincoln and Garfield circles of Jersey City and Kearny, Betsy Ross and Sheridan circles and Battery B of Newark.

The officers who were installed Wednesday night are as follows: President, Sarah E. McCall; senior vice-president, Alice Smith; junior vice-president, Mary Adams; secretary, Hannah L. Loretz; treasurer, Minnie Kedash; chaplain, Emma Snooks; conductor, Margaret Dewson; assistant conductor, Agnes Cook; guard, Nellie Clearwater; assistant guard, Lida Potter; organist, Julia Dawson.

JUSTICE SWAYZE NOW A HARVARD OVERSEER.

Boston, July 2.—Announcement was made Wednesday at the Harvard commencement of the election of five members of the board of overseers of the university for six years. They are:

William L. Richardson, Boston; W. J. Howard Elliott, St. Paul, Minn.; George Wigglesworth, Milton; Francis J. Swayze, Newark, N. J., and J. Pierpont Morgan Jr., New York.

To fill vacancies caused by death, Lawrence E. Sexton, of New York, was elected to the board for two years, and John W. Farley, of Boston, for one year.

Baseball and General Sports

BASEBALL.

Coffey, the former Fordham College player, who is now covering short for the Boston Nationals, is making good. There is scarcely a day but that he gets at least one hit or more.

Ferguson, who was not considered good enough for the Giants a season or two ago, insists on pitching good ball for the Boston Nationals. On Wednesday he shut out the Athletics, 1 to 0.

There will be a band of music at Crescent Oval, tomorrow afternoon to enliven the occasion before, after and during the game. The Plainfield Baseball Club is going to give the fans a chance to see fast ball and judging by the patronage on tomorrow will determine the future policy of the club.

AGAINST CORPORATION TAX.

Atlantic City, July 2.—The protest against the corporation tax just presented in the United States Senate by Senator Kean was formulated by the New Jersey League of Building and Loan Associations, which organized here Tuesday night. Similar protests will be sent to the President and Chairman Aldrich, of the Finance Committee.

The officers elected by the association are: President, Joseph A. McMamee, of the Marine Trust Company, Atlantic City; vice-president, E. B. Goodwin, of Millville; secretary, Howard R. Cloud; treasurer, Lewis Evans.

New Jersey is not a member of the National League of Building and Loan 9ssociations. Upward of $60,000,000 is represented in the new league.

Singer Employes on Outing.

Elizabeth, July 2.—The bosses and assistants of the various departments in the Singer Sewing Machine Works, Elizabethport, went on an automobille outing Wednesday to Stanhope. The start was made at 8 o'clock and the pleasure seekers did not return until evening. There were twenty-four automobiles. A dinner was served at Stanhope. Superintendent Matthew MacDougall and several of the officials from the company's New York headquarters were among the guests. Each machine was decorated with two blue flags, on which the word Singer was inscribed in gilt letters.

The Amsterdam Four.

The Amsterdam Four, a quartet of singers, now singing at Proctor's, are well worth hearing. Each one of the men is a soloist of ability and their songs are of a class seldom heard on the vaudeville stage. An absence of "barber shop" chords and a profusion of real music make this quartet one of the best ever heard in Plainfield or anywhere else. They received a dozen curtain calls last night from an audience that crowded the hous to the limit.

—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson have resigned their positions as janitor and janitress at the Y. W. C. A. to take effect July 10. Their places will be filled in the fall.

—Fifty bushels fancy Jersey peas, fancy young cauliflower, Jersey beets, beans, fancy cucumbers, egg plants, summer squash and spinach are a few of the special offerings at Neuman Brothers. The supply is large and thoughtful housekeepers will order early.

BLACK AND WHITE

We have just received a new range of shirts in the season's most favored color combination — BLACK and WHITE. More class and style in these than in any shirt yet shown and of course they're BATES-STREETS.

Some new black and white scarfs to go with them too.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

He turned on his heel quickly and went off through the door on the other side of the room that led to his private chamber. When he had gone Ribiere touched Ivanoff on the shoulder as a signal, and the stricken man arose. One glance he cast upon the guilty woman, who shrank so shiveringly into a corner as he gazed upon her, and then said:

"You are addressing the Grand Duke Vastil of Russia!"

"I would not touch you—even to strangle you!" and then to the thunderstruck Hawcastle he said:

"God will let me pay my debt to the Earl of Hawcastle!"

In an instant he was gone, and Hawcastle, pale with rage and anguish, strode forward to Pike, who was smiling.

"Why, you"— the earl began, but Daniel raised his hand. He spoke softly, even genially.

"Oh, I hated to hand you this, my lord," he said. "I didn't come over here to make the fine flower of Europe any more trouble than they've got. But I had to show John Simpson's daughter, and I reckon now she ain't wanting any alliance with the remnants of Crecy and Agincourt."

From the other side of the sofa, where she had been sobbing on her brother's shoulder, Ethel came tremblingly.

"I have no choice," she said slowly. "You see, I gave Almeric my promise when I thought it an honor to bear his name. Now that you have shown me that it is a shame to bear it the promise is only more sacred. You see, the shame is not his fault, is it? You—want—me—to—be—honorable—don't—you?"

"It is milor' the Earl of Hawcastle."

When she had finished Daniel was leaning well back on the table.

"Your father and mother—both—came from Missouri, didn't they?"

He sighed heavily, and she hung her head. Hawcastle looked toward the open door of the room and touched his son upon the shoulder. When they had reached the door the earl looked back and shook his fist at Pike.

"You haven't heard the last of this, curse you!" he said and disappeared quickly. Lady Creech, who had been in a semi-swooning condition, came suddenly out of her trance and gazed sharply about her.

"Don't mumble your words," she said sharply and rose to her feet. With a withering glance at Pike she turned to Ethel.

"Come, my dear," she said. "This terrible place is not for you. Let us go."

Horace came suddenly to life and closed his drooping jaw. He stepped forward and faced the old lady.

"My sister will remain for a time, Lady Creech," he said. "I will look after her—in the future."

Lady Creech put up her lorgnette and stared at him and with a haughty sniff left the room with the air of a conqueror. Pike gazed after her whimsically.

"There goes the last of the empresses," he said and looked down at his feet.

Twice Ethel essayed to speak, and twice she put out her hand in his direction, and both times she failed. Then, with a choking little sob, she picked up her dress and fairly ran from the room. Horace followed her quickly, and still Pike stood there in an attitude of incomprehension.

The point he had striven for had failed. He had shown this girl the true rottenness of the people she had tried so hard to ally herself with, and the knowledge had failed to move her. His brilliant plan had recoiled upon his own head and had resulted in more firmly implanting a sense of duty in her heart. He saw no way out now. At first it had been a desire—now it had become a duty, and he wondered if he had the right to withhold from her her patrimony.

It was not until he saw a dark figure with a bag in its hand walk quickly down the steps and out through the entrance garden, not until he had heard the creak of carriage springs and the muttered directions and then the crunch of the wheels, that he awoke. He called a passing servant—Mariano, it proved it be—and questioned him.

"Who was that?" he asked.

Mariano bowed deeply.

"It is milor' the Earl of Hawcastle," he replied. "He has gone to keep the appointment he have made some days since at Napoli, it is said."

CHAPTER XVIII.

MISUNDERSTOOD.

LADY CREECH was out early the next morning. Perhaps she had hope that something might be saved from the wreck and recollected the ancient adage about the early bird. She was seated on the terrace having breakfast and keeping a keen eye on the main entrance when the hopeful Almeric appeared, yawning and inexpressibly bored.

"Mornin', aunt," he said.

"Where's your father, Almeric?" she demanded.

"Flew the bally coop for Naples last night. Seemed to be jolly well upset, you know. Feared this beastly convict chap would take a shot at him or something like that."

Lady Creech snorted.

"He always was a fool. Bah! He should have stayed. Where's the countess?"

"Naples; to look after the governor, I'd say. Went off this morning. Beastly about this convict chap, you know. What's to become of him?"

"I can at least give you some information," the old lady replied. "This grand duke person's obtained for the fellow a pardon by telegraph from St. Petersburg."

"How's the dear Ethel this morning?" asked Almeric when he had digested his astonishment.

"Behaving very peculiarly—outrageously, I might say."

"How?" demanded Almeric, stifling a yawn.

"Shedding tears over this Ivanoff's story. What's more, she has sent that dreadful Pike person to him with assistance."

"Money! By Jove! Good girl! Buying the beggar off to keep him from making a scandal for us! How's that?"

Lady Creech looked at him with something akin to admiration.

"Almeric! How clever of you! Of course she is! Your father will be pleased. What a pity he didn't wait!"

Daniel appeared at the top of the steps and, seeing the pair, came slowly toward them. As he reached the table where they sat he addressed Almeric.

"Your pa seemed in a burry last night," he said.

Almeric started violently, but Lady Creech arose and, with a haughty glance, swept into the hotel. Pike looked after her and then back to Almeric.

"Oh, yes," the latter answered. "Had to catch a train—the pater had—he's easily worried by trifles, you know."

"Well, you don't worry—not too easy, do you, son?"

"Oh, one finds nothing particular this morning to bother one," the young man replied, yawning. "Nothing at all. Of course Miss Ethel is standing to her promise?"

"Yes, she is," replied Pike grimly, and Almeric went on:

"Ye-es, the governor only thought it best to clear out a bit until we were certain that she manages to draw on this convict chap—what you Americans call 'affixing him,' isn't it?"

Pike lifted a warning hand.

"Don't try to talk United States, son. Just tell me in your own way."

"Why," replied Almeric, "she's been giving him money, hasn't she? You took it to him yourself, didn't you? Naturally we understood what it was for. She's trying to keep the beggar quiet."

"So that's what she sent the poor cuss the money for, was it? That's the way you look at it, eh?" the American asked.

"Why, of course! What other reason could there be?" asked the other.

"Well, you know I'd sort of gathered it was because she was sorry for him—thought he'd been wronged, but, of course, I'm stupid!"

"Well, ray-ther! I don't know that it was so necessary for her to hush him up, but it showed a very worthy intention in her, didn't it, eh, now?"

Pike looked at him carefully.

"Would you mind my being present when you thank her for it?" he asked, and Almeric laughed riotously.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 4, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Patriotism that counts.—Neh. iv, 6, 12-18.

In Nehemiah we have one of the most inspiring patriots in ancient history. He was one of the number of the Jews who remained in Babylon after the return of many in the reign of Cyrus. He held a high position under Artaxerxes, being a cupbearer of the king in Shushan, the winter residence of the king of Persia. While thus situated visitors from Jerusalem told him the story of the sad condition of the people and city of Jerusalem. He became sad and sorrowful in appearance, which led the king to ask him the cause of his trouble, and when it was explained the king allowed him to return to Jerusalem. On doing so he aroused the people from their lethargy and, overcoming various difficulties, finished his task. He ruled for twelve years, restoring the temple and the ancient law, which was found in the ruins of the temple, and dealing out justice and equity to all. Nothing is known of him except what is contained in his book, which should be read at this time by every Endeavorer. It is intensely interesting from beginning to end and gives us a complete picture of the patriotism of a man, which counted.

1. Patriotism that counts is an inborn, inherent patriotism. True love of country cannot be manufactured. It cannot be made to order. It must be born into the man and be a natural part of his being. The patriot is born, not made. It was so with Nehemiah. No sooner did Nehemiah hear that his country was in distress than he "sat down and wept and mourned certain days and fasted and prayed before the God of heaven." No such results could have been produced by a pretense of patriotism. Nothing but an inborn love of country could have produced them. His sincerity could not be doubted, because his feelings were manifested in his appearance. True patriotism is always of such a character, and we may thank God that no nation exceeds our own in this kind of patriots.

2. Patriotism that counts must be self sacrificing. The man who says "I love my country" and then when it is in distress refuses to deny himself for it belies his words. Nehemiah was no such a patriot. Once he left a position of ease and luxury, returned to his native land and, amid great privations and dangers, gave all his powers for the restoration of his people. The patriotism that counts must not consider self. It does not weigh personal pleasure and ease against privation, sacrifice and danger.

3. Patriotism that counts must be exercised in peace as well as war. Nehemiah's sacrifice was not that of his life, though it may at times have been in danger. His patriotism consisted in living, though at great sacrifice, for his country. Times of peace often require higher standards of patriotism than times of war. Nations have other enemies that destroy besides alien armies. Indeed, most great nations die as a result of inward iniquity rather than by conquering armies. To crush out evil, to uphold righteousness, is a patriotism that counts. But many who would shoulder a gun at the approach of an enemy calmly sit by and allow national, social and personal sins to eat out the vital life of the nation. Our own country is fast approaching the point where we shall need more living patriots than dying ones. The presence of social luxury, which breeds idleness and sin and arouses the anger of the toiling masses, and the undeniable corruption that exists in our commercial and political life are signs of the times that need to arouse the attention of every true patriot in our land and lead him to stand firmly against these things, which are as deadly to a nation's life as booming cannons, scattering shells and belching guns. "Righteousness (and righteousness alone) exalteth a nation" and preserves it.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ezra vi, 8-10; Neh. ii, 1-5; Ps. xxxiii, 12; cxlvii, 20; Prov. xiv, 23; Jer. xxix, 7; Matt. xvii, 24-27; xxii, 15-21; xxiii, 37; Heb. xi, 10, 13-16.

Made by Its Atmosphere.

No one claims that Christian Endeavor has already atained or is nearing perfection. It is a living, growing, developing movement, not a dead method or stereotyped form of words, and it can be adapted to the needs of any church. Like all other departments of church life, it depends for its success very largely upon the atmosphere that surrounds it. If that atmosphere is worldly, indifferent, selfish or critical the society will probably be weak and inefficient. Whenever you hear the question asked, "What is the matter with the Christian Endeavor society?" you will usually find equal reason for asking, "What is the matter with the church, the Sunday school and the minister?" Some recent critics of Christian Endeavor seem to hold the little company of young people who are trying to stem the tide of worldliness that is sweeping so many from their moorings exclusively responsible for the success of the church prayer meeting and the Sunday evening service. If the society is enterprising enough to attract a company of young people to its meeting, but not strong enough to compel them all to go to the second service, then, instead of commending it for what it has accomplished, the advice is given, "Disband it." "Dynamite it." —General Secretary William Shaw.

CHARTER DAYS' PAGEANTRY

PARADES, FIREWORKS, SPORTS, CONCERTS AND OTHER ATTRACTIONS.

CITY IN GALA ATTIRE

What will pass down into history as the greatest celebration ever held in Union and Somerset counties will be inaugurated on Monday morning. The occasion will mark the fortieth anniversary of the granting of a charter to Plainfield as a city. It will also commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the incorporation of North Plainfield as a borough. The three days' festivities which distinguish the event have been arranged under the auspices of the Plainfield Board of Trade.

This board has been assisted by committees of representative business men who have left nothing undone that would in any way contribute to the success of the undertaking. A special committee, which has not yet been appointed, will wait upon the weather man and endeavor to convince him that it will be unsafe for him to uncork anything but fair conditions for the three days of merriment.

The Great Parade.

The celebration will start with a great parade which will include in the line the Mayor of the city and the Mayor of the Borough of North Plainfield, a battalion of mounted police, numerous bands of music and drum corps and all the fraternal, civic and other societies, together with several companies of the Second Regiment, N. J. National Guard. Many representatives of out-of-town organizations will help to swell the ranks and it is confidently predicted that there will be more than 5,000 men in line.

One of the features of the parade will be the chorus of 200 which will sing patriotic songs at different points along the line of march. The singers will be carried in floats specially built for the purpose and will have as directors two of the leading vocal teachers of this city.

The Formation.

The first day's parade will be made up as follows: First division, platoon of mounted police with Chief Kiely at their head and with Grand Marshal Captain William Hand, mounted, and the following aides: Aaron Lines, of Riverside, Cal., Lieutenant Pearsall, of Westfield; Philip Jahn, Scotch Plains; T. Smith, George A. Ballantyne, Thos. Smith, Jr., William Hand, Jr., I. O. Doane, Jr., and A. S. Herr. Mayor C. J. Fisk and Mayor Samuel Townsend and the Councilmen with invited guests in carriages. Then will follow, also in carriages, the chairmen of the various committees with a band, and a batallion of the National Guard, two companies from Elizabeth, one from Somerville and Co. K, of this city.

Second Division.

Major Martin will head the second division with a military band. This division will form on Crescent with the right resting on East Seventh street and will consist of four companies of Knights Templar, with a band, the I. O. O. F., about 400 strong, with their own band.

Third Division.

The third division which forms on Watchung avenue with the right resting on East Seventh street will be led by the Jr. O. U. A. M. band with float and probably 250 men in line. Then will come the Master Builders' Association with band and bungalow float followed by the various trades unions each with a float.

Fourth Division.

The fourth division will be headed by a band, then will follow the business colleges, W. C. T. U., the Women's Relief Corps, another band leading the G. A. R. 150 strong with float. The public schools will be represented by several hundred children in conveyances arranged especially for their part in the singing of patriotic hymns and they will be followed by the G. A. R. men. The Non-Pareil club (colored) will bring up the rear. In the various fraternal organizations in line there will be members from nearly every city in the State.

The Route of Parade.

The line of march for this parade follows: Form on East Seventh street, right resting on Crescent avenue, Seventh to Park, to North, to Watchung, to Front, to Grove, to Prospect, to Washington, to Willow, to Orchard place, to Rockview avenue, to Grove, to Park place, to Somerset, to Front, to Park, to Second, to Central, to Eighth, to Crescent, to East Seventh and disband.

The reviewing stand will be located at Eighth street and Park avenue and here will be the array of judges who will decide on the winners of prizes for the handsomest and the most unique floats in the parade.

The Judges.

The judges are as follows: Col. E. W. Hine, of Newark; Justice J. J. Bergen, of Somerville; State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees, of Morristown; Mayor Cardwell, of East Orange; Mayor Appleby, of Asbury Park; Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, Surrogate George T. Parrott, of Elizabeth; Mayor Florence, of New Brunswick; William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, and former Selah Schoonmaker, of Somerville.

Reception of Guests.

The invited guests will assemble at the Hartridge School Auditorium at 9 o'clock in the morning and will be escorted to the reviewing stand by the Reception Committee. Following the review they will be entertained at luncheon in the auditorium, and afterwards will attend the open-air meeting. The visiting editors will be entertained at the New Plainfield theatre building and will also be given a dinner. They will afterwards be escorted to the various points of interest in the city by a corps of well acquainted assistants. The city will be theirs while they are here.

Conveniences.

Among the conveniences for the crowds that are expected to visit the city will be water barrels placed at intervals along the lines of march where the thirsty will find ice water in quantities to meet all requirements. These water barrels will be elevated on platforms so that they may be easily fonud.

The N. Y. & N. J. Telephone Company will have installed telephones on their poles at convenient points, short distances apart for the use of the public. Temporary hospitals will be arranged, one in the court room at police headquarters, and the other on East Front street in the building formerly occupied by the police. The latter will be in charge of the King's Daughters and First Aid will be rendered by physicians of the city who volunteer to make periodical calls and be on hand in case of emergency. Their services will be given free to those who need them. Special policemen will also be on hand to lend their assistance where needed as well as to protect the visiting crowds.

The Decorations.

The decorations already in place give promise of seeing the city and borough attired in dress never before dreamed of. All the home talent and amny out-of-town firms are engaged night and day getting the buildings decorated, and the variety of design in the arrangement of the bunting and flags would be hard to beat. It is safe to say that few cities ever were more handsomely decorated. The white columns with their hundreds of streamers, the thousands of electric lights, strung along and across the streets and the hundreds and hundreds of festooned buildings make a picture which will live long in the memory of all those who have the privilege of seeing them. Tonight between 8 and 9 the P. S. C. will turn on the current that will light the bulbs along Somerset street, Front and Park avenue as a test. This will enable the passing throng to get an idea of what the nights of the 5th, 6th and 7th of July will be.

Fireworks.

The exhibition of fireworks which will take place on each of the three nights will be held on West End avenue just across the brook. The very finest examples of pyrotechnic art will be displayed and famous historical pictures will be reproduced. These exhibitions together with the carnival entertainment will form attractions which none can afford to miss. The fireworks displays will begin promptly at 8:15.

The Galaschauen arranged by the D. W. Robertson Company, of New York, will be purely an amusement enterprise which will serve to entertain thousands and no visitor will be compelled to go home minus a souvenir or two for there will be lots of them for sale. Besides these attractions there will be band concerts in various sections of the town so that every community will have its quota of music.

The Committees.

Following is a list of the committees appointed by President Marshall and to them the success of the celebration is due. Committee: General chairman, William C. Smith; secretary, A. S. Herr; treasurer, Eugene M. Laing.

Athletic Games.

The athletic games which begin at 2:30 in the afternoon Monday at Watchung, East Seventh and Crescent are under the supervision of the committee on athletics of which G. L. Listman is chairman. A. L. N. A. and A. A. U. rules will govern. The following events will be run off:

100 yard dash, one mile run, three mile run, 100 yard 2-man carrying race (each man to be carried 50 yards), ¼ mile obstacle race, baseball throwing (for distance), all closed to Plainfield, North Plainfield, South Plainfield, Dunellen and Scotch Plains.

Special Events.

60 yard dash (closed to boys under 16 years of age).

One mile relay (4 men). Closed to Sunday-school Athletic League.

Open Events.

220 yard dash and one mile relay (4 men).

Prizes to be awarded are gold medals for first, silver medals for second and bronze medals for third. Handsome silver cups will be awarded to the winning relay teams.

THREE DAYS CELEBRATION TO COMMEMORATE CITY'S 40th ANNIVERSARY.

UNRIVALLED PROGRAM

TUESDAY.

The chief attraction for Tuesday will be the automobile parade and the hill-climbing contests at Johnston's drive. This hill-climbing competition will try the merits of the numerous cars entered as it is steep. The road has been specially prepared for the race, and the entries so far received indicate that the contest will be a keen one. Manufacturers and agents of cars which have good records in this field are to be represented by their machines and the event will no doubt attract a big crowd. For the parade upward of 150 cars are to be in line, all of which will have to be decorated with flags at least.

Routine of March.

The line of march will be as follows: Form on West End avenue; right resting on Front street. Grant to Seventh, to Crescent, around triangle to Seventh, to Plainfield, to West Eighth, to Park, to Seventh, to Belvidere, to Watchung, to Crescent, to Park, to Prospect, to Hillside, to Evergreen, to Park, to Randolph road, to Central, to Stelle, to Plainfield to Front to Sycamore, to Myrtle, to Giraud, to Willow, to Washington, to Linden, to Grove, to Park place, to Watchung, to Fairview, to Westervelt, to Manning, to Norwood, to East Front, to Terrill road, to South, to Watchung, to Front, to Grove, to Rockview, to West End and disband.

Hill-Climbing Contest.

The hill-climbing contest, open to all comers, will commence at 3:30 in the afternoon and will consist of six events with handsome gold medals for winners and silver medals for cars finishing second. All cars will be classed as per catalogue selling price. The contest is held under the rules and with the sanction of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association.

The Prizes.

Following is the list of events:

First—For cars catalogue price of which, with equipment, not to exceed $1,100.

Second—For catalogue price not less than $1,100 and not exceeding $1,650.

Third—For cars catalogue price not to be less than $1,650 and not exceeding $2,500.

Fourth—For cars catalogue price not to be less than $2,500 and not exceeding $3,500.

Fifth—Free for all, regardless of selling price.

Sixth—Free for all, for winners of previous events, winner to receive a gold medal, second a silver medal and the third a bronze medal. All cars will be timed electrically and must carry at least one passenger with driver.

WEDNESDAY.

The third day and the one many expect to be the best will see the fire laddies lined up with their shining apparatus and with bands of music galore. Besides the parade of the firemen in the morning the bicycle races will take place at 2 in the afternoon. Many riders of prominence are entered in these races and more are expected as the entry list will not be closed until Tuesday. The ten-mile Diamond Handicap, so named because the prizes are to be diamond rings and stick pins, is the main event of the races. Several fast and expert riders are entered in this race and a stirring contest is expected.

The Entries.

The entries for the various events are numerous and are being added to every day. Among those already listed are: Percy O. Lawrence, the San Francisco expert; Joe Orlando, the Marathon winner; E. C. Held-

PROCLAMATION.

To the Citizens of the City of Plainfield:

The ordinances of the city forbid the discharge of firearms within the city limits at any time, and the police have been instructed to arrest every person who shall be guilty of a violation thereof.

Both because the law commands it and because of the danger attending the indiscriminate use of weapons, I would urge upon all citizens to use every possible endeavor to bring about an absolute discontinuance of the practice.

We are about to enjoy the greatest civic celebration in our city's history, and we want it to be an unqualified success, unattended by accidents of any sort. Each citizen can do his duty in this respect, and his hearty co-operation is earnestly desired.

Let every one do his share to further this celebration, and let no one do a thing which will interfere with the safety or happiness of his neighbor.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand this third day of July, 1909.

CHAS. J. FISK,
Mayor.

CORPORATION TAX PASSED BY SENATE.

Washington, July 3.—By a vote of 59 to 11 the corporation tax amendment to the tariff bill was adopted by the Senate at 7 o'clock last evening, just prior to adjournment. Only three Democrats voted against the amendment when it was placed on its final passage, but prior to that when test votes were had the Democrats generally and some of the Republicans formed the opposition to the measure.

Today the Senate will take up the maxium and minimum provisions of the bill. The general expectation is that the consideration of the bill in the Senate will be completed by the end of next week. Those who voted on the final roll call against the adoption of the corporation tax amendment were Senators Borah, Bristow, Bulkeley, Clapp, Cummins, Dolliver, Heyburn and La Follette, all Republicans, and Chamberlain, Hughes and Shiveley, Democrats.

Senators Bacon, Overman and Stone, Democrats, were present, but declined to vote.

The affirmative vote was as follows:

Republicans—Senators Aldrich, Bradley, Brandegee, Briggs, Brown, Burkett, Burnham, Burrows, Burton, Carter, Crawford, Cullom, Curtis, Depew, Dick, Dillingham, Dixon, Du Pont, Elkins, Flint, Frye, Gallinger, Gamble, Guggenheim, Johnson, Jones, Kean, Lodge, Lorimer, McCumber, Nelson, Page, Penrose, Perkins, Piles, Root, Scott, Smoot, Sutherland, Warner, Warren and Wetmore.

Democrats—Bailey, Bankhead, Culberson, Daniel, Davis, Fletcher, Foster, Gore, Johnston, McEnery, McLaurin, Martin, Money, Rayner, Simmons, Taliaferro and Taylor.

Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano, and Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto, will sing at a sacred concert to be given at Asbury Park tomorrow night.

PERSONAL.

NEW MARKET NEARLY READY.

Newark Firms Take Space at Perth Amboy.

The public market building now in course of construction by J. C. Donohue & Son in Perth Amboy will be ready for the formal opening inside of two weeks. Ninety stalls located on the ground floor have been taken by merchants for the display of their wares, and farmers from all parts of the county, Middlesex, and adjoining counties, will bring produce to Perth Amboy to be disposed of at the market. The following Newarkers have engaged space: Horn & Bergman, Mrs. J. Teller, H. Mintz, A. Mintz, S. Lowenthal, Mrs. R. Leonhardt, A. Reinfeld and Christian Brimms.

The second story of the new building will be given up to a large auditorium, affording one of the most spacious dancing floors in the State. The structure is being erected at an outlay of $50,000.

Too Much Cold Water Kills Boy.

As the result of drinking too much cold water, George Hoffmann, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoffmann, of Allwood, died at his parents' home Wednesday afternoon. To seek relief from the heat, the boy took several long drafts of well water, and as his mother was preparing to take him on a visit to Rutherford Tuesday afternoon, he fell unconscious and sank rapidly.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

Ivanhoe Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and Washington Camp, P. O. S. of A., will attend services in a body in the First Methodist church in this city tomorrow evening, when the pastor, the Rev. Audley J. Bliss, will preach a patriotic sermon.

The Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer, pastor of the First Reformed church in Somerville, with his family, will spend the summer at Harvey Cedars.

Former Congressman Alvah Clark, of Somerville, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Madge Mack, sailed today for Europe.

Miss Ida Fleming, of Somerville, has gone to Burlington, Vt., to spend a portion of the summer vacation with relatives.

Miss Margaret White, of this city, has gone to Ireland to spend some time with her mother.

Miss Nellie Martin, of Princeton, is a guest of Mrs. Isaac Williamson, at Rocky Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gaston, of this city, have gone to Lake Hopatcong.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

John and Mary McFadden were brought up to plead to the indictment charging them with illegal liquor selling in the Middlesex county court yesterday at New Brunswick. They both pleaded not guilty and were held under $600 bonds each for trial about July 15. The evidence against the couple is so ample and convincing that it is believed that the trial will not be a long one. Under the circumstances it is believed that it would have been wiser to have pleaded guilty, and taken a chance on the leniency of the court.

It was discovered yesterday that Henry Wrage's house, next door to I. B. Stites', was also struck by lightning last Sunday morning. One side of the building was perforated with holes burnt by the fluid.

Mr. and Mrs. Strobel, of Phillipsburg, who have been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Cornwell, of New Market Road, will stay over to attend the Charter Day celebration in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thorne, of Grove street and Prospect avenue, are celebrating the third anniversary of their weding today by giving a dinner to several intimate friends.

Frank Turkaye, who sold out his lunch stand at the trolley barn some time ago, moved his family to Easton, Pa., yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

No special events are scheduled for Monday. The local ball team will play at Rahway and from present indications the residents here will have to be satisfied with making all the noise possible, and in the afternoon and evening go to Plainfield to see the Charter Day celebration.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be morning preaching at 10:54; monthly communion will be held at the close of sermon; B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7:30 will be the only evening service.

The county road between Westfield and Fanwood is receiving a heavy coating of oil, for the purpose of laying the dust.

Miss Sarah Hyams, of New York, spent yesterday with her sister, Miss Bella Hyams, who is spending the summer here.

A number from here and Plainfield held a picnic yesterday on the mountains, near the Groszman school.

The home team and Garwood A. C. team are playing on the local grounds this afternoon.

John Lyndall is making extensive improvements about his home on Barth avenue.

The Misses Kyte, of the borough, are spending the summer at Asbury Park.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The South Plainfield ball club will be busy until next Tuesday, having five scheduled games, two of which will be played on the home grounds with the Plainfield A. C. this afternoon.

The work on the new baseball grounds of the Sunday ball club, was completed last night.

Mrs. William Hamilton spent yesterday with Mrs. William Moyles, of Perth Amboy.

Richard Geary, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with relatives here.

Charter Day at Proctor's.

During the Charter Day celebration, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Proctor's theatre will open at 9 o'clock in the morning and the show will run continuously until 11 o'clock at night. There will be all new attractions with the best vaudeville acts, life motion pictures and other features, making it the best show ever. H. S. Sanderson has anticipated the celebration and has made extra efforts to give Plainfielders and their guests the best possible.

NEW PERTH AMBOY PLANT.

Ground Broken for Works that Will Employ 300 Men.

Plans are being prepared and ground has been broken in Perth Amboy for one of the largest wall tile producing plants in this section of the country. The plant will be erected for the Atlantic Tileing Company, and representatives of the firm announce that they will be prepared to compete with any similar enterprise in the East.

A tract 400x200 feet has been secured near the heart of that city, and the buildings so far outlined indicate that at least three hundred men will be employed when the plant is opened. Several tile and ceramic plants are already located there, but the Atlantic firm will confine its output to wall tile.

Seashore Real Estate.

BUNGALOW LIFE AT PORT-AU-PECK ON THE SHREWSBURY—Bungalow colonies, originally a California institution, are springing up all over the east. Many persons of means believe this to be the most healthful manner in which to spend a vacation. It takes them away from the irksome forms of conventionality and puts them in close touch with nature. It enables them to roam through the woods or sail over the sparkling waters, getting fresh air, sunlight and exercise, which has built many a rundown body up to the exacting requirements of our rushing twentieth century pace. The cooling breezes of the Atlantic meet and mingle with the ozone from the woods, forming an atmospheric combination which carries health and vigor through every pair of lungs inhaling it. These are the conditions at Port-au-Peck on the Shrewsbury. In addition you have fishing, hunting, sailing, canoeing, motor boating, golfing, tennis, bathing and all other forms of healthful, vigorous sports in this section, no matter in what direction you turn. The out-of-doors man or woman will find no more attractive place on this continent in which to spend two or three months or week ends in search of recreation and health. For indoor sports there is a large club-house available with bowling alleys and billiard rooms and is especially equipped to give those small affairs in case you should want to. Thirty bungalows now under construction, from $2,000 up, including the plot 50x150 ft.; deep driven artesian well water, absolutely pure. Send for booklet. Yours for the asking. You are invited to visit Port-au-Peck as our guest. For further particulars see Chas. Matt, Port-au-Peck Realty Co., 1328 Broadway, corner 34th street. ## GOLF.

The method of holding qualifying rounds by match play vs. bogie or par instead of by medal play will be tried by several Western clubs this year. The reason for this is that many players object to a system of qualification in which one bad hole is liable to put a top-notch golfer out of the running. Furthermore, should his misplay be a bad one and occur at the first hole, it is apt to rob him of all future interest in the round, so that all he can do is to act as pacemaker and scorer for his companion.

On the other hand, a match against par would give him seventeen holes in which to recoup from the bad play at the first. The method was first suggested by a Toledo man, but thus far it has not caught on at all in the East. There are those who have gone so far as to say that this would be an ideal way of qualifying for the amateur championship, and in case of ties it would be just as easy to play as the present arrangement, for players in a tie could settle their deadlock by playing against par at the hole. Those to beat par or tie, or the lowest scores, could stay in and the others drop out.

This would practically mean an all-match play championship, with, of course, the variation and novelty of the preliminary round against the par. In 1903 the first and only championship of latter years in which the all-match-play style prevailed, was tried over the links of the Nassau Country Club. The United States Golf Association officials, after giving the all-match-play method a fair trial, were unanimous in declaring that it would not do in this country.

Until the recent hot spell the fair green of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club was fine to the eye, but there were more cuppy lies than ordinary, which is the way the new method of the committee has worked out thus far. The policy of the committee—men—A. H. Larkin, Chester Griswold and J. S. Clark of Philadelphia—has been not to use the four ton roller at all. A motor roller has been used on the putting greens and they are in good order. No more traps have been dug since the fall and the new hazards have improved the course, barring a couple over which opinions are divided. There is heavy play, especially on Saturdays.

Charles Thoms, the Shinnecock Hills professional, is playing in good form again for the first time since 1907, when in the fall he established the course record of 66. That winter Thoms passed at Miami and got blood poisoning by puncturing a finger with a fishhook. The hand seemed to be cured and the poison out of his system when Thoms came to Shinnecock Hills last spring for the season, but it broke out again in the leg and he was under the doctor's care thereafter and unable to golf. He was South again last winter, but not as a player. Thoms is able to coach golfers now and he hopes to be on his best game in a few weeks.

A four ball match has been arranged by the Fox Hills Golf Club to be played over its course next Wednesday, July 7, or else July 14, between Isaac Mackie and John Hobens, the latter of Englewood, against Aleck Smith, of Wykagyl, and H. H. Barker, of Garden City. All four were "in the money" at the open championship last week, when their comparative scores by the Taft aggregate count were 595 for Smith and Barker and 598 for Mackie and Hobens for seventy-two holes. This would indicate a close thing between the two teams at match play for thirty-six holes. There will be the annual competition for the W. W. Lowery Independence Day medal on July 4 and three other contests.

KEBER KEPT FROM FUNERAL.

Firebug Who Caused Brother's Death Remains in Cell.

George Keber, the self-confessed firebug, who admitted that he started the fire which destroyed the plant of the Meadow Paper Boxboard Co., in Newark, in which his younger brother, Gottlieb, 15 years old, was burned to death, was confined to his cell in the Third Precinct yesterday and not allowed to attend his brother's funeral.

It was thought at first that Captain Christie, of the Third Precinct, upon the request of the prisoner's mother, would allow him to attend the funeral, but as the hour approached it was thought by the police to be best policy to keep him in his cell during the services. The funeral was held from the Keber home, at 28 Joseph street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Official Charter Day Medals.

The official Charter Day medals, which are on sale at the various stores and are being sold by boys on the streets, was designed by Grove Hinman, of East Seventh street, this city. These medals have found a ready sale and are now being generally worn by the people of Plainfield. In this way the big event has been advertised to a considerable extent.

TUBERCULOSIS PAVILLION

White Plague Hospital to Be Erected Here at Once.

THE PLANS FOR CONSTRUCTION

A Finance Committee is Appointed by the Local Society—Building Will Cost Approximately $1,700.

By the middle of next month the tuberculosis pavillion to be jointly conducted by the local Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis and Muhlenberg hospital, will be ready to receive patients, and the work of its construction on Randolph road, near the hospital, is to be commenced at once. At the meeting of the society held last night at Grace church parish house, final plans for the construction of the pavillion and its maintainance were discussed.

The new pavillion, which will accommodate eight patients, is to cost $1,700. It will front on Randolph road and will be fifty-six feet in length. The main building will be divided into three rooms, a central living room and dormitories on either side. The living room will be entirely walled in, although it will have several large windows, but the dormitories will be open to the air on three sides. Awnings for protection from sun and rain may, however, be lowered to form an outer wall. At the front of the building will be a broad piazza, extending its entire width.

In the rear of the pavillion, and connected with it by a passage-way will be another building, where will be kitchen and bath-rooms. This structure is to be formed of a small building already on the grounds, which will be moved into position. Miss Mamie Leahy, the city tuberculosis nurse, will be in charge of the pavillion, and will be assisted by several of the pupil nurses from the hospital, in the care of the patients. Hospital physicians will be in attendance.

The pavillion is to be constructed from modified plans of various similar pavillions constructed in other cities, and will be up to date in every particular. A. L. C. Marsh is to be the supervising architect, and last night was appointed a member of the building committee, headed by William B. Dutcher. Other members of this committee are Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, Charles Holstein and Dr. B. Van D. Hedges.

Although the society has sufficient funds for the construction of the pavillion, between $1,500 and $2,000 is needed for its maintainance, and E. F. Feickert was last night named to head a finance committee, which comprises Duncan W. Taylor, William S. Tyler, Paul Nolting, Augustus V. Heely, Harry J. Cochran, Howard Tracy, George Holstein and Dr. W. H. Murray. This committee will hold a meeting next week to decide upon ways and means to raise the necessary fund.

BOROUGHITE CAPTAIN OF SYRACUSE 'VARSITY CREW.

W. Claude Fisher, son of H. M. Fisher, of Sycamore avenue, rowed No. 7 in the Syracuse varsity eight boat in the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie yesterday. The boroughite is captain of the Syracuse eight, which finished third in the race, and rowed a plucky race. He is a member of the class of 1909 at Syracuse.

Fisher has rowed for Syracuse each year since he went to college. He was a member of the winning crew in his freshman year and was in the shell when the Syracuse boat won the 'varsity race last year. He is considered one of the best all-around athletes at Syracuse and has played 'varsity football every year he has been in college. He played left end, and was selected by "Tad" Jones, of Yale, for the all-American team.

Big Vaudeville Show.

An immense vaudeville show has been booked for the Plainfield theatre next week. Six big feature acts have been engaged and the show promises to be one of the stellar attractions of the week. As usual all of the acts are well-known, having played more or less in all of the principal vaudeville houses of the country. With so many things going on next week it will be hard to see them all, but don't fail to take in this one.

rick, winner of the time prize in the 25 mile race on Decoration Day; Harry Busch, winner of the 10 mile event on Labor Day; E. S. Burd, George Simonds, A. B. Dunham, Percy Haberle, James Neill, Robert Guttridge, Edward Killson and Clarence Jackson. S. C. Haberle, winner of the championship of Union and Somerset last year, will defend the title again on Wednesday.

The Events.

The first event will be the special one mile race between E. S. Bird and Raymond Mantz of the Plainfield Cycle Club. This race will be paced by Jack Todd, and ought to furnish plenty of excitement. The other events are as follows:

2—Two-mile boys' race.

3—Second heat of the one mile special.

4—First heat one mile Somerset and Union County championship.

5—Second one mile county championship.

6—Third heat one mile county championship.

7—Third heat of the special mile race, if necessary.

8—Final heat one mile county championship.

9—Ten mile Diamond handicap, open.

The races will be started promptly at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the corner of Watchung and Mountain avenues.

Firemen's Parade.

The firemen's parade which will start promptly at 2:30 in the afternoon will have in line at least 600 men exclusive of the exempt organizations. The latter will probably bring the total up to 750. The famous $10,000 silver carriage which for years has been the special pride of the exempts will be in a prominent place in the line together with the gayly bedecked hose wagons of other vets. Following is the line with Marshal Captain William Hand, State fire chiefs and guests in carriages.

Route of Parade.

Following is the line of march: Form on East Front street, right resting on Watchung avenue. Front to Grove, to Lincoln, to Somerset, to Fairview, to Watchung, to Pearl, to Somerset, to Front, to Park avenue, to West Fifth, to Liberty, to West Eighth, to Crescent, to Seventh, to Madison, to Fourth, to Watchung and disband.

Band Concerts.

La Vere's military band will give a concert each night during the festival on West End avenue, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Commencing Monday morning then this city will be one grand series of pageants, music and entertainment all calculated to make even the man with the grouch thankful that he is alive and able to join the happy throngs and help others to forget their troubles, and above all that he lives in or has visited "The City Beautiful."

Merchants' Float.

The Merchants' Association has engaged Suhr's military band to escort their float in Monday's parade, which is a guarantee of good music.

Owing to the critical illness of Alfred Donnelly, who is at the Truell Inn suffering from an attack of typhoid fever, the reviewing stand will be at Ninth street between Arlington avenue and College place.

Mounted Squad.

The following men will compose the mounted police squad: Chief of Police P. S. Kiely and patrolmen Vanderweg, Nolan, Payne, Dobson, Dunlap, McCarthy, Saffron and Anderson. They will meet the invited guests at Hartridge School and escort them to the formation of the parade which they will afterward head.

Fireworks' Display.

The fireworks' display on West End avenue, the borough, in connection with the Charter Day celebration, will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Monday night the display of fireworks from Washington Rock and one or two other points of vantage on the mountain will be the signal to start the big display. Seating accommodations on the grandstand are limited to 800 and tickets can be purchased at the local drug stores. A charge of fifty cents will be made the first night and twenty-five cents for Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

SALVATIONISTS' EDITOR SPEAKS HERE TOMORROW.

Col. William H. Cox, editor-in-chief of the Salvation Army publications in this country, will be the chief speaker at the Salvation Army meeting in the tent on Watchung avenue, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. His subject will be 'Charters, Past and Present." Col. Cox is an able speaker and should attract a large audience.

There will be a Holiness meeting in Salvation Army Hall, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, and the Sunday-school and Bible class will meet at the same place in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The meeting at the tent tonight will include songs and recitations by the children.

Seventh-Day Baptist Services.

The services at the Seventh-Day Baptist church this morning were of a patriotic character in the decorations, the music and hymns, and in the sermon by Pastor Shaw from the text: "At the End of Forty Years." At the close of this service the Lord's Supper was observed and new members received the right-hand-of-fellowship. The Sabbath-school met at 11:45. The thought word for the vesper service at 4 o'clock, this afternoon, will be "Thankfulness," and the music will be provided by Miss Mabel Maxson. Charles F. Neagle will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at 4:45. The consecration and business meeting will be postponed one week.

TO DEDICATE DUTCH REFORMED CHURCH'S NEW EAST END CHAPEL

Dutch Reformed Church.

The new Netherwod Reformed church, now erected at the corner of Midway and Leland avenues, one block east of East Second street, is the result of a decision reached only three months ago. Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity church, perceived both the need and the possibilities of this field, and immediately agitated the question of starting a congregation in that section of the city.

The idea met with unanimous approval and loyal support of the Classis of Newark, of which Trinity church is a member. Generous contributions were forthcoming. The North Refromed church of Newark, pledged $1,000; Clinton avenue, Newark, $500; Trinity Reformed church, of this city, $500; Reformed church of East Orange, $200, and Christ Refromed church, Newark, $100, and many smaller churches in proportion, until a sum was raised sufficiently large to purchase two large lots and the church building. The lots were purchased immediately, and an order placed with the Ducker Company, of New York, for one of their newly designed church buildings, of which they make a specialty.

Rev. Royal A. Stout.

It is original in design, a gem of modern architecture. Though a frame structure, and simple in erection, its stability is impressive, and its interior, with exposed rafters and natural wood finish is most inviting. Though apparently small, the building will comfortably seat 200.

The furnishings, through the timely and appropriate gifts of many friends, are in accord with the most refined taste. The furniture is dark oak, and the floor is to be carpeted in green. While there is no system of lighting as yet, the electric light will be used as soon as a feed wire is brought to the building. Neither pains nor money will be spared to make this a most attractive and appropriate place of worship.

During the summer, the main services will be on Sunday morning. Sunday school will convene at 9:45, and church will begin at 11 and close promptly at 12. All are welcome.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, who is active pastor of the church, is a graduate of Rutger College, and a senior in the Theologocial Seminary at New Brunswick. He has had much experience in establishing churches, having recently worked in similar enterprises in Oklahoma. He is a young man of much promise, and possesses the necessary push and enthusiasm essential for starting new enterprises. He will have charge of the work during the summer months and will continue in the some capacity during the winter. Already he has met with most encouraging success, and the prospects for a most flourishing work are exceedingly bright.

The Classis of Newark has decided to hold the dedication exercises of this chapel on Thursday evening, July 8, at 8 o'clock. The Classis will meet in special session and will attend the exercises in a body, thus having a most representative assemblage of ministers and elders present on this occasion. Ernest Saure, of Linden, N. J., president of the Classis, will preside. Rev. Albert von Schleider, of Montclair Heights, will read the scriptures. The prayer of dedication will be made by Rev. John Y. Broek. The sermon will be preached by Rev. James I. Vance, D. D., of the North Reformed church, Newark. Short addresses of congratulation will be made by Rev. J. Brownlee Voorhees, secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions, by Mrs. J. S. Allen, of the Women's Executive Committee, Elder Joseph S. Mundy, of the Clinton Avenue Rferomed church, Newark.

After the dedication exercises an informal reception and social will be held and refreshments will be served.

BUILDING LOT FREE FOR A GIRL OR BOY

Among the many prizes offered by public spirited citizens to add to the attractions of Charter Day's opening ceremonies is a fine building lot in Piscataway township, near East Bound Brook. The offer is made by William Jeffery, "the bungalow man," of Berkeley Heights and Plainfield. The cash value of the lot is $400.

To get this prize, it is necessary to guess correctly the number carried by Mr. Jeffery in a sealed envelope, it corresponding to a number in another sealed envelope at The Daily Press office. The first boy or girl under eighteen years of age who hands to Mr. Jeffery between 10 o'clock in the morning and 2 in the afternoon, on Monday, a card containing the same number as in the envelope he carries will be the lucky one. The winner must present a letter Mr. Jeffery will hand him at the time to Ralph L. Morrow at The Daily Press office on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Mr. Morrow will give the fortunate guesser a certificate entitling him to receive on presentation to J. Henry Crane, at the latter's law office on Park avenue, a deed to the property. There are no other conditions attached.

"I will give a warranty deed of lot No. fifty-four (54) on map entitled 'Map of Desirable Building Lots, Mountain View Park, Piscataway Township, Middlesex county, New Jersey, 1908.' The said lot is located on Stout avenue, near East Bound Brook, and contains ten thousand square feet, a frontage of fifty feet and a depth of two hundred feet; exclusive of streets. To the person who shall hand me a slip bearing a number corresponding to the number which I will have on a card in my pocket. The slip must contain the name and address of the one presenting it. If married, to give the wife's or husband's name as the case may be, so that the deed can be made out to both of them. The slips must be presented to me in person between the hours of ten o'clock in the afternoon on Monday, July fifth in the city of Plainfield. The cash value of the lot is $400, and there is only a one hundred dollar incumbrance which the deed will recite.

"The deed has already been prepared and left with Lawyer J. Henry Crane, 136 Park avenue, Plainfield, who will be in his office at nine o'clock on Tuesday, July sixth, to deliver the deed to the winner. I shall give the winner an order on Lawyer Crane for the deed."

This offer will hold good for Tuesday and Wednesday provided there is no winner on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Trowbridge, of Newark, is visiting Mrs. Mary Thatcher, of 247 East Second street.

L. T. Hass, of New York, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, of East Second street.

Miss Anna Runyon, of East Sixth street, who was graduated this year from Mt. Holyoke College, has taken a position as teacher at the Hartridge School for next year.

CLERGYMEN'S VACATIONS

As the season for summer vacations aprpoaches ministers of the local churches, who are just as human as the rest of us, are looking forward to their periods of recreation with anticipatory pleasure. Some of them will cross the briny deep and seek the cooling influences of the hills and vales of bonnie Scotland and the sterner atmosphere of Albion's sturdy isle, while others will invade the fastnesses of Canada's forests and the ever inviting beauties of the noble St. Lawrence.

Rev. E. V. Stevenson, of Grace P. E. church will leave next Saturday for Scotland and will be gone for two months. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, expects to leave on the Teutonic of the White Star Line on August 14, and will return about September 11. On the trip he will visit the lakes in and about North Devon and will also take a trip through Scotland stopping at the various places in interest.

Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, will go to Ohio and spend about four weeks among friends. Rev. O. J. Shodo, of Grace M. E. church, will not absent himself for any length of time taking his vacation in days between Sundays, exchanging pulpits with his fellow pastors. Rev. Dr. G. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will leave for Stanhope, near Lake Hopatcong, about August 1, and will be gone a month and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, will go to Mount Desert, Maine, on August 2, returning on September 15.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church is uncertain as to the date of his vacation, but expects to be away for a month from about August 1, and Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Hope chapel, expects to leave during the first week in August for the St. Lawrence River and Canada, and will be away about four weeks. Rev. John Y. Broek will probably leave at the end of July and visit his mother in Grand Rapids, Michigan, being away until the end of August.

Rev. George A. Warner, of Holy Cross church, is now enjoying himself at Shelter Island, and about July 8 will open up the boys' summer camp at Shusan, N. Y., which will remain open during July and August. Others of the ministers have no definite plans, but will take their vacations as the opportunity presents itself.

INDEPENDENCE DAY OBSERVANCES HERE

Aside from the big event on Monday, the Charter Day celebration, there will be numerous other attractions to interest both Plainfielders and the thousands of visitors expected here during the day. There will be several sporting events, including a baseball game in the morning between the Plainfield Baseball Club and the Y. M. C. A. In the afternoon the Plainfields will play the Elizabeth. A. C. Both games will be on Crescent Oval. There will be other baseball contests of minor importance.

The Plainfield Country Club has planned for a big day. There will be golf and tennis throughout the day, concluding with a dinner-dance in the evening. At the Park Golf Club there will also be special events with the usual social features at the clubhouse.

At the Park Club there will be tennis in the afternoon, concluding in the evening with a fine display of fireworks and a dance, according to the annual custom.

The local playhouses have also planned to present attractive programs. At the New Plainfield theatre there will be a fine bill of vaudeville, while at Proctor's theatre vaudeville and life motion pictures will be offered from 9 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night.

The postoffice will observe the regular holiday hours, that is close for the day at 10 o'clock in the morning, with the usual early delivery. The circulating department of the Plainfield Public Library will be closed all day Monday, but the reading room will be opened from 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon with an assistant in charge. There will be countless minor attractions, including many private celebrations throughout city and borough.

—Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Eaton and children, of New York, have taken possession of their bungalow at Watchung, which has just been completed. Dr. Eaton is the pastor of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, and he has planned to live here, except when his duties keep him in New York.

Mrs. C. R. Birch, of Fairview avenue, who was operated upon for appendicitis several weeks ago, is improving slowly.

Dr. Norman H. Prosasco, of this city, was a week-end guest at The Hotel Wolcott, Thirty-first and Fifth avenue, New York.

Mrs. T. A. Neely and daughter, Miss Bertha Neely, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Pittsburg, Pa., are visiting at the home of Herman Berkhan, of Watchung.

PERTH AMBOY AS A PORT.

Large Amount of Business During the Past Year.

The annual report of Dr. Charles W. Naulty, in charge of the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service in Perth Amboy shows an unusually large volume of business transacted through the Port of Perth Amboy in the past year. Forty-six steamships were inspected and passed, twelve steamships were spoken and passed, four sailing vessels were inspected and passed, and crews aggregating 1,230 men were inspected. Six stowaways passed quarantine examination, but were held, to await decision by the Ellis Island inspector of immigration. Ten of the steamships inspected carried Chinese crews. Out of all the steamships inspected it was found necessary to fumigate only four.

The vessels entered at the port during the year hailed from Tampico, Trinidad, Huelva, Spain, Santiago, Gounoco, Cayenne, Havana, German West Africa, Antwerp, England, Canada, Chile and Bermuda.

HIT BY "FOURTH" BULLET.

Mrs. David Witherspoon, of Bayonne, Seriously Wounded.

Mrs. David Witherspoon, a daughter of Samuel Graham, tape sergeant at Bayonne police headquarters, was struck in the breast and seriously wounded yesterday morning by a bullet from a revolver discharged by boys prematurely celebrating the Fourth. She was on her way to her father's home when struck. When she reached the house she fainted.

The home of Mrs. Osbahr, 129 West Twenty-fourth street, was struck several times by bullets yesterday morning fired by boys who were playing with a revolver in a nearby vacant lot.

NEW RECORD FOR BABIES.

Fifteenth in the Applegate Family Born on the Fifteenth.

Freehold, July 3.—The thirteenth baby born on the thirteenth day of the month, and the only girl of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Yates, of Trenton, to which has been given wide publicity, will have to take a back seat.

There has come to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Applegate, near Freehold, a little girl that is the fifteenth baby, and she was born on the fifteenth day of June. She is the seventh girl of the Applegate family.

Elks on a Cruise.

The motorboat Arrow left the Elizabeth Yacht Club dock yesterday with a party of Elks for a three-days' cruise. The party will stop at Red Bank, where it will be entertained by J. I. Monsky, and at Asbury Park. Among those in the party were Joseph Kaufman, Garry Whelan, Dick Stanford, Emil Hirtzel and Edward Strauss. The Arrow will be run by Roger Ossenkopf, captain and engineer.

Order Plans for $500,000 Asylum.

The Hudson County Board of Freeholders at its meeting Thursday afternoon appointed High Roberts, architect, to prepare plans and specifications for a new lunatic asylum. The present building is badly overcrowded. The new structure will cost about $500,000.

Refuse to Give Up Village Offices.

Three newly appointed officials of South Orange approached the village hall Thursday to take their jobs, but found the doors locked against them by the men whose places they expected to take. The courts may have to decide who is who in the controversy.

What Cinched It.

The Young Man—I wish to thank you, sir, for giving me your assistance in persuading your daughter to marry me.

The Old Man—Sir, I was violently opposed to the match.

The Young Man—I know it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN.

Are Appreciated by Plainfield People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Plainfield.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. J. Mottley, 546 West Sixth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble three years ago and I have never had a return of it since. I am glad to confirm the statement I made in favor of this remedy then.

The endorsement to which Mrs. Mottley refers was given on August 26, 1905, and was substantially as follows: "About two months ago I was seized with a severe backache and dull pains in the top and back part of my head. I could not rest at night and had no strength or energy to do my housework. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Randolph's Pharmacy gave me prompt relief and I am convinced that they are a first-class remedy in every respect."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Why Don't You Economize on Coal?

The hungry furnace and the coal man are a hard combination to beat, but the

BOYNTON Square Fire-Pot FURNACE

PATENTED

is the friend of the man who takes care of the fire. The square fire-pot prevents the clogging of clinkers around the sides of the fire. That means all fire—more heat per unit of space. The square pot gives a greater surface for combustion and heat radiation and actually takes less coal for a good fire. And then there's the Boynton special flue for carrying away the dust. You don't sift ashes all over the house when you shake down the BOYNTON.

Talk it over with the BOYNTON dealer in your town.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for Steam or Hot Water. Also Ranges.

"She's Never Home."

The young married woman gave her elaborately done-up hair an extra pat as she paused before the mantel. Then she glanced at her husband, who was reading his paper in the placid comfort of a man who has dined well and thankfully realizes that he is not going to be dragged out to a party that night.

"I think Mary is improving on her desserts, don't you?" asked the young married woman, pausing beside him.

"That pudding was fine," said her husband. "Nothing like a home dinner that is well cooked. I'm sorry for the fellows still living at the club."

"Are you, really, Jack?" said the young married woman, seating herself on his chair. "It's so nice of you to appreciate the fact that I take an interest in my home. I want it to be just as you want it—a place where you take solid comfort. I can't understand some women at all. Gertrude Reamy, for instance. Why, all she thinks of is going somewhere and having a good time! She's never home. Perhaps, though, Dick Reamy is so proud of her being popular that he doesn't care if his home is always topsy-turvy."

"You're just about as popular as Gertrude Reamy!" declared the young married woman's husband. "And you manage to keep house, too!"

"Oh, my, no, Jack!" said the young married woman, shaking her head. "She goes out lots more than I do! And clothes! Well, all I have to say is I don't see how Dick stands it! I should think she would bankrupt him! And she doesn't seem to care how worried he is. I hope I think more of my husband than that!"

"You've a very different disposition," said her husband. "It's funny the kind of girls some men pick out to marry! Gertrude may be pretty, but—well, between you and me, Dick threw himself away!"

"My!" shivered the young married woman. "I hope nobody says that about you! It would make me feel perfectly dreadful! I was over at Gertrude's to-day. All she thinks about is clothes. She had them all out showing me. I said: 'How on earth do you ever wear them out?' She just laughed and said she didn't; that when she was tired of a dress she gave it away. You hardly ever see her in the same dress more than five or six times. She has simply heaps of tailor suits in a year. Goodness—when I get a tailor suit I make it do two seasons!"

"And look exactly as well as Gertrude!" said her husband.

"Oh, I don't know," said the young married woman. "Of course, one can't look always well groomed when one wears a suit to death. But I'm just as happy. I wish you could see the array of evening dresses that girl showed me. It looked like dozens. And such expensive ones! Why, I thought I was doing well to have two this winter."

"I like the pink one on you," said her husband.

"Do you, dear?" asked the young married woman. "It's getting pretty shabby to wear anywhere that counts. I have to mend it whenever I take it out. But nobody would notice. And the green chiffon certainly does look draggled. The Reamys are going to Fredericks' ball, too. Next week, you know. You must have your dress suit pressed—don't forget it. I want my husband to look as handsome as any one there. Yes, you are, too—you know it!

"With all the evening gowns she already has Gertrude told me she is having a new one made for this dance! Think of it! Such extravagance makes me shiver! It's to be the most gorgeous thing of satin and gold lace and she has a wreath of gold roses for her hair. And gold slippers. Nobody else will be seen at that dance but Gertrude when she gets on that array. Well, it doesn't matter to me if I'm not a belle—I'm just as happy so long as you think I'm all right!"

"Gertrude Reamy isn't in it a minute with you!" declared the young married woman's husband. "There'll be no outshining you! Say, why don't you get a new gown for the Fredericks' dance yourself?"

"Why, Jack!" cried the young married woman. "I don't need it! Really! Nobody'll know my pink one is mended! I couldn't think of spending the money when you are so cramped—"

"Nonsense!" insisted the young man firmly. "I'm not quite broke yet! You go down to-morrow and buy you a dress that'll knock the spots off Gertrude's! I mean it!"

"Why, Jack!" cried the young married woman. "How perfectly lovely! I never dreamed of such a thing!"—Chicago Daily News.

The Freedom of the Mind.

It is of consequence that the notion of freedom be within us. It does make a difference. How many pass through life oppressed by the idea that we are slaves, dominated by environment and influences that are fixed, and are no different from the inanimate things about us. It makes a difference if we believe ourselves not slaves to circumstances, not with characters inevitably fixed, and can look into the possibilities of the future and draw strength from them. We may then be masters of life's field.—Prof. George H. Palmer.

The Man From Home

A Novelization of the Play of the Same Name

By BOOTH TARKINGTON and HARRY LEON WILSON

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

"shouldn't in the least if I intended to thank her. It simply shows that she considers herself already one of us. It's perfectly plain—as plain as you are, eh?"

He walked off whistling.

Pike gazed after him with an admirable chuckle. As he turned about he saw Ethel standing at the head of the steps, and there was a sad look upon her face.

"I hear that Lord Hawcastle has left," she said quietly.

"Yes. I saw him go last night," he answered, looking up at her.

"He left very quickly," she said absently.

"He did seem to be forgetting the scenery," the American replied. "Did you see Ivanoff?"

"Yes. I am almost sorry. He made so much of—what I could do."

"There are some good people over here, ain't there?" he ventured, and she looked at him quickly.

"When you are at home again I hope you will remember them," she said.

"I will," he replied.

"And I hope you will forget everything I ever said," she went on.

"Somehow it doesn't seem likely as if I ever would," he returned.

"Oh, yes, you will," she said. "All those unkind things I said to you"—

"Oh, I'll forget those easy," he interrupted quickly, and she went on, almost tearfully:

"And the other things, too, when you're once more among your kind, good home folks—and probably there's one—you'll be so glad to get back to you'll hardly know you've been away—an unworldly girl, one that doesn't need to be cured of—oh, all sorts of follies—a kind girl, one who's been sweet to you. I can see her; she wears white muslin and waits by the gate for you at twilight. Isn't she like that?"

He shook his head.

"No, not like that."

"But there is some one there?" she asked.

He smiled sadly.

"Well, she's only been there in a way. I've had her picture on my desk for a good while. Sometimes when I go home in the evening she kind of seems to be there. I bought a homey old house up on Main street, you know; it's the house you were born in. It's kind of lonesome sometimes, and then I get to thinking she's there, sitting at an old piano that used to be my mother's and singing to me"—

"Singing 'Sweet Genevieve?'" she asked quietly.

"Yes, that's my favorite. But, then, I come to and I find it ain't so. No voice comes to me, and I find there ain't nobody but me"—

"You'll find her some day," she put in quickly. "I shall think of you often with her listening to her voice in the twilight. And I shall be far away, keeping the promise that I have made and living out—my destiny."

"You'll find her some day."

"What destiny?" he asked gravely.

"I am bound to Almeric by his misfortune. He has to bear a name that is disgraced, and it is my duty to help him bear it—to help him make it honorable again, to inspire him in the struggle that lies before him to rise above it by his own efforts, in the product of his work"—

"Work?" asked Pike in astonishment.

"Yes," she went on. "No matter how humbly he begins and no matter what it costs me, I must be with him, helping him. Isn't that true?"

"That's what any good, brave woman would do," he said.

"It must be done. I haven't seen Almeric since last night. I must see him now. I've shirked facing him today. He has always been so light and gay that I dread seeing him bending under this blow. It is my duty to help him bear it."

"Yes, it's your duty all right."

"Then you think I am right. You agree"—

"Yes; I agree," he answered gravely. "I give my consent to your marriage."

"You do!" cried Ethel. And there was a distinct horror in her tone. It was as if the idea shocked her.

"I'll place it in your hands," he answered and then was rudely twirled about by Horace, who had approached.

"I protest against this!" cried the young man. "She does not know what she's doing! I, for one won't have it!"

"Too late!" cried Ethel, with a choking sob. "He's consented!"

And with a bowed head she ran from them into the hotel.

CHAPTER XIX.

IN SUSPENSE.

HORACE turned on Pike. His voice trembled with suppressed rage.

"A fine guardian, you are!" he said witheringly. "You came here to protect her from something you thought was rotten. Now we all know it's rotten you hand her over!"

The lad paused, and then he laughed bitterly.

"By Jove," he exclaimed of a sudden, "I shouldn't be surprised if you consent to the settlement too!"

The lawyer looked at him gravely.

"My son, I shouldn't be surprised if I did."

"By the Lord, but you play a queer game, Mr. Pike."

"Oh, I'm just crossing the Rubicon. Your father used to say: 'If you're going to cross the Rubicon, cross it. Don't wade out to the middle and stand there. You only get h—ll from both banks!'"

"I beg your pardon," said a voice behind them, and they turned to find Lady Creech. She went on, addressing Horace:

"Mr. Granger-Simpson, have you seen my nephew?"

"No. I've rather avoided that, if you don't mind my saying so," Horace replied.

"I'm sorry, Lady Creech," he went on, "but I've had a most awful shaking up, and I'm thinking of going back home with Mr. Pike. I think he's about right in his ideas. You know we abused him, not only for himself, but for his vulgar friend, yet his vulgar friend turned out to be a grand duke, and look at what our friends turned out to be!"

He stepped quickly to the entrance and disappeared into the hotel. Almeric's voice was heard as Lady Creech turned to go, and Pike smiled.

"Here he comes now, bending under the blow," he said.

Almeric appeared with a white bull pup, which he handed over to Mariano with the remark:

"Wash him a bit, old chap; tepid water, you know, and a drop of milk afterward—nothing but milk, you know. Be deuced careful, I say!"

As Mariano disappeared with the dog at arm's length Lady Creech said solemnly:

"Almeric, really there are more important things, you know."

"Rot!" replied the young man. "I almost missed him. But I think I'm to be congratulated, you know. Eh?"

"I think you are, my son," said Pike quietly. "I have given my consent."

"Rippin'!" declared Almeric. And Lady Creech started forward.

"And the settlement?" she asked. Pike nodded.

"The settlement also—everything!"

Ethel came from the side of the terrace, followed by Horace, who seemed to be arguing with her.

"Of course I never worried, you know," said Almeric. "But I fancy it will be a weight off the poor governor's mind. I'll wire him at Naples, for he'll be glad to know about that bally convict chap—the arrangement you made with him, you know."

"Almeric, I think it's noble to be brave in trouble, but"—Ethel began, and Pike smiled behind his hand. Almeric looked at her in astonishment.

"I say, you know, you've really be me!"

"I mean that I admire you for your pluck, for your seeming unconcern under disgrace, but"—

"Disgraced! Why, who's disgraced? Not even the governor, as I see it! You got that chap called off, didn't you?"

"Whom do you mean?" she asked, wonderment in her voice.

"Why, that convict chap. Didn't you send him away? You bought him off so he wouldn't talk, didn't you—gave him money not to bother us?"

She whirled on him like a storm.

"Why, heaven pity you! Do you think that?" she cried.

Almeric was taken aback.

"Oh—what! He wouldn't agree? Oh, I say, that will be a pill for the governor—he'll be worried, you know!"

Ethel went close to him.

"Don't you see that you've got to worry a little about yourself; that you've got to begin to do something worthy that will obliterate this shame? To work—to work!"

"What possible need will there be for that? Why, there's the settlement"—

"Settlement!" cried Ethel, aghast. "You talk of settlement now?"

"Don't you see? The only objection was the settlement, and Mr. Pike's given his consent to that."

"He's consented to that?" she asked.

"With his own lips. Didn't you?" Almeric asked Pike.

"I did," said the lawyer quietly.

She recoiled from the group.

"Yesterday, when I wanted something I thought of value, he refused to let me buy it. Today, when I know that name is less than nothing, he bids me give my fortune for it. What manner of man is this?"

Almeric slapped his leg.

"I don't see that the situation is changed. I don't stick out for the precise amount the governor said. If it ought to be less because of last night—why, we won't haggle over a few thousands."

With a cry of rage and despair Ethel turned on him.

"This is the final word of my humiliation! I felt that you were in shame, and because of that I was ready to keep my word—to stand by you and help you make yourself into a man. Now you ask me to pay you for the privilege. I am released! I am free! I am not that man's property to give away!"

She was playing "Sweet Genevieve!"

Lady Creech turned to Almeric.

"This is beyond everything! Give me your arm, Almeric. We will go."

"Most extraordinary girl. Beyond everything, isn't she?"

Together they went into the hotel, and Pike watched them with somber eyes. Horace quietly slipped off through the arbor. Ethel turned to Pike violently.

"What have you to say to me?" she demanded. "What explanations have you to make?"

"None," he answered.

"Because you don't care what I think of you. You were willing to give me up to these people, to let me romanticize about honor and duty, about my efforts to make that creature a man, and you knew all the time it was only the money they were after!"

"I shouldn't wonder," he replied.

"Didn't you know that would horrify me? Didn't you see that your consenting, leaving me free to give it to them, would release me?"

"I shouldn't be surprised."

"You mean you've been saving me again from myself? You let me make a fool of myself and then show it to me, and after that you'll deny it! It's like you. Do you think any girl could love a man like that? Go back to your dream girl, your lady of the picture!"

"She won't be there," said Daniel disconsolately.

"She might be," Ethel answered in a different tone.

"There ain't any chance of that. The house will be empty still," he said.

"You might be wrong—for once," she replied, and there were tears in her voice—"just for once!"

With a quick look at him she ran from the terrace and into the hotel. A moment later, while he was staring moodily at the pavement, a piano began to tinkle, and a moment later Ethel's voice came to him. His face lit up, and he stepped closer to the window. Then his arms went out.

She was playing "Sweet Genevieve!"

THE END.

FASHIONS FOR WOMEN.

There are some features in the thin wool and worsted summer suits of which no hint was given in the first models shown, say in April, but which now give every assurance that they will not go hopelessly out of fashion for the next few months. That is saying much, when, in fact, every day things fashionable seem more and more to be maters of only a momentary caprice. But the experimental stage, for summer, has been passed as to the coat length of such suits. All are either half or three quarter length. In the matter of skirts, these have somewhat widened, not materially so, but a little, the width being gained by means of small fan-pleat groups let in at intervals around the skirt. The pleats may extend from the knee down or from the waist according to fancy, but fashion arbitrarily demands that they be pressed flat, or stitched so that the loose Moyen-Age effect remains.

There is, too, a distinct putting away of soutache braid in favor of a rather heavy twisted "rat-tail" cord, which outlines large mediaeval ornaments. Disks, medallions and vermicelli braidings are to be passed by, which for a season have been regarded as necessary trimmings. The new forms are lace or embroidery squares, usually of a cutwork character, and of inlet or inset torpedo forms of silk or tapestry effects.—Harper's Bazar.

BOROUGH FATHERS' WORK

The Borough Council authorized Mayor Townsend to appoint three more special marshals at its meeting last night and rejected a resolution, offered by Councilman Waldron, authorizing the purchase of 4,500 cubic yards of dirt for improving West End avenue at its northern extremity. However, an amendment offered by Councilman Woolston was adopted by which approximately one half of the quantity of dirt is to be bought and the present road widened to forty feet.

A resolution introduced by Councilman Nichols was passed, authorizing the Mayor to issue vending badges for the three days of the Charter Day celebration for which no charge is to be made.

A permit was authorized to be issued for R. A. Boyce to build three frame houses on Somerset street between Union and Dupont streets.

The police report showed that during the month of June, forty-seven arrests were made in the borough and fines amounting to $27.25 collected. Councilman Smalley gave it as his opinion that the relation between the number of arrests and the amount of money collected were entirely out of proportion and suggested looking into the matter.

A petition from nine residents of Maple avenue, asking for a sidewalk on 1,300 feet of Greenbrook road was opposed in behalf of the property owners, by Edmund Rushmore, who said the added cost of this work would be a burden to them and just now the improvement is not wanted. The mater was laid over.

The fire and police departments were authorized to buy the winter supply of coal now. The matter of the failure of a printer to deliver the printed copies of the borough laws brought out a few caustic remarks from Mayor Townsend, who declared that the delay was unwarranted and should not be further tolerated. Councilman Van Arsdale thereupon offered a resolution calling for the delivery of the books "not later than July 20, and after that date they may be refused if in the opinion of the Council, such a course be desirable." This resolution was adopted unanimously.

On a resolution presented by Councilman Van Arsdale the following special marshals were appointed: C. R. Guinee, Theodore Smith and G. B. Stewart.

The report of the Fire Committee showed that during June the expenses amounted to $556.99, and for the half year ending June 30 to the total expended was $2,069.17, being very near the amount appropriated for the period.

CHARTER DAY DECORATOR HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

While crossing the beams on the third floor of the Somerset school this morning, Leslie Vivian, of Brooklyn, a decorator in the employ of the Laggren Bros. Co., slipped and fell through the ceiling, landing on his back on the second floor. In the fall Mr. Vivian narrowly missed striking a door that stood ajar. It is the opinion of Mr. Laggren that if Vivian had struck the door he would now be in the hospital or in the hands of the undertaker.

The school building when decorated will be one of the finest examples of the decorators' art and perhaps the best in either the borough or city.

Auto Damaged by Fire.

An automobile owned and driven by Fred Carpenter, of Park avenue, was considerably damaged by fire on Tuesday night. Mr. Carpenter had just left Thompson's garage, where he had had his supply of gasolene replenished, and he was told that his tank was too full. He took a chance, however, and had gone but a short distance, when a good sized blaze developed. With the assistance of a couple of bystanders Mr. Carpenter extinguished the fire but not until the machine was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars.

Horse Ruined His Hat.

The strong wind which was blowing this morning lifted a fine straw hat from a man's head on West Front street, opposite Scheurer's grocery, carried it across the street, where a horse planted his foot in it, leaving nothing but the rim, which encircled the animal's leg. The indignation of the man who lost his mat can well be imagined.

Reception Committee Meeting.

The reception committee appointed by Mayors Fisk and Townsend, for the Charter Day festivities, will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at Charter Day headquarters. Badges will be distributed and arrangements made for the reception of invited guests.

Master Builders to Parade.

All members of the Master Builders' Association are requested to meet in the rear of Charter Day headquarters on Park avenue, Monday morning at 9:15 o'clock sharp, to arrange for taking part in the parade.

BLANK CARTRIDGE MAY RESULT IN TETANUS

The first of the Fourth of July accidents with revolvers and blank cartridges is reported today, for John Patterson, the eight-year-old son of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Patterson, of Netherwood avenue, is threatened with tetanus as the result of a wound in the palm of his left hand. The injury was inflicted by the boy yesterday afternoon, when powder grains from a blank cartridge were embedded in his hand by the accidental discharge of the weapon.

The revolver, a small 22-calibre weapon, was purchased yesterday at a West Fourth street store by the lad, according to his story. The shop-keeper, seen by the police today, said that he has not sold a revolver to a minor, but he had no record of revolvers sold, as required by the city ordinance. The store is situated opposite the Franklin school on West Fourth street.

Dr. M. L. Clawson was summoned to the boy's house by his frightened mother, and the wound was carefully dressed. The hand is badly torn, and grains of powder and wadding were embedded in it. The accident happened when the boy pulled back the hammer to find why the cartridge did not explode, and releasing it, caused the discharge.

WIFE DESERTED HIM, HUBBY GETS DIVORCE

Vice-Chancellor Freredic Stevens, in the Court of Chancery at Newark yesterday, signed an interlocutory decree, divorcing John J. LaMaire, of West Second street, from Grace LaMaire, who now resides at Graceland, near Westfield. The husband, through his counsel, Vincent W. Nash, Jr., applied for a divorce on grounds of desertion, stating that Mrs. LaMaire left him on August 28, 1906, taking with her their two children, Blanche LaMaire, aged 8, and John J. LaMaire, Jr., aged 4. The plaintiff also alleged that Mrs. LaMaire has refused to return to him, but is residing at the home of her mother. The couple were married by Rev. G. W. Gardner, pastor of Grace M. E. church, January 5, 1900, and lived for several years on a farm on Somerset street, near Watchung Lake.

Through her counsel, Addison P. Rosencrans, of Paterson, Mrs. LaMaire alleged that she did not desert her husband, but went to her mother's home to take care of her aged parents. Because it was impossible for her to return to her Plainfield home immediately, she declares that her husband sold the furniture and sent her clothing and personal property to her mother's. By so doing, he himself was responsible for desertion.

Several witnesses were called by both parties, and when the case was presented to the Vice Chancellor, it was decided that Mr. LaMaire had proved that the woman had deserted him, who had done everything in his power to have her return to her Plainfield home. The court then granted the divorce decree, and directed that the husband be given the custody of the two children, as petitioned in his complaint.

PERSONAL.

Miss Agnes Green, of West Third street, is visiting friends at Flushing, L. I.

Mrs. J. McGinnis, of the Woodhull & Martin store, is enjoying a two weeks vacation.

Miss N. Dalson, of New York, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Smith, of Jackson avenue.

Fred Bull, of Troy, N. Y., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Black, of Fairview avenue.

Mrs. Frank Hand, and daughter, Lavina, of Fairview avenue, are spending the summer at Monticello, N. Y.

Miss Florence Whitcombe, of Rochester, N. Y., is the week-end guest of Miss Helen Dorthy, of the New Madison.

THE FOURTH'S ACCIDENTS

Many Suffer Injuries While Celebrating Independence Day.

Charles Brighton, colored, employed as a coachman by Dr. Norman H. Probasco, blew three fingers off his right hand late last night by not dropping a lighted giant cracker in time. The hand was horribly mangled and was given first aid treatment at the emergency hospital at police headquarters. He was later removed to Muhlenberg Hospital for the amputation of the hand, but refused to undergo the operation. He was removed to his home on West Third street, where a physician is in attendance.

Charles Holding, of New York city, was severely burned by the falling sparks from fireworks at the West End exhibition last night. The young man was removed to the home of his cousin, Fred Cramer, and his burns were treated by Dr. Dundon.

Augustus Mason, of Scotch Plains, had three fingers of his right hand horribly lacerated by the premature explosion of a cannon cracker. He was treated at his home and it is believed that the hand may be saved.

John Dawe, of Somerset street, was shot in the left hand while experimenting with a blank cartridge revolver at his home yesterday. He was taken to the emergency hospital, where his injuries were treated. Wadding and powder grains were taken from the hand, and there is danger of testanus.

Patrick Doyle, the nine-year-old son of Michael Doyle, of West Fourth street, lies at Muhlenberg Hospital threatened with tetanic poisoning as the result of wads and powder grains in the palm of his left hand. The boy shot himself with a blank cartridge revolver Sunday afternoon.

By the premature explosion of a giant fire cracker, Louis Malango, 15, of West Third street, blew off two fingers of his left hand yesterday afternoon. He was operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital, where he is still a patient.

Frank Berry, 19, of Scotch Plains, was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon with his left hand lacerated as the result of an accident while setting off fireworks at his home. The first finger was fractured, but the young man's condition is not serious.

Ormond Van Ness, the eleven-year old son of G. B. Van Ness, of Mariners place, was knocked down at his home corner and run over by an automobile, as he got off a main line trolley car with his parents after witnessing the fireworks exhibition last night. The machine, which was owned and driven by L. R. H. Labaw, of Neshanic, was going at a fast clip, and the accident happened as Mr. Labaw, who was accompanied by another man and two women, was attempting to pass the trolley car. Young Van Ness was heavily thrown and the front wheel passed over his thigh.

The injured boy was removed to the emergency hospital at police headquarters in the automobile, and an examination by City Physician C. B. Lufburrow showed that there were no broken bones. Young Van Ness was taken home after first aid treatment, and is suffering from the shock. It is believed that he is internally injured. Mr. Labaw was released on his own recognizance to appear at court next Tuesday morning.

Because he held a giant cracker too long after lighting the fuse, William Breem, of East Second street, had his thumb and fingers badly lacerated when it exploded in his hand late last night. At the emergency hospital, five stitches were taken in the hand by City Physician C. B. Lufburrow, and he was later taken home. Breem had been at the police headquarters first aid dispensary in the afternoon, when he was "fixed up" after a tumble from his bicycle. He was painfully bruised about the body by the fall.

Too close examination of a big fire cracker just as the spark reached the powder, got Morris Sorensen, of Webster place in the emergency hospital last night. Some powder grains blew into his right eye, and the force of the explosion made his nose bleed.

A giant firecracker exploded prematorily in the face of William H. Olmstead, of East Front street, yesterday afternoon. The left eye was badly burned and the left side of the face was lacerated. Mr. Olmstead was treated by Dr. H. V. Hubbard immediately after the accident

MAJOR EDWARDS DEAD

Veteran Theatrical Man Succumbs After a Long Illness.

Major Maze Edwards, whose death occurred at Muhlenberg Hospital, Sunday night, was a familiar figure in this city since 1897, when he removed here from Elizabeth, where he had been manager of the Maze Edwards.

Star theatre. For several years he was identified with the management of Stillman Music Hall, which is now Proctor's theatre. Later he assumed the management of what was known as the Casino, now the Hartridge School auditorium, and until his health failed him he was a private secretary for Mayor C. J. Fisk in this city. This was his last position.

Major Edwards, as he was called by his intimate friends, was a native of London, Eng., and he came to this country when a boy, locating with his parents in Boston. Later he removed to Sacramento, Cal., where he got his financial start and became identified with the theatrical business. During that time he was on the staff of the then Governor of California. He afterwards went to New York, where for a time he was connected with Major Pond's Bureau and various theatrical enterprises, always with success. He continued this business in Chicago, from which city he removed to Elizabeth.

It was while in Chicago that the Major was married a second time. After a successful management of the Star theatre, Elizabeth, Mr. Edwards came to Plainfield in the spring of 1897 and continued to reside here up to the time of his death. He made a host of friends here and was beloved by all.

Two summers ago while staying at Block Island, Mr. Edwards was thrown out of a carriage in which he was riding and severely injured. Several bones were broken. Mrs. Edwards, who accompanied him, was also thrown out, but she recovered more quickly from her injuries. The Major was finally removed to his home here, where for months he was under care of a trained nurse and a physician. Finally he recovered sufficiently to get about with the aid of crutches, but he was always a great sufferer.

Several weeks ago he was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital, where everything possible was done for him.

During his management of Stillman Music Hall success attended his efforts. He was a member of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M., Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M.; Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., and the local lodge of Elks, the members of which have extended every courtesy and consideration to him during his illness.

Major Edwards is survived by a wife, two sons, Roland Edwards and Robert Edwards, the former an actor; a daughter, Miss Edith Edwards, an actress; also three brothers, Col. William Edwards, of San Francisco, Cal.; Samuel Edwards, an actor, of Chicago; Rev. Dr. David J. Edwards, who is now at Block Island, and one sister, who lives on Wolverhampton, Eng.

The funeral services will be held from the home of Frank Rowley on Grove street, Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

BURGLAR SHOT BY COP

Vanderweg's Prisoner Tried to Escape But is in the Hospital.

Knocked down by a heavy blow in the stomach dealt by a burglar he had just captured, Patrolman Vanderweg fired at the fleeing man as he ran along West Front street from Clinton avenue early Sunday morning and brought down his man, shot in the left heel. The burglar is Oscar Schmidt, who says he has no home. He is at Muhlenberg Hospital. His condition is not serious.

Vanderweg heard a noise in the cellar of Elmer R. Mills' store, 1217 West Front street, at about 4 o'clock Sunday morning, and as he went to investigate, Schmidt came up from the cellar with a bundle of eatables and drinkables under his arm. He had several bottles of soda, some jelly and some canned goods, but put up no resistance when arrested. The officer led his prisoner to the patrol box and summoned the patrol wagon. As the two stood there, Schmidt suddenly struck the officer a heavy blow in the stomach and started to run west on Front street. Vanderweg shouted to him to stop, firing a shot in the air. Seeing that the man was getting away, he lowered the revolver and shot him in the foot. Schmidt tumbled in a heap and the officer, who had recovered his breath by that time, was upon him in an instant. He was taken to the office of City Physician C. B. Lufburrow and later removed to Muhlenberg Hospital.

While his wound was being dressed, Schmidt said that he had taken the food because he was almost prostrated by hunger. He was walking along the railroad, he said, and seeing the cellar door open, went in, looking for something to eat. He found some canned tomatoes and ate half a can of them, taking with him soda, jelly and more tomatoes. He says he is a sailor on furlough.

SCOTCH PLAINS MAN DROWNS AT BOYNTON

William Lacey, thirty years old, a boarder at Lee's Hotel, Scotch Plains, was drowned at Boynton Beach Sunday night, while boating. The body has not yet been recovered.

Lacey was well-known in this city, where he has been until recently employed as a carpenter by John Abbott. Nothing can be learned of the details of the drowning, for Lacey went to the beach alone, joining a party of friends there.

The drowned man, who was a native of Boston, was unmarried. He was a member of the Master Builders' Association, and was to have taken part in the parade with that organization yesterday.

MISS VIOLA TINSMAN BECOMES MRS. H. H. PEINS.

Miss Viola M. Tinsman, of Dunellen, and Henry H. Peins, of Menlo Park, were married Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Presbyterian church parsonage, Dunellen, by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Knox. The couple was attended by Miss Ethel Tinsman, sister of the bride, and Richard Behnke, of Garwood. After the ceremony the couple drove to Menlo Park, where a reception was tendered to them. There were about eighty guests, and the bride was presented with a large number of gifts. The couple is now enjoying a two weeks' honeymoon.

The bride was formerly employed as an operator at the local exchange of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, and is very popular. The groom is employed as an engineer at the works of the Garwood Electrical Company, having been promoted rapidly. Mr. and Mrs. Peins will reside at Garwood.

Aaron B Wins Third Race.

In the matinee races held on the Fair Acres track, Westfield, Saturday, A. C. Blair's Aaron B., won the third event, 2:17 pace, purse $150. The time was 2:19½, 2:19¼, 2:19 and 2:20½. B. R. Waldron's Black Duke finished 4, 3 and 5 in the first race, 2:27 pace, purse $150.

GREAT CIVIC PARADE, ATHLETIC CONTESTS AND FIREWORKS.

AUTO PRIZE WINNERS

The Charter Day automobile parade which passed the reviewing stand at 2:30 this afternoon had fifty cars in line, some of which were beautifully decorated and the judges had a hard time discriminating between first and second prize winners. After making a second trip past the stand the prizes were awarded as follows:

First, J. P. Emmons; second, Harry Marshall; third, Lester Harris.

Other special prizes were awarded for originality in design of the decorations the winners of which will be announced tomorrow.

With flags flying, bands playing and amid the thunder of bursting bombs and giant crackers, the great three-day celebration of the city and borough was ushered in accompanied with perfect weather and with unbounded enthusiasm. The combination of Independence Day and Charter Day made a duo that Plainfield may well be proud of.

It is worthy of note that this celebration, like many another event in history, sprang from a small impulse which with the accretions of spontaneous and lively help developed into the gigantic movement which culminated in yesterday's success. For success it was, and a huge one, the credit for which can be attributed to no one single person, but to the body of men who sacrificed so much of their time, and who worked as a unit for the common cause.

Big Crowds Here.

It was estimated that fully ten thousand visitors were in town. They began to arrive as early as 7 o'clock in the morning and kept on coming until well along in the afternoon until at night the streets were one mighty procession of happy, care free people whose sole object was enjoyment. At the fireworks exhibition a crowd that numbered not less than 25,000 gathered to cheer the pictures presented in fire.

The greatest interest of the day centered in the parade of the morning, in which the military, civic and fraternal organizations of the city and borough took part as well as several out-of-town organizations. It is safe to say that the celebration will be remembered as long as any who were alive and able to see yesterday may live.

The Procession.

The procession was headed by the mounted police with Chief Kiely at their head, followed by a battalion of the second regiment, led by Major W. B. Martin. Besides Co. K of this city, Cos. E and I, of Elizabeth, and H., of Somerville, were in line, and they were cheered all along the line for their fine appearance. Following the militia came four commanderies of Knights Templar, including Damascus, of Newark, and Trinity, of this city, and the New Brunswick Commandery. The Allied Trades were all represented and were given mighty cheers for their handsome floats, some of which were awarded prizes.

The Floats.

The marchers as a whole made a fine appearance and at the reviewing stands, as they saluted the two mayors, who stood uncovered, the occupants of the stand broke out into hand clapping, in which the women were conspicuous. The first float to come into view was "Progress," produced by the Board of Trade, which elicited much applause. This float gave four very cogent reasons why home enterprises should be supported. The Daughters of America presented "The Home," in a float that was also awarded a prize. In this float Ethel Van Camp represented "Liberty," while Russell Hann was "Uncle Sam." The float was constructed by George B. Allen and George H. Rockafeller.

"Columbus Discovering America," the float exhibited by the Knights of Columbus, was excellently designed and finely executed, particularly the environment and the figures representing Columbus and his men and the aborigines of the period. The float designed by David Conover entitled "Remember the Maine," which won the first prize in the Fourth of July competition, was a splendidly executed piece of work and earned the applause it received everywhere.

The Bungalow.

Another float which caused much complimentary comment was that exhibited by the Masters Builders' Association. A bungalow, complete in every detail even to the young occupants. This float won the first prize for being the most unique. The Plainfield Business College loomed up as a contender for honors and walked away easily with the first prize for the best decorated float in the parade. Some of the school children entertained the occupants of the stand by singing a consolidation song to the tune of "Reuben I have long been thinkin'." It was very funny and was applauded. The entire parade consumed an hour in passing the stand.

Following were the firms represented by floats: Adelberg's, Greer & Greenwood, Timbo & Co., Watchung Stone Co., L. C. Van Nest, Martin's Express, John Winzenried, Plainfield Department Stores, Nischwitz and Bellis, VanZandt & Voorhees, L. L. Manning and Son, Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co., Blue Front Store, J. B. Guttridge, J. E. Flannery, Roth & Co., A. E. Force & Co., W. F. Crook, Shirley & Johnson, Conover Storage Co., Dayton & Nischwitz, Consumers Coal Co., R. P. Gay, and the following societies: D. of A., Knights of Columbus, Master Builders, Jr. O. U. A. M., Metal Workers, Sheet Iron Workers, Master Painters, Salvation Army and W. C. T. U.

Luncheon for Guests.

After the parade the two Mayors with the invited guests repaired to the Hartridge auditorium where a bountiful lunch was served, to which ample justice was done. Upward of two hundred guests enjoyed the splendid repast. Another lunch was served in the Plainfield theatre for the newspaper men.

Afternoon Exercises.

The afternoon exercises began at two-thirty at the stand on Eighth street, where streams of oratory were loosed before a large and attentive crowd. Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, Samuel S. Swackhamer and James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator." Mr. Randolph's address will be found in another column. Mr. Swackhamer's address will be published tomorrow.

Mr. Martine gave one of his characteristic speeches and aroused the enthusiasm of his hearers by his eloquence and quaint reminiscences.

The singing of the large chorus of school children was appreciated and showed the careful training they had received at the hands of Messrs. T. W. T. Maxwell and J. Edmund Skiff.

After the parade the visiting officials were entertained at luncheon in the auditorium of the Hartridge School, with newspaper editors from all over the State.

Miss Edith Kutz who was the Queen of the Charter Day celebration, looked beautiful in her robes of honor, and the homage paid her all the way along was spontaneous and sincere. Miss Kutz was intimately connected with the work of organization and acted as secretary to the committee for the celebration. The maid of honor was Miss Beulah Rogers, also handsomely attired in stately robes.

No serious accidents occurred to mar the parade, although several minor casualties were reported among the celebrators of Independence Day, mostly caused by the bursting of giant firecrackers.

The decorations along the line of the procession were all beautiful and elicited words of praise from everybody, especially from those from other cities. One of the most interested spectators of the parade was Col. John Dietrich, who had a seat in the reviewing stand. Colonel Dietrich was aroused to the point of applause as the battalion of militia passed in review and gave vent to his patriotic feelings by long pounding with his cane on the floor of the stand. His recollections of the civil war and of the speeches of Abraham Lincoln which he narrated to a few nearby listeners were heard by them with rapt attention. Colonel Dietrich is now 88 years old.

While all the floats in the procession are deserving special mention those mentioned above furnished the best examples of float-building seen in many a day, and their designers and builders won fame for their artistry and originality.

Following are the awards:

For Charter Day celebration floats—First prize, Plainfield and North Plainfield Board of Trade; second, Plainfield Business College; third, North Plainfield High School; fourth Nonpariel Social Club.

For Unique Floats—First prize, Master Builders' Association, which had a completely finished toy bungalow that cost $600 to build; second, Master Tinners' Association; third, Master Painters'; fourth, Tepper Brothers, dry goods merchants.

For Best Decorated Floats—First prize, Plainfield Business College; second, Plainfield and North Plainfield Board of Trade; third, J. B. Guttridge, butcher; fourth, Roth & Co., butchers; fifth, P. E. Neylon, tinsmith.

For Best Fourth of July Floats—First prize, Conover Brothers, movers; float representing a battle ship, with the inscription, "Remember the Maine;" second, Knights of Columbus, float representing the discovery of America; third, Grand Army of the Republic, veterans seated on float draped with national colors; fourth, Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, float representing a school house, with Uncle Sam, the Goddess of Liberty and school children.

The prize awards were as follows: For the best decorated float, silver cup; second, a chair; for the most unique, first, silver cup; second, a tabaret; Fourth of July, first, silver cup; second, a dozen photographs; Charter Day, first, bronze figure; second, upmbrella stand.

Fractious Horses Fall.

Grand Marshal William Hand got a bad fall at Park and North avenues as the big parade turned yesterday morning. The horse he was riding slipped and fell on the oily brick pavement at the corner, and Captain Hand was thrown heavily. He remounted and continued at the head of the line. Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy got a bad fall when his horse fell at Front street and Park avenue. The officer grabbed the horse as it bolted and prevented it from rushing into a dense crowd of spectators which thronged the corner. McCarthy got another mount from a near-by livery stable and continued with the mounted squad.

ATHLETIC CONTESTS.

Events in the athletic contests yesterday afternoon were witnessed by large crowds at the Crescent avenue church, and many were closely contested. Athletes from the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. were the only out-of-town contestants, and made a first class showing, taking first and third in the mile relay, and second and third in the 220-yard dash, the only events entered.

Feature events were the obstacle race, won by Harry Rothberg, in which the contestants ran part way backwards and climbed through barrels, and the two-man carrying race, won by Chauncey Murphey, with Ralph Schoonmaker "up." The summaries:

60-yard dash, for boys. Won by Harry Zook; second, Arthur VanZandt; third, C. Blair. Time, 7 3-5 seconds.

100-yard dash. Won by Ralph Schoonmaker; second, George Linke; third Clarence Lawrence. Time 11 seconds.

220-yard dash. Won by H. W. Winckler; second, A. V. Carkhuff, of Elizabeth; third, Robert Loeser, of Elizabeth. Time 24 3-5 seconds.

Mile run. Won by C. Stryker Hoagland; second, J. H. Smith; third, F. C. Denton. Time, five minutes, 10 1-5 seconds.

Two-man carrying race. Won by Chauncey Murphey, and Ralph Schoonmaker; second, C. Lawrence and L. Dallas; third, Harry Rothberg and John Fritts. Time, 23 seconds.

THE OBSTACLE RACE.

Sports' Officials.

Through a misunderstanding on the part of the runners, the Sunday school relay race, in which teams from the Baptist and Presbyterian Sunday schools were entered, was run wrong, and will be re-run at some future time. The officials: Mayor C. J. Fisk, honorary referee; Mayor Samuel Townsend, honorary director of games; G. L. Listman, referee and starter; A. L. Conant, director of games; W. E. Cann, of Elizabeth, John H. Doane and Harry C. Runyon, judges of the finish; Philip Jahn and G. C. M. Smith, timers; Elmer Cutting, anouncer.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Scotch Plains ball team won out in a hotly contested game with the Garwood A. C. team at the Plains Saturday afternoon. Miller, a local man, was in the box for the home team, and in the first inning put two men across the rubber. After this he tightened up and pitched good ball until the seventh inning, when Manager Frentz scented trouble and sent Montross, who was being saved for Sunday and Monday's game, to the firing line. Jimmy stopped what looked like a balling rally, and the home team won out by the score of 5 to 4. Following is the lineup and score by innings:

Garwood A. C.—Colwell, cf; Davis, lf; Brown, 1b; Hausgen, 2b; Oliver, c; Kirm, 3b; Becker, ss; Brewer, p; Farrell, rf. Scotch Plains—Baldwin, cf; H. Albert, c; J. Albert, 3b; Allen, 1b; Reick, lf; Flannery, 2b; Dodge, ss; Eller, rf; Miller, p; Montross, p.

The Scotch Plains team added another win to its list yetserday afternoon, when it defeated Rahway at Rahway, by a score of 13 to 2. The game was a pretty contest up to the ninth inning, the Plains team holding the game 3-2. In the ninth they got to Clark and hit him all over the field, scoring ten runs before the fusilade was over. Montross was in fine form, notwithstanding his having pitched Saturday and Sunday, thirteen of the Rahwaylans fanned the air in their endeavors to connect with the ball.

"The Glorious Fourth" passed off without any serious mishaps, although a number of the younger generation are suffering from burned fingers, the result of holding on to firecrackers too long. On Sunday night the boys were out in force and kept the residents awake after midnight. Entrance was gained to the Episcopal church as well as the school building and bells were rung.

The local fans were agreeably surprised Saturday afternoon to find "Lefty" Davis, of the old local team, covering left field for the Garwood A. C. team. Lefty received the glad hand and put up a great game against his old friends, both in the field and at the bat.

A number of frfiends went to Hoboken Thursday morning with Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer, to bid them bon voyage on their trip to Europe.

The Methodist church baseball team won its first game yesterday morning, defeating the Cranford team by 26 to 17.

MR. RANDOLPH'S SPEECH

Former Mayor's Reminiscences at the Open Air Meeting.

AN ENTERTAINING DISCOURSE.

Tells of Early Settlers and of Familiar Persons and Scenes In Days of Yore.

Following is the speech delivered by former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, formerly president of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York, at the Charter Day open-air meeting at City Park yesterday afternoon:

The excuse for inviting me to deliver this Charter Day address appears to rest chiefly on the two facts that I am one of the oldest citizens of Plainfield, and am the oldest of those now living who have here filled the office of Mayor. And yet in a recent review and explanation of current conditions, His Honor, the Mayor, has ifidulged in interesting reminiscences, seeming to be almost personal to himself, and reaching back to the year 1735, and to the one house then here in evidence. It might be immodest and inaccurate for me to claim that I was that house; but I might truthfully assert that in the loins of my ancestors I was then, and even earlier, "here or hereabouts." If being an older Jerseyman enables one to perceive more clearly the true ground for Jersey pride, as well as the scope of actual current civic requirements, then I might in such respects claim precedence over His Honor—though in some respects he is doubtless an older man than I. It is indeed with me not quite a parallel case to that of the venerable colored body-servant of George Washington, who, having claimed to know the Father of his Country from his childhood up, was catechised as to the truth of the story that George Washington once took a hack at a cherry tree. The ancient body-servant promptly answered: "Yis, sir, dat story was true. I know it, for I druv de hack." But it may justly be claimed that what the Fitz-Randolphs and the Mannings, and the Laings did not know about the early days of central New Jersey was not worth knowing. However, I am willing to admit that my own recollection is better concerning the events of the last sixty-five years than it is of any earlier period.

About sixty-five years ago I began to attend school in Plainfield. I was a long, lean lad, studious but wilful; "pretty sure to grow up" (as my dear old nurse would have it) "to be something either very good or very bad." Just here, if I may, I will correct a statement, in what my good wife terms "an obituary notice," recently published here, in which it was mentioned that I obtained my education in the public schools of Plainfield. That well-meant statement would be strictly true but for the fact that when I was a school boy in this town, it had no public schools, but it had a boys' school or academy—the Manriac School—the match for which was surely never known outside of Eton or Rugby. All honor to its chief! Peace to his ashes, and eternal veneration to his memory. In those early Plainfield days I joined the church, being baptized one winter day in Green brook, almost behind the church which my ancestors had helped to organize. I think I was much nearer being good in those years than I have ever been since; but there is no telling what degree of saintship I might have attained if I had not been transplanted for a season to Newark, whose soil I found unfavorable to the growth of holiness. Somehow, in such matters, since my return to Plainfield, I have never been able to "catch up."

But if you must listen to reminiscences, it is to you more interesting to hear about the Plainfield of the last sixty years, and particularly of the last forty years since Plainfield became a city, than to learn of your humble servant's childhood.

My earlier recollection of this settlement goes back to the time when its population scarcely exceeded a single thousand. Plainfield had one long street, namely, Main street—or Front street—which was the old highway of Revolutionary days, and was the stage road between New York and Philadelphia, before railways came into use. It had also a few bits of streets—cross roads and streets parallel—but these were not important, and a few shops, located chiefly between Cherry street (now Park avenue) and Laing's hotel, then standing on the place now occupied by the Babcock building. I remember well the day that "Fashion" made the run against time from Elizabethtown to Bound Brook, 20 miles in a hour, and rested a moment at Laing's hotel.

North Plainfield did not then exist as such, but Uncle Benny Stelle's farm house was there (as it still is) and held at least one occupant attractive to Plainfield's ambitious and hopeful boys. A very few fine colonial mansions were then or a little later built further east—one by Dr. Craig on the north side of the brook, and one by Cornelius Boice next to the First Presbyterian church.

The social element was largely religious. It was mainly Baptist, Seventh Day Baptist, and (as the Baptist brethren called their Presbyterian neighbors) "Pedo-Baptist." There were some nice, kind, drab-hued old Quakers, or Friends, who were regarded as paragons of truth and honesty. Methodists were beginning to work in the neighborhood. Catholics and Episcopalians had been seen as segregated individuals, but were as "sheep without a shepherd." Isarelites had been read of somewhere in the Bible. Social functions were (largely) receptions, "giving visits," "quarterly meetings" days, and the half hour in the church porch after Sunday morning worship.

My grandfather had bought for our family the house now occupied by our excellent builder, Mr. John Abbott, at the corner of Front and New streets. Its previous owner and architect was good Dominie Hill, whose honored and distinguished son is now United States Ambassador to the Court of His Majesty, the Emperor of Germany. Sometimes I heard Dominie Hill preach, and everybody who knew him well loved him. Not less respected was Rev. Simeon J. Drake, long time our minister at the old First Baptist church. I reverenced the man and his character. I reverenced his work and his salary. He received $700 a year, and worthily earned it, and entertained hospitably. I remember well that such an income seemed to me stupendous. Money was then worth at least 7 per cent. interest on bond and mortgage and to my young, ambitious mind, it seemed that, if I could amass $10,000, and put it out at interest, and receive annually the large sum which then constituted our minister's salary, I should be everlastingly beyond want or anxiety.

Before I had attained my tenth birthday, the Elizabethtown and Somerville Railway was running two trains a day each way. The railways in those days were laid on the strap rail—"snake head"—having an unpleasant predilection for sudden protrusion through the cars of a moving train. When the big station bell rang, the few people of leisure, and those who lived near the station, turned out "to see the cars come in."

We had a happy rural life of it—and no automobiles. Indeed, in those early days slow oxen seemed almost as much valued as horses in the way of service-beasts. Well do I remember one giant, lanky mountaineer, from Mt. Bethel way, who drove regularly (through what is now Somerset street) into town an ox-team, attached to a big hay-rack, or farm wagon. The passage along Stony brook, near the Watchung fall, then then even narrower than it has been in later years. One day, on his homeward way, he saw, just beyond the gorge, a man coming down toward him, widly looking from side to side, and, incidentally, flourishing a nose of immense size. "Hello, stranger," shouted our giant, "won't you turn round and hang your nose over the stream till I get my oxen by?"

I recall the stir made in town by the breaking out of the Mexican war, and the fact that a certain few of our Plainfield young men, who had previously been somewhat noted for an amiable fondness for Apple Jack, suddenly became patriotic, and buckled on their uniforms to join Generals Scott and Taylor beyond the Rio Grande.

And now a quarter of a century had passed since that earliest point of time referred to in my own recollections. Our people had fought through a great war in the cause of Freedom and Union, and Plainfield had borne her share of all burdens. From a village of one thousand she had grown into a population of five thousand, and she wanted to have a charter and to be a city.

Some folks pursue their fate, and some are of fate pursued. An old countrywoman once remarked that two things were past her understanding. She "didn't understand why people would go to war and kill one another, when if they'd only let people alone they would die of themselves; and she didn't understand why the boys pestered the girls. If they'd only let them alone, the girls would pester the boys." Some parties seek charters, and some charters run after the parties. I have heard of a water company pursued and overcome by a mere ghost of a charter, having no material existence itself, but just simply lying in wait for a corporation to which it might fasten itself; and at last it found its victim. It was not quite so with Plainfield, however. Plainfield wanted a charter. A fond mother once impatiently called out to a nurse, "Why don't you stop that child's crying and give it what it wants?" The nurse replied, "He's got it, mum. It's a bee." The loudest and most painful cry had resulted from having its want gratified. With New Jersey it was the day of Special Legislation, and Plainfield got the Special Charter it wanted. Well, it might have been a worse one, and it did serve some useful purposes, and we are today celebrating its Fortieth Anniversary.

The jackknife was said to be the same knife, even though its lost blade, and spring, and handle had been replaced by new parts, but the conundrum has never been satisfactorily answered—"In case someone should find the lost blade, and spring and handle, and reassemble them, then what jackknife would that be?" A good deal of our charter has been practically wiped out, or altered over, by cunning general legislation, obtained by faithful representatives of the people at Trenton when nobody was looking. All sorts of extra taxes have been authorized, and public officials (under some of this brilliant legislation) can practically hold their offices eternally, unless convicted of theft, treason, conspiracy and murder, or their equivalents.

But there are at least two dear, sacred relics unremoved from our original charter—the liquor license power of Council, and the limitation of the Mayor's salary!

An inquisitive man on a railway train had, by persistent questioning extracted from his modest lady seatmate, the information that she was a widow, that her husband had been a sea captain, drowned at sea, that he had been a religious man, and that his wordly effects had been gathered out of the wreck. After a brief pause in his series of tormenting questions, the inquisitor turned anew to his victim, and asked—"Don't you think, madam, that you'd orter be very thankful that your husband was a pious man, and saved his chist?"

So, as to our precious charter, something has been saved—something worth having and worth celebrating, and we have, as a city, undoubtedly gone on and prospered. During the dozen years which had preceded the period of my own mayoralty, our population had well nigh doubled; and in the quarter of a century, or so, which has elapsed since I stepped out, we have about doubled in numbers. Our rate of progress in population has been pretty constantly, about three or four hundred a year for the last sixty years. Meantime, various industries have invaded the earlier Arcadian quiet of our town. One industry produces all sorts of tools—except political tools. Another produces searchlights to illuminate our tax problems; and a third sort constructs printing presses, whose leaves "are for the healing of the nations." But largely, still, our citizens are men who make money elsewhere and spend it here. They are home-builders and home-lovers.

Today let us rejoice and creak not; and this suggests that we should be sorry to see at any time in our midst a "Croker" of any sort, little or big, fat or lean, "Richard" or "John." The last time I saw Richard Croker it was in Egypt. The last I heard of him at close range he was disputing a doctor's bill on a Nile boat. The merits of the case I never knew, and I was not invited to his judicial dinner in New York. If we can only keep rid of all sorts of "Crokers" and Hammanies, small and great, we shall be all the happier and richer.

During all these chartered years we have been neighbored by an elder sister—one Elizabeth. I do not say that she is to us a frightful warning. That might be unneighborly. But, "to draw it mild," we might find reflection on her errors profitable, however, she may have been drawn into them. Perhaps it was a case of natural perversity.

I reverence my ancestors, but I am obliged to admit that two of them (and also two ancestors of my wife) were in the band of eighty orignal settlers of Elizabethtown, and it has come to pass that Elizabeth has been more or less unsettled ever since. She is the home of various corporations, and of our permanent Congressman, and all of the mosquitoes of Union county, and of other great Singers; and is the temporary residence from time to time of the disorderly folk disciplined by our own excellent Cadi. Dear old Elizabeth, how we love her! And when we wish to "court" her—why, there's the Court House!

In these days when divorces are fashionable, did it ever occur to the inhabitants of Plainfield that we might worry along without Elizabeth? How would it operate to have a court house of our own? The Westfield Hill is a sort of natural barrier. The Valley of Green brook is a valley happier and more beautiful than that of Dr. Johnson's Rasselas. From the foot of the Westfield Hill to the foot of Washington Rock, and from the southeastern slope of Netherwood to the Watchung Hills, is an ideal spot for a prosperous city and center of county interests; and to this Plainfield will slowly and surely grow, if we can keep from blundering. Debt and taxes may kill us, or indefinitely retard us. Let us hope they wont.

And now one serious word in closing. One greater prosperity and greater Plainfield should be built and kept along the lines of our wise and happy and rural forefathers. Let us have a city of trees, and not of dry bricks only; a city of homes, rather than a pandemonium of hammers; a city of lawns and gardens rather than one of arid spaces and curb stones; a city of peace and pure air and pure water, rather than a festering place of riot and disease. Many of uss have come to Plainfield from the metropolis to give our families a chance to live. We hate crowding. We don't want to be a metropolis. We shouldn't ape the airs nor the institutions, nor the expenses of a metropolis. We have a good natural drainage; a good, sweet country air; many good people, good schools and churches, good old trees, and good old customs. Value these! Enjoy them and be blest! We can be very comfortable without the luxuries of a Bowery or First Avenue, and without the incubus of a metropolitan administration. The longer we can keep Plainfield simple, pure, fresh, green and homelike, the better men we shall be, and the nearer to Heaven will be our daily family life.

HOLD FIRST SERVICE AT EAST END CHURCH

The first session of the Sunday-school and the first preaching service were held at the Netherwood Reformed church Sunday morning. There were about thirty-five in attendance at the Sunday-school session and about fifty attended the preaching service. All expressed their pleasure over the new edifice and the fact that an opportunity has been offered to give the people of that section of the East End a house of worship. The new church building, while not entirely completed, permitted the holding of the services without any inconvenience.

Rev. Royal Stout, the pastor, was in charge of the Sunday-school and afterward preached an interesting sermon on the topic, "Our Church." All in attendance joined heartily in the services and afterward remained to become better acquainted and assure Mr. Stout of their intention to do all in their power toward making the new church a success. The new edifice will be dedicated Thursday night with appropriate services.

CONKLING IS GIVEN ONE YEAR SENTENCE

John T. Conkling, the former assistant mailing clerk at the local postoffice, who was arrested and indicted on a charge of stealing money from the mails, was today arraigned at Trenton and sentenced to one year in the Essex county penitentiary at Caldwell, where former Letter-carrier Daniel McNamara is now serving nine minths for opening and destroying mail.

Conkling confessed, after his arrest, to having taken and opening special delivery letters, although it is not known just how much he got. He was caught on two special "test" letters dropped at the Plainfield postoffice. He admitted having been engaged in the practise for several months. The fact that Conkling took money practically made it impossible for him to get less than one year.

MANY NEW MEMBERS AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

These new members were received at the mid-summer communion service at Grace M. E. church on Sunday: By letter from other churches —Mrs. Daisy Gould, of Quarkertown; Alfred D. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, of Monroe avenue; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nichols, of Morrisville, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Dalley, Miss Edith H. Dalley, of Whitehouse. From probation to full membership — James C. Tunison, Miss Erma Yahrman, Raymond Force, Miss Clara M. Bodenheimer, Miss Elva Lippincott, Miss Edith M. Lippincott, Miss Evelyn Nelson, Miss Helen Nelson, Leroy A. Taynor, Miss Eva M. Taynor, Miss Bessie M. Taynor, Hamilton Wright Shroop, Miss Elma Coons. Class received into probationary membership — Ernest C. Stohl, Miss Lillie May Stohl, Leroy Force, James S. Tunison, Roswell Bohlen, Carroll Hughes, Miss Lucy Hughes, Britton H. Shepherd.

In the evening the choir under the direction of Miss Alice Carroll rendered a service of song. Miss Winifred Carroll and E. D. Young, of Trinity Reformed church choir, assisted. The choir will render special music through July, being assisted by outside talent.

PLENTY OF ICE NOW AT 45 CENTS PER HUNDRED.

Since the recently organized Crystal Ice and Coal Company's agents began selling ice at retail at forty-five cents a hundred, the agents of the company, composed of dealers who have been in the business here for many years, have made a reduction in their price. Since the season opened they have been charging sixty cents a hundred, but now one has announced to his customers that in the future his price will be fifty cents while another has cut his terms down to forty-five cents.

Only One Arrest in the Borough.

Oliver Peale, a painter, of Leland avenue, was arrested by Officer Pope of the North Plainfield police yesterday and lodged in the borough jail charged with disorderly conduct for which he was fined two dollars by Borough Recorder Dolliver this morning. This was the only arrest made in the borough yesterday.

THREE CHURCHES UNITE

Union Services of Three Congregations at the First M. E. Church.

The First M. E. church was filled Sunday evening at the union services in which the First Baptist, First Presbyterian and Trinity Reformed congregations joined the Methodists. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and Rev. A. C. Anderson joined the speaker, Rev. John Y. Broek, on the platform. Dr. Chambliss offered the prayer and pronounced the benediction.

Rev. Mr. Broek delivered a patriotic address on "Our Fourth of July Celebration, and Our Own City," taking for his text Proverbs 14:34; "Righteousness exalteth a Nation," and said in part: "While we are to discuss some subject of interest to our country let us plan something of importance for the future.

"If our ancestors were here they would rejoice in our country as it is today; they would rejoice in the respect that is shown our flag by the great nations of the world; they would rejoice that our government is getting better every day, and they would rejoice in the way we are to celebrate the Fourth of July."

Mr. Broek then read the following abstract from a letter by John Adams addressed to Mrs. Adams: "The second of July, (1776), will be the most memorable epoch in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, bonfires and illuminations from one end of this country to the other, from this time forward forever. You will think me transported with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil and blood and treasure it will cost to maintain this Declaration and these States, yet through all this gloom I can see the rays of ravishing light and glory."

"What would John Adams say if he could behold our nation today? The two events we are to celebrate here, our national independence and the granting of a charter to our city lead me to think it very appropriate to speak of our nation and our city. From the thirteen stars representing the colonies our flag is now emblazoned by forty-seven stars; there is no North, no South, no East, no West. We are all united in one grand land of liberty."

Mr. Broek then referred to our enormous production, wide area and growth as a nation during the past 133 years and said that neither the army, our wealth, our education nor our laws had made our nation great, but that "Righteousness exalteth a nation," and the lesson to be learned from Independence Day is that we must live lives of righteousness. "Our forefathers," he said, were not canonized saints, but they left us a glorious legacy. God's hand was in the throwing off of England's yoke in the coming of Lafayette and in the demolition of slavery."

"The cardinal danger to the country is in the lax observance of the Sabbath. France has become decadent and is rapidly losing her place as a nation of the first rank, because she is losing sight of the Sabbath. It would be a grand thing if we could stop all secular work on that day."

Referring to the city, Mr. Broek said that all the foregoing may be applied to it and the city must advance along the same lines as the nation.

"We ought to thank God," he said, "that we live in Plainfield. It is constantly progressing; it is clean, decent and inviting and with all its business progress the natural beauty of the city has been preserved. We have the best public schools in the State and are a church-going people, and not afraid of the old-fashioned religion. Every person in the city ought to thank God that he lives in the truly garden spot of New Jersey. Our city must advance along the lines of righteousness, for God will honor the city which honors Him, as He will honor the nation which honors Him."

The next union service will be held next Sunday evening in Trinity Reformed church and Rev. Dr. Chambliss will be the speaker.

Mr. Tallamy sang "Abide with Me," as an offertory solo.

Pictures of Celebrated Fights.

The special attraction at the New Plainfield theatre every afternoon and night this week will be a reproduction in moving pictures of the Burns-Johnson fourteen-round fight at Sydney, Australia, and in addition the first round of the Jeffrey-Sharkey fight at Coney Island. This will give patrons an opportunity to see the relative merits of a black and white man. This is clean and entertaining show and the women are especially invited.

Warren A. C. Defeats Trinity.

The Warren A. C., formerly the Warren chapel baseball team, defeated the Trinity A. C. Saturday afternoon, the score being 13 to 5. The batery for Warren A. C. was Montross, Schuck and Woodruff and Dresselt. Montross pitched five innings and was invincible. Schuck finished the game and did well. Trinity's battery was Hodge and Doeringer, and they worked well.

Mrs. Elvira Taylor.

Mrs. Elvira Holder Taylor, of East Fifth street, died Sunday evening at her home after a serious illness of four months. She had been in the New York Hospital for several months and was recently brought home. She was 39 years old and is survived by a husband, John Taytor, and two children, a daughter, Ruby, and an infant son. The funeral will be private.

Men's Oxfords at VanArsdale's

The ordinary man, when he buys an oxford, wants to feel that the style is right and that the Shoe is made and finished like the footwear he'll see his New York friends wearing. Most men know Van-Arsdale's Oxfords are correct to the minute, for every change the Metropolitan custom boot makers inaugurate in last or material or finish, is quickly adopted here. This is probably one great factor in the steady growth of Van-Arsdale's Shoe business.

There is no Better Store News

for home furnishers than ours. The news of this home decorative store justly demands your attention. Almost everything that constitutes desirable home furnishings is here in abundance, variety, goodness and low price. And when you consider the vast amount of valuable service that this store renders the public; the high class of goods it handles; the splendid advantages it maintains over other stores; the resourses that enables it to buy largely, insuring a minimum first cost on all goods—is it any wonder that its advertising news is eagerly looked for?

And is there any wonder that we assert that "There's no Better Store News" for home furnishers?

Highland Park Residents Coming.

"Highland Park Joins with Plainfield in Celebrating Charter Day," will be the legend on a badge to be placed on three special trolleys which will bring residents of Highland Park, a suburb of New Brunswick, to Plainfield tomorrow night. Among those in the party will be the Mayor and other officials of the borough, who will arrive here at 9 o'clock in large open cars, which will be beautifully decorated with flags and bunting and illuminated with colored electric lights and designs. After riding through the city they will adjourn to Tier's lake house for refreshments and join in the festivities.

A "Rat" Saved Her.

Mrs. Herman Long, of Elizabeth, has to thank the wearing of a "rat" for her perservation from injury when a window screen fell from the apartments of Lafayette Rosentiehl, the Somerset street barber, and struck her on the head. While Mrs. Long escaped injury she was considerably shaken up by the accident and was taken care of by Mr. Rosenstiehl, who is a relative. No other accidents were recorded in the borough.

Co. K Holds an Election.

Immediately after the parade yesterday, the members of Co. K met at the armory and elected Corporal Roy DeCamp a sergeant, and Privates Archibald Niles and Samuel Rothberg were elected corporals.

Mayor Fisk Passes Judgement on the Disorderly Ones.

A big batch of "fire-water" and fireworks celebrators ended the Glorious Fourth in police court cells, and were given a hearing before Mayor C. J. Fisk at the city court this morning.

William Backer, who is the village cut-up of Gladstone, and runs an automobile for a Gladstone man when not engaged in playing jokes on the town folks, played a "joke" on a cane vendor in the West End last night, when he grabbed his stock of trade and disappeared in the crowd. The vendor's cries of "Stop thief" brought about his arrest by Patrolman McCarthy, and at his hearing today Mayor Fisk gave him thirty days in the county jail to think over some new jokes.

John Canary refused to keep away from a West Front street saloon when ejected by the bar-tender last night, and was arrested. He was given his choice of $10 or 20 days today, and took the days.

Sentence was suspended in the case of Alexander Frame, who loaded up with liquor, and developed an objectionable linger-longer-langor that brought about his arrest.

James Caulifield, Thomas Caulifield and Charles Sprague were arrested after a mix-up at an East Second street saloon yesterday afternoon, when lots of blows and cuss-words were exchanged. The combatants were rounded up in the patrol wagon, but as the witnesses were not at court today, Mayor Fisk adjourned the case until Thursday morning.

When Dominick McVerra, a P. S. C. employe, tried to set off three ten-inch cannon crackers in a bunch on North avenue late last night, Patrolman Nolan interfered "pro bono publico." Dominick got all ruffled up and started some profane air waves, referring directly to the officer. Mayor Fisk made it $5 or 10 days at court this morning and the Italian paid.

John Schwartz, who lives in Brooklyn, was picked up yesterday for peddling without a license. He sold souvenir programs with tin whistles as trading stamps, and said he knew he ought to have a license, but "took a chance." The Mayor made him pay the price of a three-day license, and he left town $6 poorer.

George Johnson and James Smiley, two colored Filmore avenue residents, with their two wives, who are sisters, were arrested at Johnson's home late last night, when there was a lively scrap over the two wives. James, according to the other three, came over to George's home and smashed up about everything breakable. Testimony showed that there was jealousy over the women, and James was in bad with George on that account. "Is Mrs. Johnson your affinity?" asked Mayor Fisk of James. "It seems so; they're all rapping against me," said the house-wrecker. So the Mayor made it $5 or 10 days for each man. Johnson paid, but Smiley went back to the cell.

William Switka, who is seventeen years old, was arrested in the West End yesterday afternoon for peddling with a veteran's license. He said his employer, a New Brunswick man, gave it to him. He was fined $10.

Miss Young Had Relatives Here.

Miss Gladys R. Young, daughter of Mr. George Wright Young, of Highwood, who was instantly killed by running over an embankment on the Pratt estate at Glen Cove, L. I., Sunday, while in an automobile, was a cousin to Mrs. Joseph Sattels, of this city. She was 22 years old and a graduate of the Dwight School of Englewood. A sister married Captain Tiemann N. Horn, who is now stationed at Fort Myer, Va., and who himself was born and lived in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Sattels attended the funeral services held this afternoon at Highwood.

Hacquer Goes to Phila.

Archibald Hacquer, who has been on the staff of the Courier-News for the past eight years, left Sunday to assume a new position with the Philadelphia Times. His place on the Courier-News news staff will be taken by John Nicol, who has been in the circulation department of the same paper for several years.

Fresh Air Camp Opening.

The Netherwood Fresh Air Camp will open on Thursday evening. There will be a special service with stringed music, and vocal singing. L. W. Randolph will speak. Everyone is cordially invited to be present, and encourage Miss Curry in this noble work.

South Plainfield Wins 3 to 2.

The South Plainfield baseball club deefated the Gesang and Turn Verein Sunday, by a score of 3 to 2. Franklyn, pitching for the home team, struck out sixteen men, while Lutham for the visitors, fanned ten men.

CHARTER DAY EVENTS

open-air meeting and were well attended, provided some great sport. A summary of the games will be found in another column.

The exhibition of fireworks which started promptly at 8:15, drew an immense crowd and were well worth seeing. Some of the set pieces were the finest of the kind ever seen here. A miniature reproduction of Niagara Falls, one of Uncle Sam's big ships and a picture of George Washington were among the features. Some of the newest effects in aerial bombs were also admired. The whole display being something to be proud of, and lasted about two hours.

Many Notable Here.

Among the notables present yesterday from out of town were Judge E. S. Atwater, of Elizabeth; Sheriff R. Kirkland, Elizabeth; J. E. Bernstein, Jersey City; Mayor William Cardwell, of East Orange; Prosecutor C. Addison Swift, of Elizabeth; Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford; Assemblyman August W. Schwartz, of Elizabeth; Surrogate G. T. Parrott, of Elizabeth; Col. E. W. Hine, of Newark; C. H. K. Halsey, of Elizabeth; Postmaster P. H. Charlock, of Elizabeth; State Treasurer Daniel Voorhees, of Morristown; L. D. H. Gilmour, of Newark; Mayor William E. Florance, of New Brunswick; former Mayor P. J. Ryan, of Elizabeth; Charles M. Affleck, of Westfield; ex-Senator J. M. Walsh, of German Valley; Edwin S. Francher, of Newark, and many others.

The Auto Parade.

The automobile parade, and hill climb at Johnson's Drive will keep up the enthusiasm and give sport-lovers something to keep them keyed up to the required pitch until the big parade of the firemen tomorrow. There will be no fireworks tonight, but the band concert will take place as originally planned.

From left to right the chairmen of the various committees for the Charter Day celebration as shown in the illustration on the first page are:

Middle row—Alexander Milne, William B. Smith, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Harry W. Marshall and Eugene M. Laing.

Bottom row—Warren B. Travell, A. E. Force, Lemuel B. Woolston and J. Hervey Doane.

THE FOURTH' ACCIDENTS

and he will not lose his sight.

John Dawe, the ten-year-old son of James Dawe, of Somerset street, accidentally shot a blank cartridge into the palm of his left hand. The wound was washed out and dressed by Dr. Albert Pittis.

Firemen Put Out Fire in Stove.

The city fire department had the unique experience of putting out a fire in a stove, at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth De Forrest, of 435 West Second street, early this afternoon. The domestic employed in the home stuffed the range with wood and ignited the fire; then left the house. Smoke issuing from the kitchen in clouds caused the neighbors to send in an alarm from box 46. An extinguisher was used to put the fire out.

Plainfield vs. High Bridge.

The Plainfield Baseball Club will play the High Bridge team on Crescent Oval at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, following the firemen's parade. The town of High Bridge will close up tomorrow on account of the firemen's parade here and a special train will bring the residents of that place here.

Plains Defeats Rahway.

The Scotch Plains baseball team defeated Rahway at the latter place, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 13 to 2, in a one-sided contest. The 'Plains' boys got 13 hits off of Clark, while Montross held Rahway to five bingles. The 'Plains scored ten runs in the ninth inning. Up to that time the score was 2 to 1 in favor of Rahway.

Pastors to Exchange.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. Garrett Conover, formerly of Rocky Hill, but now pastor of the Grand Avenue Reformed church, Asbury Park, of which church Mr. Broek was pastor before coming to Plainfield, will exchange pulpits Sunday morning.

Elks Will Attend Funeral.

The members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., will meet at the lodge rooms Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp, to attend the funeral services of their late brother, "Major" Maze Edwards, which will be held from the residence of Frank Rowley on Grove street, at 2:30 o'clock.

Another Wheel Stolen.

E. D. Young, of West Front street, has lost his bicycle, some thief taking it from his wheel house in the rear of his home. The matter was reported to the police, but thus far no clew has been obtained that would lead to the recovery of the wheel.

FIRECRACKERS CAUSE BLAZE IN WEST END

Exploding firecrackers and shooting fireworks in the store of Hyman Semer, of 902 West Third street, gave the local firemen one of the most difficult fires to fight this morning, that they have had in years.

The firemen responded to an alarm from box 47, sent in by Semer as soon as the fire started from some unknown cause. When they got there the inside of the store was a chaos of shooting rockets and roman candles, while the explosion of giant crackers made it doubly dangerous for them to enter it. They did this, however, and after some effective work with extinguishers and small hose got the flames under control.

Shortly after the firemen arrived a cry was raised: "Women and children are upstairs." The fire laddies quickly placed ladders against the walls and got in the upper story. They were protected to some extent, by wet handkerchiefs held over their nostrils and by the customary smoke protectors. A careful search showed, however, that none of the women and children were in the building.

Most of the firemen sustained slight cuts from flying glass and all were more or less bruised; but Patrick Neylon sustained such severe cuts on both of his hands that he had to be sent to a physician.

The total damage is $350. The building is covered by insurance, but as Semer had no license from the insurance company to carry fireworks in stock, he will probably have to stand the loss. He asserts that he will fight the company on this point.

TWO UNUSUAL FIRES.

Flaming Balloon Falls on Slate Roof—Telegraph Pole Ignited by Locomotive Spark.

Two unusual fires, called out the fire department twice yesterday.

A burning telegraph pole near the Watchung avenue bridge, caused by sparks from a locomotive, attracted the attention of a Western Union telegraph operator was sent in a still alarm to fire headquarters. The fire was extinguished by several extinguishers.

A flaming balloon landing on a slate roof of an outhouse back of the Roth building on Front street alarmed the occupants of a flat nearby who sent in an alarm from box 12 at 11:04 o'clock last night. The department responded and the flames were extinguished with a few pails of water.

Plainfield Horses Win.

Several Plainfield horses took part in the steeplechase meet held at Elkwood Park, Long Branch, Saturday afternoon. "Victory Belle," C. F. Wildey, was second in the first race; "Harry Baylor," Hugh Gormley, finished second in the second race, and in the fourth race C. F. Wildey up on Hammon Lass, came in second. The races were all run off in good time and there were no serious spills.

Mrs. E. J. Powers.

A telegram was received yesterday announcing the sudden death of Mrs. E. J. Powers at her home in Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Powers was a first cousin to Mrs. A. L. Force, of Duer street, and she was also related to Chief Engineer T. O. Doane and his brothers. Mrs. Powers leaves a husband and a son and daughter to grieve over the loss of a loving wife and mother.

Park Club Celebrated.

The Independence Day celebration at the Park Club yesterday and last night was up to former years. The fine display of fireworks on the club grounds, last night, was witnessed by a very large crowd, after which the members and their guests enjoyed dancing until a late hour. It was "open house" at the club and the social features were planned by the entertainment committee.

TRANSMITTED, NOT OVERHEARD.

Two women were talking in a boudoir. The door was locked. There was no one in the hall outside. There were no reporters hanging on the eaves. In short, there wasn't the remotest possibility of any one hearing them. And yet this is what they said:

"Does my rat show?"

"Not a bit. Wait. It needs just a touch. There!"

"Thanks ever so much. Maybe I don't hate to get into this."

"So do I—positively suffer."

"Binds one so."

"Hideous, too."

"Awful. When will the style change? Do you mind drawing that a little tighter? Thanks."

"And mine? Thanks. Oh, I can't breathe."

"Never mind. You'll get used to it in a few moments. I feel better already. Do you have any trouble in walking?"

"Do I? I feel as if I were on a tight-rope. These corsets are simply abominable. And I paid $20 for them."

"Why don't you try my place? Really, they do very well."

"I shall. Anything for relief! Your strap will fall off."

"No, it won't. I have learned to keep hitching it up mechanically—second nature now. Your powder shows."

"It will wear off by the time I get there. I always like to start with plenty. Are you ready?"—Life.

Proved.

"Whizkins is a real genius," says the admiring friend.

"But he does not wear long hair, always has on clean linen, always has money in his pocket, and seems to live well," differs the other.

"That's true. And don't you see, he must be a genius to be able to do all that and still be a genius?"—Life.

1 + 1 = 2.

Mr. Brown—How old are the twins?

Mr. Smith—Two years.

Mr. Brown—I thought they were born only about a year ago?

Mr. Smith—You're right; but there are two of them.—Judge.

More So.

Dick—My wife is as uncertain as the weather.

Duck—And mine is as uncertain as the weather forecast. — Cleveland Leader.

Love.

Little germs of some one
Growing on the mind,
Make the heart quite lovesick
And both the eyes stone-blind.
—Judge.

THEN THEY HAVE TO GO.

He—Don't you occasionally have company that bores you?

She—Often; but we have a remedy. We always let our little Sally recite.—Chicago Journal.

A Fact.

This is a fact:
The fellow who wins
Is the fellow whose frowns
Are mostly grins.
—Detroit Free Press.

According to Contract.

House Owner—You failed to pay your rent last month. What are you going to do about it?

Tenant—Oh, I suppose I'll do as you said when I rented it.

House Owner—What did I say?

Tenant—You said I must pay in advance or not at all.

Economy.

Son—What is the meaning of economy?

Mother—Economy, my son, is going without something you do want in case some day you should want something which you probably won't want.—Life.

Interested.

"No one should drink water that hasn't been boiled for at least an hour."

"You are a physician, I presume?"

"Nope. Coal dealer."—Cleveland Leader.

His Natural Suspicion.

"Have you ever been toastmaster at a banquet?"

"No. Have any of my enemies been saying that I was?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

An Exception.

Bacon—Don't you believe that everything comes to the one who waits?

Egbert — Hardly everything. Patience seldom comes, I believe.—Yonkers Statesman.

Not That Kind of a Girl.

Him—What would you say if I'd kiss you?

Her—Sir, I wish you to understand that I'm too much of a lady to use such language.—Cleveland Leader.

TO PREPARE GOOD CUSTARDS.

Directions for the Making of Various Kinds of Flavoring.

Gelatine custards are boiled custards, chilled and stiffened with gelatine. When delicately flavored and served with rich cream they are delicious and wholesome. For a coffee jelly, prepare a boiled custard with two cups of milk, two egg yolks and two tablespoonfuls of sugar. While it is hot add two tablespoonfuls of gelatine that has been dissolving in a little cold water. Stir into the custard, also two or three teaspoonfuls of coffee extract, or enough to suit the taste. Set the custards away to cool until ready to serve. Just as they are becoming hard, the whipped whites of the eggs may be stirred through them, and well beaten in. They are an improvement, but not essential. To prepare coffee extract pour about a tablespoonful of boiling water over one or two teaspoonfuls of powdered coffee and squeeze it through muslin, repeating, if necessary, two or three times. It should be very strong to make a good dessert.

Flavorings of wine, vanilla, orange, lemon, almond, etc., may be used instead of coffee. Preserved ginger cut in tiny strips and boiled with the custard is sometimes used as a flavoring. Only enough should be used to give a delicate flavor.

The gelatine custards are like blanc mange, the only difference being the egg yolks, which turn them from white to yellow.

PRACTICAL HINTS for the HOUSEWIFE

Cook dried fruits on top of the furnace.

Boil beans in the furnace, browning them the last half hour in the oven.

When using the oven put all in it it will hold, meats, potatoes, apples, puddings, etc.

Never mix a French dressing until ready for use. The vinegar and oil will separate.

Save the water in which potatoes have been boiled and use it to wash tarnished brass. It will come out as bright as new.

A delicious salad may be made of grape fruit pulp, white grapes and stalks of romaine, dressed with oil and vinegar and sweetened slightly.

To take old stains from marble, mix one gill of soapsuds and oxgall and a half a gill of turpentine, and as much fuller's earth as will make a paste, and rub it on the stains. Leave it on for a few days and then wipe off.

In selecting velours or tapestry of any description, look at the backing. If you find a loose cotton weave, you may be sure that it will soon wear out. The backing of good tapestry is smooth and well finished, whereas the cheap variety is poorly backed.

Apple Cream Pie.

Line a deep pie plate with a rich puff paste, having an extra rim of the paste around the edge. For the filling stew three tart apples cored but not pared, then sift them and add while hot one-fourth cup of butter. Beat the yolks of three eggs with one-half cup of sugar, add the grated rind of one lemon, also juice, then the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, and stir this mixture thoroughly with the apple. Add more sugar if needed. Pour the mixture into the pie plate lined with the paste and bake about one-half hour. Whip one-half pint cream stiff, sweeten it slightly and pile it on top when ready to serve.

Caramel Ice Cream.

Foundation for ice cream—One quart milk, heated in double boiler. Add two cups of sugar, four eggs, four tablespoons flour. Boil until thick and flavor with vanilla. Strain and cool. Just before freezing add one quart cream. Strain.

Caramel Ice Cream—Use above foundation. To the hot milk add one-half cup sugar, burned (to burn add enough water to make syrup over a very hot fire), then the rest of the sugar and ingredients follow.

After Cooking Onions.

To remove the smell of onions, wash the pan thoroughly in the usual way and wipe dry with a dish cloth. Next sprinkle with salt, set on the stove and allow it to brown, shaking the pan well from time to time. Rinse again in clean water to which a lump of washing soda has been added, when all taste and smell of onion will have disappeared.

Meat Balls.

One pound of hamburger steak, one cup bread crumbs, one-half cup grated cheese, two eggs beaten until light, one tablespoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper; mix in balls size of an egg, then drop in soup stock, and boil ten minutes, and then add two beaten eggs, one spoon grated cheese, and stir in lastly for thickening; serve.

Salad and Cold Duck.

A delicious salad may be prepared from cold duck. Mince the meat fine, adding a small quantity of stuffing to it. Season highly with salt and pepper, stir in a little minced celery, and cover with mayonnaise or some similar dressing. Serve on a bed of lettuce leaves.

Good Sandwich Filling.

French candied fruits minced and moistened slightly with pineapple or orange juices are a favorite sandwich filling.

Washing a Pongee Dress.

In doing up a pongee dress, do not sprinkle it after it is dry, as it will certainly spot.

MUSINGS ON MORALS.

The world moves faster than we think.

The spots on the sun no longer constitute an eclipse.

It has always moved in the right direction when it did move.

And all because humanity is learning to define itself and find itself.

Persecution, injustice and crime are no longer world-wise—or even national.

And it is developing acceleration and momentum in the right direction faster than ever.

This it is, that is more and more influencing legislation, creed revision and human conduct.

And because we are learning to classify the actions of life with reference to their effect on each other.

By the same processes of reasoning by which some people and schools of thought have determined that "whatever is, is right," others have determined that "whatever is, is wrong."

We are learning, and learning it fast, to determine the morality or immorality of human action on the broad ground of adaptability to the needs and requirements of a race or human beings.

We are getting well into the really divine philosophy, and finding out by leaps and bounds, that whatever fits this world best for the realization of man's noblest aspirations and highest attainments, is best.—New York Telegraph.

IF YOU WOULD KEEP YOUNG.

It is every woman's duty to keep young looking as long as possible, but unfortunately she does not always know the best way to live up to that duty.

Avoid worry, hurry and getting flustered.

Learn self-control. Anger is a rapid wrinkle-bringer.

Be temperate. Moderation does not only refer to the stomach. Overdoing in any way makes for permature age.

Love the open air. Fresh air is not a fad, it is a necessity if one would keep young.

Get plenty of sleep. Nothing lines the face like nights of wakefulness.

Keep mentally alert. An intellectual back number adds years to her seeming age. Nothing makes for youth like a young mind, save perhaps a young heart.

Don't let yourself get sluggish and indifferent. Here is where the benefit of massage, physical culture and a vital interest in life comes in.

Don't let your face reflect every perplexity. The woman who keeps young need not wear a mask, but she should guard against the so-called "speaking countenance," if she does not want a fine crop of wrinkles.

PHILOSOPHIZINGS.

The average woman is apt to tell all she knows, and then some.

Even the charity that begins at home is sometimes wasted.

After all, it may be better to be a spendthrift than a lendthrift.

Pay compliments, and you won't be forced to eat your own words.

It is hard for a man to practice economy and still be popular.

As a rule marriage either forms a man's character or reforms it.

Don't judge by appearances. A man may wear a diamond pin and still be real wealthy.

It is human nature to feel sorry for the people who are so perverse as not to like us.

A man is sometimes away off when he claims that distance lends enchantment to the view.

Some men are always anxious to do other people good, and some will do them any old way.

HER BROTHER SAYS:

That Even went with Adam out of the Garden to rub it in on what a paradise any place would be—alone.

That preachers have the curiosity of Eve's daughters to thank for the feminine part of their congregations.

That when women get the suffrage every mother's son ought to slump down and pray, "God, save the state!"

That Cupid would have cried for quarter long ago if he weren't afraid of the girls who have confiscated his arrows.

That a girl will sell her conscience for a compliment—a man's only topples in a tobaccoless country before a cigar.

That a girl makes a man think he's perfection before she gets him, then she develops a grouch against even his pipe.—New York Telegram.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Character is the sum of all life's choices.

It is good to be wise, but it is wiser to be good.

Heaven's manna sits ill on the stomach of sloth.

Star preaching is apt to mean night in the church.

Heaven is deaf to us when we are blind to others.

A serene life always has storms in its past curriculum.

It is well to watch the virtues that employ press agents.

The man with a putty backbone usually borrows a pious front.

Men are never greatly moved by those truths they fully comprehend.

It may be the ill we are dodging is the cure for the greater ill we desire.

Many lives would be a good deal sweeter if they were not quite so sugary.

Folk who are over anxious to live on velvet commonly wind up on the carpet.

More are lame from kicking than from corns acquired in walking the narrow way.

You can tell a man's courage, not by the measure of his fear, but by the fight he puts up.

The best way to honor the dead prophets is to make straight paths for the living people.

The apparent power of death to separate is the strongest bond that binds the living together.—Chicago Tribune.

CONTRARINESS OF LIFE.

Man's life is full of crosses and temptations. He comes into this world without his consent and goes out against his will, and his trip is exceedingly rocky.

The rule of contrariness is one of the unfortunate features of this trip.

When he is little the grown girls kiss him, and when he is grown the little girls kiss him.

If he raises a large family he is called a mustard, but if he raises a small check he is called a fraud and shunned like a Chinaman with the seven-year itch.

If he is poor he is a bad manager, but if he is rich he is dishonest.

If he is in politics it is for pie; if he is out of politics you don't know where to put him, and he is no good for his country. If he does an act of charity it's for policy; if he won't give to charity he is a stingy old cuss and lives only for himself.

If he dies young there was a great future before him; if he lives to an old age he has missed his calling.

He was introduced into this world by a doctor and into the next by the same agency. Verily, the road is rocky, but man likes to travel it.—Erasmus Wilson, in Pittsburg Gazette.

SAYS THE GENTLE CYNIC.

Nuisances never abate themselves.

If a boy earns ten cents he wants it; he is not willing to trust the richest man alive.

"Haste makes waste" is an old motto, but a lazy one. You've really got to hurry to keep up.

About the dullest man on earth is the one who is forever writing to the newspapers about what our forefathers did.

When you lose a hundred dollars your friend says he is sorry, but it is impossible for him to be as sorry as you are.

The men wear some mighty homely hats, but it can, at least, be said for the men that they never claim their headgear came from Paris.

It is all right to rave about Grecian noses in poetry, but the nose to admire, in common, every-day experience, is the nose that is kept out of other people's business.

PAVEMENT PHILOSOPHY.

Some people take the escalator and still walk up.

Sometimes when you meet a bookish girl don't you wish she were a little more newspapery?

The only difference between the literary hack and the ordinary hack is that the wheels of the ordinary hack run off a better living for their owner.

The office boy who has been neglecting his employer's business has lost his best argument, that he has been looking after the King's business.

When a moving picture singer asks the audience to join in the chorus he should always be accommodated if for no other reason than to drown his voice.

AN INCONSISTENT RISER.

My dear young wife so soundly sleeps,
I cannot make her hear;
Although I shout: "It's breakfast time!"
And talk right in her ear,
She only pulls the covers up,
And sighs, and that is all;
But when the telephone is heard,
She skips right down the hall!

Of course I know she needs the rest,
She has so many cares;
She slept right through the racket once,
When baby fell downstairs.
She only pulled the pillow down,
And sighed, and that was all;
But when the postman rang the bell,
She skipped right down the hall!

For that is human nature's way,
And we are all inclined
To sleep right through unpleasant things
And get them off our mind.
We only look the other way,
And wink, and that is all;
But when a pleasant sound is heard,
We skip right down the hall!

—Judge.

SHOULD KNOW BETTER.

Arthur—There's nothing like hugging the stove these cool nights.

Marion—I guess you haven't had much experience.

London's Fad.

"London Bridge is breaking down,"
The children sing with glee.
But when I went to London town,
The London "bridge" broke me.

—New York Herald.

An Extraordinary Actor.

"I can't understand why you should refer to Rantingham as an extraordinary actor. I saw him last night, and he seemed to me to possess very little real ability."

"It is not his ability that makes him extraordinary. The fact is that he has never been sued for divorce nor gone into bankruptcy."—Chicago Record-Herald.

What Did He Mean?

He—You remember the moonlit night, 25 years ago, when I proposed?

She—Yes, indeed.

He—We sat there for more than an hour and you never opened your lips.

She—Yes, dear.

He—That was the happiest hour of my life.—Cleveland Leader.

Taking No Chances.

Borely—I got rather a cool reception when I called at the Smiths' last night, but they warmed up finally. Why, when I was leaving, the whole family came to the door with me!

Griggs—That was because some one took three umbrellas out of their hallrack a few evenings ago.—Judge.

Not the Imaginary Kind.

Crimsonbeak—I see, according to Pennsylvania's state zoologist, snakes are farmers' friends.

Yeast—Well, don't make any mistake; he means the kind that the farmer actually sees.—Yonkers Statesman.

What He Could Do.

Kind Lady—Do you want work?

Loafer (cautiously)—What kind of work?

Kind Lady—Can you do anything with a shovel?

Loafer—I could fry a piece of 'am on it.

Two Souls That Button as One.

Little Maud—I shouldn't think anyone would want to marry a preacher.

Mother—Why not, dear?

Little Maud—Well, there's enough fuss when just one person in the house buttons up the back. It must be awful when there are two.—Life.

What?

She—They say a man is generally heaviest in his fortieth year. I wonder if that rule applies to woman?

He—Oh, well, a woman never gets as heavy as that.—Yonkers Statesman.

No Chance.

"Pa!"

"Well, what is it now?"

"Pa, when I grow up, how will I keep from marrying the wrong woman?"

"You won't."

Not Sure It Was Smoking.

Bill—Did smoking ever make you sick?

Jill—Well, I don't know. You see, the first time I smoked I was on an ocean steamer.—Yonkers Statesman.

Everything Helps.

D. D.—Do you believe in First Aid to the Injured?

M. D.—Certainly. It makes the case more complicated for the physician when he arrives.—Life.

SAYS THE OWL.

The moon affects the tide and the untied.

The one debt that a man generally tries to pay is a grudge.

Fortunately no man can keep his happiness to himself.

Love in a cottage is generally the result of a vivid imagination.

A successful man's opportunities are usually of his own making.

No man is so selfish as to want to keep all his popularity to himself.

Some people only mind their own business when they have nothing else to do.

Love, perhaps, will find a way, but it's quite another matter to pay the way.

A man who can afford a good press agent can get along very well without genius.

It takes a great deal of experience for a fellow to fall in love and land on his feet.

Every man should have an aim in life, but it is astonishing how few good marksmen there are.

The easiest thing to make is a promise. The next easiest is an excuse for not living up to it.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS.

Love makes the world go round, but it's revenge that makes it get square.

As a general thing a man 's only ready to turn over a new leaf when the old one is full.

When a fellow proposes to a girl in a cab he probably feels that he is doing the hansom thing.

It is perhaps better to hitch your wagon to a star than to trust too implicitly to an automobile.

Some men make more noise doing a day's work than other men do in organizing a billion-dollar trust.

When a fellow isn't capable of earning a living he should bend all his efforts toward getting a political job.

A cook is a duty every man owes his wife, but it isn't every man who cares to discharge a disagreeable duty.

Mr. Oldbach—Do you believe in divorce, Miss Oldgirl? Miss Oldgirl—O, you men are just awful! You haven't asked me to marry you yet.

The Philadelphia girl was visiting in Chicago and of course had been taken to the abattoir. "Isn't it just too killing for anything!" she giggled.

"Yes, my memory for faces is very bad," admitted the poet. "So, I should judge is your memory for feet," snorted the critic, who had just finished reviewing the poet's book.—Philadelphia Record.

THINGS SELDOM READ OF.

The tongue of a wild animal is its doctor.

A fox can dig faster than a boy with a spade.

Most dogs get their full growth in one year.

A bull in a rage will become quiet at sounds of a fiddle.

Sheep pastured on hillsides are near-sighted in one eye.

It sometimes takes a year for the bite of a rat to heal up.

In getting its food at night a rabbit sometimes travels ten miles.

The owl can see farther at night than any other bird or animal.

Sunflower seeds will attract rats where toasted cheese will fail.

The turtle found in all mill ponds lives to be at least fifty years old.

The average boy of ten or twelve years travels 20 miles in doing his playing on Saturdays.

A Widow Wordalogue

By Helen Rowland.

"Come with me," said the Widow, mysteriously, leading the Bachelor toward the waiting hansom, "and I'll show you the greatest invention of the age."

"What is it?" demanded the Bachelor, halting suspiciously.

"The latest triumph of whalebone and steel," responded the Widow, waving her violet parasol dramatically as she gently pushed him toward the hansom. "The newest things in figures and fashions. I'm going to the dressmakers' convention."

"But I don't want to be shocked," complained the Bachelor, squirming in his side of the hansom. "And I'm not interested in inquisitions, nor instruments of torture, nor human suffering, nor monomania, nor—"

"In what, Mr. Travers?"

"In the ridiculous fashions of women," explained the Bachelor, bluntly.

"It's the ridiculous taste of men that inspires them," retorted the Widow, tartly.

"Nonsense!" protested the Bachelor. "No man admires a human work of art, nor a forest of false hair, nor a figure that works on springs, nor—"

"Of course you don't," put the Widow, sympathetically, "on principle. Theoretically, you don't approve of rouge, nor dyed hair, nor peek-a-boo waists, nor sheath gowns, nor—nor Salome; but when it comes to practice it's always the girl with the pink chin and the butter-colored hair and the openwork stockings and the handmade figure that you turn around in the street to stare after."

"I don't!" declared the Bachelor.

"And the woman who rustles like a windstorm and leaves a path of patchouli behind her to whom you are pining for an introduction."

"It's false!" cried the Bachelor, indignantly.

"Of course it's false," acquiesced the Widow, quite unruffled, "but it's feminine. Ruffles and curls and lace and perfumes are the insignia of femininity, and it's a woman's femininity, not her strength of mind and breadth of character, that attracts a man. Theoretically you admire flat heels and physical culture and sweet simplicity and beauties of the soul, and dote on a girl with high ideals and principles, but that isn't the kind a woman hesitates to introduce her husband to; it's the kind with high heels and a straight front figure and Paquin gowns."

"And yet," sighed the Bachelor, "I don't know a $40 hat from a four dollar one, nor chiffon from calico print."

"No man does," agreed the Widow, soothingly. "No man knows what a woman has on any more than he knows what an artist has put into a painting, but he can tell a well-dressed woman from a frump as quickly as he can tell a real picture from a daub. Do you fancy women powder their noses and peroxide their hair merely for the pleasure of dabbling in chemicals? Do you imagine they wear tight corsets and French heels merely becaue they are pining for indigestion and a pain in the side? Do you suppose—"

"I hadn't supposed anything about it," broke in the Bachelor, desperately. "But if you make early Christian martyrs of yourselves in order to fascinate us, you are wasting your time. A man doesn't respect nor admire a woman that is gotten up like the third act of a comic opera chorus."

"Who wants to be respected and admired and left at home?" demanded the Widow, scornfully. "Who wants to be a modest violet, when all the men are around the corner chasing chrysanthemums and orchids? If women are frivolous and artificial and useless, it's men who have made them so. No woman is going to spend her days in the pursuit of virtue and economy and the cook book while you are spending yours in the pursuit of some foolish little thing who doesn't know a broom from an egg-beater and wouldn't know what to do with a scruple if she had one, but who knows how to wear her hats and—"

"Oh, well," broke in the Bachelor, desperately: "If we men are that kind, why do you care—"

"You're the only kind there is," sighed the Widow. "And—and here we are!"

"Where are they?" demanded the Bachelor, glancing eagerly around, as the Widow led him into a room full of wire mannikins draped in imported gowns.

"Where are what, Mr. Travers?"

"The—the inventions?"

"I don't know what you are talking about."

"The triumphs in whalebone and steel."

The Widow wrinkled her brows questioningly.

"The models," explained the Bachelor. "The live ones."

"Billy Travers!" exclaimed the Widow. "Did you think I would bring you here when there was a demonstration going on? Did you think you were going to see live models?"

"I knew I was going to be shocked," grumbled the Bachelor, bitterly, "but didn't know it would be such a shock—"

"A shock?" inquired the Widow.

"Of disappointment," sighed the Bachelor, as he disentangled himself from the folds of a mauve gown on a wire mannikin and tripped over a white lace train in his endeavor to escape.

PLAINFIELD'S CLUB WINS BOTH GAMES

The Plainfield Baseball Club played two games yesterday, defeating the Y. M. C. A. at Crescent Oval in the morning by the overwhelming score of 11 to 1, and the Elizabeth A. C. in the afternoon at the same place by a score of 7 to 1. Neither contest was marked by any brilliant work. Conshay pitched for Plainfield in the morning, allowing the association boys but six hits and in the afternoon Ortleib held Elizabeth down to four hits. Peacock was touched for twelve hits in the morning, while Plainfield gathered eight hits off of Farrell in the afternoon.

The lineups and score by innings:

BASEBALL.

The Scotch Plains team defeated Garwood at the former place, Saturday afternoon by a score of 7 to 5, in a well-played game. Jimmie Montross pitching for the home team, allowed Garwood 9 hits, while Brewer held the 'Plains to four hits, including a two bagger.

The New Brunswicks turned the tables on the Plainfield Baseball Club, at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, defeating the locals by a score of 2 to 0. There was little credit for the visitors in the victory, however, for they got both runs on errors. Ortleib pitched a magnificent game, allowing but three hits, Dalton getting them all, and he was entitled to a victory. Langstaff was touched for six hits, including a two bagger by Washburn, but six mistakes on the part of Plainfield were their undoing. New Brunswick was represented by a large crowd of fans, and they had lots of money which they tried hard to lay on the game. The Crescent Brass Band enlivened the occasion by playing popular airs, before, after and during the game. The score by innings:

| N. Brunswick | 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 | 2 | 3 | 1 |

BIG HOLIDAY CROWD ON THE GOLF LINKS

There was a large holiday crowd out at the Park Golf Club, yesterday, where numerous events brought out an unusually large number of competitors. There were also social events at the clubhouse in the afternoon, where tea was served. Play for the Summer cup was concluded, Dr. H. K. Carroll winning it with 19¾ points. C. B. Morse finished second with 16½ points, R. B. Titsworth third with 13½ points and W. E. Lough next with 12½ points.

W. E. Lough won the Holiday cup with a net score of 72. The leading scores:

W. E. Lough, 91, 19-72; R. V. Carpenter, 99, 25-74; G. S. Fisher, 107, 30-77; W. C. McNaughton, 90, 11-79; R. B. Titsworth, 112, 30-82; C. B. Morse, 97, 14-83; W. V. Byard, 97, 14-83; L. S. Fisher, 103, 20-83; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 95, 9-86.

Miss Grace Ten Eyck and W. C. McNaughton won the putting and approaching competition with a score of 9.

In the weekly competition Saturday for the President's, Club and Summer cups, the best scores were as follows:

Dr. H. K. Carroll, 83, 9-74; R. B. Fisher, 109, 30-79; F. T. Fisher, 92, 20-82; W. C. McNaughton, 94, 11-83; R. V. Carpenter, 110, 25-85; W. R. Faber, 99, 14-85; C. B. Morse, 103, 14-89.

These scores were posted in the women's handicap competition nine holes:

Miss May Shreve, 60, 12-46; Mrs. Frank W. Jones, 58, 12-46; Miss Grace Ten Eyck, 63, 15-48; Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, 70, 15-55.

St. Mary's Team Victorious.

The St. Mary Baseball Club defeated New Market at the latter place, Saturday by a score of 6 to 2, and yesterday deefated North Plainfield by a score of 8 to 3. Both contests were well played. "Hub" Conover pitched a fine game for St. Mary's team, holding the opposing nine safe all the way, while in the afternoon Squires held North Plainfield down to a few hits.

RACES AT DRIVING PARK

First Money Meet Card Contained Some Good Entries.

The trotting and running races attracted an unusually large crowd to the driving park yesterday afternoon. It was the first money meet held this season under the auspices of the Plainfield Driving Club and was a great success. The card comprised three trotting and pace and one running race and each one was run off in good time.

A. C. Blair's "Aron B" won the first race, 2:17, pace, in straight heats, while J. S. Irving's entery Fred V." won the second race, 2:26 trot, taking the last three heats. "Hazel Belle," Burgess, won the third race, 2:27 pace, in straight heats, while "Atheu, a Creevy, finished first in both heats.

In the first race, John Hoff, of Hoff Brothers, Jersey City, who drove "Point Breeze," was fined $25 for mercilessly beating his horse. This so enraged him that after the race he went to the judges' stand and began a tirade against the judges for what he considered an injustice. He used strong language and for this an additional fine of $25 was imposed, which Hoff had to pay.

The summary:

2:17 Pace.

ROBERT ABBOTT WINS CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP

The perfect weather conditions and attractive schedule brought out a large field to the Plainfield Country Club yesterday. The course was ideal and playing was a real pleasure. The social features were also greatly enjoyed, especially the dinner-dance in the evening. Steward John Hilton was complimented for the excellent service and with the enlarged accommodations it was possible to seat a very large number of guests.

The chief event of the day was the final play for the club championship which was won by Robert Abbott. He defeated C. B. Morgan, 2 up and 1 to play. The result of the first round on Saturday was as follows:

Robert Abbott defeated W. T. Glenney, 4 up and 2 to play; Arthur Murphy defeated R. G. Morse, 2 up and 1 to play; C. B. Morgan defeated H. D. Hibbard, 6 up and 3 to play, and W. Lester Glenney defeated E. T. Willson, 7 up and 5 to play. Yesterday morning in the semi-final, Abbott defeated Arthur Murphy, 8 up and 7 to play and C. B. Morgan defeated W. Lester Glenney, 4 up and 3 to play. In the final, Abbott defeated Morgan, 3 up and 1 to play.

For the consolation cup, first round, H. F. Fox defeated T. S. Perkins, 5 up and 3 to play; A. L. Wills defeated G. F. Earl, 4 up and 3 to play, and S. H. Patterson drew a bye. In the semi-final, S. H. Patterson defeated H. F. Fox, 4 up and 5 to play, and A. L. Wills drew a bye and in the final Wills defeated Patterson 1 up.

The leading scores for the Independence Day cup yesterday were as follows:

Class A—R. F. Murray, 83, 13-70; E. T. Willson, 83, 13-70; H. D. Hibbard, 82, 9-73; W. T. Glenney, 82, 6-76.

Class B—H. F. Fox, 94, 24-70; G. F. Earl, 100, 25-75; C. M. Church, 101, 24-77; C. W. King, 103, 26-77; J. R. Evans, 120, 27-93.

An interesting event was a driving competition. This was won by Robert Abbott, whose average for three drives was 269 2-3 yards. C. B. Morgan was second with an average of 227 1-3 and R. F. Murray was third with 216 2-3. C. W. King was next with 184 and Arthur Murphy was last with 184.

Grand Marshal's Badge Lost.

Grand Marshal Hand lost his badge yesterday and would very much like to have it returned to him by the finder at the earliest possible moment to Charter Day headquarters.

Cigar Butt Causes $150 Fire.

A mysterious fire in an upper front room of the Iroquoise hotel destroyed a lounge and burned the carpet to the total value of $150, Saturday night. Smoke issuing from the room attracted the attention of one of the hotel employes who sent in an alarm from box 12. The fire department responded and eight extinguishers were used. The occupant of the room said that he had not been in it since 3 o'clock in the afternoon; but the fire is believed to have been started by a smouldering cigar butt. The damage is covered by insurance.

Made Monsignor.

Announcement was made last night by the Rt. Rev. John J. O'Connor, bishop of the Newark Roman Catholic diocese, of Newark, that the Rev. Isaac P. Whelan, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Newark, had been made a monsignor. Bishop O'Connor made the announcement following the receipt of the official "brief" or "Pontifical document" from Pope Pius X, conferring the honor. The new monsignor is a brother of William J. Whelan, of this city.

A DEADLY OFFENSE.

"Well, sir," remarked the somewhat garrulous landlord of the Puxico tavern. "Throgmorton, the constable, arrested a feller, day before yesterday, for walking down Main street, here, in the middle of the afternoon in his stockin' feet. He's in jail now, and—"

"But—great Scott!" ejaculated the washing-machine agent, "it is not a crime, is it, for a person to walk in his stocking feet. Why, my dear sir, personal liberty—"

"Aw, personal liberty is proper enough as long as it don't interfere with the rights of other people. Anything that tends to add to the silence of our promisin' little city is an offense against the general weal. We're public-spirited here, even if we ain't exactly metropolitan."—Puck.

A Protest.

"Early to bed and early to rise"
Has made me very healthy.
But, very much to my surprise,
It's never made me wealthy.
—Judge.

TWO REASONS.

Mrs. Acker—You really ought to let me get enough of that spring material to make me a new dress.

Mr. Acker—Why?

Mrs. Acker—Well, it's reduced to only 89 cents—

Mr. Acker—And so is my bank account.

Back to the Hod.

A young darky quit hustling mortar,
And engaged as a Pullman car porter.
He was sort of a shirk,
So he threw up the work,
Because they would give him no quarter.
—Judge.

Rivalry.

First Her—She is receiving attentions from a young solicitor, and also from a young doctor.

Second Her—Which is ahead?

First Her—They're both somewhat backward. The solicitor asks merely hypothetical questions, and the doctor only seems to hold her hand to take her pulse.

An Exception.

Foreman (pointing to a large placard, "No Smoking, as It Interferes with Insurance")—Hey, Mulligan! Don't you see the sign?

Mulligan (between puffs)—Rest easy, sor! Ol'm too ould to be examined for loife inshurance, inyway.—Judge.

Another Dreamer.

"Yes, sir, I once lost over $800,000 in less than two weeks."

"Whew! That was going some. How did you do it?"

"By not buying about 10,000 shares of a certain stock that went up eight dollars a share without a single setback."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Man's Opinion.

"If we had women for judges," said the lady with the square jaw, "few divorces would be granted."

"Yes," replied the horrid man. "They'd be so eager to hear the scandalous details that it would never be possible to get all the evidence in."

Combination.

Complaining Customer—Say, this fly-paper is full of holes.

The Grocer—Yes, madam; I know it is. It is the new "combination" fly-paper, and is made with the holes so that it can be used for porous plasters after the fly season is over.

Cheerless Outlok.

The daughter—What objection have you to my marrying him, mamma?

The Mother—Because, dear, I think you can do better.

"But can't I always do better?"—Life.

Lots Else.

Yeast—Did your wife get time on that new hat she's just bought?

Crimsonbeak—No; but it looks as if she'd got about everything else on it!—Yonkers Statesman.

Common Case.

"You need a man to show you how to make money."

"I've got one. My boss shows me how it's done, but he won't let me do it."—Cleveland Leader.

Muzzle It.

Fond Parent—The child is full of music.

Sarcastic Visitor—Yes. What a pity it is allowed to escape.

No Use.

Mrs. Jawback—Why have men's clothes so many pockets in them?

Mr. Jawback—I'll be darned if I know!—Cleveland Leader.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

SOME GOOD SALADS

SUBSTITUTES FOR THE MORE HEAVY DISHES.

Little Bundle of Recipes Housekeepers Will Find It Convenient to Have in Memory for All Occasions.

Supper Salad.—Mix one and one-half cupfuls of cold cooked chicken cut in cubes, one cucumber pared and cut in cubes, one cupful of chopped English walnut meats, one-half cupful of French peas and cupful of celery cut in small pieces thoroughly chilled in ice water. Moisten with mayonnaise dressing and garnish with strips of canned red pepper arranged ribbon fashion and celery tips.

Cabbage Salad.—One small head of cabbage, one stalk of celery, four apples. Cut all up fine and over them pour a cream mayonnaise dressing. Serve on a lettuce leaf and on top of each lay a choice piece of celery and two radishes.

Lenten Salad.—One can kidney beans, one cup celery, chopped; six pickles, six olives, and one onion. Chop all but the beans, mix well, and pour salad dressing over all. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Banana Salad.—One banana cut lengthwise in half, set on lettuce leaf, and cover top of banana with rolled peanuts, and two teaspoonfuls of common salad dressing, one banana served to each guest. This makes delicious as well as a pretty salad.

German Holiday Salad.—Take six milchener herring soaked over night, skin them and remove all bones; six tart medium apples, six onions, three dill pickles, all chopped fine, one-half cup vinegar, one-half teaspoon of pepper, or more if you like. Be sure and use the milch in the herring.

Olive Salad.—Take one dozen onions and a pint of olives, two green peppers and one red one; chop fine. Into this stir one tablespoon mustard seed, one small bottle horseradish and one five-cent glass of mixed mustard, one teaspoon salt, and one tablespoon brown sugar, one cup vinegar; mix all together and let stand one week. It is fine with cold meats.

Meat and Rice Balls.

Put three-fourths pounds each, pork steak and round steak, through a grinder, salt and pepper to taste. Add one raw egg and one-half cup rice that has been soaked over night in water enough to cover it. If water is not all absorbed set on back of stove until absorbed. Make into small round balls. Put can of tomatoes in large kettle, season with salt and pepper. Cut two green peppers in half, remove seeds and rinse in cold water, add to tomatoes and put in meat balls. Boil slowly three-quarters of an hour. Last quarter of an hour add large tablespoon of butter. Do not thicken gravy. Cayenne pepper or chili sauce may be used when peppers cannot be obtained.

Fruit Cake.

Two and a half pounds flour, one pound butter, one and a half pounds sugar, ten eggs, three pounds raisins, three pounds currants, one and a half pounds citron, one and a half pounds candied lemon peel, one cup sirup, one cup brandy, one cup wine or coffee, one pound blanched almonds, one teaspoon cloves, three teaspoons cinnamon, one grated nutmeg, one tablespoon vanilla, one teaspoon soda. Bake four or five hours.

Ginger Cake.—One cup molasses, two cups sugar, one cup butter, one cup sour or butter milk, four eggs, two teaspoons soda, four cups flour. Spice to taste with fruit or ginger.

Cheese Relish.

If you want to serve something absolutely unique for the cheese course try the simple preparation of Roquefort cheese and apples. To make it take a slice of Roquefort cheese and a piece of butter the size of a walnut. Mix them together into a paste and thin this down by the addition of three or four tablespoonfuls of cognac. When of a good spreading consistency spread it over slices of russet apples and you will have a novelty that will create both surprise and delight among your guests.

Ironing-Day Hint.

To prevent the iron from sticking to a collar or shirt front when ironing it, a capital plan is that of using white wax, while at the same time a good gloss is obtained on the surface of the linen. Instead of investing in special wax for the purpose, any odds and ends of candles may be used, and these should be sewn into a square of cotton or linen, and the iron passed once on twice over it before beginning to use it.

Apricot Ice Cream.

For a quart of cream allow a quarter cupful of sugar, a pint of can apricots pressed through a sieve, the juice of one orange and one lemon. Make a sirup of the sugar, allowing one-half cupful of water, cook, add the fruit juice cool, pour in the cream and pack in the freezer. When half frozen stir in the apricot, puree and freeze hard.

Dumplings for Stew.

Mix together a pint of flour, a half teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Add enough sweet milk to make a dough, turn on a board, roll out and cut in small circles or squares. Drop into the stew, cover and keep at a slow, steady boil, without uncovering, for 20 minutes.

Bone Lamb Roast.

In ordering a leg of lamb ask to have it boned. You will find the carving much easier, the slices more dainty, and more economical.

A SERIOUS CASE

"John," she said, "do you love me?"

"Why, sure," said John in a tone of some uncertainty. "Why, sure I love you."

But nevertheless he sat a little further away and in a subtle way he showed the usual unmistakable signs that the conversation had taken a turn which he, for one, did not approve and that if she were wise she would drop the subject and content herself by chirping at him in a loving manner every time he chirped at her.

"John," she said, "are you sure?"

"Sure," said John in a facetious manner and in a moment of inspiration he took "E Pluribus Unum" for the motto of his house and facetiously added, "Who could help it?"

And so that we may better comprehend the comprehensibilities let us turn from that cipher of fate embodied in the facetious John and gravely fix our attention upon the place and the girl.

The place was a parlor where the gas had been gently led by its nose down a green silk tube into a ruby table lamp, from which it beamed in soft, inspiring radiance.

On the piano were two objects of art; the first was a portfolio of music opened at that sentimental endeavor, "I Cannot Sing the Old Songs," and the second was a cabinet photograph of John taken by some bold cabineteer who may have been a gentle and a soft-spoken man, but who had most unmistakably scuttled the ship of John's beauty in an attempt to make him look as though he had a message to the world.

For the rest of it the blinds were drawn, the portieres were drawn, a busy little clock ticked merrily away among the shadows on the mantel place and the room was snug and warm and cozy.

She was in accord with the room in that she, too, was a snug and cozy little lady, embellished by art and artful by nature. As she looked at John and asked him if he were sure, she drew a shawl around her shoulders and coughed once, twice and again.

"Sure!" said John, in a facetious manner, and in a moment of inspiration he took "E Pluribus Unum" for the motto of his house and facetiously added, "Who could help it?"

"John," she said, "I'm not joking."

"No?" said John.

She coughed again and turning to a little table at her side she measured a teaspoonful of something out of a bottle, raised her eyes, sighed and took her medicine.

"John," she said, taking his hand, "we may never see each other again."

"Why not?" said John, raising his brows. "Are you going away?"

"Perhaps, John," she said. "Perhaps—although I don't like to alarm you."

She took another spoonful of medicine and smiled wanly at him.

"It's a long journey, John," she said.

"Geraldine!" he said. "Hush!"

"Poor John!" she sighed. "Poor John, how he will miss me! John," she said, "I—I wish you'd help me over to the tete-a-tete. I—I don't think I can sit up any longer. And now a cushion for my head. There. And if you'll bring my medicine—"

"And are you honestly and truly sick, Geraldine?" he asked.

Whereupon she almost turned and bit him.

"And yet," she said, "I wish I could have lived till the spring. The spring is so beautiful; isn't it, John? The flowers and everything!"

"O, you'll be here in the spring all right," said John. "Don't you worry!"

"John," she said, "the doctors think otherwise. For your sake I wish I could share the way you feel. Yes, yes, I wish I could have lived till the spring." And in a low, dreamy voice she added: "We might have been married then." And seeing that John was about to speak in hurried numbers she whispered faintly, "John, dear! My medicine!"

And after she had refreshed herself with a spoonful she continued her soliloquy, saying:

"Dear John! I always knew you loved me. Always. From the first. Ah, yes, I wish I could have lived till the spring, so that we might have been married then. The flowers and the birds and everything. Wouldn't it be nice?"

And throwing her arms suddenly around his neck she whispered:

"John, whatever happens you must always remember that we were everything to each other. You'll remember that; won't you?"

"Yes," said John, solemnly. "I'll remember that."

"And, you'll remember—when the spring comes—how we would have been married, if—. You'll remember; won't you, John?"

"Yes, yes," said John. "Sure."

"Dear John," she said, "I must try to get better for his sake. If you'll open that window a little, John—"

Adding:

"Thanks, dear. I feel better already."

And adding still further:

"I suppose you may as well measure me for the ring, John. Now that I have something to live for . . . I feel that somehow . . . and stronger than ever. Oh, John, you are a ducky!"

And as he thought it over on the way home, John said to himself more in sorrow than in anger:

"That's what!"

Adding aloud (though with a fright-fully bitter emphasis): "Quack!"

FOOLED THEM BOTH.

Mr. Nuwed, returning from his day's work, found his bride in tears.

"O-oh, hubby!" she sobbed, "I'm so discouraged. I don't think I'll ever learn to cook well enough to keep your love for always!"

"Why, what's happened now, darling? Did you salt the coffee, or put red pepper in the cinnamon sauce again, or did you try to make omelet out of eggplant this time?"

"No-o; but do you remember those biscuits I made this morning?"

"Oh, yes; I remember them all right!"

"And you said they would be just fine if they were only cooked a little browner and were not so pale and sickly. Well, I gave those that were left to the old speckled hen."

"Dear me! Did the hen eat any of them?"

"No-o; but she's—she's setting on them now."

"Oh, well, what can you expect of a stupid hen!"

"But—but that isn't all. Mrs. Nextdoor looked over the fence and said: 'Funny how that old creature will sit on door-knobs and things!' And I'm afraid she wasn't even meaning to be sarcastic!"—Charlton Lawrence Edholm, in Judge.

A Sameness.

"Yes," says the lady after an acquaintance of ten or fifteen years before has been renewed, "I remember you perfectly."

"Indeed?" murmurs the gratified man. "I am glad to know that."

"Yes, at one time I thought of marrying you."

"O," he replied, dejectedly, "I thought for the moment that there might have been something that made me different from all the other men you ever knew."—Life.

A Public Confession.

The pastor of a country church, a middle-aged widower, was credited with having courted every eligible woman in his flock. One Sunday morning the good parson, having occasion to admonish specially the feminine membership, was amazed at the very audible titter that ran through the congregation when, with an inclusive wave of his arm, he exclaimed: "Sisters, I have addressed you in public and in private!"—Judge.

Awakened.

I dreamed I was a red, red rose,
Bright with the golden summer glows,
Kissed by the sweetest breeze that blows,
With sunny skies o'erspread.
Of sweetest fragrance ever smelled,
By love's own hand to love's breast held—
When a voice roused me which fiercely yelled:
"Wake up, you cabbage-head!"

NOW THEY DON'T SPEAK.

Miss Antique—I don't like this gown at all. I wish I knew how to improve it.

Reasoning It Out.

"Oh, come," he said, "what's the good of your answering no night after night and week after week when you love me and are going to say yes at the end?"

"I admire your self-assurance. What makes you think I love you?"

"My, you treat me with no more consideration than my first wife ever did."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"Yep."

"What is there in it?"

"Nothing but talk, I guess."—Cleveland Leader.

Hopeless.

"Pat, did you bring back my umbrella?"

"No, sor. Whin I coome impty-handed I'll bring it."—Life.

TEMPORARY BOND ISSUE

City Fathers Provide for $11,000 Issue for Street Improvement.

APPROPRIATION OF $2,734.84.

For Smallpox Work—School Appropriation Reconsidered—Other Matters Acted On.

Originally planning to hold a short session to pass the bills and then adjourn for a week, the members of the Common Council changed their minds last night and after wasting a half hour or more with trivial matters, decided to have the minutes read and go through with the regular order of business. Councilman Buxton was largely responsible for this, because he had some pet measures that he was very anxious to dispose of at this time.

Through a resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, steps were taken to issue eleven $1,000 street improvement bonds to date from July 1, 1909, to sell for not less than par and accrued interest. It is provided that one issue of $11,000 may be made if the purchaser desires.

Mr. Holt called up on their reading the two ordinances, one providing for the re-districting of the Second ward, making a third district, and the other which defines the dividing line between the First and Second wards and they were adopted.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Buxton, $5,000 was transferred from the general to the fire fund and $1,500 from the general to the poor fund.

Residents of Denmark road, between Dixie lane and Ravine road, asked the Council to accept that thoroughfare so that it may be improved. The matter was referred to the street and sewer committee. Fred Lancaster applied for an auctioneer's license and the matter was referred to the license committee.

On motion of Mr. Buxton, the resolution of June 7, regarding the appropriation of $62,000 for school purposes for the coming year, was reconsidered, it having been learned that not all of the members of the Board of School Estimate signed the petition. Another resolution was then offered by the same member and the suppliment to the tax ordinance was adopted. Later Mr. Buxton offered the matter in the form of an ordinance and it was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised as required.

In compliance with a request from the Board of Health, Mr. Buxton offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating $2,734.84, in addition to the regular amount, to provide for the expense of taking care of the smallpox cases. Another resolution by the same member, also adopted, ratified an agreement between the city and Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsey, regarding a sewer pipe, and L. Moraller & Son, jewelers and watchmakers, was given the contract to take care of the town clock for the coming year for $30, a resolution to that effect being offered by Mr. Buxton.

Clerk Horace G. Adams of the District court, reported receipts of $118.60 for the past month and expenditures of $30.90, leaving a balance of $87.70. Chief T. O. Doane reported that twenty-five building permits were granted during the month and Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayers reported expenditures of $264.30 for the month.

The ordinance providing for gas cut-offs was called up by Mr. Holt and put back on second reading for an amendment. It was changed to provide that "cut-offs" shall hereafter be installed on pipes more than 1¾ inch, instead of those including pipe of that diameter. The change met with the approval of the P. S. C. and the ordinance was then adopted on second reading and ordered advertised.

Herbert Henry and others petitioned to have some crosswalks laid in the vicinity of Berkeley, Leland avenues and Park Terrace. This was referred to the street and sewer committee.

The report of the sanitary sewer commissioners, S. P. T. Wilbur, H. B. MacDonald and B. A. Meeker, was presented at the July meeting of the Common Council last night. A portion of it was read and then ordered filed. The total cost of the work, which has been completed, is $74,083.24, of which the city's portion is $41,840, while the balance, $32,242.91, has been assessed on property-owners affected by the improvement.

After filing the report, Mr. Buxton offered a resolution fixing Monday night, August 2, as the time when a public hearing will be granted. Those affected will then have an opportunity to express their opinions before the report is finally adopted.

To spell "Success" with letters four is not the old time way,
But citizens of Plainfield do it thus—F-I-S-K.
As fireman, councilman and mayor, he's always led the van,
And Plainfield's more than lucky in possessing such a man.

CITY SCHOOL FATHERS GIVE OUT SOME BIDS

Bids for school improvements and equipment were opened at the July meeting of the city Board of Education held last night at the Plainfield High School. The successful bidders were John Abbott, D. J. Galbraith and J. A. Greene. Bids for laying out of the grounds of the Darrow Avenue school were ordered advertised, and will be opened at the next meeting of the Board, to be held at the high school July 20.

Bids for toilets in the Irving School, opened at the meeting, were as follows: Rimmer, Apgar and Guzen, $2,894; John Abbott & Son, $2,790; D. W. Littell, $1,973; D. J. Galbraith, $1,750; James Harper, $2,309; George J. Tobin, $2,175. These bids were referred to the building committee, and the contract was awarded to John Abbott and Sons for the general contract, and D. J. Galbraith for the plumbing.

Bids for shades for the Darrow Avenue School were presented by three firms. They were as follows: J. A. Greene, $240; S. H. Whitney, $269, and Frank G. Wikoff, $277.45. The contract was awarded to J. A. Greene after consideration by the building committee.

Several prices were submitted for a piano for the Darrow Avenue School and among the firms bidding were John Wanamaker, The Ivers & Pond Co., Sohmer & Co., William Knabe, The Aeolian Company. The building committee announced no decision.

The report of Tax Collector William R. Townsend showed that during the month of June $444.82 of school moneys had been collected. The custodian reported a balance of $50,139.73 on hand June 30.

Mrs. Ira Pangborn's Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ira Pangborn, who died in Mount Vernon, N. Y., last Sunday, were held last night at 8 o'clock at the residence of William N. Pangborn, Linden avenue, North Plainfield, Rev. Ora J. Shoop of Grace M. E. church, officiating. Mrs. John Manley sang "Abide with Me," and "Draw Me Nearer," with much feeling and expression. The interment took place this morning in the family plot in North Plainfield cemetery. Mrs. Pangborn leaves a two-year-old son and her husband to mourn her loss.

First Excursion to the Shore.

The first excursion from Plainfield to Asbury Park will leave tomorrow morning, under the auspices of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and numerous other Sunday-schools. After the strenuous three-days' celebration this will afford an agreeable relaxation.

Many Elks Firemen.

Among the out-of-town firemen who took part in the parade today were about five hundred Elks, who were entertained and dined at the Elks' large club rooms on East Second street, before and after the parade.

AUTOMOBILE PARADE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

The automobile parade yesterday afternoon was somewhat of a disappointment so far as the number of cars in the line is concerned, there having been only 51 machines where 200 were expected. This was partly accounted for by the fact that the parade did not follow the line of march as originally mapped out, and many cars which were awaiting to join at different points failed to connect.

However, what was lacking numbers was more than made up in the handsome decorations of those that were in line. John P. Emmons, who won the first prize, had his car covered in a bower of Wistaria artistically draped with flags. Harry Marshall's car, which was a huge canopy of roses and flags won the second prize, and Lester Harris won third with decorations similar to those of Mr. Emmons, but not quite so elaborate.

Flags were given as special prizes to Isaac Schwed, Joseph Kingston of Trenton, and Allen Laing. Mr. Kingston's Mercer car had as a special decoration over the hood an American flag, perfect in design, made up of red and white roses with forget-me-nots for the jack. It was as handsome piece of work as has been seen any time during the three days.

One car driven by a woman and who had three women companions, all four dressed alike—linen with brown trimming—was given a white flag for the neatness of the turnout. The womens' dresses harmonized with the color of the car. Unfortunately, they got away before their names could be ascertained.

Early Arrivals in the Borough.

There was a stirring time at the North Plainfield fire headquarters this morning when the Lambertville contingent, under Chief Thomas, marched into the house accompanied by the Lambertville drum corps and the Boonton firemen with Mayor Kopp at their head and Freeholder Harvey Hopler as aid. They were received by Chief Howard Woolston and his men with a hearty cheer. The fire-house rang with the cheers of the visitors and the playing of the drum corps. The visitors appeared to be out for a prize in their spick and span uniforms. There were about a hundred men in the two companies.

—Malcom & Coombe, members of New York Stock Exchange, whose Plainfield offices are in the Babcock building on West Front street, are offering an issue of gilt-edged bonds, guaranteed by the Consolidated Gas Co. of N. Y., at a price which yields an income of nearly 5 per cent. to the investor. Descriptive circulars are given on application.

FIRE FIGHTERS' BIG PAGEANT

CHARTER DAYS' CLOSING SCENES MARKED BY JERSEY FIREMEN'S DEMONSTRATION.

Eclipsing in splendor the recent demonstration of firemen held in Newark, the firemen's parade started promptly at 2:30 this afternoon with Chiefs T. O. Doane and Howard Woolston directing the maneuvers. Firemen from various parts of the State came to do honor to Plainfield and the men and apparatus in line excelled by far the most sanguine expectations.

In the matter of interest the parade was said to have exceeded anything ever before held in New Jersey. After the review at the Eighth street stand the fire chiefs were entertained at a banquet prepared by Host Windham of the Waldorf Hotel. After the dinner the visiting firemen were taken for automobile rides about the town. Many of the men had never seen the outlying streets of the city and were loud in their praises of our beautiful streets.

Following out the pre-arranged program the firemen were received by Chief Doane, of Plainfield, and Chief Woolston, of North Plainfield, and the committee of citizens. The visiting chiefs were presented with special badges which they will retain as souvenirs of Charter Day.

Tonight the firemen will attend the exhibition of fireworks and the band concert in a body. The awarding of prizes will be done by judges selected from among the visiting chiefs and the awards will be published tomorrow.

The Union Engine Company, 50 strong, accompanied by the Lambertville band, drew forth the cheers of the crowd as they marched and counter-marched and performed their evolutions with stately precision. This company was closely followed by Junction company from Hampton Junction, with a handsome team of horses. The Roosevelt Hose Co., with 50 men and a band, also came in for favorable criticism as did the Washington Hose Company from Perth Amboy. The line of march was as follows:

Form on East Front street, right resting on Watchung avenue. Front to Grove, to Linden, to Somerset, to Fairview, to Watchung, to Pearl, to Somerset, to Front, to Park avenue, to West Fifth, to Liberty, to West Eighth, to Crescent, to Seventh, to Madison, to Fourth, to Watchung and disband.

The North Plainfield exempts and their Plainfield brethren made a fine appearance.

Of course, Plainfield and North Plainfield showed up favorably among the others and the people ought to feel proud of the home department for their fine showing.

Chiefs Doane and Woolston selected as judges to award the prizes in the firemen's parade ex-Chief Kierstein and Chief Astley, of Newark, and Chief Allen, of Trenton.

Following is the way the companies formed:

Union Engine Company, Lambertville, band, 50 men, one team.

Junction Company, Hampton Junction, 40 men, one team.

High Bridge Company, High Bridge, band, 50 men.

South Boonton.

Liberty Hose Co., Summit, drum corps, 30 men, one team.

AUTO TURNED TURTLE; HILL-CLIMBERS HURT

George Weldon and William Bolen, of Rahway, are lying in the hospital this afternoon with slight injuries; the result of being thrown out of a car that they were driving in the hill climbing contest, at Johnston's Drive yesterday, when it plunged over the embankment, turned two somersaults and ended its flight after a fifty feet fall, against a tree. The car was making the last turn up the hill, within one hundred yards of the finish when it struck two wooden culverts situated in the sharp bend. The impact of going over these caused the driver to lose control of the car, which was then making record time for that section of the course, and the machine careened for thirty yards, grazed a tree and then tumbled, throwing both men out.

When the drivers were assisted out it was found that Weldon was suffering from scalp and facial wounds and Bolen sustained a fractured shoulder. As it was feared that there might be serious internal injuries, they were taken to Muhlenberg Hospital under the direction of Chief of Police Kiely. George Babcock, of West Eighth street, loaned his limousine for the occasion.

The car, a National, was damaged slightly. The radiator was knocked out of shape, guards were broken, the steering gear was disarranged, and other mechanism was bent but not injured. One rear wheel was broken, and the other kept revolving rapidly until the power was turned off. At 7:30 o'clock last evening mechanics got the machine on the course again. A new wheel was put on, the steering gear repaired, and the machine made the trip to a local garage unassisted. Here the minor repairs were made. Both of the injured men will be discharged from the hospital shortly. Both are suffering more from shock than from actual injuries.

Chief T. O. Doane.

American Flag Stolen.

Charles Kiederling, of 258 East Front street, is today mourning the loss of a handsome American flag, which he displayed in front of his residence. Sometime last night thieves took Old Glory and no clew can be found. Mr. Kiederling had the flag suspended between his house and a tree, twenty feet in the air. He says that if the person who took it will call he will give them the tree.

CITY TO SEND DOANE TO FIRE CHIEFS MEET

Chief T. O. Doane will attend the fire chiefs' convention to be held at Grand Rapids, Michigan, for the Common Council at its July meeting last night, appropriated $150 for the trip. Like Chief P. S. Kiely, who attended the police chiefs' convention in Buffalo, he will be required to make a detailed statement of his expenses and a full report of the convention to the fire committee.

When Councilman Buxton offered a resolution appropriating the $150, and the vote was taken, there was some question as to whether it was adopted. The vote was five to two in favor of the measure. The question arose whether it required a majority or two-thirds vote. After searching the ordinances and rules and failing to find anything there that would enlighten the members, President Holles declared that the resolution was adopted.

He Had No License.

John Mallone, of Elizabeth, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Special Officer McKeon for peddling court-plaster and postal cards without a license. Sentence was suspended by City Judge Runyon at court today on condition that Mallone leave town immediately.

Hill Climbing to be Annual Event.

Owing to the complete success of the automobile hill climbing contest, the Plainfield Motor Club has decided to make it an annual affair. The course up Johnston's drive is one of the best for the purpose, and will be kept in repair. Crushed stone was put in hollow places about the course yesterday, but this will be eliminated next year when the course will be rolled.

Plainfielders Away.

While the city has been filling up with visitors from all over the State the actual population has been falling off at the rate of fifty or more a day. According to station agent Stein, the number of tickets sold for Point Pleasant, Asbury Park and other sea-shore resorts show an increase over last week and the exodus goes merrily on.

AUTO HILL-CLIMBERS TIE

Young Tuxedo Park Millionaire Covers Course in 1:28.

RANKIN EQUALS HIS TIME.

Robertson, Lescault and Bissell Compete at the Johnson's Drive Course.

John M. Rutherford, a twenty-two year old millionaire, from Tuxedo Park, New York, the "millionaires' colony," who laconically sent in an application to compete in the hill-climbing contest on the Johnston's drive against George Robertson, winner of the Vanderbilt cup race last year, and other such professional drivers as Lescault and Bissell, carried off first honors all around for the best time made, 1 minute and 28 seconds. The course is seventh-tenths of a mile long and has nine difficult turns while the grade runs from 8% to 22% or an average of 15%. According to Robertson, the Vanderbilt Cup Race winner, it is the best hill climbing course he has ever seen. Not only did young Rutherford take the course in the best time, but he showed his pluck in doing so on the second gear all the way up. When the winners' class came, when Rutherford had another opportunity to win another gold medal, he declined to enter the event.

"I'm an amateur driver," he said, "my time is the best so far; I have nothing at stake. Those other drivers are driving for a company and it means something for them if they can carry off a first so I guess I'll let them get any honors that are coming to them, if they can beat my time. I didn't plan to compete here today. My friend and I were on our way to Coney Island for a swim, but decided to come to Plainfield where we read about the hill-climb in a New York paper this morning.

Rutherford's time was not beaten, but it was equalled by the Chalmers-Detroit in the last event. When Rutherford received his gold medal from Chairman Fred Titus, he was as proud as a boy who puts on his first pair of long trousers. "It's my first medal," he chuckled, "and it's going to be the charm of a brand new gold watch—one of the best that I can buy." He then pulled out a handsome gold watch, gazed at it scornfully a moment, then turned on his power and drove out of town slowly.

Early in the afternoon a large crowd gathered from this city and nearby towns; many came in automobiles. People lined the course all the way up. These were kept in order and the course was kept clear by a cordon of city and borough police.

Several noted professional drivers were in the contest. Among these were: F. Lescault, George Robertson, winner of the Vanderbilt Cup Race last year, and Fred Bissell, who won several notable races at Ormond Beach, Florida. The latter was disfigured slightly owing to a car turning turtle on him there. He showed his pluck, however, yesterday when he won second place, making the course on wheels of 140-inch bases. Most of the time the machine skidded. The Herreschoff car showed up well under the driving of George Robertson. The machine used was a stock car untrimmed for the race. The principal officials of the course were: Marshall, Alexander Milne; referee, Dr. Frank C. Ard; Judge, Dr. P. J. Zeglio; starter, Charles W. Smith; timers, Dr. D. C. Adams, A. L. C. Marsh, and George Tobin; manager, Fred W. Titus.

The automobile committee in charge of the affair was: Alexander

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

An irate servant girl from Lincoln was busy hunting for Justice of the Peace, R. P. von Minden yesterday morning in New Market. She wanted a warrant for Mrs. Fred Stevenson, of Lincoln, whom she claimed was illegally holding her belongings and had refused to pay her her wages after discharging her. The trouble arose over the fact that the servant stayed out a little later than usual, having gone to Plainfield to see the fireworks. She was locked out and refused admittance by her employer, who also refused to give up her trunk or pay the wages due. It could not be learned last night whether the warrant had been served.

Mrs. Mark Brokaw, who died at Muhlenberg Hospital last Thursday, was buried Saturday afternoon. The funeral took place from the residence of her brother, Abraham Smalley, and was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Plainfield. The interment was in Bound Brook cemetery.

Mrs. Bonn Merlett was assaulted by a drunken man in a main line car Monday night while returning from the fireworks in Plainfield. She accidentally trod on the drunk's toe. The car was stopped and the man was ejected, but there was no "cop" on hand to do the rest.

J. H. Curry, who recently purchased the Samuel M. Titus farm on Jefferson avenue, is remodeling the buildings on the place. Nelson Headley and Serron Stites are doing the work.

WESTFIELD.

The house of Joseph Luisi, in North street, Westfield, was raided Sunday night by the police. Luisi and half a dozen of the people in the place were taken to police headquarters. Luisi was fined $20 Monday morning by Recorder Toucey for selling beer without a license, and $5 for keeping a disorderly house. The other people taken in the raid were let go.

Monday passed in Westfield without any serious accidents from fireworks.

Westfield Council will hold a meeting tonight.

THE SEPARATE WAIST OF THE SEASON.

The sepiraate waist of the moment is not a thing whnch can be made up in quantities, for it is less a separate than it is a detachable garment, and one which in color at least, and probably in material, must harmonize with the skirt and coat with which it is to be worn. In other words, it must seem to belong to these. Except in the case of he practical shirtwaist, which is a part of the morning, office or outing dress, and which custo mand fashion both decree must be fresh and white contrasts are not permissible. Those authorities decree that the separate waist must match in some feature the dress of which it temporarily forms a part.—Harper's Bazar.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and consider some important matters.

JULY CLEARANCE SALE

Our Great Price Lowering and Stock Reducing Events Begin Tomorrow and Lasts 8 Days

Clearance here means the complete closing out of many lines of seasonable goods—a clearing of counters, shelves, show cases and tables of all odd lots and odds and ends.

During the game Saturday between Plainfield and New Brunswick, "Dave" Driscoll, taking exception to a ruling by Umpire R. H. B. Dalley, directed a vile epithet at the umpire. The commendable attitude of Dalley was loudly praised, for he kept his temper. It was for a similar remark that Nolan of New Brunswick was this season denied even the privilege of witnessing a game in that city as a spectator, to say nothing of playing. Driscoll afterward made due apology for the remark.

The Pirates have been going at anything but a pennant clip since they moved to their new field.

There isn't much doubt that Pennsylvania had the strongest college team and is the real champion.

As a consumer of foul flies of every description Bergen of Brooklyn is the tidiest performer of them all.

The New York Americans have won the season's series from the Washingtons and the Detroits from St. Louis and Chicago.

The White Sox stole eleven bases against the St. Louis catchers the other day, and Criger caught part of the game for the Browns, too.

The Athletics seems to be one of those teams that are weak on paper and strong on the diamond. That's a way Connie Mack has.

You often hear of a new player being a second So and so, but never of a second Hans Wagner. Shall we ever look upon the Dutchman's like again?

There is a fair chance of a dark horse capturing the American League pennant, but just at present the Highlanders are not equines of a pronounced brunette complexion.

Numerous captains have been out of the game at various times this season from accidents or illness, among them Chance, Lajoie, Keeler, Gessler, Lumley and Brennahan.

Beyond all doubt Red Murray has filled Donlin's shoes, leaving nothing to be desired as a successor to Mike. The only point is that were Donlin on hand there would be two of them.

GOLF.

George A. Ormiston has his eye on the ball this season and now seems a stronger championship possibility of the Pittsburg group than either Eben M. Byers, the former titleholder, or W. C. Fownes, Jr. In the recent tournament of the Allegheny Country Club—the fifteenth annual—he beat Byers in the semi-final by 1 up, scoring 77 to 78, and in the final Ormiston, beat F. Oden Horstman of Chevy Chase, by 2 and 1. W. C. Fownes, Jr., however, is playing well and has again won the amateur championship of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association. Fownes twice has put out W. J. Travis in the amateur championship, first at Wheaton and next at Cleveland, each time the match going to extra holes.

Eben M. Byers did the same at Glenview, and Ormiston is not lacking when guaged by the same pacemaker. In 1902 he tied for the low score medal with Travis, losing on the playoff. In 1904 at Baltusrol Ormiston defeated Travis in the second round of the championship by 3 and 1. Dormy 2, Ormiston holed a cleik shot on the seventeenth hole for 2 and the match. In 1898 and 1899 Findlay Douglas was the stumbling block in Travis' path to the title. It is odd that on the other occasions Travis has been put out it has been by a Pittsburger.

Miss Isabella Smith of the Evanston Golf Club is blossoming as a possible winner of the women's national championship at the Merion Cricket Club this fall. Last winter she won the women's championship of southern California and recently captured the tournament of the Midlothian Country Club, the greatest event for women of the Chicago clubs. She beat Miss Alva Sanders, a Wellesley girl of Midlothian, in the final by 4 and 3. In the semi-final Miss Smith beat Mrs. W. F. Anderson, the Women's W. G. A. champion.

At the Kebo Valley Country Club, Bar Harbor, weekly handicaps will be held this month and next for the cup presented by Mrs. George S. Robbins. The men's tournament for the Kebo Valley, Mount Desert and Pemeta cups will begin on August 10. The president's cup for members only will be in play on August 31 and the annual medal play cup is scheduled for September 4. Sailors are sometimes golfers, and on the day after the visit this month of the Eastern Yacht Club to Bar Harbor on the annual cruise there is to be a team match between the yachtsmen and the Kebo Valley Club members.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

What is probably the most remarkable train crew in the United States is that of the Chicago express over the Philadelphia and Reading and Lehigh Valley railroads, which leaves the Philadelphia terminal at 6:30 o'clock in the afternoon daily. The conductor of the train is H. M. Saltman, and both the engineer and fireman are his brothers.

Students of the school of mines at the University of Pittsburg will have practical experience in coal mining right in the school yard, where a shaft will be sunk to a thick vein of coal. The Pittsburg Coal Company will sink the shaft and will otherwise aid the students and faculty in carrying out the plan.

One result of the conference of judges, lawyers, police and prison officials and college professors held at Northwestern University, in connection with the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the law school, was the organization of the American Institute of Criminal Law. Annual conferences will be held and needed changes in the administration law will be the subject of some of the papers and reports.

THE BUSINESS OF SUMMER AMUSEMENT.

Forty million dollars is invested in the business of making Americans think they are having a good time in summer, says Robert Sloss in the July Van Norden Magazine. That means only summer amusements, such as are to be found in Coney Island, Venice, California, the various White Cities and subburban resorts throughout the country. It is no longer a haphazard, happy-go-lucky avocation with mushroom characteristics, but a permanent, solid industry, with enterprise and initiative as its watchword. It has its own association for mutual benefit and protection, although in no sense a trust; it has its own trade papers, every issue of which records a score of patents for new devices. Most of these are offered for sale to the successful managers, and most of them are turned down, either because the idea is not new or is to elaborate that it would cost more to carry out than could possibly be earned by it.

The regular weekly services were postponed at the First Baptist church, this week, on account of the Charter Day celebrations.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will make a special feature of its meetings during the summer season, it being planned to have special speakers and music.

150 MILES IN A DAY ON TROLLEY CARS

Those suburbanites who are seasoned trolley travelers, very seasoned and extremely enthusiastic, may like to have a possible one hundred and fifty mile trip in the outlying regions of New York brought to their notice. This trip is a complete and comprehensive tour of New Jersey from Long Branch very nearly up to Englewood, and as a day's journey has scarcely an equal in variety of territory covered. Only thorough tourists should try it, however, for it takes close to sixteen hours.

With a start at half-past eight in the morning from New York's Battery it is past midnight before the city is again reached. Thus the adventurous suburbanite must need spend a night in town after his journey.

The cost is one of the most agreeable parts of this long stretch of touring. After the entire journey has been made some change will still remain out of a two dollar bill.

The trip is not all by trolley car, moreover. It begins with a steamer ride in the cool of the early morning. This steamer journey, but part of this long, all day tour, might well be an outing by itself, for it covers the harbor of New York and takes in a good slice of the Jersey coast. The boat leaves the Battery, with its destination Pleasure Bay, but a little ways from Long Branch. Here uninterrupted and very fine trolley riding begins. From Pleasure Bay the route is to Long Branch. There is just opportunity for a glimpse at this very famous seaside resort, and then the trolley road bears inland. If there was time one could keep on directly south from here, past Allenhurst, Asbury Park and Belmar, to Point Pleasant. But such a detour would turn this into a two-day trip.

Here is one of the most delightful portions of the Jersey coast to begin on. The journey's first trolley stage leads in a very nearly direct route over a pleasing though flat country. Branchport, Oceanport, Eatontown, Shrewsbury, then Red Bank, New Monmouth, Keyport, South Amboy are the towns touched. It is now mid-afternoon. The coast is now left far behind and the car climbs into the New Jersey upland.

It is six o'clock when Bound Brook is reached and there is yet some seventy miles to go. The cool of the evening sees the traveller journeying through one of Jersey's most delightful countries—Plainfield, Westfield, Cranford, down to Elizabeth. There is then a rush across meadow land into Newark, and after that a climb of fifteen miles up to Paterson, along the valley of the Passaic. In these mountains the tour stops, and thereafter the way leads back toward New York, through Hackensack, into Fort Lee Henry.

By Fort Lee ferry it is but a short trip across the Hudson and the Broadway carries one quickly down town again.

PERSONAL.

Miss Ethel May Pig, of East Mauch Chunk, Pa., and Abraham Schermerhorn, of Trenton, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Schermerhorn, of Madison avenue, during the Charter Day celebration.

Charles Robison, treasurer of the Lambertsville Engine Company, and wife and Mr. and Mrs. B. Sprout, of Phillipsburg, are being entertained by Miss Mary Brown, of Washington avenue. The engine brought here from Lambertsville for today's parade, is valued highly, it having taken first prize at the Paris Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Schermerhorn, of the Jackson building, have had a delightful vacation of four weeks visiting friends in Pennsylvania. Returning they were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Meeker at their summer home, No. 5 Locust Grove, Bungalow Park, Deal Lake. After a week at Trenton they returned home bringing friends with them to enjoy the Charter Day celebration.

Decoy Fodder.

"Well," said Farmer Corntossel, "I've got to look after my tomatoes and string beans and things."

"You don't expect to feed all your summer borders out of that little garden, do you?" inquired the neighbor.

"Nope, I've put in my order for canned goods, as usual. That vegetable garden is just a decoy."—Washington Star.

Arrest in Newton Murder Case.

Mikly Cosonyovid was locked in the county jail at Newton yesterday, after Sheriff Lyons had spent several hours investigating the death of George Hudah, who was murdered early this morning in his cabin, half a mile from the McAfee Hotel. Hudah's throat was cut. The prisoner is said to have had a grudge against Hudah and to have threatened him.

—"Mrs. Biggs," from the pen of John Campbell Haywood, of this city, is the title of an intersting story appearing in the current number of Pearson's Magazine. Mr. Haywood is the senior warden of St. Stephen's church.

GUNS AND TENTS IN AFRICA.

In Harper's Weekly the Rev. Dr. W. S. Rainsford describes how the hunter's caravan is made to order in East Africa. It is a safe rule to allow twenty porters to carry your personal belongings, while a caravan of 100 porters—not including gun-boys, head man, tent-boys, cook, or syce, can carry for a month just 1,500 pounds more than their food. Of course one is mainly in the hands of the head man. The next ally is one's tent-boy, although Dr. Rainsford's exhibited an inexplicable reluctance to beat a swamp for a lion. The cook, of course, is an important personage. Least on the list is the toto, the apprentice boy, whom you see first as he totters along, under his heavy burden, in the rear of the column. The toto is not on the strength of the caravan, but is hired by a party of five or six porters to do their jobs around camp, carry water, cook food, etc. Most of the totos are orphans, "rickety, consumptive, half-starved atoms of humanity, who yet face with an African's quite wonderful cheeriness the chances of safri (caravan) life, because it offers them plentiful food and some sort of a home."

FADS FOR WOMEN.

What delightful rabats can be fashioned from scraps of linen and lace, and what a pretty finish they are to the popular Dutch collars. A tiny length of Irish crochet three by four inches, combined with a little val. makes a dainty decoration of this description.

The lace is edged on three sides with the val. insertion and a tiny frill is the finihs. An oval-shaped motif or a bow of Irish lace supports the end after gathering the top.

This is only one suggestion, but a close observance of those seen in the stores will provide ideas for the development of the numbers of short lengths of lace always on hand during the summer dressmaking period.

A lovely lingerie hat that a girl could fashion at home if she knows embroidery is made from handkerchief linen, stamped for working (crown and brim), to fit over a medium-sized sailor hat shape.

The under brim is covered with ruffles of narrow valenciennes lace, the embroidered piece covering the upper portion.

The embroidery fits the top of the crown exactly, and a broad soft ribbon conceals the sides of the crown, tying in a soft, large bow at the left side.

This is an extremely simple but dainty model.

FOR CLEANING WALLPAPER.

To clean wall paper use the following recipe: Ten cents' worth of liquid ammonia, 10 cents' worth of oil of sassafras, one teaspoonful (even full) of soda, two teaspoonfuls (even full) of salt and one quart of water. Mix the cold water with the ingredients, then add white flour until it is thick enough to drop from a spoon. Put in a covered pail, set in a kettle of boiling water, and cook until done, stirring often. If it does not stick to the hands when cool, it is done. Remove from the pail and divide into "loaves," working each piece a while in the hand. Take out only what is needed, leaving the rest covered in the pail, to prevent the ammonia from evaporating. Rub the wall with a loaf, working the dirt into the dough. When very dirty, exchange for a clean loaf. This removes dirt and grease magically and leaves old paper as good as new when used carefully.—Woman's Home Companion for June.

Soup should always be served in dishes of some sort, as otherwise it is apt to damage the table linen.

Small pieces of bread broken from the slice and spread judiciously with butter may be eaten from the hand, and are much liked by most persons.

Raisins are preferable to currants in all cakes and puddings made during the summer and early fall, as near-sighted persons are not so apt to mistake them for flies.

Speaking of flies reminds me that fipaper is always more effective when placed on tables or window sills with th sticky side up and exposed to the air.—From Judge.

for home furnishers than ours. The news of this home decorative store justly demands your attention. Almost everything that constitutes desirable home furnishings is here in abundance, variety, goodness and low price. And when you consider the vast amount of valuable service that this store renders the public; the high class of goods it handles; the splendid advantages it maintains over other stores; the resourses that enables it to buy largely, insuring a minimum first cost on all goods—is it any wonder that its advertising news is eagerly looked for?

And is there any wonder that we assert that "There's no Better Store News" for home furnishers?

To Break Daughter's Will.

Mrs. Mary A. Freeman, of New York, filed an appeal at Newark yesterday from the probate of the will of her daughter, Miss Theone E. Freeman, of East Orange, who died last Christmas. Miss Freeman left her estate, which is valued at about $6,000, to her paternal grandmother and Ruth Gustafson, of Udden, Sweden. Mrs. Freeman alleges that her daughter was lacking in testamentary capacity.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Muir, of Newark, are spending the summer here, at the home of Mrs. Muir's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer, while the latter are in Europe.

Bids for the new school addition will be opened Friday night by District Clerk Thomas J. Nicholl, in the office of the board at the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole, of Front street, have been entertaining friends from out of town, over the Fourth.

Everyone who possibly could has been taking in the Charter Day exercises being held in Plainfield.

Excelsior H. & L. Co. and its new truck took part in the Firemen's parade, held today in Plainefild.

Mrs. George Stillger, of Front street, is spending a week with relatives at Sterling, N. J.

Fanwood B. .E Co. holds its regular monthly meeting tonight in the company's rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deegan have been entertaining friends from New Market.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad Company is now grading for a siding between Potters and South Plainfield. The work is in charge of William Rielley, of South Plainfield.

Mrs. John Horan and her daughters, Elizabeth and Rose, are spending a few days with relatives in Plainfield.

Miss Maguire, of New York, is spending a few days with her friend, Mrs. W. Leddin, of Brookside avenue.

The Middlesex Water Company has now completed the putting in of the new hydrants.

Mrs. Vogal, of Jersey City, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Mary McDonough, of this place.

BURNS-JOHNSON FIGHT PICTURES AT THEATRE.

The Plainfield theatre is entertaining crowds with the moving pictures of the Burns-Johnson fight held at Sydney, Australia, December 26, 1908. The pictures show that the newspaper accounts of the fight in which it was claimed that Burns did all the leading, were correct. P. J. Stevenson, who gives a short lecture explaining the various incidents of interest connected with the contest, makes the spectator feel as though he were witnessing the real thing. Friday night Robert Fitzsimmons and his family will witness the pictures from a box and Bob will probably have something to say about them.

Drunk Hurt By Fall.

Stumbling on the curb while in an intoxicated condition at Park avenue and East Second street, this morning, Jeremiah Griffin sustained a severe cut over the right eye as he hit the brick pavement. He was taken to the emergency hospital by Patrolman Messler, where Dr. Wooley closed the wound with a stitch. Griffin was afterwards locked up for drunkenness.

Coffee Cause of Martial Troubles.

The principal thing alleged to have been the cause of the marriage failure of Mrs. Amy M. Weill and George W. Weill, of West Hoboken, was his dissatisfaction with her method of making coffee. The allegation is contained in papers submitted to Vice-Chancellor Garrison, in Jersey City, yesterday, at a hearing on Mrs. Weill's motion for alimony.

Mrs. George Simons and daughter, Miss Alice Simons, of South avenue, leave tomorrow for a two months sojourn in Germany.

THE CROWD WAS THERE; BUT THE BAND WASN'T

A large crowd of disappointed people turned away from the band stand last night after it became evident that the concert announced in the official program was not to take place. These people came from Somerville, Dunellen, Westfield, and in fact from all points east and west from this city for a distance of ten miles. Many were the imprecations cast at the heads of those who had caused them to make the trip unnecessarily. Councilman William L. Smalley, Jr., saved the people of North Plainfield from the trouble by stationing two men at the West End avenue bridge warning those on their way that there would not be any music nor fireworks.

The crowds began to arrive as early as half past six, and by half past seven there were at least 10,000 persons on the grounds and the grand stand was full. A large number attended the performances at the carnival grounds, thus getting some satisfaction for the time spent.

MR. SWACKHAMER'S TALK

Speech Delivered by Former Assemblyman at Opening Ceremonies.

HE EULOGIZES THE BOROUGH.

Silver-Tongued Orator's Speech at the Open-Air Meeting Monday Afternoon.

Following is the address delivered by former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer at the open-air meeting of the Charter Day celebration on Monday afternoon:

"I shall not attempt to add a single touch to the glowing picture just drawn of the City of Plainfield, the municipal belle of Union county.

"We can only say that the portrait does not flatter the original, and then stand back and admire.

"Turn now to the crown jewel of Somerset county. The borough of North Plainfield may well exult in her virtual exemption from debt, her bonded obligations falling below the sum of sixty-nine thousand dollars. She may well exult in a wise and conservative administration of her municipal affairs and in the personnel of her public officials. She may well exult in her pleasant cite, her well shaded streets and avenues, her fine public buildings, her commercial advantages, her business enterprise and the wealth of her natural resources.

"She may well exult in the cunning of her craftsmen, in the opulence of her merchants, in the mournful music, the languor and irresolution of her sad eyed mosquitoes and in the poverty and despair of her lawyers and doctors, these latter, putting in their bills, sucking the blood and subsisting on the quarrels and diseases of the people. She may well exult in the piety and eloquence of her pulpit, in the fame and learning of her schools, in the loveliness of her scenery, crowned with its mountain glory, in the comfort and elegance of her homes, in the industry and integrity of her sons, in the virtue, wit and beauty of her daughters.

Eulogizes Borough.

"Her history is rich in pleasant memories and her future is red with promise; but I am not here to speak her eulogy. This is a national as well as a local jubilee.

"It has been well said that not only, where men are asembled, as we are here, will this Sabbath of the nation be kept and honored. The lonely and remote will have their parts in its commemoration.

"Where the boatman follows the winding stream or the woodman explores the forest shades; where the miner lays down his eager drill beside rocks which guard the precious veins, or where the herdsman, along the Sierras looks forth on the seas which now reflect the rising day, which at our midnight shall be gleaming like gold in the setting sun; there will this day be regarded as a day of memorial. And yet beyond on the boulevards of Paris, in the streets of Berlin, and along the levelled bastions of Vienna, at Marseilles, and at Florence, upon the silent liquid ways of stately Venice, in the passes of the Alps, under the shadow of church and obelisk, palace and ruin, which still prolong the majesty of Rome; yet farther east, on the Bosphorus and in Syria, in Egypt, along the heights behind Bombay, in the foreign throngs of Canton, in the Islands of the Morning, which found the dawn of their new age in the startling sight of an American Squadron entering their bays—everywhere will be those who have thought of this day and who join with us to greet its coming.

A Benediction.

The Declaration of American Independence was a benediction to the world.

* * * * * * *

"For the inestimable blessings of Civil and Religious Liberty which we enjoy, our Fathers pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor, and having received so rich a heritage, it is incumbent upon us to transmit it untarnished to the generations that are to follow. It is incumbent upon us to cherish and maintain the principles of justice and equality. It is incumbent upon us to uphold the Constitution and the laws. It is incumbent upon us to insure the due discharge of public duty by the cultivation of private virtue. It is incumbent upon us to prove worthy of the priceless privileges of American citizenship.

"New occasions teach new duties,
Time makes ancient good uncouth,
They must upward still and onward
Who would keep agreast of truth.
Lo, before us gleam her camp fires,
We ourselves must pilgrims be,
Launch our Mayflower and steer boldly,
Through the desperate winter sea,
Nor attempt the Future's portal
With the past's blood-rusted key."

"May the spirit of the fathers animate the sons, and may America, the vestal priestess, hold the crystal cup of liberty to the burning lips of bondage till every chain is broken and every fetter falls.

"And now with the holy memories of the past crowding upon us; with the glories of the future opening before us; with the flag of the free floating o'er us, let us consecrate ourselves anew to our country and our God.

SIGNALS OF DISTRESS.

Plainfield People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

The secretions are dark, contain a sediment.

Passages are frequent, scanty, painful.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and disorders.

Plainfield evidence proves this statement.

Mrs. W. W. Mills, 304 West Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "A dull, heavy bearing down pain in my back bothered me a great deal, especially when I caught cold. I had frequent headaches and was at times so dizzy that I could scarcely see. If I did much stooping or lifting, my back became very lame and though I used plasters, they relieved me only for the time being. Finally, on the advice of a friend, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacyand and used them. They acted in every way as represented and in a short time rid me of all symptoms of kidney trouble. I am pleased to recommend a remedy of such undoubted merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Stone Roads

Elizabeth, N. J.

Sealed proposals will be received by the County Road Commitee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., at the Court House, Elizabeth, New Jersey, at 2:30 p. m., on Friday, July 9, 1909, for the construction of a stone road with the second course of "Amiesite," beginning at South Avenue and extending to Raritan Road.

The length of the roadway between said points is about 9,982 lineal feet. The width of the stone work is sixteen (16) feet.

The estimated quantities of the work are as follows:

|---|---|
| Excavations | 27,367 cu. yds. |
| Excavations outside road | 2,306 cu. yds. |
| Amiesite road | 17,900 sq. yds. |
| Macadam driveways | 240 sq. yds. |
| Belgian block gutters | 44 sq. yds. |

Plans, profiles and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer, 201 Park Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Bidders must enclose with their proposals a certified check for One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), made payable to the order of Benjamin King, Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., as guarantee that if the contract be awarded to such bidder, the bidder will enter into an agreement with the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union for the performance of the work according to the specifications.

The said Board of Chosen Freeholders or its Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the county.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Believing that he can make his friends forget all about the warm weather, Joseph C. Shivers, a Marlton farmer, has resurrected a sleigh 102 years old.

On his way home Sunday, Ebenezer Hoskens, nine years old, of 1123 South Ninth street, Camden, was attacked by a dog and bitten on the left ankle. He was cared for at Cooper Hospital.

The Gloucester Fire Department will celebrate its thirty-fourth anniversary by a street parade and block party on Bergen street on July 16 and 17, under direction of the ladies auxiliary.

The Millville glassworkers have instructed their delegates to the State Federation convention to oppose any effort made to increase the age limit of minors employed in factories and mills.

Miss Clara Walker, daughter of Frank Walker, a farmer of Jona, while leading a cow, became entangled in the rope and was dragged several yards, lacerating her head and body in several places.

The parole of Samuel Dula, colored, sentenced to twelve years for murder, came as a surprise to the Atlantic City police, who were not aware that any petition for his release had been filed.

Otis Robbins, a fourteen-year-old Trenton boy, became confused by the tooting of an automobile horn, rode his bicycle directly in front of the machine, was knocked from his wheel and badly hurt.

Catching a fish bone in her throat while at dinner Sunday, Sallie Worto, three years old, of Locust and Spruce streets, Camden, nearly choked to death. She was relieved at the Homeopathic Hospital.

On his way home yesterday, Walter Beckett, fifty-four years old, of 114 Spruce street, Camden, was struck with a brick hurled from an alley. His badly cut head was cared for at the Homeopathic Hospital.

As she didn't arise at 7 o'clock to get his breakfast yesterday morning, William Dunn, of Beverly, called his wife. Receiving no response he went to her room. She was dead. Heart disease caused her death.

During a game of baseball between the Country Club and West End teams at Woodbury, Charles Darrow, of Williamstown, centre fielder on the West End team, had his nose fractured by colliding with another fielder in going after a fly.

Rev. Edgar Bruce Price began his pastorate of the Bergen Point Baptist church, Bayonne, Sunday. He came from Phenixville, Pa., and succeeds Rev. William W. Barker, who resigned to become associate pastor of Calvary Baptist church, Manhattan.

Percy Clark, the thirteen-year-old son of S. P. Clark, of Pitman, was jabbed in the leg with an indelible pencil while at school and the wound has refused to yield to treatment. Large pieces of flesh have been removed with the hope of preventing lockjaw.

Mrs. Harmon Nathan, wife of the Clayton cattle dealer, was kicked in the back by a cow, and just recovered sufficiently to be about when a mule ran away and threw her out of the wagon, injuring her again in the back where the cow kicked her.

Mrs. Clara Evans, of Beverly, celebrated her ninety-second birthday anniversary yesterday with an informal gathering of children and grandchildren. The aged woman suffered a stroke of paralysis two weeks ago, but is now able to be about again in good health.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Taylor, formerly of Paterson, and still well known to what Mr. Taylor terms "the old timers," celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at the home of their son, Police Captain John H. Taylor, 13 Twenty-second avenue, Paterson, last night.

St. Anne's Roman Catholic church, the handsome stone edifice just completed at Pacific and Magnolia avenues, Wildwood, was dedicated with impressive ceremonies Sunday before a large gathering. The dedicatory services were conducted by Bishop McFaul, assisted by a number of prominent clergymen.

Rather than miss a score while practising on the Bordentown rifle range, Sergeant Clinton B. Higgins, a Trenton National Guard officer, permitted a big green fly to bite him on the arm. Now Higgins is suffering from blood poison, with the doctors doing everything possible to make amputation unnecessary.

A warrant has been issued for Attorney James B. Adams, by the Eagles, of which Atlantic City organization he was treasurer, which charge him with being short in his accounts with the lodge. Adams has been missing since June 11. It is alleged by members that there are discrepancies between the cash in bank and what should be on deposit, $1,100.

Robert Burns, a Philadelphia salesman, was walking along the street in Trenton Sunday, when he heard the scream of a child and looking up saw an automobile bearing down on a little girl, with the chauffeur making frantic, but ineffectual attempts to stop. Burns jumped to the child's rescue in time to save her life, the automobile brushing his clothes as he thrust her to a place of safety. The child was seven-year-old Gladys Goldsmith.

The citizens of Woodbury are vexed over the ordinance passed by the council eliminating vehicles of all kinds from sidewalks of streets that are improved. The ordinance as passed makes it unlawful for a child under five years old to push or propel any vehicle on any sidewalk in the city, and over that age it is unlawful for any person to push or propel any vehicle on sidewalks having improved roadways. The ordinance is now in the hands of the Mayor, awaiting his signature.

A quick jump from their automobile probably saved the lives of a party of Philadelphians on their way to Atlantic City at the Absecon avenue crossing, a mile below May's Landing, Sunday afternoon. The car was running at moderate speed along the county boulevard, when near the crossing an electric express loomed up. The chauffeur shut off power and halted on the tracks, but before he could back off the train crashed into the car, partly demolishing it. All the occupants had jumped to safety.

Harry F. Cook, of Spring City, Pa., who made the trip to Atlantic City in his big automobile, ran the heavy car into a 'bus on crowded Pacific avenue Sunday afternoon. Cook and his two companions, Henry Emmers and Charles Floyd, escaped with a bad shaking up and a few bruises, but the front of the auto and the 'bus were both wrecked and the 'bus horse was killed. Cook was taken to police headquarters and held under bail for a hearing on the charge of reckless driving, but claims that he was not at fault.

THE MAID.

Thunder of riotous hoofs over the quaking sod;
Clash the reeking squadrons, steel-capped, iron-shod;
The White Maid and the white horse and the flapping banner of God.

Black hearts riding for money; red hearts riding for fame;
The Maid who rides for France, and the King who rides for shame;
Gentlemen, fools and a saint riding in Christ's high name!

"Dust to dust!" it is written. Wind-scattered are lance and bow.
Dust the Cross of Saint George; dust the banner of snow.
The bones of the King are crumbled, and rotted the shafts of the foe.

Forgotten the young knight's valor; forgotten the captain's skill;
Forgotten the fear and the hate and the mailed hands raised to kill;
Forgotten the shields that clashed and the arrows that cried so shrill.

Like a story from some old book that battle of long ago;
Shadows of poor French king and the might of his English foe;
Shadows the charging nobles and the archers kneeling a-row—
But a flame in my heart and my eyes, the Maid with her banner of snow!

—Theodore Roberts in the Pall Mall Magazine.

SEWING HINTS.

When making buttonholes in material always choose a thread twenty numbers coarser than that which you would naturally use in that material. For instance, if you are sewing a piece of material with No. 80 cotton you can work the buttonholes with No. 60.

To prevent the thread from knotting when doing hand sewing always make a knot in the end last broken from the spool. This done, stretch the thread by taking the ends and giving several quick pulls.

A little tin ruler is much easier to use than the tape measure for the measuring of little things, such as bands, hems and tucks.

If you sew a waistbone up the back of a tape measure for the first ten inches you will have a means at hand to rapidly measure skirt lengths and lines for trimming.

A few paper clips are invaluable in the sewing basket, for they may hold together scraps, pieces of patterns and bits of lace.

Some thumb tacks, such as artists and draughtsmen use, will be found an invaluable help in the sewroom. You will need them to fasten long gores of slippery silk to your lapboard or cutting table.

He Appreciated the Combination.

"Of course," said the half regretful wooer, "if your family doesn't think I'm good enough, why, I don't want to intrude where I'm not wanted."

"I'll look out for that," said the businesslike young woman. "I think you are good enough, and my brother is a lawyer. Do you appreciate the combination?"

He did and remained in.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Greenhorns Cautious.

"I am afraid to go with you. Do you understand managing a boat?"

"No," replied the youth, "but I notice that the fellows who know all about it are the ones that get drowned."

Taking this hopeful view, the girl relented and experienced nothing more tragic than a sunburn nose.—Philadelphia Ledger.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Congressman Fowler to Step Down.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of New Jersey, chairman of the House committee on banking and currency, is to be deposed both from his chairmanship and as a member of the committee. Mr. Fowler has been an erratic and, in the judgment of many financial experts, an unsafe committee chairman. He has had his own ideas of a national financial system, and he obstinately adhered to them, but it cannot be said with any degree of consistency. He introduced several bills of his own in the House and they all differed essentially. He antagonized his party two years ago when the Vreeland emergency currency bill was passed, and it was necessary to sit down upon him as chairman of an important committee. Mr. Fowler had his own pet bill to pass at that session, but it was too intricate to be studied in the short time given to Congress. Mr. Fowler's committee refused to report the Vreeland bill and the House was compelled to order the committee to report it. After that had happened Mr. Fowler attempted to defeat the emergency bill, and after the session has made some offensive speeches on the subject. The banking and currency committee of the new House at the next regular session will be the most important committee of all. The report of the National Monetary Commission will be submitted to Congress and referred to this committee, and a bill will be prepared for a new currency system in accordance with the recommendations to be made. It is necessary to have on the committee men of cool judgment and expert knowledge, as it will draft the legislation to be enacted.—Newark Star.

THE SILENT PARTNER.

A novel kitchen shower for a bride-to-be is contained in Woman's Home Companion for June: "The invitations were obliged to be verbal, as they suggested contributions for the necessary articles required for the Silent Partner, whose needs must be definitely considered. The result proves no end of fun

"The skeleton of the Silent Partner was found to be a new broom. The head, made of paper, was tied to the top of the handle with a natural looking face drawn upon it with pen and ink. Below the head, in the place where shoulders are expected to appear, a piece of lath about one and one-half feet long had been nailed to the broom handle

"Then, with newspapers and twine, a fairly well shaped body was made. To each shoulder was fastened a pancake shovel and fire shovel, tin spoons for arms, and these were covered with tea towels pinned on in the form of bell-sleeves. The Silent Partner wore a long gingham apron made with a bib, and upon her head was a sweeping cap. A cheesecloth duster covered her shoulders as a fichu and fastened in front with a cooky cutter for a 'sunburst.'

"Tea and coffee strainers were hung from each side of the head for earrings. The dusting bag hung from one arm, while in the pocket of the apron was a bar of soap and a dishcloth. The apron strings were brought around in front and tied, while on the ends were fastened an eggbeater, paring knife and nutmeg greater.

"Above her head and pinned to the wall was a card bearing her name. No article for kitchen use was forgotten, all those not in sight being cunningly bestowed on the person of the Silent Partner."

THE HEROIC MILITARY SPY.

For more than a year past William Gilmore Beymer has been at work for Harper's Magazine, searching the Civil War records and interviewing survivors for facts about the military scouts, sometimes erroneously called "spies." Mr. Beymer's first story, "Rowand," opens the June number of Harper's, and tells a heroic tale of daring deeds, in which Rowand and his companions play the leading part. Archibald H. Rowand, Jr., is still living, and his feats—of which he speaks with the usual soldierly modesty—are matters of record. In one of General Sheridan's reports of expeditions he especially thanks the scouts for their valuable help. Of the "thirty or forty" whom he then thanked, ten had been found hanging by their own halter straps, several were never heard of again, and the rest were killed "like trapped animalls, fighting desperately, at bay." These are the sort of men of whom Mr. Beymer writes.

THE NEW IDEA MEN SCORE ON REGULARS.

Supreme Court Judge Swayze, in Trenton yesterday, granted a rule directing John Rotherham, chairman of the Hudson County Republican Committee, to show cause on July 19, in Jersey City, why the court should not command him to file with the Hudson county municipal clerks statements calling for the election of a new county committee at the primaries on September 28.

Application for the rule was made by J. Merritt Lane for the New Idea organization on affidavits of Forrest A. Heath, Thomas J. Halligan and David A. Murray, of Jersey City, that they are illegally shut out from the right of seeking membership in the county committee.

The County Committee last winter adopted a new constitution which provides for the election of two members from each election district instead of a member for every one hundred voters or fraction in an election district. Mr. Lane argued that the proposed new method is illegal and that the present County Committee is only a de facto body that ends with the September primary.

Given a Suspended Sentence.

William Conley, arrested by Officer Keller in North Plainfield yesterday for drunkenness, was let go by Recorder Dolliver this morning under a suspended sentence.

A BIG CELEBRATION AT BERKELEY HEIGHTS

Berkeley Heights did itself proud in celebrating the Fourth of July on the grounds of the Lyceum, Berkeley Heights, July 3, from five in the afternoon until midnight. The celebration opened by the children, women and men of the entire township of New Providence singing "The Lord's Prayer;" a choice program of music and singing followed and William Jeffery adressed the audience on "Real Independence" amid several outbursts of applause and cheers. In his remarks he showed that real independence and liberty can be maintained only through intelligent voting and that the ballot box is the clearing house of independence—love for the children secured for them the attention they dearly deserve.

The talented women who rendered musical selections were: Mrs. Cyrus Beatty, Miss Nellie Hulmes, of Berkeley Heights; and Miss Gertrude Kelynack and Miss Irene Kelynack, of Yonkers, N. Y., the latter also giving a splendid exhibition of artistic dancing. Frank C. Shaffer, the popular favorite, rendered two beautiful selections on the banjo accompanied by Mr. Harry Schulte, of New York. After unfurling the flag, the children's parade for one mile was headed by Miss Columbia, Miss Hortense Shaffer, and Uncle Sam, Master Frank Romano, richly and suitably attired, with a band of sixteen pieces from Plainfield, followed by one hundred members of the society of "Our Men," of New Providence township, marshalled by William Woodruff, the principal of the township schools.

After the parade, ice cream, sandwiches, and lemonade were served, the children all being served first. A band concert followed and fireworks were set off until 11 o'clock, then the grown folks enjoyed a fancy ball in the Lyceum and on the grand pavilion erected for the occasion, all suitably lit by numerous electric lights.

The event was the greatest ever held in the township and was attended by two hundred children and over eight hundred adults, many of whom came from Union village, New Providence, Summit, Newark, and Plainfield. The event was held under the auspices of the society of "Our Men" of Berkeley Heights, president, William Jeffery, treasurer, Angelo Delduco; secretary, Frank C. Shaffer.

INSPECTOR APPOINTED FOR FOOD AND DRUGS

At the meeting of the Board of Health held last night the health officer reported that during the month of June there were forty-two cases of communicable diseases reported. These are divided as follows: Scarlet fever, 1; diptheria, 1; tuberculosis, 5; typhoid fever, 1; chicken pox, 2; measles, 2. There are at the present time but one case of typhoid and four cases of scarlet fever. Three of these cases are in the Isolation ward at Muhlenberg Hospital.

Assistant Health Officer John O'Brien, Jr., was appointed food and drug inspector of the city.

During the month of June there were thirty-seven marriages, thirty-eight births and twenty-three deaths. Of the twenty-three deaths twelve were over sixty yars of age. Thirty-one samples of milk were collected and analyzed and ninety-seven dairies were inspected in the last month.

An inspection has been begun of the ice cream manufacturers and retail places, and it is the intention of the Board to inspect the ice cream supply during the summer months.

The following applications for permits for barber shops have been granted: George Richter, Mario Sanfilippo, William Fehring, Brown & Hill, Harry Poreslio, James Bolling.

Ice permits were granted to the following: Plainfield Ice and Supply Co., John E. Watson, McDonald & Ivamy, John Morton, F. S. Sabocher, and the following milk permits were granted: Dehart & Hull, Clarkhurst Farms. One hundred and sixty-seven inspections were made on complaints of nuisances received.

Priests Fight Fire in Seton Hall.

Seton Hall College, South Orange, had another fire early yesterday, which, however, was discovered in time to prevent serious loss. It is estimated that the damage will not exceed $1,000. The Rev. Dr. James F. Mooney, president of the college, and the Rev. Francis McHugh were in the building at the time. Michael Lenihan, a seminarian, discovered the fire and gave the alarm. While waiting for the fire department the two priests held the fire in check with extinguishers.

Proctor's Theatre Popular.

Proctor's theatre is the popular place of amusement these days and thousands of patrons have enjoyed the fine show this week. Today there will be an entire change of program with high-class vaudeville and fine motion pictures. Every effort is being made to give Plainfielders and their guests an up-to-date show at a minimum price.

CITY FATHERS ORDER ASSESSMENT MAP

Councilman Buxton provoked a spirited discussion at the July meeting of the Common Council, last night, when he offered a resolution which provided that Assessor H. C. VanEmburg should receive $125 for taking care of the assessment maps the coming year, making all necessary transfers, and $100 additional for locating new buildings on the maps. There was considerable discussion a year ago when the same matter was introduced.

Councilman Holt wanted to know if the matter had been passed upon by the finance committee. He said that it seemed like a large amount to pay for such work, but he might be mistaken. However, he preferred to investigate the matter more fully before voting one way or the other. Mr. Mygatt also opposed the resolution. He said that $125 seemed to be a fair price for taking care of the maps, but it was a question whether Mr. VanEmburgh should be paid $100 additional for the other work. He moved to lay the matter on the table, but afterward withdrew the motion so that one offered by Mr. Clay referring it to the finance committee could be passed. This was done.

Mr. Buxton protested holding up the resolution. He said that Mr. VanEmburgh's work had always been satisfactory. The changes are becoming so numerous that it had been agreed that the amount paid was fair. He could see no reason why the matter should be held up even for a week.

Redeemed Their Revolvers.

Because they violated the fireworks ordinance by discharging blank cartridge revolvers on the street during the Fourth of July celebration, five young men had to come to police headquarters this morning to get their "guns." C. E. Weber, of Central avenue, filed a remonstrance against Special Officer William Walters for "unnecessary roughness" in taking him to headquarters when he refused to give up a revolver Monday.

MISS NASH'S MARRIAGE

Daughter of Charles Irvington Nash Becomes Mrs. Charles Edgar Pettit.

REV. MR. CULP OFFICIATES.

Mrs. George Brown Whitfield Matron of Honor—Harry Wells Nash Best Man.

Miss Beatrice Oliver Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irvington Nash, of DeLacey avenue, was the bride of Charles Edgar Petit, of Bound Brok, last night, when the wedding ceremony was performed at her parents' home by Rev. C. J. Culp, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Bound Brook. The ceremony was performed in the library of the home, where the couple stood in a bower of palms and white roses. The house was lavishly decorated, the general color scheme being green and white. There were about fifty guests, comprising the relatives and most intimate friends of the couple.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white directoire satin gown, trimmed with Duchess lace. She wore a bridal veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white gardenia and litlies of the valley. She was attended by Mrs. George Brown Whitfield, of Brooklyn, as matron of honor. Mrs. Whitfield wore a white embroidered robe, made over pink silk, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Harry Wells Nash, brother of the bride, was best man. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as the bridal party etnered the room, Sophus Lassen being at the piano.

Following the ceremony, an elaborate collation was served by DeMolli, covers being laid for fifty guests. Mr. and Mrs. Pettit will spend their honeymoon in the Catskills, and will their home in Chicago. Mr. Pettit is in the jewelry business. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William W. Middlebrook, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. E. Hohn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Paddock, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Plumtree, Mrs. M. McDermott, John Wells and Frank P. Share, all of Brooklyn.

FINED 'EM $15 EACH FOR SPEEDING AUTOS

"Fast automobile driving will not be tolerated in the borough." So said Borough Recorder Dolliver to George Reese, of Orange, and John Warren, of New York city, in the borough court this morning. These men, disregarding the warnings of the police, drove their racing cars at breakneck speed up Somerset street and when ordered to slow up hurried on all the faster. Policeman Guinee caught the numbers on both machines and later the chauffeurs were haled to court.

Recorder Dolliver imposed a fine of fifteen dollars in each case and it is hoped this will serve as a warning to other drivers who think they can violate the speed laws with impunity. Reese and Warren both participated in the hill-climbing contest on Tuesday.

ONLY THREE CASES IN DISTRICT COURT

There were two cases called at the session of the District court this morning. The first one was that of William H. Abbott against Emma D. Harrison, William M. Harrison, trading as Harrison & Co., on contract for $500. The complainant brought suit to recover money claimed to be due on notes, while the defendants claimed a set off on failure to fulfill contract and notes not paid. Decision was reserved.

The other case was that of Herbert C. McVoy against Howard H. Williams, on contract for $100. The principal witness of the plaintiff disobeyed subpoena and failed to appear at the trial. It was adjourned to September 16. In all thirty cases were adjourned and possession of premises was given in two land and tenant cases.

—Currants, sour cherries, red and black raspberries, pineapples, etc., for preserving can now be found at Neuman Bros.' grocery in quantities to suit and at low prices.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will be the speaker at the Salvation Army meeting in the tent on Watchung avenue, this evening. Martin A. Korff will have charge of the music.

THOS. W. BAKEWELL DEAD

Corporation Lawyer Stricken in Court Expires in a Few Minutes.

WAS U. S. STEEL'S LAWYER.

Wife and Two Children Survive Him—Aged 55 Years—Graduate of Western U. P.—Lived Here Two Years.

Thomas W. Bakewell, a prominent lawyer, residing on West Eighth street, this city, died suddenly yesterday in the office of Clerk H. D. Gamble of the United States District Court in the Federal building Pittsburg. Mr. Bakewell was stricken as he finished an argument in court and was assisted from the room dying. He was carried into the clerk's office adjoining, where he expired within a few minutes.

Mr. Bakewell had been in Chicago and left that city for Pittsburg Tuesday night, arriving there yesterday morning to take part in the argument of the suit of the Mississippi Wire Glass Company against the Pittsburg Plate Glass Company. He represented the complainant company, and had just completed his argument when he became ill.

Upon his arrival in Pittsburg he had complained of feeling exhausted after a hard day in Chicago and a hot night's ride. Judge Joseph Buffington was first to notice Attorney Bakewell sinking before the bar yesterday.

Mr. Bakewell was an attorney for the United States Steel Corporation and was 55 years of age. He lived in Pittsburg until six years ago, when his duties for the corporation made it necessary for him to live nearer New York. He purchased the Evarts Tracy property on West Eighth street, where he expended a great deal of money in general improvements. His New York offices were in Nassau street. He still retained offices in the Frick building, Pittsburg, being senior member of the firm of Bakewell & Byrnes.

Mr. Bakewell was a son of William Bakewell. He leaves a wife, a son, Allen K. Bakewell, and one daughter, Miss Euphemia Bakewell, who have been in the Thousand Islands for several weeks. They are expected to arrive here today. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. G. L. Holdship and Mrs. Charles Wharton, of Pittsburg.

Mr. Bakewell was graduated from the Western University of Pennsylvania, where he took the highest honors. Later he took the law course. He began the practice of law with his father, William Bakewell, a pioneer in this special work. He was married to Miss King, daughter of Dr. C. B. King, of Pittsburg, about twenty years ago. He was a member of the Duquesne and Pittsburg clubs.

SNAKE EXHIBITOR'S LANGUAGE IMPROPER

Colonel W. D. Westlake, of Brooklyn, who was in charge of the "wonderful exhibit of "living reptiles from all parts of the world" at the Galaschauen, was arrested at the show grounds last night, when Patrolman Charles Flynn took exception to some language passed out to him as he sought to enter the tent and see "the valuable collection of snakes," crawling around in the pit as they do in their native haunts." The arrest was by order of Detective Sergeant John Flynn, who overheard the argument between the men, and the two officers, assisted by Patrolman Anderson and Patrolman McCarthy, "snaked" the colonel to the patrol box at such a round pace that his exodus proved one of the big galaschauen of the evening.

At police headquarters, the colonel flashed an elaborately embossed calling card, and said he was a G. A. R. man, and the arrest was an outrage. He outraged about it in a cell for a little while and then was paroled. At court today he told City Judge Runyon that the arrest was a case of pure spite, but as all the patrolmen who are involved were not at court, the case was postponed until tomorrow morning.

Praise From Passaic Firemen.

Nelson Stoddard and John Stechmann, members of Engine Co. No. 5, of the Passaic City Volunteer Co., were the guests of R. L. Day, of this city, during the three days' Charter Day celebration. They were profuse in their words of praise over the way the committee handled the firemen's parade and the entertainment of the firemen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, of Brooklyn, have returned home after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Devine, of Liberty street.

FIREMEN'S DEMONSTRATION CHARTER DAYS' CROWNING FEATURE

FIREMEN ARE ENTERTAINED

Visiting Chiefs and Other Invited Guests Attended Dinner.

THE COMPLIMENTS PROFUSE.

Former Chief Purroy, of Newark, and Countless Others Among the Merry Ones.

The dinner tendered to the visiting chiefs yesterday was attended by about 20 heads of the various departments and a number of other guests and it was pronounced a fine spread. Former Chief Purroy, of the New York City department was one of the guests, and entertained some of his near neighbors with anecdotes of his experiences in the greatest fire department in the world.

One of the most disastrous fires in point of loss of life was the burning of the old Potter building at the corner of Beekman and Nassau streets in 1883, when Mr. Purroy was in charge of the department. In this holcaust twenty people lost their lives, many through jumping from the upper floors. The New York World was then housed in the building and was enjoying a circulation of about 30,000, and it was in the plant of that paper the fire originated.

Many other interesting reminiscences were called to mind by the narration of the first story and the fire fighters swapped stories to their hearts' content. Incidentally, the local department came in for a special eulogy on their up-to-date equipment and evident efficiency. The magnificent pair of grey horses which won the blue ribbon at the recent horse show were the subjects of much favorable comment. It was said that they would win a blue ribbon anywhere. Not much of the equipment of Plainfield's men escaped the notice of the visitors, who were not slow to voice their opinions.

Compliments flew thick and fast once the conversation became general and the hearty laughter denoted keen enjoyment. Those who got near enough to the talkative men were just in time to miss the point of some good joke, and no amount of persuasion would induce the teller to repeat. Chiefs Arnett, of Lambertville, and Davis, of Roselle, said they had the time of their lives.

The Chiefs present at the banquet were: Arnett, Lambertville; Neighbor, High Bridge; Whitehead, Boonton; Shapter, of Summit; Stoney, of Keyport; Schreier, of Roosevelt; O'Neill, of Ridgewood; Higgins, of Princeton; Hathaway, of Dover; Mead, of Perth Amboy; Wise, of Somerville; Wyhuskey, of Dunellen; Thornton, of New Market; Decker, of Westfield; Allen, of Trenton; Kierstine and Stone, of Newark; ex-chief Purroy, of New York city; Brampton, of Bound Brook; Bowers, of Cranford; Gerstung, of Elizabeth; Hann, of Flemington; Pfeister, of Phillipsburg; Peck, of New Providence; Greenwald, of New Brunswick; Chamberlain, of Raritan; Davis, of Roselle; Mount, of Red Bank; Cunningham, of Passaic, and assistant Chief Walter S. Gibson, of Passaic.

The visiting firemen were entertained at dinner at the Morris Garage where, they said, the repast was both bountiful and good. Mayor Fisk and Mayor Townsend and other officials of the city and borough governments were the guests of the chiefs, and thoroughly enjoyed the feast.

A remarkable feature of the day's celebration was the uniform sobriety. No event in the history of the city ever passed off with so little friction and so few arrests. Many of the visiting throngs of people visited the Galaschauen after the fireworks display, whole companies stopping there on their way to their home towns. A conservative estimate places the number of visitors in town last night at 30,000.

The judges who awarded the various trophies were: Chief Mount, of Red Bank; Deputy Chief Stone, of Newark; Chief Allen, of Trenton, and Chief Kiersted, of Newark.

Will Enter University of California.

Washington McIntyre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McIntyre, of Watchung avenue, left today for California, where he will enter the University of California at Berkeley on August 15, as a freshman. He was graduated from the Plainfield High School this year. Previous to entering college he will spend the time in the Rocky Mountains.

To the sad and doubting skeptic who is bilious or dyspeptic,
We would gladly recommend this son of Yale;
On his wondrous skill and science, you can place entire reliance;
There is slender hope indeed, if he shall fail.

CROOKS GAVE A WIDE BERTH TO PLAINFIELD

Plainfield was admirably policed during the three days of the Charter Day celebration just closed. The outskirts of the city were patrolled by policemen in automobiles and that the work was well done is proved by the fact that not a burglarly nor attempted theft was reported. The local department was reinforced by a number of special men sworn in for the occasion as well as by half a score of detectives from New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg, which made it extremely difficult for any crook to get by the railroad station after arrival.

As it was, four pickpockets who came with the intention of plying their trade on the unsuspecting crowd, were recognized by the plain-clothes-men and deported before they had a chance to begin operations. Detective Farrell, of New York Police Headquarters, was one of the men who rendered valuable service, mixing with the crowds and keeping his eyes peeled for "dips."

The regulations were perfect and complete as to details; no accidents with the exception of the running down of the Van Ness boy on the outskirts of the city, on Monday, were reported. Chief Kiely is to be congratulated upon the results of his very competent and skilful handling of the crowd of 35,000 persons. And while the compliments are being passed around one must not forget those to whom the entire affair is attributable. Theirs is the crown of victory.

The Borough of North Plainfield was also well patrolled by Chief Weiss and his assistants. No crimes of any nature were reported, neither did any accidents mar the events of the past three days. Most remarkable of all, however, was the single instance of intoxication in which arrest was found necessary.

Dr. E. A. Woods Resigns.

Rev. Dr. E. A. Woods has tendered his resignation as pastor of the First Baptist church, Somerville, to take effect on his return from his summer vacation in September. He states that he is compelled to resign because of continued ill-health of his wife. Dr. Woods is one of the best known Baptist divines in the State and an able preacher. He has also been in poor health.

MISS MABLE SMITH WON THE $400 LOT

Because she guessed that 54 was the number written on a card and left at The Daily Press office Tuesday morning in a sealed envelope by William Jeffery, "The Bungalow Man," of Berkeley Heights, Miss Mable Smith, of Piscataway Township, is now the owner of lot No. 54 on Stout street, near South Bound Brook. The warranty deed for the property, which is valued at $400, was handed to the young woman today by J. Henry Crane.

The property was given as a prize in a contest conducted during the Charter Day celebration by "The Bungalow Man." The contest was open to any boy or girl of eighteen years of age or younger. About 150 guesses were handed to Mr. Jeffery between 10 o'clock in the morning and 2 in the afternoon of Monday. Twenty-five more, left at this office by guessers who misunderstood the conditions of the contest, had to be thrown out. Miss Smith handed "The Bungalow Man" the envelope containing her guess in front of Charter Day headquarters at a few minutes before 2 o'clock, when the contest closed. It was brought to The Daily Press office, opened and compared with the number on the card taken from the sealed envelope left there with Ralph L. Morrow.

"We had 'em all guessing, all right," said Mr. Jeffery, in speaking of the contest today, "but Miss Smith was the lucky one. You see, the number in the envelope was 54, and that's the number of the lot she gets as a prize. It's a good lot, worth $400 today.

Holy Cross Boys at Camp.

Rev. George A. Warren, of Holy Cross church, opened the summer camp at Cambridge, N. Y., last Sunday. The camp is situated in Washington county on Hedge's Lake, a most delightful and inviting spot. Sixteen of the choir boys went to the camp last Sunday and are now enjoying themselves camping out. These are the boys who went last Sunday: George Ball, Allan Dimon, Aaron Higgins, Albert Miller, Raymond Mosher, Carl Noble, Martin Mantz, Edward Wakefield, Gerald Thorpe, Edward Schorb, Edward Williams, James Lindsey, William Little, William Taylor, Charles Irby and Herbert Stire. Two other boys, Charles Kregar and Ira R. Vail went out to the camp to join their fellow singers today. The camp will be open until Wednesday, July 21.

Handsome Cups and Other Trophies and the Plaudits of a Record-Breaking Crowd are Won by the Fire Fighters Along the Line of March.

Plainfield and North Plainfield witnessed yesterday what was pronounced to be the finest demonstration of firemen and fire apparatus that ever appeared in line on their streets. Besides the twenty-five fire companies there were seven bands of musicians, eight fife and drum corps and the Scotch band of pipers with drums. A creditable showing for any city and a credit to the cities and towns represented.

The line of march was a long one, probably covering five miles, but was not found as irksome as some others, owing to the fact that the marchers were shaded by the trees along the route. The perfect weather inspired the men to do their prettiest and they earned unstinted applause all along the line. Whatever else is said it may be stated here that Plainfield's beautiful streets were the admiration of every man in the line, to say nothing of those who as visitors saw the city for the first time.

Another feature that was pleasing and worthy of note was the entire absence of anything to mar the occasion. No men dropped from the line, nor were any incapacitated from any cause, and the alignment was kept almost perfect throughout the procession. Among the veterans were some who fought fires forty years ago, and who seemed to have renewed their youth. They marched with a firm elastic step characteristic of the trained soldier and enjoyed the applause given them.

Unfortunately, owing to the critical conidition of Alfred Donnelly, who is ill with typhoid fever at Truell Inn, the music was stopped before the reviewing stand was reached, so that the marching at that point lacked the finish which music adds to any pageant. However, despite this disadvantage, the men (and boys) did splendidly. The stand was filled with an enthusiastic company of women, together with the visiting chiefs and judges, who were kept busy applauding the valiant marchers as they passed.

A conservative estimate of the number of visitors in town made the number 30,000, and much to the joy of the merchants the majority came prepared to spend money, and it flew lavishly wherever there was anything to buy. Whatever anxiety anyone might have had was quickly dispelled when he saw the preparations which the kindly thought of interested committeemen had arranged.

The parade itself was a thing of joy, and will, for many a day, furnish a topic for unlimited conversation and discussion. Headed by Chief of Police Kiely and his mounted squad, leading Grand Marshal Hand and his aides, they swung into the street leading to the reviewing stand in perfect order. As the head of the procession approached Arlington avenue the word was passed that absolute quiet must be maintained while passing the Inn. And the order was so promptly obeyed that not a tap of the drums or a note from the brass bands was heard as the men passed in review.

Following was the order of the organizations: Union Engine Company, of Lambertville, with team; Junction Hook and Ladder Company with forty men; Boontoon Hook and Ladder Company with a band and forty men; Union Hose Company No. 1, of Summit, with twenty-five men; Liberty Hook and Ladder, Ridgewood, with thirty men; Dunellen Fire Department with hose; Bernardsville Chemical and forty men; Roosevelt Hook and Ladder, with team and thirty men; Fire Engine Comapny, No. 5, of Paterson; The Mercer Company, of Princeton, with the Caledonian bag-pipers; The Warren Company, of Paterson, with twenty men; Protection Hook and Ladder Company, of Dover, with band; Vigilant Fire Company, Passaic; Washington Hose Company, South Amboy, with fifty men; Central Hook and Ladder Company, of Somerville; Mendham Company and band; The L. H. Taylor Company, High Bridge with twenty men; Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, Scotch Plains, with thirty men; Mill-

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cavalear, of Franklin street, South Bound Brook, are visiting relatives in Plainfield.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

This little town's representation in yesterday's big parade in Plainfield sure had the crowd a guessing. Bets were freely offered that the identity of the three whiom clowns would never be discovered by the Plainfielders. But that was a tremendous error. Candor compels one to say that the outfit, while it may have deceived the majority, carried with it marks so positively characteristic of certain persons that no disguise, however elaborate, could ever hide their well known personalities. The performances of the trio surpassed any that could have been produced by any three-ringed circuit. Their object was to create mirth it was attained and to spare for as the procession passed the reviewing stand the kiddies were thrown into convulsive fits of laughter and the older folks had to laugh outright as they caught sight of the immense hose reel drawn by the funny men. Let it go down in history as the funniest thing that Dunellen has produced since she got on the map.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Excelsior H. & L. Co. and its new truck made a favorable impression in the firemen's parade, held in Plainfield yesterday afternoon. The local fire laddies turned out 25 in line, and the venerable veteran, William VanValkinburgh, in a carriage.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dean, who have been visiting Mrs. Dean's mother, Mrs. C. M. Mooney, of Valley road, have returned to their home at Summit.

Manager Frentz, of the local ball team, is trying to arrange a series of games with Dave Driscoll, of the New Brunswick team.

The last of the Charter Day celebration, the fireworks exhibiton held last night, was attended by a large number from here.

Mrs. Augusta Miller and daughter, Mrs. George L. Dunn, spent yesterday enjoying the cooling breezes at Coney Island.

Principal S. Dana Townsend, of the public school, left yesterday on a trip of several weeks to the Bermuda Islands.

Harry Wade leaves Monday for a visit of two weeks with relatives in Ohio.

Briant Johnston has returned from a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

WESTFIELD.

Farmers in the vicinity of Westfield report that the continuous dry weather is causing considerable damage. Neither corn or potatoes are as far as they should be at this time, and all small fruits are suffering.

Westfield Hook and ladder Company, with the truck and team, represented this place in the firemen's parade at Plainfield yesterday.

One of the Westfield Fire Department horses is out of service owing to a sore on its neck. It is one of the new team of grays.

Edward Edgar has been appointed assistant inspector on the Board of Health to assist C. W. Harden in the work.

RARITAN.

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and family have gone to Spring Lake for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lane returned Tuesday from a visit at Hamburg.

The Plainfield baseball club will play at Bound Brook Saturday, and a large number of rooters will accompany the team. The first contest earlier in the season between these teams resulted in a victory for Bound Brook by a margin of one run.

McQuillen, the speedy little pitcher of the Philadelphia Nationals, defeated the Giants on Tuesday by a score of 3 to 1, holding them to five hits. The Quakers secured an equal number of hits off Marquard.

Manager Dorflinger has other games scheduled with New Brunswick and the local fans will have another opportunity to see some fast ball this season.

The fans are delighted over the showing of Washburn, of the local team. He not only fields fast, but almost leads the team in hitting.

Boyd, the right fielder for the Plainfield nine, should be back in the game soon. He injured his hand in the first Plainfield-New Brunswick game, but it is now much improved.

Although he has had no opportunity to display his ability with the Plainfield team, Conshay gives every promise of making good as a twirler. He has plenty of speed and a good assortment of curves.

Of all the catchers appearing here this season not one has compared up with Seery, of the Plainfields. He is undoubtedly one of the best in his class to be found in the State. It is almost impossible to steal a base on him.

Nolen, of New Brunswick, who played left field for Plainfield last Saturday, is one of the strongest players in this section. It is a regretted fact that he so easily loses his head and in consequence is barred from appearing even as a spectator at a game in his own town.

Manager Dorflinger's colts at times display slowness in running bases. Last Saturday Emery had a chance to tie the score in the sixth, but was held on third through a careless bit of coaching.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., July 8, 1909.

CHARTER DAY.

Plainfield's three days' demonstration accomplished its purpose. The residents, whose names will be found on the subscription rolls, or on the active service lists, or on both, advertised to good advantage the beauties and attractions of New Jersey's most progressive municipality. This was the sole idea of the celebration. That the scheme succeeded will be vouchsafed by the thousands who visited the "model town" while the demonstration lasted.

SAYS TAFT'S LIFE WAS THREATENED.

Detective Declares an Attempt Was Made to Kill President at Norwich, Conn.

New Haven, Conn., July 8.—That an attempt on the life of President Taft was planned in the Norwich celebration, and that everything was not so quiet as has been reported, is the statement of Detective James Ward, New Haven's police representative. In describing the incident which occurred Monday at the time of the big parade, he said:

"I was standing in the crowd near the President, and with me was Detective Wheeler, of the secret service force, when a woman in the crowd shrieked. We thought at that time that it was for lack of air, although it was not a warm day. We drove the crowd back, and as soon as we were near her, we heard her gasp: 'A pistol, there,' and she seemed to faint.

"After we had brought her to her senses she told us that a man of medium stature had stood near the President with a revolver under his coat, and that in fright she had pretended to faint in order to attract the attention of officers of the law."

After this the detectives looked through the crowd, but failed to find the man described or any information regarding him except that he had been seen hurrying away. President Taft was not disturbed.

BOYS ATTEMPT TO WRECK AN EXPRESS.

Bayonne Lads Arrested for Throwing Logs in Front of Central R. R. Train.

An attempt was made by three boys to wreck an express train on the Central Railroad passing through Bayonne yesterday. The boys secured a large log, which they dropped from the bridge at East Forty-sixth street.

The engineer of the oncoming train saw the log across the tracks and reversed the brakes so quickly that passengers were thrown from their seats. He proceeded slowly to the East Forty-ninth street station, where he reported the matter to Special Policeman Regan, who arrested Edward and John McDonald, 14 and 13 years old, of 92 East Fortieth street, and Bernard Jessman, of 94 East Forty-third street, whom he charged with attempted train wrecking.

It is said that the boys, before throwing the log on the tracks dropped large boulders from the bridge on the tops of passing cars. It was the second attmept on the part of boys to wreck a train in that vicinity within a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, of Newark, who have been spending a few days with friends here, have returned home.

THE MORNING AFTER IN THE POLICE COURT

Harry Metzgar, who handles booze behind a bar at Elizabeth, miscued on a lot of it last night and got it inside himself. He developed a scrappy edge at the North avenue station at about midnight, and was arrested by Detective Charles Hans, of the Jersey Central force. Nabbed by the officer, Metzgar's booze caused a "crying jag," and although he acknowledged that he had come to Plainfield for a good time, he said he was a lodgeman, well-known, never been arrested before, and so on. It didn't work, and when he faced City Judge Runyon today he had to pay a fine of $5 to get free.

Paralyzed drunk, Andrew Benford, who lives on Cottage place, was shovelled out of the patrol wagon at police headquarters at about midnight, following his arrest by Special Officer Newman. Benford took on a big cargo of rum and beer in the West End and imagined he was a Salome dancer. A series of take-offs soon gave him the proper costume, but he couldn't dance, and was found derilect in the gutter. It was "$5 or twenty days" when City Judge Runyon saw him this morning.

Jerry Griffin, who was arrested, badly hurt, on Park avenue yesterday morning, paid $5 to go free at his hearing before City Judge Runyon today.

PROGRESS OF THE DAY ALL OVER THE WORLD.

Germany is to have an English theatre.

A Paris blind man has saved four persons from drowning.

Buttons, piano keys and similar objects are now made of milk.

Germany has spent more for aviation than any other government.

Prince Henry, the brother of the German Emperor, is the inventor of a device for use on the glass or transparent wind shield of the automobile by means of which the deposit of rain or mist on the glass is wiped away and the field of vision of the operator left clear.

Italians love statues and occasionally erect them to some singular persons. The little town of Meldola, near Ravenna, Italy, has just been the scene of an imposing ceremony. In the presence of the town grandees the people have unveiled a monument to Feli Orsini, who made the historic attempt on the life of Napoleon III; on March 24, 1858, in Paris, when the casualties numbered 130. The statute represents Orsini on the way to his execution. Meldola is the birthplace of Orsini.

STRAWBERRY OMELET.

"A Japanese cook taught me the other day how to make a strawberry omelet," says Fannie Merritt Farmer in Woman's Home Companion for June. "Wash and pick over one pint of strawberries. Cut in halves, put in an earthen bowl, and add one third of a cupful of powdered sugar, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla, one tablespoonful of water and a few grains of salt. Let stand in a warm place fifteen minutes. Beat eight eggs slightly, and add one-half cupful of cream, two teaspoonfuls of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt.

Put two tablespoonfuls of butter in a hot omelet-pan, and when melted pour in the egg mixture. As it cooks, prick and pick up with a fork until the whole is of a creamy consistency. Place on a hotter part of the range, that it may brown quickly underneath. Before folding and turning on a hot platter add one-half the prepared strawberries; sprinkle with two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and pour around the remaining strawberries. The strawberries may also be used with your ordinary rFench omelet recipe."

Inspected Washington Ave. Bridge.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders, who were in town yesterday taking part in the firemen's parade, afterward inspected the Washington avenue bridge, where it is proposed to erect a new modern structure. The board will take action on the matter at the regular meeting to be held at Somerville Tuesday. The Union county board has already voted favorably on the proposition.

Gets His Gun Back.

Clark Wilson, of 96 Manning avenue, had his revolver returned to him by Chief Weiss in the North Plainfield court this morning, after it had reposed harmlessly in the safe since Monday. The gun was taken from Wilson while he was engaged in celebrating the Fourth by shooting blank cartridges contrary to the law against firearms. He escaped without a fine.

Will Play Newark Alerts.

The Y. M. C. A. team will play the Newark Alerts, members of the Newark City Baseball League, on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, instead of the Summit Y. M. C. A. The Summits have a "rubber" to play off Saturday and were obliged to cancel the game here.

The regular mid-week meeting will be held at Warren chapel this evening at the usual hour.

BUSINESS MANNERS.

Why is it that many of the cashiers, bookkeepers, bank tellers, corporation clerks, and people who serve the public through glass windows or across counters, are so pert and unobliging? Why is it necessary to make a customer feel that he is a nuisance? asks O. S. Marden in Success.

Public officials, clerks and attendants in our public buildings and municipal offices are proverbially curt, short and snappy. Though you are paying them through your taxes for their services, they make you feel that they are doing you a great favor by giving you what belongs to you and by doing what you are paying them for doing.

How quickly you notice the atmosphere of a business house—a great department store, for example. There is as much difference between the feeling you have in walking through two great establishments as that you experience in talking with the different heads of these houses. In one, refinement, courteousness, consideration for others, a feeling of good will, permeates the very atmosphere. Yo uhave a feeling that every employe in the place would be glad to serve you if he could, and is anxious to please, whether you buy or not. There is evidence that the employer thinks a great deal of the character as well as the ability of his clerks, and that manners and deportment are never left out of consideration in their selection.

In another house, only a few blocks away, you are ill at ease. Carelessness, indifference and chilliness pervade the place. You do not feel at home. There is a lack of harmony, a sense of antagonism in the atmosphere. The employes make you feel that they are doing you a favor in letting you see the goods, or giving you the opportunity to purchase them with your money.

The man who thinks he is going to make a fortune without considering the man at the other end of the bargain is very short-sighted. In the long run the customer's best good is the seller's best good also; and, other thing equal, the man succeeds best who satisfies his customers best and whose customers not only come back, but always bring others with them.

HUCKLEBERRY FARMING.

It may seem incredible to those who have never lived in or traveled much through timber districts where the huckleberry is indigenous," said a native of such a district, according to the New York Sun, "but it is a fact that there is a tribel of shiftless persons in all such regions who systematically and without regard to law, property or life set fire to woods or to cut over land adjacent to woods simply to increase the area of huckleberry bushes.

"There is only one way in which huckleberries can be cultivated, and the huckleberry farmer does not need to own an inch of land. If he has the title to one simple lucifer match he can put thousands of acres under cultivation in a very short time.

"He has only to light the match and touch it to the dry leaves and branches on the ground, either in early spring or late fall, and his cultivation is soon under way. No matter what grew on the ground before fire swept it bare, huckleberry bushes will never fail to spring up luxuriantly from the ashes and scorched soil. They will be in abundant bearing the next season. The result in loss of life or property does not concern the persons who reap the benefit.

"Many of the fires that devastate our forests every year may be traced to reckless and deliberate patches. I remember one instance particularly where seeting fire to the brush on a huckleberry barren in Northern Pennsylvania resulted in a forest fire that swept over a 10,000 acre timber tract, doing incalculable damage to the standing timber and reducing to ashes 50,000,000 feet of logs and lumber, and 30,000 cords of tanbark, representing a money value of nearly $750,000. Twenty persons were burned to death and thirty so badly burned that seven of them died from their injuries. The huckleberry crop gathered from this cultivation of that barren persons realized $200 to the cultivators."

NEW FRENCH RIDING HAT.

It is for women, of course, and it is the Parisienne's idea of the proper headgear for riding purposes.

Lustrous black straw of a fine weave is the material, and it is very light in weight, for which madame will surely be thankful.

In shape it is on the lines of the derby, having the round, high crown seen in a man's hat. It is broader, however, and more feminine looking. The brim is different from the usual derby hat, though, because it is a bit wider and is more flat, with just a slight curl on the sides.

A silk ribbon around the crown is the only trimming.

Both the shape and the light weight make it exceedingly comfortable. It has, too, just enough dash and style to delight the woman who rides.

HINTS FOR WOMEN.

To the making of novelties in hatpin holders there surely is no end, for the latest is a large rose to match other toilet accessories. The centre is hollow and the rose is set on the top of a small glass vase about six inches high. The stem of the glass is concealed by green baby ribbon tied into knots, loops, ends, etc., so the effect is of a beautiful rose standing upright on the table.

The hatpins are, of course, passed through the hollow centre of the flower, the points going to the bottom of the vase. Price, $1.25.

Jumpers of white linen reaching the knee, designed to be worn with white and colored duck skirts, are one of the most popular garments of the day. A store catering to a good patronage has brought out a model that is hemmed with navy blue, at the low price of $1.95, and has difficulty in filling the demands. The full bishop sleeves are finished with band cuffs, and above the latter on the left arm the monogram, in blue mercerized thread that washes, may be worked to order for thirty-five cents, either two or three letters.

Both Were Intense.

"This play in its intensity," said the go-out-between-the-acts young man, "fairly takes my breath away."

"I only wish it would!" gloomily remarked the lady in the next seat. —Tit Bits.

PROPOSALS

For Laying Out the Grounds of New Washington School on Darrow Avenue, corner Essex Street.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held July 6th, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Tuesday evening, July 20th, 1909, at 8 o'clock, at the Board room in the High School Building, corner Ninth street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for laying out, grading, putting in cement walks, and all work called for on the plans and specifications on file in the office of Frank J. Hubbard, engineer, 203 Park Avenue, where all information can be obtained until the day of meeting of the Board as above mentioned.

Proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for work on grounds for the New Washington School, Darrow Avenue," and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received prevous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board of Education.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., July 6, 1909.

AN ORDINANCE

to Guard against Danger of Fire, and Explosion in connection with the use of Illuminating Gas or Fuel Gas in Buildings.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That all pipes more than one and one-quarter inches in diameter used for the supplying of illuminating gas or fuel gas to buildings hereafter erected in the City of Plainfield shall have a properly installed gas cut-off at the curb line of the streets in which such pipes are or shall be connected with gas mains. In case any such building is supplied through two or more pipes, the aggregate capacity of which exceeds the capacity of a pipe one and one-quarter inches in diameter, each of the pipes supplying such building shall have such cut-off installed as herein provided. Any person who, or corporation which, shall lay or cause to be laid any such pipe or pipes, without such cut-off or cut-offs at the curb line, shall on conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense.

Sec. 2. That no person or corporation shall supply illuminating gas or fuel gas, or allow the same to be supplied to any building hereafter erected in the City of Plainfield through pipes more than one and one-quarter inches in diameter, or through two or more pipes the aggregate capacity of which exceeds that of a pipe one and one-quarter inches in diameter, without having a properly installed gas cut-off for each of such pipes at the curb line of the street in which such pipes are or shall be connected with gas mains, under a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars fine for each offense.

Sec. 3. That all gas pipes now used or that may hereafter be used to supply illuminating gas or fuel gas from gas mains in streets to any school building, church building, Sunday school building, hotel building, factory building or any building containing a theatre, public assembly room, music hall or concert hall, whether such building be now erected or shall be erected hereafter, and whatever may be the size of such gas pipes, shall be furnished with a gas cut-off properly installed at the curb line of the streets adjacent to such buildings in which such gas pipes are or may hereafter be connected with gas mains.

Sec. 4. That on or after the first day of September in the year nineteen hundred and nine no person or corporation shall supply illuminating gas or fuel gas, or allow the same to be supplied to buildings specified in section 3 of this ordinance, whether such buildings be now erected or shall be erected in the City of Plainfield, and whatever may be the size of such gas pipes, unless gas cut-offs shall be first installed at the curb line as provided in said section 3 of this ordinance, under a penalty not exceeding one hundred dollars for each offense.

Plainfield, N. J., July 6, 1909.

AN ORDINANCE

A Supplement to An Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the assessment of taxes for the Year 1909," approved May 3, 1909.

Whereas, The Board of School Estimate of this school district, that is to say, the school district comprising the City of Plainfield, has fixed upon and determined the amount of money necessary to be appropriated for the use of the public schools in such district for the ensuing school year, exclusive of the amount apportioned to it by the County Superintendent of Schools, to wit, the sum of Sixty-two Thousand Dollars ($62,000), and has made two certificates for said amount signed by four, being a majority of all the members of said Board, one of which certificates has been delivered to the Board of Education of said School District, and the other to the Common Council of said City;

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools, and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof," approved October 19, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, the sum of Sixty-two Thousand Dollars ($62,000) be and the same is hereby appropriated for the purposes aforesaid as other appropriations are made by the Common Council, and that said amount be assessed, levied and collected for the year nineteen hundred and nine in the same manner as moneys appropriated for other purposes in this City are required to be assessed, levied and collected.

FIREMEN'S DEMONSTRATION

burn Hose Company with a company of boys who bore a legened reading: "When our daddies are exempts we'll be on the job." There were forty men in the company; New Market Volunteers with a decorated hose carriage and twenty men; Dunellen Hose Co. with ten men; Westfield Hook and Ladder Company with twenty men; Plainfield exempts, who were cheered to the echo, hauling their famous silver carriage; Plainfield paid department; North Plainfield exempts and North Plainfield paid department.

James E Martine, the famous and beloved friend of the firemen, marched the entire route with the exempts and when he passed the stand was given a rousing cheer. Following were the awards: For the best appearing company, Dover Hook and Ladder Co., first, winning the cup offered by the Plainfield Fire Department; second, Keyport Hose Co., American flag; third Bernardsville Hose Co., silver pitcher; fourth, Millburn Co., a pennant. For the best uniformed company, L. H. Taylor Company, of High Bridge, first, a silver cup; second, Central Hook and Ladder Co., of Somerville, silver cup; third, Mendham Co., Mendham, umbrella; fourth, Roosevelt, pennant. For the company coming the greatest distance: First, Lambertville, silver trumpet; second, Ridgewood Hook and Ladder Co., silver cup; third, Mercer Co., of Princeton, pennant; fourth, Vigilant Co., of Passaic, pennant.

Much surprise was manifested that first prize was not awarded to the Mercer Co., of Princeton, for being the finest appearing company in the line. This company performed some high class evolutions just before entraining last night and were loudly cheered. Perhaps this consoled them for the loss of the silver cup.

The magnificent illumination of principal streets was one of the notable features of the three days' Charter celebration. Front street from Watchung avenue to Grove street, Somerset street from Front to Chatham were as light at night as thousands of electric bulbs could make them. The display was admired and praised by the visiting thousands as well as residents of the city and borough. The illumination was furnished by the Public Service Corporation free of charge for the Charter Day festivities for which the company has received the thanks of the entire community. The P. S. C. building on Park avenue was also beautifully illuminated. Strung along the facade of the building were forty-two lamps of 100 watt power each. These lights brightened the street to the extent of making the reading of a newspaper easy anywhere between Second street and North avenue.

SHOW APPRECIATION OF CHARTER DAYS

Following is a list of contributions received today by the Charter Day Committee. Any others who think the celebration was worth the investment of a few dollars are invited to add to this fund. It will be thankfully received by the commitee:

THE DISAPPEARING PINE TREE.

A striking photograph in the June Wide World Magazine gives a good idea of the enormous size of the giant fir trees to be found in great profusion in Oregon and Washington in the United States, and in British Columbia, in Canada. Favored by the warm breezes from the adjacent Pacific ocean, these monsters often assume extraordinary dimensions, many reaching 200 feet high and thirty-six feet in circumference. Such a tree would furnish enough timber from which to construct two substantial houses, built entirely of pine. Nevertheless, the wanton waste practised by the "lumbermen" in the forests of the Northwest, under the assumption that the available timber is inexhaustible, is greatly to be deprecated, and it is to be earnestly hoped that preventive measures will be taken in order that this great storehouse of material may not be uselessly plundered to the detriment of posterity or even of the next generation.

Firemen Called Out.

The North Plainfield firemen were called out last night to extinguish a blaze in an old walnut tree near the corner of Manning and Franklin streets near Brooks Carson's house. After the fire was put out the tree was razed to the ground as it was a menace to passersby. The fire was started by some boys in a hole of the old tree.

Bishop Williams, of Michigan, is the guest of his brother, L. A. Williams, of East Seventh street.

ENTERPRISING YOUTH GETS A CONEY TRIP

A Plainfield lad a little more enterprising than some of his companions took advantage of the last day of the Charter Day celebration by earning a trip to Coney Island. While the hundreds of firemen were gathering at the North Avenue Station waiting for a train to take them home, the boy secured a couple of hundred copies of The Daily Press with the full account of the celebration. He sold them like hot cakes, receiving five cents a copy for each one.

The firemen and their many friends were all anxious to learn of the day's doings, and at the same time have something to take home as a reminder of the big affair. All were much pleased with the faithful and accurate account as published in The Daily Press. They were also loud in their praise of the hospitality and courtesy shown to them during their stay in the city.

SUMMER DISHES TO TICKLE JADED APPETITES.

A delicious vegetable salad was made of new potatoes, young carrots and celery roots boiled, drained and set aside until cold. They were then cut in thin slices and thin slices of cold boiled tongue and tart apples were added. The dressing was made of olive oil and tragan vinegar, blended in the proportions of three tablespoonfuls of oil to one of vinegar. Salt, pepper and a little French mustard were added to season. A salad bowl was lined with crisp, new lettuce leaves, and the salad was turned into the bowl and sprinkled over the top with minced parsley. Toasted crackers and cheese were served with it.

For a quickly prepared luncheon dessert, put halves of canned peaches or preserved pears with some of the syrup in individual dishes, cover with a generous amount of whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped maraschino cherries, grated cocoanut or chopped nut meats. Serve with sponge cake.

Boil eggs hard, an divide in half lengthwise, removing the yolks. Drain the oil from a can of sardines remove the heads, tails and backbones and mince the little fish. Rub the yolks of the eggs to a paste and add to the sardines, season with salt and a dash of paprika. Stuff the white of eggs with the mixture and arrange on a crisp lettuce leaf with a garniture of shreds of red and green peppers.

With Rare Tact.

Mrs. A. was calling on Mrs. B., whose husband had recently committed suicide by hanging himself in the attic. Remembering her daughter's parting injunction to avoid the unpleasant subject, she steered the conversation into household channels.

"Are you doing your own washing now?" she inquired.

"No," replied Mrs. B, "not now. It is such cold work getting it on the line."

"Yes, it is," said Mrs. A., "but you have such a nice large attic to hang things in."—Success.

Swallowed Carbolic Acid.

Swallowing the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid in the presence of her husband, Mrs. John Pifche, committed suicide at her home, 302 Centre street, Garwood, last night. She died about two hours later. Mr. Pifche, who is employed with the Aeolian Company, of Garwood, is frantic with grief; the motive for suicide cannot be determined. The couple had been married for about eleven years, and Mrs. Pifche leaves a ten-year-old son.

Fresh Air Camp is Open.

Miss Sara Curry, matron, and 200 children from New York, are now comfortably housed at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. Sunday will be the opening day and everyone is cordially invited to be present and hear Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson speak. There will be a special program of vocal and instrumental msuic. The service will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Perth Amboy's Customs.

Figures at hand indicate that the returns through the custom house, Perth Amboy, for the fiscal year just ended, will be at least $20,000 larger than ever before. It is estimated that the business transacted will foot up to no less than $175,000.

Offering for Local Charity.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday morning will be for the benefit of the Charity Organization Society. As the society is much in need of funds at this time, it is hoped that a generous amount may be contributed.

Rescue Mission Meeting.

Mrs. Thomas will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission meeting tonight and Mr. Thomas and his daughter will sing. At the meeting Sunday night, three men from Hadley's Hall on the Bowery, New York, will speak.

A Famous March.

The King of France had just marched up the hill with 40,00 men.

"It is cheaper than a battle fleet cruise," he explained.

Herewith he marched down again.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

Somerset Council No. 1432, Knights of Columbus, was organized here on Sunday afternoon. State Deputy Hickey, of Bayonne, presided, and was assisted by District Deputy William J. O'Keefe, of Plainfield. A large number of visiting knights were present. Among the clergymen present were Rev. Joseph A. Ryan, of Bernardsville; J. J. Zimmer, of Raritan, and M. A. V. D. Bogaard, of Somerville. After a repast had been served and a number of speeches by the clergymen, the three degrees were conferred on 100 members of the new council.

At the conclusion of the morning service at the First Baptist church on Sunday morning, Rev. Dr. E. A. Woods announced his determination to resign as pastor upon his return from his vacation in September. This is owing to trouble with his eyesight, which is growing serious, and also the illness of his wife. Dr. Woods has been pastor of the church here for nearly six years.

George Gaston and Albert Thompson went to Ocean Grove in Mr. Gaston's automobile on Saturday and stayed over for the Fourth.

W. S. Vroom started yesterday for a trip to the Pacific coast, going through the lakes and Yellowstone Park en route.

Albert H. Laughton and daughter returned Tuesday from Lake Hopatcong.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. John Horan has returned to her home in South Plainfield after a visit with her sister, Mrs. John Lyons, of Plainfield.

The Peerless baseball club will be seen in South Plainfield twice this week. They play the S. P. A. C. on next Saturday, and the S. P. S. B. B. C. on next Sunday.

The new auto bus between South Plainfield and Plainfield started running yesterday. The bus is very large and will seat 30 passengers.

A number of South Plainfielders saw the firemen's parade in Plainfield yesterday.

Camp Washington, P. O. S. of A., has given up Washington hall as a meeting place.

Miss Irene Duchesne, of North Plainfield, visited friends in the village yesterday.

Miss Nora Maguire visited Bound Brook friends yesterday.

(Additional suburban news on page 2.)

GIFT FOR A BABY.

A charming gift for a baby, and one that is seldom given, is a cover to slip over the baby carriage, or crib, while the infant sleeps on the porch.

This should be made of wash net, of a coarse mesh, bound all around with three-inch white satin ribbon. Use the full width of the double net and cut either square or oblong, as it adapts itself to the size of the crib or coach. The cover will be found invaluable this summer in protecting the baby from flies or mosquitoes during his morning naps on the porch.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

A man giving his name as William Wood was arrested at Washington Park yesterday, accused of being a pickpocket.

While playing on a pile of lumber Vernon Whilden, of Millville, ran a large splinter almost through his foot.

Reuben Cuff, a veteran of the Civil War, in his eighty-fifth year, cut three and one-half acres of grain with a cradle in four hours on his farm near Bridgeton.

A few scratches were all that Thomas McGill, of Earl street, Burlington, received when a heavy fire engine knocked him down and ran over him while he was crossing the street.

The Board of Playground Commissioners in Camden opened the playgrounds Tuesday morning at Payne Point Park and the Genge, Kiaghn, Mickle and Mt. Vernon public school yards.

Stasia Stanislaus, two and a half years old, was taken to the Jersey City Hospital Tuesday in a critical condition as the result of injuries she received by falling from a third story window.

H. H. Hogg, of Philadelphia, was rescued Tuesday after falling from the Thoroughfare Bridge at Atlantic City. He was pulled from the water by R. G. Conover, who was passing in a motorboat.

Samuel Nicholson, of Ryerson avenue, Paterson, fell off a scaffold at the new Union Dye Works at Dundee Lake, Tuesday afternoon, and sustained a broken ankle. He was transferred to the General Hospital.

After serving twenty-eight consecutive years as recording secretary of Wildey Lodge of Odd Fellows, Camden, Stephen Robinson, Sr., retired Tuesday night. Mr. Robinson has been an Odd Fellow for thirty-six years, and in all that time has missed only twelve meeting nights.

Alec Gotla, a Burlington huckster, was painfully burned late Tuesday night in attempting to extinguish a blaze which it is believed incendiaries started in his barn at the rear of his home in East Broad street. Firemen arrived in time to save the structure from destruction.

Christopher Kavenaugh, of 2518 Isminger street, Philadelphia, was seriously injured by falling from a hammock near Sewell. Dr. Hertiage, of Glassboro, administered restoratives, but the young man was removed to his home in such a serious condition it is feared he will not recover.

John Burton, a weaver, aged twenty-eight years, of 74 Sixteenth avenue, Paterson, dislocated his shoulder while swimming in the baths on the Passaic river above the falls Tuesday afternoon. John was trying the back-hand stroke when his shoulder came out of joint. Five years ago he suffered a similar accident.

A trolley car on the Millville-Vineland line was caught in a small whirlwind near Cloverdale Tuesday and one of the doors was blown from its fastenings and every passenger made hatless. Small trees in that vicinity were uprooted and considerable damage was done. The crew report that the whirl lasted about three minutes and that they were compelled to stop the car.

Mayor Lincoln Tuesday received an application from Howard W. Stanley, chief of police of Middletown, Delaware, for the position of chief of police in Gloucester. He says that he has a commission from the State of New Jersey as a detective and also from the Pinkerton Detective Agency, and is well qualified for the position and would like to secure same. The application will be referred to city council.

Grappling with a pet dog which ferociously attacked his two-year-old daughter, F. W. Messick, of Conover street, Burlington, rescued the child after a fierce battle. The dog was lying near Messick on a sofa when the little girl toddled up and playfully pulled his tail, and he sprang at the child, sank his teeth into her face and was beaten off with difficulty. The child's face was terribly lacerated. The dog was shot.

Dr. James C. McClure, of Williamstown, died Monday of blood poison. In attending Mrs. August Rennebaum, a bride of a year, who died of blood poisoning Sunday, Dr. McClure accidentally cut his finger with one of his instruments. He thought little of the incident at the time, till it grew serious. The doctor was thirty-five years old, the son of Postmaster John W. McClure, and graduated from the Georgetown University in 1899.

Cherry trees and careless climbing proved to be the downfall of two boys Tuesday afternoon. Bryce Hewitt, thirteen years old, of 172 Market street, Paterson, was eating cherries in a tree on the Notch road, when he lost his balance and fell. He fractured his forearm. James Thompson, of 59 North First street, Paterson, was tackling a tree on the Goffle road when he likewise lost his balance, falling to the ground. He fractured both bones of the forearm.

While adjusting the trolley pole of a Market street car at the Pennsylvania terminal in Camden Tuesday, Andrew Harris, twenty-six years old, a conductor, of 427 South Fourth street, was seriously injured when a car approaching in the rear struck him. He was hurried to the Homeopathic Hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a slight fracture of the skull, a dislocated shoulder and injuries to the body. He was in a precarious condition today.

Thomas Chappelle, serving one year at the Mercer County Workhouse for embezzlement, is doing the best he can to change his quarters, but is not very successful. In his second attempt within two months to get away from the institution, he placed a dummy in his bed to avert suspicion and then hid in the hall, evidently hoping he could escape when the guards were not looking. He was discovered, however, and put back in a cell, with ball and chain attachment. Chappelle escaped from the institution two months ago by crawling a mile through a drain pipe. He then changed his clothes and got away, but was later arrested at Allentown, Pa. Each time he escapes or attempts to escape a month or more is added to his term.

IF YOUR CHILD NEEDS A TONIC

—if your little boy or girl is delicate and sickly—go to the nearest druggist and get a bottle of

Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge

This splendid tonic has been successful for four generations in making sickly children strong and healthy, and effectively expelling worms.

It is likewise a natural tonic for adults, and restores lasting health and strength to "run-down" systems by toning up the stomach and other digestive organs.

Sold by All Druggists—2 sizes, 50c. and 35c.

Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant is the most reliable remedy for Coughs, Colds, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and Pleurisy.

PROPOSALS

For Addition to School No. One.

Pursuant to resolution adopted by the Board of Education of Fanwood Township, on June 30, 1909, said Board will meet at School No. One, Scotch Plains, on Friday, July 9, 1909, at 8 o'clock p. m., to receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing materials for the construction of an addition to school No. One as provided in the plans and specifications now on file at the office of the Board of Education at School No. One, Scotch Plains, where they can be consulted between the hours of one o'clock and six o'clock p. m. of the following named days: Saturday, July 3; Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 6, 7, 8 and 9, respectively.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Addition to School No. One" and addressed to the District Clerk.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the District Clerk will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received previous to the hour designated and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board,

T. J. NICHOLL, District Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to Re-adjust the Boundaries of Election Districts," approved December 29, 1897.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as folows:

Section 1. That Section 4 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 4. That the Second Ward of the City of Plainfield is hereby divided into three election districts, with boundaries as hereinafter specified, to be known respectively as The First Election District of the Second Ward, The Second Election District of the Second Ward and The Third Election District of the Sedond Ward.

Sec. 2. That Sec. 5 of the said ordinance be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 5. That the First Election District of the Second Ward shall include all the territory and inhabitants thereof contained in that portion of the second ward which is bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the intersection of the center line of Washington Street with the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, thence along said centre line of Washington Street to the center line of East Fifth Street; thence along the center line of East Fifth Street to the centre line of Franklin Place; thence along the center line of Franklin Place to the center line of Watchung Avenue; thence along the center line of Watchung Avenue to the center line of Kensington Avenue; thence along the center line of Kensington Avenue as now laid out and as ordered laid out by City ordinance approved December 5, 1908, to the center line of Park Avenue; thence along the center line of Park Avenue to the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, and thence along the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey to the point or place of beginning.

Sec. 3. That Sec. 6 of said ordinance be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 6. (a) That the Second Election District of the Second Ward shall include all the territory and inhabitants thereof contained in that portion of the second ward which is bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the intersection of the center line of Washington Street and the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey; running thence along the center line of Washington Street to the center line of East Fifth Street; thence along the center line of East Fifth Street to the center line of Franklin Place; thence along the center line of Franklin Place to the center line of Watchung Avenue; thence along the center line of Watchung Avenue to the center line of Kensington Avenue; thence along the center line of Kensington Avenue as now laid out and as ordered laid out by City ordinance approved December 5, 1908, to the center line of Park Avenue; thence along the center line of Park Avenue to the City line and the line between Union and Middlesex Counties; thence along the said City Line to the center line of Woodland Avenues; thence along the center line of Woodland Avenue to a point where the center line of Berckman Street, if produced, would intersect said center line of Woodland Avenue; thence along the said center line of Berckman Street produced, and along the center line of Berckman Street as now laid out to the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey; thence along the said centre line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey to the point or place of beginning.

(b) That the Third Election District of the Second Ward shall include all the territory and inhabitants thereof contained in that portion of the second ward which is bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point where the center line of Terrill Road intersects the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey; thence along the center line of Terrill Road southerly to the City Line; thence along the City Line to the center line of Woodland Avenue; thence along the center line of Woodland Avenue to a point where the center line of Berckman Street, if produced, would intersect said center line of Woodland Avenue; thence along the said center line of Berckman Street, produced, and along the center line of Berckman Street as now laid out to the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey; thence along the center line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey to the point or place of beginning.

FOR THE DESSERT

DAINTY AND EXTREMELY APPETIZING TIDBITS.

Wafers to Serve with Tea Are of Japanese Origin—Cake That Is Popular in Cities of Italy.

This is the way to concoct those frail, delicate dainty wafers that the Japs serve with tea: Break the white of one egg in a bowl; add one tablespoonful of sugar, stir a moment, and then add one tablespoonful of flour and one-half teaspoonful of softened butter. Beat until about as thick as cream. Pour a teaspoonful of this batter on the reverse side of a large baking pan, slightly greased, and with the back of a spoon spread it until about four inches in diameter and almost as thin as tissue paper. Bake in a moderate oven until brown and while still warm roll around a curling stick. Keep in a covered tin.

A delicious Italian cake which is always served with ices in the pastry shops of Genoa and other southern Italian towns is made thus: Warm half a cupful of butter until it is a little soft, beat it to a cream with half a cupful of sugar. Break in an egg and beat until quite smooth; add one by one, three or more eggs, beating hard, and then add half a cupful of flour. Pour the mixture on a buttered tin and bake about ten or fifteen minutes. Turn it upside down on a sieve to cool and when cold spread thickly with apricot jam and then with chocolate icing. Place in the oven a moment, then cool and cut into shapes.

A delicious way to serve cake is as follows: Prepare a cup cake batter and bake it in shallow square tins. When done cut it into small squares and cover the top of each with a little of the following mixture: Cook a cupful of raisins in a small quantity of water. When tender remove them from the fire and chop fine, then add a scant cupful of sugar and put back to cook. Let this boil down until "sirupy" and thick. After spreading the mixture over the cake sprinkle with minced nuts of any kind. English walnuts and almonds combined are good in this way. If the tops are too soft dredge some powdered sugar over them to prevent sticking.

For teas and luncheons some housewives like to serve sandwiches made as follows: Have ready thin buttered slices of delicate brown bread. Spread them, after trimming, with a layer of strawberry jam or peach marmalade. Cover with a layer of fresh cream cheese. Press two slices together with the fillings against each other and serve.

Stewed Beef Kidneys.

Take a fresh beef kidney and let it stand in cold water about ten minutes. Remove fat and skin, then cut or chop into dice. Put into a stew pot, just cover with cold water and put over a very slow fire. Add a slice of onion, half a teaspoon of salt, a quarter teaspoon of pepper, three dessertspoons canned tomato, half a teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Let simmer, not boil, about an hour, or until tender. Take about a tablespoon of the gravy in a cup, and when cool mix it with a dessertspoon of flour to a smooth, thin paste.

Gradually stir into the stew until it seems thick enough. Let simmer a little while longer; serve very hot in a covered dish. This can be prepared the day before and simply heated the next morning for breakfast.

Fig Pie with Whipped Cream Top.

Take one pound of presse' figs, cut into small pieces, add one-half cup of seeded raisins, one-half cup of water or enough to barely cover them, then add one small cup of sugar, slowly boil from 15 to 20 minutes, stirring frequently; let filling and crust thoroughly cool before putting together. Cover with whipped cream or the beaten whites of three eggs and one cup of powdered sugar, lightly brown in oven. For crust mix one-half cup of butter and one-half cup of sugar, and one cup of flour with one teaspoon of baking powder, then add one beaten egg; do not roll, but press into a buttered tin and bake.

Fish Fritters.

Cut some fileted sole into small pieces, and wipe dry with a clean cloth; put four ounces of flour in a basin, with a pinch of salt, and stir into it one tablespoonful of dissolved butter; beat this with a gill of tepid water till it is a thick batter. Just before frying add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, dip the pieces of fish into the batter and drop them into a saucepan of boiling fat. Drain on paper, and serve in a pyramid on a fish platter, and garnish with friend parsley and cut lemon.

Ginger Cream.

One-half box of pulverized gelatine, soaked in one cup of cold water several hours (or over night). Add one cup of hot water, one scant cup of sugar, two cups of cream, beaten to a stiff froth and some preserved ginger cut fine. Stir the gelatine, sugar, ginger until it begins to thicken, then add the whipped cream and set away to cool.

English Sausage Pie.

Make a crust, fill with sausage meat, seasoned with salt and black pepper. Bake with an upper crust. Eat cold. Small pies or turnovers for lunches made in this way are a nice change from sandwiches for the school child or a workman who eats a cold lunch.

Stains [illegible] Ebing.

These stains may be removed entirely with a little wood alcohol

Men's 4-Ply Collars Six for 50c

Made in 1/4 Sizes

Thousands of dozens of men's excellent 4-ply Collars, equaling in material, workmanship and finish any 15c collars on the market; each eyelet surrounded by a buttonhole stitch which moves easily around the shank of the button without friction or unnecessary wear, with 3-thread-buttonhole, forming a circular loop which is much stronger than an open or cut end, and more pliable therefore, and more easily buttoned. The styles include all the leading and most up-to-date shapes and best feature of all, they may be had not only in the standard sizes but in Quarter Sizes as well.

No sale of collars that you have heretofore known has embraced these quarter sizes, making this sale of vast importance to careful dressers.

The price at which we are offering these collars—6 for a half a dollar—is so extraordinary as to imply that there must be something wrong with the collars; but such is not the case—

EVERY COLLAR IS STRICTLY PERFECT.

When you remember that most of the 15c apiece collars on the market are of 3-ply, and that these are 4-ply, you will better appreciate the wonderful bargains we are giving you.

No less than six collars sold to a customer.

You can have as many dozen as you wish.

EPIGRAMS.

Thoughts are the most dangerous weapons to carry, but they also can be the rarest gifts.

If you will stop worrying about your neighbor's faults, you will have more time to attend to your own.

Satisfaction comes not with a superabundance, but by fitting your ideas regarding luxury to your position and by helping the many below you.

No matter what your talents may be, learn to forget them when you are "out in the world." Who is more tiresome than the clever man, who knows he is clever?

Fame and success are two distinct achievements. The most insignificant souls, to our worldly sense, may have gained the highest success in the most successful way.

How exacting we are with other people, as regards their little mannerisms and peculiarities, and how lenient we are with ourselves about our own, always finding a most plausible excuse for them.

Ambition and progress are altogether different. If one says he has "the ambition to progress" he may mean entirely different things than the man who is "ambitious," or the one who is "progressive."

Don't forgive yourself for badly done work by comparing it with that of some one else, who has perhaps done worse than you have. If you will remember that the "some one else" most likely had not the understanding that you had, or that, perchance, if he had, he had no desire to do better, you will then see that it is essential for you to live your own life and reach your own goal without comparisons.

Everybody's business is the gossip's business.

It's easy to be a philosopher if you have a good income.

The world is filled with lovers of the self-love brand.

No girl treats a young man better than he sees her treat her mother.

Patients are doubly charged when physicians give them electric treatment.

A man must not expect to live in clover simply because he marries a grass widow.

Some men are like postage stamps; they lose their value when they get stuck on themselves.

The opinions your enemies have of you are always more matter of fact than the opinions of your friends.

Some men remind us of camels; while they may go for several days without drinking, they nevertheless get their backs up.

Belshazzar had just invented the hanging gardens. "My solution of rural uplift!" he cried proudly.

Samson's wife had just cut his hair. "Alas!" he moaned, "I should have had it done by a government accountant."

Goldsmith had just written "The Deserted Village." "Got the idea from the town of an ex-president," he explained.

George III. was wondering how the apple got in the dumpling. "That's nothing," rejoined a suffragette. "How do the peaches get in jail?"

GOLF.

As a result of a meeting of the executive committee of the United States Golf Association at Englewood during the open championship the new nominating committee was named. This early selection is in accordance with the change in the constitution as provided at the last annual meeting of the association, in New York city last winter. The committee consists of five individuals, most of whom are prominent in the game.

First of the list is Ransom H. Thomas, of Morris county, former president of the United States Golf Association. Samuel Y. Heebner, of Philadelphia, who served so acceptably as treasurer for eight years, has also been named, while the others are Harry L. Ayer, of Brae Burn; W. V. Kelly, of Onwentsia, a prominent business man of Chicago, and George W. Adair, of Atlanta, vice-president of the Southern Golf Association. The executive committee also made the following ruling:

"If it is doubtful that a ball be out of bounds, the player who played it is not entitled to presume that it is out of bounds until he has made a search of five minutes for it. Meanwhile his opponent may make a search of five minutes for the ball within bounds, and if the ball is not found within that time the player who struck the ball shall be given the benefit of the doubt and the ball shall be considered out of bounds." This is a new interpretation to Clause 2 of Rule 23, which reads as follows:

If a player after making a stroke, be doubtful whether his ball is out of bounds or not, he may play another ball as provided in paragraph 1 of this rule, but if it is discovered that the first ball is not out of bounds, it shall continue in play without penalty.

On reaching the place where the first ball is likely to be, if the player or his opponent be still in doubt, the player is not entitled to presume that the first ball is out of bounds till he has made a search of five minutes.

Married in New York.

Abraham Browning Rosell, formerly proprietor of the Hotel Rosell, now the Hotel Iroqouis, at Park avenue and Second street, and Miss Ida Cowan Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brien, of New Yory city, were married in New York city yesterday. Mr. Rosell is well known as a hotel man here, having been at different times in charge of what is now the Hotel Belmont, and later the Hotel Iroquois. He is now a cigar merchant, having retired from the hotel business. Mrs. Rosell is his second wife.

Capacity Audience at Proctor's.

The fine show at Proctor's theatre yesterday attracted a capacity audience to the popular playhouse, and all were delighted with the highclass vaudeville and the life motion pictures. Immediately following the firemen's parade the people just poured into the theatre in a steady stream and capacity business was the rule for the rest of the day and evening. The same bill will be offered today, with new pictures, and a complete change of everything tomorrow.

Pickpockets' Short Stay.

Hearing of the Charter Day celebration, four pick-pockets, who are well known in local police circles, came to town yesterday to "dip" a livelihood. As they were getting off the train at the North Avenue station, they recognized two detectives on the platform, whom they had occasion to remember. They climbed right back on the train again.

WIN IN THE TENTH INNING

Plainfield Defeats High Bridge by a Score of Three to Two.

ORTLEIB WAS IN FINE FORM.

Washburn, B. Martin and Barnes Make a Great Double Play—Box Score.

The Plainfield and High Bridge baseball teams furnished one of the best games of the season yesterday afternoon on Crescent Oval, following the firemen's parade. The contest was witnessed by more than six hundred ardent fans and for ten hard fought innings they rooted for their favorites. Ortleib pitched a fine game, shutting out the visitors for eight innings. His speed and assortment of curves had them mystified.

In the ninth inning High Bridge connected for a couple of hits, a free pass and pushed two runs over the plate. Plainfield having scored one in the sixth and another in the seventh, the excitement became intense with a tie score. The tenth inning settled it, however, for Plainfield got busy and succeeded in getting the one needed tally, while they shut out the visitors in their half of the inning. There was only one out when the winning run was made.

Jacoby pitched good ball, but the locals got to him for seven hits, including a two-bagger by Barnes. Only three errors were made throughout the contest, one by Plainfield and two by High Bridge, and the game was exceptionally fast. The Plainfielders gave Ortleib great support, the infield being like a stonewall. The score:

MOTORCYCLIST HURT IN THIS COLLISION.

John Gazelman, of 850 Third avenue, Elizabeth, on a motor cycle, and a horse and carriage in charge of Chris. Comins, of the Watchung Hunt Club, and John Gleason, of 736 West Third street, collided at East Fifth and Sycamore streets yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The motor cycle was wrecked and Gazelman received a bad injury to his knee. Temporary aid was given.

Gabelman was going through Fifth street on his way home and when he reached the corner of Sycamore street, he saw the horse and carriage coming through the latter street. Gezelman in trying to avoid a collision swung his machine to the left and ran alongside the carriage, but not far enough to escape the rig.

Comins and Gleason had a third person in the wagon, who was hurrying to catch a train. Afterwards they returned and gave their names to Gazelman. The latter thinks Comins and Gleason to blame. He says that they were not driving with care and exceeded the speed limit.

Timbo Fed 2,000 People.

During the three days celebration Timbo, the North avenue caterer fed about 2,000 people and handled them all to the entire satisfaction of everyone. Yesterday he served the visiting firemen at Morris Bros.' garage on East Fourth street, and he also provided a full course dinner for the Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., and the visiting Knights at the asylum in the Babcock building.

—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Charnock, of Schnectady, N. Y., have removed to 405 Grant avenue. Mr. Charnock was connected with the General Electric Company in Schenctady as an inspector until June 15, leaving there to assume a similar position with the C. & C. Electric Company at Garwood.

PERSONAL.

Miss Dorothy Hannigan, of Richmond street, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is slightly improved.

Miss Bessie Wagner, of Schnectady, N. Y., has returned home after after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Charnock, of 405 Grant avenue.

Mrs. Eliza J. Staats and her sister, Mrs. Taylor, of Edge Moor, Delaware, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Debele, of Somerset street, yesterday. Mrs. Staats was one of the party of tourists with whom Mr. and Mrs. Debele became acquainted on the Pennsylvania Railroad tourist party through the West last summer. She is one her way to Boston to spend the summer and stopped off at Plainfield to call on their friends and incidentally enjoyed the firemen's parade.

E. M. VAIL APPOINTED A ROAD ASSISTANT.

Ephraim M. Vail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Vail, of this city, was today selected by State Road Commissioner Gilkyson as one of his assistant road supervisors. He will be under State Road Supervisor Robert A. Meeker, of this city, through whom he secured the appointment. Mr. Vail is a civil engineer of considerable experience. At one time he was employed in the engineering department of the New Jersey Central and was also employed by F. A. Dunham. He is a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. & A. M.

First Excursion to the Shore.

Twenty coaches, divided into two sections were required for the first annual excursion from this city to Asbury Park, this morning. The Sunday-schools joining in the day's outing were the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, Grace, St. Stephens, Heavenly Rest, Holy Cross and Seventh-Day Baptist. About six coaches were reserved for the colored people identified with the Crescent Avenue and Grace churches. The start was made soon after 8 o'clock and returning tonight the excursionists will leave the Park at 6:30 o'clock and should reach home about 8 o'clock.

NEW EDIFICE DEDICATED

Newark Classis in Charge of Ceremony at Reformed Church in East End.

REV. DR. VANCE PREACHES.

J. B. Voorhees and J. S. Mundy Make Addresses—Rev. Mr. Saure Presides.

The Netherwood Reformed church was dedicated last night by the members of the Newark Classis before a gathering which complete filled the edifice. The formal meeting of the classis was held on the lawn at the side of the new church at which the call was read from the New York Avenue Reformed church of Newark was made to Rev. Mr. Davis. The call was ratified and arrangements made for the installation. Rev. Ernest Saure, of the Reformed church at Linden, presided, and Rev. J. I. Vance, of the North church, of Newark, preached the dedicatory sermon. The choir of Trinity Reformed church of Plainfield rendered some special music under the direction of Organist A. L. Titsworth. Rev. Alfred von Schlieder, of Montclair, read the Scripfures and the dedicatory prayer, with responses by the congregation, was read by Rev. John Y. Broek, of Trinity Reformed.

The exercises in the new building opened with the singing by the choir of "Be Joyful in the Lord," after which came the invocation by Rev. E. B. Saure, of Linden. The sermon by Rev. J. I. Vance followed. Dr. Vance took for his text the fifth verse of the sixty-second Psalm and said in part: "We have now dedicated this church to Almighty God and although the present structure is apparently small it will become a potent factor in the worship of Him who made its erection possible and will eventually become a more pretentious and enduring structure. We believe that the pure Gospel will be preached here and the hope of the life to come will bring th people into touch with God.

"We come here to plant a church, not to extend our denomination, as we believe that a church in a community is a step onward and a mighty factor in its moral up-building. There is no more important event than the establishing of a church in a community. There is no particularly striking feature about the reformed church as a sect but it offers to the people a broad Christianity, and in this place there are those who will find affiliation with this church just what their spiritual needs require, and we shall look for the hearty co-operation of the people.

"The inception of the church was God's and we come with our hopes centered in Him and His blessing, for without His help out efforts will be vain. We may have wealth, prestige and culture and be numerically strong, but they will all be as nothing unless we have the power of the Holy Ghost. Fidelity, courage and faithfulness, all are necessary in this work."

J. B. Voorhees, secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions, made a short address in which he said that the new church was potent with possibilities and congratulated the people of the community on having the church thrown open to them.

Mrs. John S. Allen, secretary of the Woman's Board of Domestic Missions, also spoke, giving the reasons why the woman's board is interested in the new church and said there could be no devlopment in any enterprise unless God's love was in it.

Rev. Royal A. Stout, the pastor of the new church, told in a humorous way what he had expected to have had in the way of church furnishings for the dedication and permanent use, but which unfortunately had been impossible to have ready. However, he was reasonably sure that what was lacking last night would be found wanting in another week. He asked for the support of the people with their prayers. Mr. Stout announced that the women of the church had arranged for a lawn festival to take place Tuesday evening, July 13, and also read an invitation from the Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church to join them on their excursion to Asbury Park ,Thursday, July 29.

J. S. Mundy, an elder of Clinton Avenue church, Newark, spoke briefly on "Power," which he illustrated with a humerous incident in his own life.

After a short invitation for the present gathering to contribute something toward the furnishings of the new church, Dr. Vance said that all the churches of Newark had contributed to the fund for the establishment of the Netherwood church, some of them being churches which were not self-supporting. ## SOMERVILLE'S BIG FIRE

Iron Works and Stove Plant Sacrificed by Poor Water Service.

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $125,000.

Hundreds of Men Are Thrown Out of Work—Fire Started in Lumber Heap.

The Somerville Iron Works, owned by Benjamin Lisberger & Co., of 738 East Fourteenth street, New York city, and the Carbon Stove Works, owned by Morris Baum, situated on the line of the Central Railroad, in East Somerville, were totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The loss is estimated to be $125,000, partly covered by insurance.

Hundreds of iron workers are thrown out of employment and the iron industry of Somerville is ruined as the result of poor water pressure on the mains in a time of emergency.

The fire started in a small lumber heap in the yard of the stove works, and was so insignificant when first discovered that it caused no alarm. A fire hose was brought from the iron works near by to put out the blaze, but when an attempt was made to turn on the water there was no pressure on the mains.

When the entire fire department of the borough hurried to the scene it was equally powerless to check the conflagration, which spread from the stove works to the iron works, and both buildings were roaring furnaces at one time.

After a long delay, the syndicate which supplies the town with water from the Raritan River turned on the pressure, and the dwelling houses near the big fire were saved.

Feeling runs high against the mysterious water syndicate, composed of New York capitalists, whose identity has never been made known to the officials of the town.

HOLD FIRST SERVICES AT FRESH AIR HOME

Accompanied by Miss Sara Curry, head of the Little Missionaries' Day Nursery, situated on St. Mark's place, New York city, more than two hundred children and babies from the lower East Side of New York, came to the Netherwood Fresh Air Home Tuesday, and the first of the evening services at the camp was held last night. L. W. Randolph was the speaker and took his subject from the life of Joseph. The service was held in the auditorium of the camp, and was marked by special music by a mandolin trio and the melodeon.

J. D. Loizeaux is president of the camp association this year, and Geo. E. Hall, last year's president, is the vice-president. Several of the mothers who assist Miss Curry as helpers are now at the camp, and more will come to this city later.

The formal opening of the camp will be on Sunday, when Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will be the speaker. There will be special music.

Seventh-Day Baptist Services.

The weekly prayer meeting will be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church at 8 o'clock tonight. At the morning service tomorrow, the pastor, Rev. Edwin Shaw, will speak upon the theme of "The Patriotism of the Prophets." Sabbath school will meet at the close of the morning service. The last of the series of seven vesper services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, the thought word being "Heroism." Miss Jessie Utter will be at the organ. Raymond C. Burdick will be the leader of the Consecration meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society at 4:45 o'clock. The executive board of the American Sabbath Tract Society will be held in the church parlors at 2 o'clock

Plainfielder in Coaching Party.

Mrs. A. R. Sterbrook, of this city, accompanied by a party of twenty-seven, mostly women from all parts of the country, left yesterday on the North German Lloyd steamer Bremen for a coaching trip in Great Britain. The start will be made at Tintagel, in Devonshire.

Elks Go to Somerville.

A delegation of fifteen members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., went to Somerville last night in the auto bus, to witness the initiation of the one hundredth member of Somerville Lodge of Elks. Afterward there was a social session and banquet.

Miss Anna Warnock, of Craig place, has gone to Sea View, L. I., to spend several weeks.

ICEMAN IS BADLY HURT

Jolted from Wagon, Kirkman is Run Over and Seriously Injured.

PATROLMAN SAVES HIS LIFE?

Arthur McGinley's Presence of Mind Saves Victim from Possible Death—Internaly Hurt.

Because an ice wagon he was driving jolted over a cobblestone, at the pyschological moment that he was alighting from the wagon while it was in motion, Frank Kirman, of 340 McDowell street, is lying at his home today seriously injured.

The accident happened late yesterday afternoon on West Fifth street the other side of Grant avenue. Kirkman was delivering ice and was driving one of the heavy wagons of the firm of J. C. Watson & Co. As is customary when delivering ice, he called out, "Whoa!" to the horses, and while they were coming to a stop, swung off from the drivers seat to go to the rear of the wagon to weigh out the ice.

As he was about to put his foot on the step, the wagon jolted over some cobblestones, Kirkman slipped and rolled under the wagon the fore wheels passing over the lower part of his body. But for the presence of mind of Patrolman Arthur McGinley, Kirkman would have been very seriously injured and might possibly have lost his life for the patrolman stopped the horses in time to prevent Kirkman being dragged over a rough section of the road. McGinley extricated Kirkman, and then took the injured man to the office of Dr. A. K. Brennan, where his wounds were dressed and careful examination made.

It is feared that Kirkman is suffering from some internal injury.

FREIGHT WRECK BLOCKS TRAFFIC ON CENTRAL

The breaking of a wheel on a car of a fast eastbound freight, just west of High Bridge at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, wrecked twenty-one cars of the train, completely blocking the New Jersey Central until today and compelling the movement of trains over the Lehigh Valley Railroad as far east as Bound Brook, where they again took the Central tracks. As a result of the wreck, Marchant Brothers and other local milk dealers, who depend upon their daily supply of milk from Hunterdon county, were unable to serve their customers this morning.

The accident occurred on a steep grade of the road and with the breaking of the wheel there was not a thing to save the wrecking of a majojrity of the cars which made up the train. In many respects it was one of the worst blockades in years, effectually shutting off all use of the tracks at that point. Fortunately, not a single person was injured.

The cars were well filled with merchandise of all kinds and most of this was an entire loss. As soon as the accident happened wrecking crews were summoned, and they worked continuously until today to clear the tracks. It is said that the train was making close to fifty miles an hour when the wheel broke, piling the cars up to a great height and scattering the debris far and wide over the tracks.

Laundryman's Horse in Flight.

H. W. Marshall's horse attached to the laundry wagon, ran away yesterday afternoon and was caught at Park avenue and Front street, by Patrolman William Messler. There was practically no damage. The horse was left standing on the upper part of Watchung avenue, the borough, while the driver stopped at a residence. In some way the animal became frightened and ran through several streets of the borough, before reaching Front street and Park avenue, where it was stopped in its flight.

Lynch Gets Sixty Days.

Edward Lynch was sentenced to serve sixty days in the county jail at his hearing before City Judge Runyon, when Detective Sergeant Flynn, who arrested him last night at the carnival grounds, preferred a charge of disorderly conduct.

Going Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Palmer, of Fanwood, accompanied by Mr. Palmer's mother, who is eighty-five years old, will leave tomorrow for Europe, where they will travel for several weeks.

MAZE EDWARDS' FUNERAL

Church and Elks' Services for Departed Veteran Theatre Manager.

BEAUTIFUL FLORAL TRIBUTES.

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson Reads Episcopal Service and Elks Then Take Charge.

There was a large concourse of friends at the funeral services of Major Maze Edwards held at 2:30 o'clock, yesterday afternoon from the residence of Frank Rowley on Grove street. Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, Benevolent Protective Order Elks, of which Mr. Edwards was a member, had charge of the services following that of the church. About thirty from that lodge attended in a body.

Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, rector of Grace church, officiated and after reading the service of the Episcopal church, the Elks took charge and conducted their form of service, during which "Abide With Me," and "'Till We Meet Again," were sung by City Judge William N. Runyon, Elmer E. Runyon and Elmer D. Cutting.

There was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes, including those from the Elks, Mayor Charles Noel Fisk, Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M., and numerous friends of the "Major" who knew him only to admire him for his many estimable qualities.

Among the mourners were also several relatives, including Rev. Dr. David Edwards, a brother of the Major, who belonged to the Church of England, and who recently has been living at Block Island. Other relatives were too great a distance to reach Plainfield in time for the service.

The burial was in Hillside Cemetery and the pall-bearers were City Judge William N. Runyon, H. C. VanEmburgh, James Dodd, Frank Rowley, William R. Townsend, of the Elks, and William Moxson, of Anchor lodge, No. 149, F. & A. M.

MARY OVERLAND HELD BY ELIZABETH POLICE

Mary Overland, the eighteen year old daughter of Herman Overland, of 815 West Fourth street, has been arrested by the police of Elizabeth, and is being held until her parents can be communicated with. The young woman was apprehended while in the company of a number of men of questionable character on Irving place, off Condon street, Elizabeth, last night.

When questioned by the police she gave her name as Mary Vreeland, but said she lived at 275 West Fifth street, Plainfield. There is no one by that name at that address and at 815 on the same street no response was had to reepated knocks at the door. Chief Kiely has the case referred to him for incvestigation by the Elizabeth police.

EXPLOSION OF AUTO LAMP MAY COST HORNI EYESIGHT.

Kuby Horni, aged 19 years, employed as a chauffeur by Potts & Kauffman, wholsesale grocers of Perth Amboy, was badly burned Wednesday night by the explosion of an aceytelyn gas lamp on his auto, and is now a patient at the home of Dr. H. V. Hubbard on Central avenue, where he will be kept for a week at least.

The accident happened on Park avenue, opposite North, about 10 o'clock. Horni stopped his machine to fix his lamp and while doing this the thing exploded. The blaze burned his face, eye-lashes, hair and one eye and Dr. Hubbard is not sure that he will be able to save the sight of the eye. Horni came to this city with some friends to see the firemen's parade and was on his way home when the accident happened.

Bishop Williams Here.

Bishop Williams, of Michigan, has been secured as the preacher for July at St. Bartholomew's church, New York, and during the month he will be the guest of his brother, L. A. Williams, of 143 East Seventh street, this city. Bishop Williams is one of the most prominent figures in the Episcopal church.

Gets Six Months' Vacation.

John Manley, after a continuous service of twenty-three years for the Metropolitan Insurance Company, has been given a six months' vacation with pay, at the expiration of which he will be given another position by the company. Mr. Manley is one of the honor men of the company.

FIRE PARADE JOKE STIRS UP DUNELLEN

Sentiment seems to be divided as to the intention of the masqueraders who took part in the parade of the firemen on Wednesday. Some of the firemen seem to think it was intended as a slur on the department, while others think it was merely to show up the impecuniosity of the powers that be. But as a matter of fact, the whole thing was conceived in a spirit of fun, and was carried out to the extent of furnishing screaming laughter throughout the entire line of march. When the masked trio passed the reviewing stand they were greeted with shouts of hilarity mingled with the hand clapping of the women. As many as fifty photographs of the funny outfit were taken along the route of the parade.

As far as could be ascertained yesterday Joseph Meyer, Terry Romaine, Harry Shugar and Walter Runyon were the hardest kickers against what they termed "an outrage." On the other hand, many others who were interviewed, took the matter for what it was, a good joke and as fine a parody as could well have been invented for the special delectation of the people who like to mix the serious things of life with an occasional comedy. Charles E. Tinsman, Lester Kretzel and Elston Lowrie were the individuals responsible for the mirth provoking combination and they are receiving the congratulations of their friends for the way in which the idea was carried out.

There is considerable talk going on relative to the formation of a new fire company which is to be composed of the young men of the village. Several of these interested in the movement have called upon Mr. Tinsman with reference to the matter, and have gone so far as to ask him to become the chief of the new company. A meeting will be called shortly looking to the formation of the new organization.

He Looked Suspicious.

Charles W. Bill, whose home is in Jersey City, was arrested late last night by Patrolman Nolan, who saw him go up on a piazza in the west end of the town. Bill told City Judge Runyon today that he had been drinking and thought that the house was where he had left some tools in the afternoon. He is an awning repairer, and as he told a straight story, the Judge suspended sentence.

Tax Commission Meets.

The North Plainfield Tax Commission met again last night in the school house to further consider the question of equalizing tax assessments. Only regular routine work was done.

GEORGE J. WHALEN AS SELF-MADE MILLIONAIRE

"Trust Methods for Retailers," an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, written by Isaac F. Marcosson, deals with the business system built up by George J. Whalen, president of the United Cigar Stores Company, who lives on East Front street. "Behind his methods," says the writer, "is a lesson for every man who sells goods over a counter."

Mr. Whalen, who is a self-made millionaire, is the one man who has created the business system of the United Cigar Stores, says the article. "Scarcely fifteen years ago," the writer says, "he owned a small cigar stand in a Syracuse hotel, where he had a regular trade among the guests. He finally made up his mind that his business should not depend upon others, and he started a store of his own. Today he has more than six hundred separate stores, and is one of our comparatively unknown, self-made millionaires.

The article, which is based on an interview with Mr. Whalen, is full of meaty advice for retailers, and covers every branch of the retail business.

EXHIBITOR OF SNAKES FIGURES IN CITY COURT.

When Colonel W. D. Westlake, the Brooklynite who got in trouble with the police at the "snake tent" at the Galaschauen Wednesday night, faced City Judge Runyon at city court for his postponed hearing, he was a contrite veteran.

"It's all a mistake,' he said, "and I acknowledge that I was wrong. There was a misunderstanding on my part as to whether the police were entitled to enter my show. The policemen acted very well, and I don't think for an instant that any one of the Plainfield officers is a petty grafter. I want to apoligize to them." Such being the case, City Judge Runyon added sauce to the love feast by dismissing the charge against the proprietor of the snake show.

The colonel was a bit sore on the local police, and it is said that this feeling grew out of his "cocky" behavior when he went to headquarters to get his show license.

THE WEATHER.

OCEAN RECORD BROKEN

Plainfielder Tells of His Trip on the Mauretania Which Cuts Time.

VESSEL LOPPS OFF 17 MINUTES.

Cunarder Cross in Four Days Sixteen Hours and Thirty-six Minutes—Seventy Knots Average.

The Cunard liner Mauretania has again lowered the westward record—her own—over the long course, 2,891 knots, across the North Atlantic. She arrived off the Sandy Hook Lightship at 9:16 o'clock last night, having slipped 17 minutes off her own and the world's record, till then 4 days 16 hours and 53 minutes. She docked early this morning. Among her first-class cabin pasengers was Henry W. Hazelton, of Woodland avenue, who was returning from a ten weeks' business trip through Europe.

The new record from Daunt's Rock to the Sandy Hook Lightship is 4 days 16 hours and 36 minutes. The Mauretania's best previous westward record was made on the voyage from May 15 to 20.

The hourly average speed of the Mauretania for the trip just ended is unofficially given as 25.70 knots, as against her best previous average of 25.62.

This voyage of the Mauretania was made under good conditions. There was little bad weather. The great vessel bowled through the water at a rate of speed, which in every way justifies the belief that she will soon be able to make the journey across the Atlantic, and arrive at Sandy Hook early enough to allow her to land her passengers here on Thursday night. Each trip she cuts down the time by a few minutes. Last night she came to the lightship almost in time to allow her to dock. Taking aboard the mails at Fishguard, Wales, instead of at Queenstown will help. It is expected that this will save six hours.

In a few weeks the vessel will be on the southern or short course, 2,780 knots, but it is Capt. Pritchard's ambition to come over the long course, and still land on Thursday night.

Mr. Hazelton said today that in all his experiences in ocean travel during the last sixteen years, he had never seen so many large wagers made among the cabin passengers on the daily runs. The Mauretania, he declared, seemed fairly to fly across the waters and its record was greatly helped by the unusually favorable weather conditions. During his sojourn in London, the Plainfielder took a run over to County Cork, Ireland, where he was entertained at the Hazelton ancestral estate, which has been in the possession of the family for 500 years.

SURPRISE PARTY MARKS WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

In celebration of the thirty-first anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. B. Y. Moore were tendered a pleasant surprise at their home on North avenue last night. About twenty-five of their friends called upon them unexpectedly, bringing handsome presents. The evening passed quickly with reminiscenses and there were piano selections by Mrs. Stewart and her son and songs by Miss Viola Stewart and George Rittenhouse.

Among the presents were several pieces of cut glass, a handsome rocking chair and a gold-piece sent by Mrs. Moore's father. The couple were married by Rev. Lewis Bond, in this city. Out-of-town guests came from Newark and Somerville.

Special Services at Mt. Zion.

The first quarterly conference will be held at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church tonight, Elder J. T. Hammond presiding. The quarterly meeting will be held on Sunday. The choir under the direction of Alfred P. White has prepared a special program of music for the occasion. There will be a love feast at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, preaching at 11 o'clock, Sunday-school at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and preaching at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Realty Deal.

Mrs. Alice M. Lord, through Armstrong Mulford, the real estate broker, has sold all her residential property on Belvidere and Woodland avenues and Rahway road to Mrs. James M. Charles, of Madison avenue.

Cake Sale at Trinity Church.

Under the auspices of the Home Department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, a cake sale will be held in the lecture room of the church tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

SOMERVILLE.

There will be no services in the Presbyterian church at Lamington next Sunday morning. The pastor, Rev. John T. Scott, and his family have gone on a six weeks' trip through western Pennsylvania and Ohio. The Rev. John Erler, of Pottersville, will preach on July 18.

Harry and Augustus Buxton, of Charlotte, N. C., have been spending some time with friends in this vicinity. They were formerly residents of North Branch.

Edward A. Weeks has gone to Ithaca, N. Y., where he is to take a course in the summer school of Cornell University.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pittenger, of Cleveland, O., are spending the week with Mr. Pittenger's father.

Miss Kathryn Pool, of Bay Ridge, is spending the week with her cousin, Mrs. Albert E. Case.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

About twenty-five friends of Miss Margaret Reynolds tendered her a surprise party last night at her home on Barth avenue. The evening was pleasantly spent playing games on the lawn, which was prettily trimmed with Japanese lanterns. Music was enjoyed in the parlor by those who tired of the games. During the evening refreshments were served. Guests were present from Plainfield, Dunellen and the village.

The local ball team have an off day tomorrow, Manager Frentz being unable to arrange a game. Montross, who has been doing the box work in all the games this season, has left the team and will play the balance of the season with White House.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stillger and children, of Brooklyn, are spending a week with Mr. Stillger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stilger, of Front street.

Joseph Corrona, who has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation, has returned to his position with the N. Y. Telephone Co., of New York.

The newly organized Men's Club of the Methodist church, held its semi-monthly meeting last night in the class rooms of the church.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews will lead the prayer and praise meeting tonight at the Baptist church.

William Stanbery is spending several weeks of his vacation sojourning along the coast of Maine.

Mrs. Otto Peterson, of Newark, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Benjamin Clark, of Prospect avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The N. P. Stars defeated the Slammers in a slugging match yesterday by a score of 21 to 20. The score, being 20 to 20 in the ninth inning, an extra inning was played, in which the Stars scored the winning run.

William Rielley, general foreman of the Lehigh Valley railroad, has started with 150 men the work of enlarging the Lehigh Valley yards in this vicinity.

Miss Mildred Johnson, of Plainfield avenue, is coaching a troupe, which will in the near future, present a play in Washington hall.

It is expected that the Plainfield Auto Bus Company will run cars over the established route in less than ten days.

Edward McDonough has taken a position as foreman of construction in the local railroad yards.

The Misses Veronica and Madeline Rielley are visiting relatives in Newark.

Miss Myrtle Bailey, of this place, is spending her vacation in Keyport, Florida.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. P. I. Minton, of East Sixth street, is spending a few days with relatives at Long Branch.

Miss Mary Cleaves, who is a pupil nurse at the hospital, is spending her vacation at the seashore.

Miss Josephine Culbertson, a pupil nurse at the hospital, is spending her vacation in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Serrell, of Brooklyn, who have been visiting relatives here, have returned home.

Miss Jane Marshall, a pupil nurse at Muhlenberg Hospital, is enjoying her vacation at Port Richmond, S. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Garretson and daughter, of Allentown, Pa., have been visiting relatives in the city during the past week.

Walter Gibson, formerly of this city, was among the Passaic firemen taking part in the parade here Wednesday. He is assistant chief of the department.

Harold Firstbrook and the two sons of Frank Boos, of Grant avenue, who are ill at Muhlenberg Hospital with scarlet fever, are steadily improving and will probably be able to return home soon.

Dr. George L. Megargee, of Willow avenue, who was injured in an automobile accident three weeks ago, when his shoulder was broken, is steadily improving. It will be three weeks before the physician will be able to remove the bandages.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The official board of the First M. E. church met Wednesday night and considered plans for the summer.

The Misses Shreve, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Shreve, of Grove street, have gone to Germantown, Pa., to visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. VanBuren, of this city, have taken a house at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where they will spend the summer.

The mid-week prayer service at the First M. E. church, Wednesday night, July 14, will be under the direction of the Brotherhood of the church. Special music will be an added feature.

The Union service of the First M. E., First Baptist and First Presbyterian churches and the Trinity Reformed church will be held at the last named church Sunday night, and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, will preach.

Among the guest registered during the past week at the Peninsula Hotel, Seabright, are Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Manger and Miss J. Manger, of Washington avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rushmore, of West Eighth street, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ackerman, of West Eighth street.

Proctor's Strong Bill.

The new bill at Proctor's theatre today will include The Joyces, comedy talking and dancing; Barrett & Stone, in "Lesson of Love;" Patsy DeLaney, comedienne; Clotide and Montrose, comedy acrobats, and these life motion pictures: "Napoleon the First," "The Captain's Wives," "A Bride Won by Bravery," "Priest of the Wilderness," "Mardi Gras at Havana," "The Wrong Medicine," and "Stung by a Bee."

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will initiate two candidates at its meeting tonight.

The Newark Alerts, members of the Newark City Baseball League, and one of the fastest semi-professional teams in Essex county, will cross bats with the Y. M. C. A. nine on Crescent Oval, tomorrow afternoon.

The Plainfield Baseball Club will play at Bound Brook tomorrow, and try and even up matters for the last defeat. Ortleib will do the twirling honors for Plainfield.

The Boston Americans would not waive claim on George McConnell and the Yankees have recalled the pitcher from Jersey City.

The Yankees are not after Catcher Currier of Harvard. He doesn't look to be big league timber. Judging by the work of big Ned Sweeney behind the bat for the Highlanders he will develop into a star.

The series of games which started yesterday at the Polo Grounds between the Giants and Pittsburgs, will have an important bearing on the pennant.

And Coakley, the pitcher, formerly with the Chicago Cubs, will manage the Manhattans, of New York, the rest of the season. He will reorganize the team and will do the twirling himself, with Tom Doran, the former Boston catcher, for a backstop.

The game on Crescent Oval, Wednesday between Plainfield and High Bridge, was one of the best of the season, and the fans were all the more delighted because Plainfield won. High Bridge put up a great fight, however.

This is the first time that Jacoby has appeared on the local diamond. Much has been heard of his pitching in Hunterdon county and he did good work here.

The High Bridge fans are always loyal to their team. This was in evidence on Wednesday by the large number of rooters that witnessed the contest on Crescent Oval.

GOLF.

With the amateur championship to begin at the Chicago Golf Club two months from today, it may be worth mentioning that of the former champions with home clubs in the Metropolitan Golf Association district Walter J. Travis never has played better and Findlay Douglas, although now a yachtsman and motorist as well as golfer, also is in splendid form should he care to go to the Chicago Golf Club for the title week. The present champion, since his return from the Scottish links, has played his true game only in flashes, but the glimpses of his real form have been so dazzling that it is evident if he gives his mind to getting ready Jerome D. Travers may maintain a foremost place in the national competition.

The time is past in these days of many recruits from schools, colleges and other forms of recreation to the links that a John Ball, H. H. Hilton, W. J. Travis, H. Chandler Egan, E. M. Byers or Jerome D. Travers may look forward to a probable win, especially if not trained to the nines. There are so many dashing golfers now to be reckoned with that no one player outclasses the field here or abroad. Regarding the recent developments at tournaments hereabouts Max Behr has ripened in facility and is at ease with every club in the kit. With more aggressiveness at a match player Behr would be of the true championship timber.

In the Apawamis tournament last week W. Fellowes Morgan, Jr., and F. R. Upton, Jr., both cemented their place gained on other performances as worthy championship aspirants. The gale on Saturday not only baffled the majority of the full shots but also made the putting very puzzling. The Apawamis greens seemed to have been shaved with a razor and the wind often had control of the ball on them. As a consequence Upton's 81, 79-160 in the handicap was very able golfing.

Charles H. Seely also played in championship class, and although not driving straight, except when he reached the edge of the 311 yard green and was rewarded by a 3, the Wee Burn man showed he would be dangerous at Wheaton. W. G. Pfeil of Philadelphia was also very "classy" and Seely had a close call to beat him in the semi-final. G. W. White, the Cutler schoolboy, played up to his reputation as a coming star. He has zeal and force but is lacking in tecnique. A game two or three times a week with a good coach over a long course between now and the championship would help White at Wheaton—possibly it would enable him to beat any Western junior, although the title might be far from his grasp.

OCEAN BOULEVARD IS URGED BY FORT.

Sea Girt, July 9.—At a meeting shortly before noon yesterday of several of those prominently interested in the movement for an ocean boulevard, held at the invitation of Governor Fort, in the executive cottage here, the Governor outlined in brief form the purpose of the meeting and the benefits to be gotten from a boulevard such as the one proposed.

Among those present were representatives from all the shore counties, both in the Legislature and Board of Freeholders, members of the State Highway Commission, and of the Ocean Boulevard Committee. The Governor said in part:

"The plan outlined in my first message to the Legislature contemplated a great system of highways, to be maintained by the State, between each county seat in the State and a boulevard on the Atlantic Ocean. The proposed roads are very largely constructed at the present time, and the parts not now completed could be finished at no great cost. After they are fully constructed the State can maintain them at reasonable expense, and relieve the counties of that burden. I doubt if our people fully realize what a connecting highway from county seat to county seat and a great highway upon the Atlantic coast of our State would mean to the people of New Jersey.

"These highways would be 850 miles in length. Think of that great length of highways of the finest roads anywhere, with all the convenience for travel that they would give. It would increase the values of all agricultural lands and would make the whole State a place of the greatest attraction. The increasing of wealth to our people by this system of good roads cannot be estimated."

TWO RESCUED AS YACHT CAPSIZES.

Elizabeth Men Save Youths Who Refuse to Reveal Their Identity.

Two young men whose names have not been ascertained were saved from drowning when their sailboat capsized off Chncellor Dock in Staten Island Sound at Elizabeth yesterday. The rescuers were Captain George Coon and Commodore William Summerton, of the Elizabeth Yacht Club, and the crew of a Standard Oil tug. The yacht was coming up the sound under full sail about 11 o'clock when a full squall struck it. Before the youths had a chance to grab a rope the wind had turned the craft on its side, and it was submerged in startlingly short order. The two men were thrown into the water, and began a desperate struggle to keep from going under. Neither appeared able to swim.

Summerton had just returned to the club with his motorboat. He and Coon were sitting on the upper balcony of the yacht club watching the boys, who they thought knew little about sailing a boat, when the craft capsized.

The boys refused to give their names and refused to return to Elizabeth, as quite a crowd had gathered along the water front watching the rescue. They said, "We don't want to be showed up."

This is the first rescue since the first aid to the injured station was established at the boathouse.

NEW EDIFICE DEDICATED

lection netted a goodly sum. The choir sang "A Greater Hilleluya" and Rev. S. N. Hutchinson, of the First church, Newark, pronounced the benediction. Following the service, the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

The new church starts with a Sunday school of twenty-five, and a congregation with twice as many.

Among other members of the Classis present on this occasion were the Rev. Dennis Wortman, D. D., LL. H. D., of East Orange; Rev. Henry M. Mellin, of Christ Reformed church, Newark; Rev. Charles P. Condit, of Trinity Reformed church, Newark; Rev. Charles E Waldron, of Brookdale; Rev. Albertus T. Broek, of Clinton Avenue Refromed church, Newark, who brought a delegation of the consistory with him.

KIDNAPPER FOILED BY GIRLS' CRIES.

Passaic, July 9.—But for the timely cries of several children, the 7-months-old child of the Rev. and Mrs. Christopher L. Orbach, of 183 Hayward place, Wallington, would probably have been kidnapped yesterday by a former inmate of an insane asylum.

The child was sleeping in a hammock in the back yard of the Orbach home, when the man crept up to it, and, after loosening the sides of the hammock, took up the little one. As he was about to leave the yard several girls who witnessed the act screamed. The brought neighbors from their homes. The stranger quickly put the child back in the hammock and escaped.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL METHODS AS CONVENTION THEME.

A public reception marked the opening of the fourth annual session of the Ocean Grove Assembly of Sunday-school methods llast night at the Arlington Hotel, at Ocean Grove. The regular session began today, and the meetings will continue for eight days.

This morning in the chapel President A. E. Ballard made an address of welcome, which was responded to by Mrs. J. H. Faraday, president of the assembly. In addition to the fine program there were some very attractive special features. On Tuesday evening, July 13, a lecture will be delivered by W. R. George, the founder of the Junior Republic, on "The Story of a City of Boys and Girls."

Rev. Charles Sumner Kemble will deliver his lecture on "Linked Relations," from James Whitcomb Riley, on Wednesday evening, July 14. Frank Rines, a rapid sketch cartoonist, will give special work each day of the assembly. A meeting for boys and girls will be held every day at 4 o'clock.

During the sessions there will be addresses by Rev. Dr. Charles Roads, formerly general secretary both of Pennsylvania and Maryland of the M. E. Sunday-school Union, now teacher of the Ocean Grove Auitorium Bible class Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, general secretary of the New Jersey State Sunday-school Association; Miss M. E. Beardslee, of New York, a teacher of blackboard illustration; Professor E. Richmond, the pin-cushion blackboard specialist, and Tall Esen Morgan, musical director at Ocean Grove.

CRANFORD WANTS OWN WATER PLANT.

Town Committee Informed One Could Be Installed for About $60,000.

Township Committeeman J. Z. Smith, of Cranford, has the municipal ownership fever. He has already investigated the proposition of a municipal water plant, and has informed the town committee that he will be ready with data regarding an electric light plant in a few weeks.

Committeeman Smith has not been appointed by the committee as a special committee to investigate these propositions, but is going ahead, and declares that he will submit the information to the voters for action in the fall.

At the meeting of the committee held Wednesday night Mr. Smith submitted a map and proposition from the Haas Engineering Company of Philadelphia, which estimated that a plant could be built to supply water to the town for $60,000 and that the cost of maintenance would be less than $5,000 a year, netting the town 10 per cent. The Plainfield Water Company at present furnishes Cranford with water from artesian wells located at Netherwood.

CALEB C. PIERSON DEAD.

Funeral on Saturday to Be Large—Old Church Worker.

The funeral of Caleb C. Pierson, for years distinguished as Perth Amboy's oldest church and lodge worker, promises to be one of the largest Perth Amboy has ever known. It will be held on Saturday afternoon from his late home, 425 High street, Perth Amboy. Mr. Pierson is survived by two adopted daughters, Miss Sibbie Willis, of that city, and Mrs. Frederick Slaight, of Newark.

Mr. Pierson lacked one month of being 87 years old. He was born at Caldwell in 1822. In 1849 he came to this city and opened a shoe store, after having married Miss Delilah Speer, of New York. He continued the shoe business at different stands in Perth Amboy, until his health compelled him to retire a few years ago.

Mr. Pierson and his wife celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on July 3, 1893. Mrs. Pierson died five years later. Mr. Pierson was a devoted church worker throughout his life.

COACH DRIVERS AROUSED.

Indignant Because Member of Union Worked Sunday.

Union coach drivers of Elizabeth are arroused over the report that a union man worked at a funeral last Sunday against the rules of the recently formed organization. They will conduct an examination and meet on Tuesday night to plan means of putting a stop to all work on Sunday for union drivers.

According to an agreement reached some time ago, and approved by most of the members of the Coach Owners' Union in the city, the union drivers put the ban on all Sunday funerals after July 1.

Commuters' Club.

A commuters' club has been organized by business men of Newark and the Oranges who ride on the Central Railroad of New Jersey and leave the Broad street station at 4:25 each week day afternoon for the Jersey coast resorts. A committee has been appointed to see the chief officers of the Central Railroad Company and ask for a special car, with lockers, card tables and a steward.

DANGER OF FRENCH MONEY.

The fight of the financiers of the world to obtain for their enterprises a portion of the stupendous wealth of France has a side to it that may not be so alluring, according to A. H. Parnall, writing of the "World's Finance" in the July Van Norden Magazine. Mr. Parnall, after showing that France can buy nearly a billion dollars of foreign securities a year, makes a point that it must be actively borne in mind that the average French investor is completely swayed by his banker, and the latter is cautious to a degree not imaginable in our country. One word from the banking power of France—and French bankers co-operate on vital issues—could start wholesale liquidation of American stocks, and this, in turn, would involve a serious outpouring of gold reserves from this country. If the United States Steel Corporation's attempt to have its securities listed on the Paris Bourse is followed by a large number of other great industrials it will add another element of danger to the many now besetting the business world.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The case of Mary Manning, a servant in the employ of Mrs. Fred Stevenson, of Dewey Park, is exciting the sympathy of the neighborhood, for the domestic. Monday night Miss Manning accepted the invitation of Miss Johnson, the daughter of a neighbor, to attend the fireworks display at Plainfield, and returning late, owing to the difficulty of obtaining room in the overcrowded trolley, the young woman's employer locked her out. According to Miss Manning Mrs. Johnson invited Miss Manning to spend the night at her house and in the morning she reported for work as usual. Instead of allowing the maid to go about her duties the girl claims that she was first subjected to a severe scolding, and later had her ears boxed by the irate mistress of the house. Miss Manning also avers that her wages are being withheld and has applied to Justice Rogers for a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Stevenson on a charge of assault.

Marshal William Sliney was the mark for an atempted assault at Dunellen last Tuesday, for which William Bellis, of this city, and John Meehan, of Elizabeth, are now resting in the county jail at New Brunswick, held for the grand jury. According to witnesses of the affair the assault was the result of a prearranged plan to "do" Marshal Sliney for an imaginary grievance. Mr. Sliney was one too many for the two bullys and landed them both in the lock-up, after a sharp scrimmage in which Bellis had his head damaged to the extent of a scalp wound. In the absence of a physician Bellis' wound was dressed by druggist Edward Pennock.

The Dunellen Field club will cross bats with the strong team of the Cranford Athletic Club on Saturday, at the Madison avenue grounds. These teams are so evenly matched that an interesting game is sure to ensue.

The Baptist Sunday school had their annual excursion to Asbury Park yesterday.

WANTS NEW TELEPHONE LINE THROUGH NEWARK.

Adelbert W. Bailey, representing the Hudson and Middlesex Telephone Company, appeared before the street committee of the Newark Board of Works yesterday and submitted a petition requesting the designation of a thoroughfare through which to lay conduits for a trunk line from Frelinghuysen avenue, on the south, to the Plank road, on the east, in that city.

It is the idea of the new company to reach the metropolitan field, although it is not stated how entrance to Manhattan is to be effected. Mr. Bailey said that there was no immediate intention of applying for a franchise to operate in Newark, but that the scope of the system was sufficiently broad to make it desirable to operate there, provided the public demand for such a local service was sufficient. Bailey said it was the ultimate purpose of the company to operate between Philadelphia and New York. He admitted that the company's application is part of a move to link the independent telephone companies in Pennsylvania with the independents in New York State.

Two Rescued in Canoe Spill.

A canoe in which James Buysee and Miss Florence Blanchard were spending the afternoon on the Passaic river, near Singac, was upset yesterday afternoon by a gust of wind, and the two occupants were tossed into the water. Frank Essex and his son John, both of whom are members of the United States Life Saving Corps, were in a motor boat near by, and they went to the rescue. Both the young man and his companion became unconscious before they were taken ashore. They were revived and brought to their homes in Paterson.

Firemen's Mutual Beneovlent Ass'n.

The fine body of about forty men who were at the head of the Plainfield Fire Department on Wednesday were members of the Firemen's Mutual Beneovlent Association. They were guests of the local department by special invitation, and were entertained by Chief Doane's men at headquarters. They were enthusiastic in their praise of this city, streets and buildings, and thoroughly enjoyed their visit. They came from various parts of the State and were delighted with their fine entertainment.

Girl Drowned in the Passaic.

Elizabeth Young, fifteen years old, daughter of Ralph S. Young, of Kearny, fell into the Passaic river and was drowned yesterday afternoon. Mr. Young has a boathouse, and during his absence yesterday he placed his daughter in charge. She is thought to have fallen into the water while pushing driftwood away from the float. The body was recovered.

SENATORIAL BOOMS TO BURN THEY SAY

Although the selection for the gubernatorial candidates for the next election is still a big year away, some are laying plans to gain the coveted office, as well as for the United States Senatorship, which will be the real event of the legislative year of 1911. From Saturday onward through the summer the pivot will turn in the executive cottage at Sea Girt, for it is there that Governor Fort will officially open the summer capital with the arrival of the first troops for this year's National Guard encampment.

The New Ideaites have obtained eligible seats well up near the throne. The Governor has intimated that the more Colby adherents he has surrounding him during the warm weather the better he is going to feel. Accordingly former Senator Everett Colby himself will spend a large portion of his time in close proximity to the Governor. Colonel Austen Colgate, the Governor's personal aide and a member of the New Idea side, will be in evidence constantly ,as it is on his shoulders that the burden of the executive entertainment will fall.

According to indications there will be a fleet of gubernatorial and senatorial aspirants seldom equalled and never surpassed. Vivian M. Lewis, who was clerk in Chancery before Governor Fort appointed him Commissioner of Banking and Insurance on the last night of the last legislative session, and who had even the wise ones guessing at the convention which nominated Fort in 1907 as to whether he would not get it himself, is very much in evidence as a candidate at this early day. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of the Senate, is also due for many visits to Sea Girt.

As for former Governor Edward C. Stokes, he will appear in a dual capacity. The United States Senatorship, however, appeals more strongly to him than the executive chair.

In all this talk about candidates for the Senatorship it is just as well to remember that it is the place of Senator John Kean that is being assaulted, and that the present incumbent is likely to have a few words to say himself as to who the next man in the place shall be.

But it will all start Saturday when the Sea Girt session really opens.

HAD NO SYMPATHY FOR HER HUSBAND.

At the request of his wife, who appeared against him in the city court this morning, James Lyons, of Plainfield avenue, was sentenced to serve forty days in the county jail at Elizabeth, by City Judge Runyon this morning. Mrs. Lyons charged her husband with cruel and abusive treatment while on a nine-days jag, which terminated in his arrest last night, and accused him of having stolen five pairs of shoes and some clothing from a trunk in her room to get funds for a continuation of the debauch.

Home life has not been happy for the Lyons family, if the wife's testimony counts for anything. She has been twice deserted by her husband, who is a good workman, but has a habit of spending his wages for booze, rather than using it to defray household expenses. Mrs. Lyons was left for a year at one time, to provide for herself and three children, and later the husband went away for about five months. Mrs. Lyons is in poor health now, and testified that her husband treated her most brutally at their home last night.

Lyons took five pairs of shoes from a trunk belonging to his wife some days ago, and pawned them to get money for drink. Mrs. Lyons was utterly disgusted with the man's behavior, and recommended a stiff prison sentence. After Judge Runyon had pronounced sentence, Lyons walked over to where his wife was standing and reached out his hand to say good-bye. She quickly folded her arms and the prisoner, who showed the effects of his long debauch, was led back to a cell.

Burned Playing With Matches.

Willie, the three-year-old son of William Wilson, of 430 East Second street, was badly burned this morning while playing with matches. How the child managed to get hold of the matches is a mystery, but when found his clothing was all afire and his body, face and hands fearfully burned. It is feared that the boy also inhaled some of the flame.

DRINK MILK SLOWLY

BEVERAGE MUST NOT BE GULPED IN QUANTITY.

Majority of People Misunderstand the Principles That Govern This Most Useful of All the Health-Giving Liquids.

The Dairy (London, Eng.) gives the following advice on drinking milk:

There is a right way and a wrong way to drink milk, and the great majority of people drink it in the latter way. That is the real reason why milk disagrees with so many people; at least it is one of the chief reasons. Milk contains all the elements necessary for maintaining the physical health of those who know how to use it properly. Indeed (says a writer in Health), most people would be better off physically if milk and entire wheat bread formed their ordinary diet. Especially is this true of delicate persons whose powers of digestion have become enfeebled. Persons suffering from nervous prostration are not able to digest meat, and will find great benefit from a purely milk diet, but the milk must not be imbibed like draughts of water—it must be sipped slowly, a teaspoonful at a time. There is a scientific reason for drinking milk very slowly, and in very small quantities. It is this: Milk curdles as soon as it comes in contact with the juice of the stomach. If a long draught of milk is taken into the stomach, the result is a large curd through which the gastric juices cannot readily penetrate and act with solvent power.

A small sip of milk makes a tiny curd, so if a tumbler of milk is taken sip by sip, it will readily be seen that the result will be a number of little curds, each one of which can speedily be acted upon and digested by the gastric juices of the stomach.

Where special nourishment is desirable, as in the case of very weak persons, or convalescents from wasting diseases, beef and wheat peptones may be added, or some one of the infant foods which are known to be absolutely free from starch.

It is unwise to add starch foods like farina or arrowroot or cornstarch to the milk for weak people or invalids, under the impression that the foods are very delicate and easily digestible, for they are, on the contrary, very difficult of digestion. Milk alone is far better for persons who have weak digestive powers, but the one great need which must be impressed on everyone is the need of drinking slowly and in very small sips with intervals between the sips. In nine cases out of ten, milk taken in this manner will agree with people unless there is some fault in the milk.

Water may be taken in long draughts without danger, provided the system is not weak and overheated by rrunning or other exercise, but milk should always be imbibed slowly.

Would Bequeath His Ears.

Harriet Martineau displayed originality in the provisions she made at one time for the disposal of her remains. James Payn relates that, having consulted Toynbee, the distinguished aurist, with regard to her deafness, "she was so pleased with the interest he took in her case that she resolved to leave him, by testamentary bequest, her ears. She announced this intention in the presence of her medical man, Mr. Shepherd, who, to my infinite amazement, observed: 'But my dear madam, you can't do that; it will make your other legacy worthless.' The fact was, in the interests of science, Miss Martineau had already left her head to the Phrenological society. I asked the doctor how he came to know that. 'Oh,' he said, 'she told me so herself; she has left $50 in her codicil to me for cutting it off.' The doctor, however, died before his patient, and the Phrenological society never received the legacy of her head.

The Critic's Duty.

It is sometimes the painful duty of a judge to order a man to be hanged by the neck till he be dead; it is sometimes the painful duty of a critic to tell an author that his English is faulty, his arguments fallacious, and his imagination a minus quantity. But it is never the duty of a judge to mingle with the dreadful utterance of doom sarcastic remarks about the prisoner's inferior social status; nor is it ever the duty of a critic to mention an author's connection with "gallipots," or to sneer at his poverty, or to insist on the fact that his work was originally printed in a journal purchasable for the sum of one halfpenny.—Arthur Machen, in T. P.'s Weekly, London.

What He Remembered.

"An' ye fell from a window, Jerry? How far was it ye fell?"

"Tin stories."

"Well, well! That was a great fall. And what did you think of on your way down?"

"Begorry, I didn't think of nothin' until I passed th' fift' sthory. Thin I remimbered I left me pipe on the window sill."

Quite Sure of One Thing.

"Henry," said the rich old uncle, "if you think I am likely to die suddenly some day when I least expect it, you may as well rid your mind of that idea. There is nothing whatever the matter with my heart."

"You'll never die of enlargement of the heart anyway, uncle," cheerfully acquiesced the spendthrift nephew.

SECRET COULD NOT BE KEPT

Everybody Seemed to Know That This Couple Were Newly United in Matrimony.

A Boston young man had married a Chicago girl, and they had started on their wedding tour. Despite—or perhaps because of—their studied efforts to appear like "old married folks," their fellow passengers on the railway train had no difficulty in classing them as bride and groom, and manifested their knowledge by winks, nods and grins.

An unfortunate accident to the dining car compelled the conductor to leave it on the sidetrack at a small station, and it was several hours before the train stopped for refreshments at a town where there was a restaurant near the passenger station.

It was by no means a first-class restaurant, but the travelers had a first-class appetite and they swarmed into it. With some difficulty the bride and groom found seats and presently a waitress came to take their order.

"Where's your bill of fare?" asked the young man.

"We haven't any to-day, sir," she answered.

"Nor any other day perhaps?"

"No, sir."

"Well, what have you that you can recommend as being good to eat?"

"We have some nice pork and beans."

"Alfred," whispered the bride, "everybody seems to know that we have just been married, but how do you suppose this girl has found out that I am from Chicago and that you are from Boston?"—Youth's Companion.

SLEEP FOR THE SLEEPLESS.

How a French Specialist Goes to Work to Woo Slumber for His Wide-Awake Patients.

A French specialist has come to the rescue of persons afflicted with insomnia. His method is somewhat vaguely described as "lulling the wideawakes to unconsciousness much as babies are put to slumber."

"It is a perfect palace of peace that he has opened in lovely Touraine," says the Lady's Pictorial. "Here is never a disturbing sound. The silence is broken only by the absolutely monotonous and soothing tick, tock, tick of solid grandfather clocks, and the scarcely perceptible drip of unseen fountains.

"Everything is seen through a cerulean haze, everybody moves in list slippers, the air is fresh but full of faint perfume. Before the eyes of very refactory patients slowly revolve colored balls, not the smallest rose leaf being allowed to crimple in any bed, each being so designed that there is no possibility of the body growing weary. Here, in fact, the wooing of sleep has been made a positive science, and it is said no one can keep awake here, however hard he may try."

Dog's Remarkable Intelligence.

Thomas Jones, who owns a big ranch on San Juan island, lost a collie dog last fall for nearly a month, and for several days searched the woods about his place jealously for the animal, without success. One day he tossed a bone to another collie. Instead of gnawing it, he picked it up and started for the woods. He kept turning his head, apparently to see if he was followed, and Jones concluded to follow him. The dog trotted along for about a mile and stopped at the edge of an abandoned well. He dropped the bone over the edge of the well. Jones got a ladder, climbed down and found the dog that had been lost. There was only about two inches of water in the well, but the animal would have starved to death had it not been for the other. The lost dog was in good condition, and as it had been missing 24 days the other animal must have kept it supplied with food for nearly a month.

Breaking It Gently.

An army captain, returning from India, brought with him a pair of laughing jackasses, which he entrusted to one of the sailors, Tom Pinch. Alas! shipboard life did not agree with the creatures, and, in spite of all Tom's care, they pined and died. Tom was in despair.

"I darent' tell the captain!"

"Don't shirk it, mate," said his pal. "Break it to him gently. You'll find it'll be all right."

The advice seemed sound, and Tom sought the gallant captain.

"'Scuse me, sir," he said. "You know them things below—what you call larfin jackasses? Well, sir, they ain't got nuffin to larf at this morning."

That Was Easy.

It was in an Italian settlement kindergarten. The children were marching like soldiers, when Giovanni suddenly stopped and called out, "George Wash—him soldier, too"—and pointed with his very dirty little hand to a picture of Washington, who, mounted on his horse, was holding his hat in his hand acknowledging the greetings of the populace.

"Why do you suppose George Washington has his hat in his hand?" asked the kindergartner, stopping to draw for the hundredth time a lesson in courtesy.

"To catch de peninies," was Tony's prompt reply.—Harper's.

GIRL SMUGGLER FINED $2,000.

Miss Lonstorf Pays Well for Bringing in a Lot of Fine Furs.

Miss Camille Lonstorf, said to be of Chicago, was fined $2,000 by Judge Cross in the United States District court at Trenton yesterday after she had pleaded non vult to the charge of smuggling. Miss Lonstorf, who is only 22 years old, was represented by a Chicago lawyer, and her fine was immediately paid.

The young woman, with her mother and sister, had been abroad, and brought into this country about $2,500 worth of furs. Her defense was that she did not know that the furs were dutiable.

The Lonstorf family arrived in Hoboken, N. J., on June 12. The reason the girl was indicted instead of her mother was because she signed the declaration given to the customs officers. The mother's name is Mrs. M. Lonstorf.

Immediately after paying the fine the Lonstorfs left Trenton.

Now Consulting Engineer.

In recognition of his thirty years of successful service as chief engineer of the Tide-Water Oil Co. and affiliated companies, Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place, was on July 1 appointed for life to the position of consulting engineer of the Tide-Water Oil Co. He will continue to make his business headquarters at the main office of the company at Bayonne. Mr. Morse has been a resident of Plainfield for over twenty years.

Alleged Runaway Couple Arrested.

Following an alleged elopement, William Lamb and Mrs. Clara Regald are now prisoners in the county jail at Mount Holly. The warrant for their arrest was sworn to by Mrs. Lamb and was issued by Justice White, of Pemberton, where the alleged runaway couple resided. Mrs. Regald, who has children, and Lamb disappeared simultaneously two or three weeks ago.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF GRACE

Dinner Went Unblessed Because Minister Refused to Compete with the Parrot.

"Speaking of parrots," said the sky pilot, "I used to visit a parishioner, a pretty widow, who owned one, and what she said to him I don't know, but he seemed to have it in for me. He picked at me every time I came into the room. The moment I entered he tucked his head, gazed at me out of one eye, and said in a soft guttural tone. 'Let us pray!' Now, of course, that's my business, praying, but you want to let up on it occasionally, especially when you are calling on a pretty widow. She taught it to him. I am certain of it. When he said it she laughed fit to kill. I thought she'd never quit laughing.

"Then, one evening, I took dinner with her. It was quite a large party and a merry one, but when dinner was served, of course she motioned me to say grace. I bowed my head with the others and was about to begin, when the parrot from the window at the other end of the room yelled sharply:

"'Amen!'

"They couldn't help laughing, of course, and I lifted my head. 'Now, look here,' I said, 'there's one thing I'm not going to do. I'm not going to compete with a parrot who leaves off so abruptly just where I am expected to begin. We'll have to eat this dinner without grace,' and we did."

TOO MUCH FOR MRS. PIGGINS

Had Come to Attend Business Meeting, and Organ Recital Was Not to Her Taste.

It was to have been a business meeting of the Ladies' Aid society, but it took some time to get down to business. Mrs. Wiggins had to tell everybody about her recovery from a recent operation for appendicitis.

After she got through, it reminded Mrs. Higgins of an operation she had undergone a few years ago for the same thing, and she told about it at considerable length.

That reminded Mrs. Bliggins of the time when she thought she had heart trouble, and went to a physician, who told her it was something else, and she would have to have an operation, and how she had it.

When she got through, Mrs. Triggins was moved to tell about an operation that had once been performed on her for something else.

At this moment Mrs. Piggins arose to go. "I thought," she explained to her hostess, who intercepted her in the hall and tried to get her to stay, "that this was to be a business meeting, but instead it seems to be an organ recital."

Desert Island Book.

"When I wish to be really educated," the A. B. lady declared, "I shall be cast away on a desert island with a Standard Unabridged dictionary. And I shall stay there till I have read it all! Think how much I'll learn—science and philosophy, and more French and German phrases than I have at my tongue's end now. And geography—and my own language—I'll have a bigger vocabulary than any author. And as for literature—do you realize how many quotations there are in a dictionary? More than you could find in a whole system of anthologies.

"They make fun of the idea of a walking dictionary. I tell you a woman who really was that wouldn't need to be signing equal-pay teachers' petitions!"

King's Costly Napkin.

Diego de Torres, the Spanish ambassador who visited the emperor of Morocco in 1547, found that knives, spoons and forks were unknown at the royal table. Each guest helped himself with his fingers and cleaned his hand with his tongue, excepting the emperor, who performed that office on the head of a black boy, whom he retained by his side in readiness. The emperor, observing the ambassador smile, asked him with what Christian kings wiped their hands at meals, and what such things were worth? "Fine napkins," replied the ambassador, "a clean one at every meal, worth a crown apiece or more." "Don't you think this napkin much better?" said the emperor, wiping his hands again on he black boy's head, "which is worth 70 or 80 crowns?"

Draw Your Own Conclusions.

In an English school the children were asked to come prepared with the meaning of the word "bachelor" for the next lesson.

This was one little girl's confident definition: "A bachelor is a very happy man."

The teacher wanted to know more. How did the child know that?

"Father told me so!"

True Sympathy.

"You say the dog bite you?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Can you show the scar?"

"No, but I can show the dent. He bit me in me wooden leg."

"The dog is discharged. His chagrin and disappointment must be considered a sufficient punishment. Next case."

They Got Together.

"Use headwork," urged the manager of the department store.

"Yes, sir," said the salesman.

"For instance, if a lady buys some lawn it ought to be easy to sell her some hose."

HINT FOR YOUTHFUL SWAIN

Bring The Girl to Tea and Leave It to Her to Captivate the Family.

One day the boy told his mother that he would bring the girl to tea the next evening. From that moment the house was alive with interest, and every one looked forward to the moment with rollicking anticipations. The father himself was really excited about it.

Finally, the moment and the Girl came. When the door opened and the rosy sweetness of the girl burst into the hallway, the wondering curiosity of the family changed to a mass of smiles. The mother welcomed her with an embrace, and the father came near doing so, too, while the younger brother offered her three rocking chairs at once. The girl captured the household by her graceful and winning ways; but the supremest effect was upon the old man himself, who fairly fell in love with the girl, insisted on sitting next to her at the table, gave her a whole breast of chicken, put the sugar in her tea, and made her eat two dishes of ice cream. In fact, if it had not been that he was father, and there was mother, too, the son might have become awfully jealous.

The lesson of this dainty romance is this: To the oldest son—when the girl fills your heart and your dreams, invite her home to tea some evening, where the father can fall in love with her, which he is sure to do, and then all's well—you can almost catch the fragrance of the orange blossoms.—Ohio State Journal.

CHANCE FOR MORAL LESSON.

Most People Will Be Likely to Agree That Such a Thing Was in Demand Here.

A New Yorker tells this story of a South Carolina meeting he once attended.

"At the end of this meeting it was decided to take up a collection for charity. The chairman passed the hat himself. He dropped a dime in it for a nest egg.

"Well, gentlemen, every right hand there entered that hat—every right hand—and yet, at the end, when the chairman turned the hat over and shook it not so much as his own contribution dropped out.

"Fo' de lan's sake!" he cried. 'Ah's eben los' de dime Ah stahted wiv!'"

"All the rows of faces looked puzzled. Who was the lucky man? That was the question which tormented all. Finally the venerable Calhoun White summed up the situation.

"'Breddern,' he said, solemnly, rising from his seat, 'dar 'pears ter be a great moral lesson roun' heah somewhar.'"

Dramatic Humor in China.

At most towns we have called at theatricals formed one of the sights. The din and discord of the band attracted us more than once even if the play had no fascination. It matters little or not at all to a foreigner what the plot is all about, as this drags on for two or three days, sometimes longer. We witnessed a screaming act which was evidently the punishment inflicted on the villains of the drama. Three men in almost a state of nudity were being soused with buckets of water and making funny grimaces as the cold douche was dashed in their faces. Judging by the frantic shouts of the audience this "situation" was evidently the height of dramatic humor, and as we strolled away the poor villains were still taking their punishment as stage-villains should.—Shanghai Mercury.

Mastering One's Thoughts.

The heart that is self-sufficient, that can generate its own supply of happiness, is proof against all the ills of life. It is like a warm, lighted room on a cold winter night, giving security and comfort. It is folly to try to run away from one's thoughts when one's thoughts are one's real self. The thing is to overcome them, to change them from ugly thoughts to lovely ones, as the fairy godmother changed Cinderella's dusty gown to silk and satin. If you have made mistakes, don't mourn about them, for you won't make those same mistakes again, and it is only through experience that we come to a state of enlightenment. Mind is strength, will is development, understanding is progress. Toddle on, toddle on, you're all right.

City and Country.

The city rapidly uses men up; families run out, man becomes sophisticated and feeble. A fresh stream of humanity is always setting from the country into the city; a stream not so fresh flows back again into the country, a stream for the most part of jaded and pale humanity. It is arterial blood when it flows in, and venous blood when it comes back. A nation always begins to rot first in its great cities, is indeed perhaps always rotting there, and is saved only by the antiseptic virtues of fresh supplies of country blood.—John Burroughs.

She Wants to Know.

It was a spectacular putout and bleachers and grand stand cheered vociferously.

The young lady signified her approval by clapping her hands.

"You begin to see the fine points, eh?" said the man.

"Yes; it was deserving of applause," admitted the maid; "but why didn't they repeat the number? Don't they respond to encores?"—Washington Herald.

MRS. MALAPROP OF TODAY.

Modern Rival of the Famous Character That Made Richard Sheridan Famous.

In an uptown social circle it is a matter of gossip that a certain charming young woman never lets her mother out of ear shot because the older woman's conversational transports need to be continually checked. She is rich even for New York, but she outdoes all the Mrs. Malaprops in town.

When she returned from Paris last year some one asked her if she had seen the tuilleries. "Why, certainly not!" she responded, drawing herself up majestically. "I've too much sense to push in where I'm not wanted, and if the tuilleries had wanted us to visit them they would have called first. They didn't, did they, Carrie?" she asked, turning to her embarrassed daughter. The latter explained to her mother that the tuilleries was a palace of the French kings, and that it was filled with works of art, like the louvre. The mother thereupon rejoined: "Speakin' of works of art, you can break up all the rest if you'll only leave me the belladonna and the dying gladiolus. Did I ever tell you of the artist my daughter met in Rome? He went mad over the shape of her hand, and nothin' would do but he should make a bust of it."

The daughter had one thing to rejoice over, however, and that was that nobody this side of the Atlantic would be likely to hear of the message that she had heard her mother send to a visitor by a servant in a London hotel.

"Just tell him," she said, gazing languidly through her lorgnon at the card that had been handed her, "that he'll have to excuse me this time, as just at present I am decomposing on the sofa."—New York Press.

WHAT HE DIDN'T UNDERSTAND

Hired Man Realized That Domestic Birds Were Weather Indicators, But Couldn't See Why.

The city man on the honeysuckle-clad porch smoked and listened to the farm hand's talk. "Weather vanes is wind indicators," said the farm hand, "but chickens and turkeys by orinus, is wind prophets."

"Come off," said the city man.

"Gospel truth," declared the farm hand. "In a cam, when there ain't goin' to be no wind, the birds allus roost on the tree boughs with their heads alternatin' each way—number one faces east, number two west, number three north and so on. That's a sign of cam. But supposin' there's goin' to be a strong high wind. Then they all roost, every mother's son on 'em, facin' it. Accordin' as they face, so you can prophesy the wind will blow before mornin'.

"I figger it out," said the farm hand, "that in a cam the bunch faces different ways so as to look out for danger better. But if it's goin' to blow up in the night, then they face the blow so's they can best hang on to their perch. What I can't figure out, though, is how in the mischief they smell that wind five or six hours before it's due."

Was He Right?

An automobile stood at the curb in front of a theater. It was an imposing machine of burnished brass and crimson leather, and as its owner came out of the theater and was getting aboard one of a couple of children asked with the confidence—or maybe impudence—that goes with innocence and bare legs:

"Say, mister, drive us around the square, won't you? We ain't never been in a nautymobile——"

The man paid no attention and whizzed away. Of course, children are a nuisance, but it would have been worth while, maybe, to give two small girls a memory to last them a lifetime——

And, maybe, again, got himself arrested for kidnaping.

You never can tell.—Washington Star.

Brought Her Own Potatoes.

A young German girl who has recently come to live with relatives in America, amused them exceedingly by bringing with her a large box filled full of potatoes, because she is particularly partial to them, and was told that in this country we had only the variety known as "sweet," which did not sound to her nice at all. As her potatoes sprouted on the journey, showing a decided inclination to convert themselves into flourishing vines, she was greatly comforted to find that her relatives could supply the deficiency. This German girl is astonished that, though we seem to value the potato, we do not, as in the case in her country, erect statues to Sir Walter Raleigh, who introduced the plant into Europe.

When Youth Wanes.

Old age has many definitions, and middle age more. But you may take it that you are not really an old man so long as you take an interest in your personal appearance. There is not a nurse who does not know the sign of convalescence—when the patient wants to be shaved and put a good appearance in this world. And so long as the man of 60 can take an interest in the latest tie—and tie it—he is preserving his youth.

The Sweet Girl Graduate.

Knicker—Is she conversant with history?

Bocker—Yes, her graduating thesis is to be a combination of directoire and middle ages.—New York Sun.

SMALLER COMPANIES NOW GENERAL RULE.

The advance agent of prosperity has struck the State House at Trenton in full force, through the application of certificates of incorporations of companies who are prepared to do business within the limits of the United States. Within the last month certificates have been issued which show that the present plan of investors is to organize concerns along safe and sane lines. Many of the concerns are comparatively small, that is, under the million mark. But the number of concerns, and the names of the people back of them indicate that the purpose of the promoters is to develop either realty or business.

Many of the corporations are to develop possibilities in real estate, and the men back of the concerns show by their plans that it is their intention to take advantage of the opportunity New Jersey is offering for home builders and factory owners for settling in this State.

Instead of organizing companies with millions as the capital stock, the incorporators of large concerns are organizing small companies in each State, and New Jersey is getting its share.

JERSEY COMMISSIONERS OFF FOR EXPOSITION.

New Jersey's commissioners to the Alaska-Yukon Exposition, at Seattle, started for that city Wednesday night. The commissioners who were appointed by Governor Fort, on April 30 last, were George V. Muchmore, of Summit, and Isaac A. Hall, of Paterson. The trip to Seattle will be made by the lake route over the Canadian Pacific Railroad.

The commissioners expect to arrive in Seattle on July 20. July 29 will be Jersey Day at the exposition, and Mr. Hall will make the principal speech on that occasion. Following the exercises, Messrs. Muchmore and Hall will spend three weeks in Alaska, and start homeward by the way of the Yellowstone Park. According to present plans they will get home on October 1.

ELIZABETH ELK'S AUXILIARY ARE PLANNING BAZAR.

Women Meet and Choose Chairmen of Committees to Have Charge of Booths.

The third meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Elizabeth lodge of Elks, was held last night at the new home in Westfield avenue to further the plans of the lodge for a big bazar to be held October 7 to 16, inclusive. The attendance was large and much enthusiasm was manifested.

Mrs. Alfred A. Stein, who presided at the meeting, appointed the following as chairmen of the committees to have charge of the booths:

Miss Hattie Kaufman, Miss Henrietta Otto, Miss Belle Castles, Mrs. H. Kaufman, Miss McKean, Mrs. George C. Otto, Sr., Miss Harriet Otto, Mrs. Louis Hetzman, Mrs. Louis Pierce, Mrs. C. J. David, Miss Margaret Kenna, Mrs. George C. Otto, Jr., Mrs. R. R. Thomas, Miss Emma Bradley, Miss Margaret O'Brien, Mrs. I. C. Goldstein and Mrs. I. C. Cladek.

WANTS $500 FOR ARREST.

Elizabeth Man Says He Was Maliciously Imprisoned.

Damages for alleged false arrest were asked in the District court at Elizabeth yesterday by David M. Anderson, of Springfield. He charges Justice of the Peace Albert P. Cain, of Springfield, with having maliciously caused his imrpisonment in the county jail on a false charge of having stolen a horse.

Because of these court proceedings, declares Anderson, many persons, unaware of his innocence, believe he has been guilty of a felony and he therefore asked $500 damages. His attorney is Jeremiah A. Kiernan.

CRANFORD IS READY FOR CANOE FETE.

Elaborate Preparations Completed for River Carnival Tomorrow Night.

All arrangements are complete for the river carnival to be held under the auspices of the Cranford Canoe Club on the Rahway river at Cranford tomorrow evening.

The parade will contain over one hundred decorated canoes, which number is double that of any previous carnival in the history of the town. The Seventh Regiment Band of New York and the Imperial Military Band of this city will furnish the music for the evening. One bandstand will be at the canoe club headquarters at the foot of Alden street, and the other at a stand in Sperry Park, on Riverside avenue.

Over 5,000 Japanese lanterns will be used by the club to decorate the river banks between the Union avenue dam and Hampton Hall, over which course the parade will float twice. Streamers will be hung over the river, and to the club's decorations will be added many lawn displays by private citizens. Four prizes will be awarded for the most beautiful canoes and three prizes for novelties.

It is expected that there will be over 10,000 visitors from all sections of the country. The canoe club has arranged for extra accommodations by rail and trolley. Carnival night has been a feature of the summer at Cranford for the past twenty-three years and from present indications the coming event will surpass in beauty anything of the kind ever attempted.

Drivers Must Use Lamps.

Driving through Roselle at night without lighted lamps may mean arrest and a fine for owners of horses who fail to obey the provisions of the new law. Two arrests have been made and several persons stopped and told to carry lights in the future.

BROWN CONVICTED ON REUTER CHARGE.

Negro Beat Aged Elizabeth Man on Street and Robbed Him.

Sidney Brown, colored, was convicted yesterday before Judge Atwater in the Court of Quarter Sessions at Elizabeth under an indictment charging him with assault and battery upon Jacob Reuter April 17. Reuter is an old man and the assault of which Brown is accused was unprovoked.

The star witness for the State was Christian Wade. His testimony was direct, he claiming that he witnessed the assault and robbery. The testimony of the others on the stand yesterday morning was circumstantial.

Wade said that he was a bartender at his father's saloon, and on the evening of April 17 went home early and upon arriving there went to his room. It was about 9:30 o'clock, he said. As he looked out of the window he saw Reuter pass the house and stop for a moment when he got under the electric light at the corner, after which he walked on.

Wade said that Brown was behind him, and that as he drew near to Reuter he saw Brown put his collar up and pull down his cap. When he caught up to Reuter he hit him on the head with something that he held in his hand; Wade said, and then ran away through a yard toward Elizabeth avenue. Brown was arrested later in Philadelphia.

Reuter said that he was unable to say who it was that assaulted him, as the man had come up from behind him and ran away before he could see who it was. The man robbed him of $50, he said.

Bad Outlook For Pier.

It is rumored that the project of erecting a shelter over the public recreation pier in Elizabethport will fall through this year for lack of appropriation to carry out the work, which it was estimated would cost $9,000.

BOOKKEEPING ON THE FARM.

Important Point That Seems to Concern Agriculturists Altogether Too Little.

It may be necessary to give up all cherished hopes for our life work as planned and partly entered upon, and betake ourselves to farming to get the outdoor life and activity which is demanded if we expect to remain in good health. We are like boys at school now, and must endeavor to learn how to do everything required in the best possible way. If future conditions demand less detail in any of our methods we shall cast out what is useless; on the other hand, greater elaboration and omre care may be found requisite to attain the ends desired in a satisfactory way.

We are determined to learn all we can by experience of our own and from the experience of others. For, whatever we do in the years to come in the line of outdoor work, be it truck gardening, light farming, raising poultry, or breeding live stock, it is our intention to be thoroughly business-like and aggressive to the extent that changed conditions of health demand. Whatever we do shall be well done and according to approved standards—and there is no better guide to profitable activity for the aggressive, ambitious business man than an efficient method of accounting, as simple as circumstances permit.

Many farmers now struggling to pay the interest on their heavily mortgaged properties might be happy and prosperous and owe no man if they could be brought to the point of willingness to learn the significance of the terms "debit" and "credit" and of rousing themselves up and applying the knowledge to the business in hand.

GOING BACK INTO THE PAST.

Some Men Will Smile, and Some Frown, But Their Recollections Are Much the Same.

They do say that one of the things a fellow remembers is the first time he ever went courting a girl. And it is one of the last things he wants to forget, even if she turned him down later on.

It is not the trial now that it was back in the good old days. In the country districts folks lived in houses of one or two rooms, or three at most, so that when a fellow went sparking he had to face the whole family, and you may depend upon it that the whole family faced him. Sometimes they didn't try to make life pleasant for him. This was specially true of the girl's younger brothers and sisters.

Do you remember how big your feet felt, and the trouble you had to find places for your hands, and how difficult it was to keep up a conversation? But if you had grit enough you would stay or die right there.

But you never forgot it, and you never will. Nor will you ever quite forget the effort necessary to get your courage up to the point of asking her if you might call on her, nor how gladsome you were if she said you might, nor how mean you felt if she refused your request. As a frost this beat the June affair of '59.

One Comfort.

Dick was a very clean little boy, and dirt disgusted him. One day he found a poor little starved kitten crouching in a ditch at the roadside and he brought the wet, muddy little waif home with him.

He took it to the hydrant and carefully rinsed off all the mud, but the shock was too great for the sick kitty and the breath of life departed.

Dick brought her to his mother, who exclaimed at the sight of the wet, drooping kitten, "Why, Dick, what have you done?"

"She was all mud and I washed her," Dick replied. "Oh, Dick," his mother said, sorrowfully, "I'm afraid she's dead." Dick looked shocked and grieved for a moment, then his face lighted up with a gleam of comfort as he exclaimed:

"Well, she died clean, anyway."—The Delineator.

Heights to Be Attained.

A crochety old farmer of Massachusetts had trouble with his neighbor, and as a result sought his counsel—ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers, says Lippincott's.

"I want yeow ter write him a letter an' tell him this here foolishness hez got ter stop," he declared firmly. "I know what I want ter say, but I ain't got the larnin' ter put it just right."

"What do you want to say?" Mr. Powers asked.

"Wa-all, begin by tellin' him thet he's the durndest, lyin'est, thievin'est, low-downest skunk on airth—and then work up."

The Printer's Children.

The case of the musical man who named his four daughters after the eight notes of the tonic sol-fa scale is matched by that of the provincial printer who named his children from the type fonts he used—Ruby, Pearl, Diamond. The first two are no uncommon names for girls, only Ruby happened to be a boy. He followed in his father's footsteps and afterward became a printer's manager in London.

STATE SUNDAY-SCHOOL ASSOCIATION SESSIONS.

The New Jersey Sunday-school Association, which is distinct from the Ocean Grove unday-school Assembly, began the sixteenth annual session of its School of Methods in the High School Wednesday, and the meeting will come to a close next Wednesday.

The session opened at 11 a. m. for the registration of students and a large number was enrolled. The first number on the program in the afternoon was "Character Studies from the Bible." "Isaiah's Vision: Preparation for Service," by Professor Charles R. Erdman. Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, secretary of the association, followed with an introductory speech outlining the work of the session. "The Social Side of the Sunday-school," was the subject of a lecture by Miss Margaret Slattery.

A recess was then held and the meeting adjourned to go to their various rooms for instruction in the proper methods of teaching. The classes were as follows: Teachers of beginners, instructed by Miss Frances Weld Danielson, who spoke on "The Teacher's Aim." Primary teachers by Mrs. J. Woodbridge Barnes, who chose for her subject, "The Needs and Interests of the Children." Junior teachers, "The Soil in Which We Sow," by Miss Josephine L. Baldwin. Intermediate teachers, "Present State of Intermediate Work," by Rev. William E. Foot. Supervisors, "The Officers of the Sunday-school," by Rev. Mr. Fergusson. Home Department visitors, "The Home Department and the Pastor," by Professor Erdman.

Epithet Cost Barber $25.

The Civil Service Law.

The question of the cinstitutionality of the civil service law is in the courts, and it may be decided favorably or unfavorably. But there can be no question that the results of the first nine months' operation of the law in this State have been excellent. It has improved the public service, and it has not prevented the dismissal of men unfit to hold appointive places of great responsibility.

The records of the Civil Service Commission are interesting and instructive, especially those having reference to the weeding out of incompetents, grafters and others who found refuge in different State institutions through political influence or the work of personal friends.

Since October last there have been one hundred and one dismissals from the several State and municipal departments and institutions. Nearly one-fourth the entire number lost their snug berths because of "absence from and neglect of duty." Twenty-two were discharged because of intoxication; a dozen were dismissed for inefficiency and unsatisfactory service and a dozen more were put out of three institutions for abusive treatment of the inmates under their care.

Note where these dismissals took place: Thirty-two from the Morris Plains Asylum; thirty from the hospital at Trenton; nine from the epileptic village; eight from the Newark City Hospital; three from the Rahway Reformatory, and so on. It may not be unsafe to say that many of those dismissed had hitherto been kept in office because of political influence, but, under the civil service law, all such employes must either stand on their individual merits or give place to others better qualified.

The courts may possibly find that, for technical reasons, the act as it now stands on the statute book is defective, but it is safe to assume that should the decision invalidate the present law another will be enacted as soon as possible. The politicians do not, of course, approve of any law that turns out of office their personal friends and party workers, but the people have had a taste of civil service and will hardly permit a return to the old conditions. What has been accomplished in the past nine months is satisfactory assurance of what civil service will do in the future.—Newark News.

MARY TAKES A SWIM; HER CLOTHES STOLEN.

The sun was sinking in the West and the lowing herds were winding slowly o'er the lea in the environs of Paterson when Mary Ryan, 16 years old, decided it would be a refreshing thing to take a swim in the Morris canal.

Taking with her Annie Callahan, a good friend, although no swimmer, Mary Ryan sought a secluded nook in the lee of a barn and prepared for the plunge.

As she draped her garments on a tree she cautioned Annie Callahan to keep a watchful eye on them lest some thief make off with her new hat, her frock and her new shoes with the cute buckles. Annie promised to be vigilant, and with her mind at ease Mary entered the placid waters of the canal.

She was having the time of her life when she changed to look up and saw Annie Callahan running away rapidly. She looked again, and this time she saw two strange men. Resolved that they should not see her, she kept under water as much as possible. The men did not see her, but they saw her garments on the tree. These garments they feloniously carried away, leaving Miss Ryan with nothing in which to garb herself except the waters of the canal.

Annie Callahan came back. She had plenty of excuses but no clothes. So she went away again and after a laborious search, returned, bringing a loose wrapper, a pair of men's shoes and a pair of long white gloves.

Mary Ryan then went to her home. Yesterday she got a warrant for John Doe and Richard Roe, charging larceny of wearing apparel.

Mary said she could identify the men, but she hopes they cannot identify her.

Seek Indictment for Murder.

With the consent of Justice Parker of the Supreme Court, Prosecutor Mackay, at Hackensack yesterday instructed the members of the April grand jury to reconvene at that place on Saturday morning, to consider the case of William Ely Westervelt, of Teaneck, who is charged with the murder of his wife on June 17. Westervelt, after talking with friends on the night of the crime, went home with his wife and later announced that he had accidentally shot her. The fact that there were two distinct wounds in the body of Mrs. Westervelt disproved the accident theory, the authorities assert.

Appeal on Mrs. Hartley's Will.

Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins, of New York, who recently received a dining room table under the provisions of the will of her mother, Mrs. Frances C. W. Hartley, of West Orange, filed an appeal against the probation of the will at Newark yesterday. Under the provisions of the will the bulk of the estate is bequeathed to Marcellus Hartley Dodge, grandson of the testatrix.

PERSONAL.

Miss Lena Kelly, of the Muhlenberg Hospital nursing staff, left this morning for her home at Lake Placid, N. Y., to spend a three weeks vacation.

Miss Mabel Trembath, of Madison avenue, who recently underwent an operation at the hospital, is now improving steadily and will soon be able to go home.

MUSICAL LAWN MOWER.

Jersey Boarding House Keeper Makes Grass Trimming a Pleasure.

Lemuel Starkweather, who conducts a summer boarding house in North Caldwell, has solved the problem of keeping his lawn trimmed and entertaining the summer sojourners by perfecting a combination lawn mower and music box. Starkweather, who is of an inventive turn of mind, adapted the mechanism of a music box to the lawn mower, and the boarders, both men and women, became eager to take turns at running the contrivance up and down the lawn in the cool of the evening.

The neighbors soon learned of the harmonious lawn trimmer, and they were eager to borrow it. The demand became so great that Starkweather now charges a fee for its use. With the money thus derived he expects to purchase several new records that will bring the machine up to date in a musical way.

Body of Man Found in River.

The body of a man who has not been identified was found floating off a Standard Oil pier at Newark yesterday, and is now at Guy's morgue. The man was apparently about thirty-five years of age, six feet tall and weighed about two hundred pounds.

—Currants, sour cherries, red and black raspberries, pineapples, etc., for preserving can now be found at Neuman Bros.' grocery in quantities to suit and at low prices.

—Through an oversight the name of Jack Horner was omitted from hte list of those who were connected with the Charter Day bicycle races. Mr. Horner was the chairman of the Bicycle Committee and accomplished much toward the success of the races on Wednesday.

JEST AND EARNEST.

Conceit is a weed that grows best in a barren soil.

No amount of good advice ever made a bad egg fresh.

No honest man can be as honest as a clever rascal seems.

Nowadays a brave man's adventures all take place in his pocketbook.

On some men opportunity never calls except to leave P. P. C. cards.

Great love has made great sacrifices, which it required a greater love to accept.

The barriers which no man can break down are those which he erects around himself.

The heart never has room for so much more as when it is filled to bursting with love.

Life's cruelest sarcasm consists in giving the great things to those who only ask for the less.

There are many splinters on the Ladder of Life which nobody notices till he begins to slide down.

The impression which most men get of Love is something like that they have of the gun that wasn't loaded.

The fact that necessity is the mother of invention probably explains why gossip is the parent of slander—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

LIFE LINES.

Efficiency is a gilt-edged security.

In working hours, think of nothing but your work. In leisure hours, forget it.

Don't think too much of your own methods. Watch other people's ways and learn from them.

Don't be afraid to stop late to make up arrears of work, even if you get no extra pay for it. Willingness is a huge asset.

Be careful. It's much better to see a girl doing her work brightly than plowing through it with a grumble and a scowl. And you'll do it better, too.

Keep your eyes open. Learn the job of the girl above you, so that when she's away you can do it for her. That's the best way to convince your employer of your ability.

Don't consider anybody's work beneath you. Your employer won't mind licking stamps, if necessary—neither should you. And if it isn't necessary you won't be asked to do it.

Make sure. If you are given instructions, make a note of them, if necessary; remember them if you can. But make sure you understand them perfectly. Get a telephone message repeated to you again and again if necessary, until you are certain you have it right.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Riches can't make happiness, but poverty can unhappiness.

A man can get a good deal of pleasure out of life except on holidays.

Most education by college men are acquired after they are graduated.

The reason you might as well make love to a girl is she'll say you did, anyhow.

The more money a man spends on smoking the surer he can be it isn't bad for the health.

When anybody can show a Christian spirit in an argument it's because he has all the better of it.

A woman can't help being suspicious about a telegram from her husband because it isn't in his handwriting.

The man who hates work the most will work the hardest trying to get enough money not to have to do it any more.

You could never convince a woman that things could be good to eat without the right kind of doylies on the table.

A girl gets so twisted up about motives that it seems deceitful to her to admit she is interested in a man if she really is.—New York Press.

DISPATCH.

Hurry works from morning until night, but works on a tred-wheel.

Dispatch iz the gift or art ov doing a thing right quick. To do a thing right and do it quick iz an attribute of genius.

Hurry is often mistaken for dispatch; but thare iz just az much difference az thare iz between a hornet and a aunt when they are both ov them on duty. A hornet never takes any steps backwards, but a aunt alwus travels just as tho he had forgot sumthing.

Dispatch never undertakes a job without fust marking out the course to take, and then follows it, right or wrong, while hurry travels like a blind hoss, stepping hi and often, and spends most ov her time in running into things, and the balance in backing out agin.—Josh Billings.

VERSE WORTH READING.

The Bachelor's Child.

He tosses her above his head,
He romps until his face is red,
He holds her at arm's length to see
The wonder of her witchery;
He talks in language soft and low
That only little babies know,
He pauses now and then to gaze
Far off, as if 'twere in a maze,
And then with sudden sigh and start
He presses her unto his heart.

He sits her highness on his knees
And hums her nursery melodies.
He shakes her rattle, jingles bells,
And, oh, such wondrous stories tells;
He lifts her little face to lay
Its softness on his own and play
Her dimples were the deeps wherein
A thousand drops of dew had been,
And with his lips upon the brink
He'd lean to them to kiss and drink.

He lets her sink upon his breast,
He sings her little lays of rest.
And when her little eyes are closed
And all her baby grace reposed
He sits beside her little cot
Thinking of things so long forgot,
So far adown the long ago
Wherefrom the tender echoes flow
Of songs he heard, of gay love rhyme,
On lips whose roses fade betime.

Be still—the shadows fill his room!
A wrinkled, lonely bachelor's doom
To yearn for things that pass him by,
To hold the memory of a sigh,
To glimpse the shadow of a face
Once sunbright with its girlish grace,
To toss in play and sing to sleep,
When all the lonely shadows creep
And o'er his heart a figure gleams—
The little baby of his dreams!

—Baltimore Sun.

Unbind the Captive.

The word of the Lord by night
To the watching Pilgrims came,
As they sat by the seaside
And filled their hearts with flame.

God said: I am tired of kings,
I suffer them no more;
Up to my ear the morning brings
The outrage of the poor.

Think ye I made this ball
A field of havoc and war,
Where tyrants great and tyrants small
Might harry the weak and poor?

My angel—his name is Freedom—
Choose him to be your king;
He shall cut pathways east and west,
And fend you with his wing.

I shall have never a noble,
No lineage counted great;
Fishers and choppers and plowmen
Shall constitute a state.

I break your bonds and masterships,
And I unchain the slave;
Free be his heart and hand henceforth
As wind and wandering wave.

To-day unbind the captive,
So only are ye unbound;
Lift up a people from the dust,
Trump of their rescue, sound!

—Ralph Waldo Emerson, from the Boston Hymn, January 1, 1863.

On the Stairs.

He said "good-night," and he held her hand
In a hesitating way,
And he hoped that her eyes would understand
What his lips refused to say.

He held her hand and he murmured low:
"I'm sorry to go like this.
It seems so frigidly cold, you know,
This Mister of ours, and Miss."

"I thought—perhaps—" and he paused to note,
If she seemed inclined to frown;
But the light in her eyes his heartstrings smote,
As she blushingly looked down.

She said no word, but she picked a speck
Of dust from his coat lapel,
Such a small, such a wee little tiny fleck,
'Twas a wonder she saw so well.

And it brought her face so very near,
In that dim, uncertain light,
That the thought, unspoken, was made quite clear,
And I know 'twas a sweet "good-night."

—Edward Everett Nelson, in Smart Set.

Sanctuary.

High above hate I dwell;
O storms! farewell.
Though at my sill your daggered thunders play,
Lawless and loud to-morrow as to-day,
To me they sound more small
Than a young fay's footfall;
Soft and far sunken, forty fathoms low
In Long Ago.
And winnowed into silence on that wind
Which takes wars like a dust and leaves but loves behind.

Hither Felicity
Doth climb to me,
And bank me in with turf and marjoram
such as bees lip, or the new-weaned lamb;
With golden barberry wreath
And bluets thick beneath;
One grosbeak, too, 'mid apple buds a guest
With bud-red breast,
Is singing, singing! All the hells that rage
Float less than April fog below our hermitage.

—Louise Imogen Guiney.

Consider.

Consider
The lilies of the field whose bloom is brief;
We are as they;
Like them we fade away,
As doth a leaf.

Consider
The sparrows of the air of small account;
Our God doth view
Whether they fall or mount:
He guards us, too.

Consider
The lilies that do neither spin nor toil,
Yet are most fair;
What profits all this care,
And all this coil?

Consider
The birds that have no barn nor harvest-weeks;
God gives them food:—
Much more our Father seeks
To do us good.

—Christina Rossetti.

The Lost Occasion.

Farewell, fair day and fading light!
The clay-horn, here, with westward sight,
Marks the huge sun now downward soar,
Farewell. We twain shall meet no more.

Farewell, I watch with bursting sigh
My late contemned occasion die.
I linger useless in my tent;
Farewell, fair day, so foully spent.

Farewell, fair day. If any God
At all consider this poor clod,
He who the fair occasion sent
Prepared and placed the impediment.

Let Him diviner vengeance take—
Give me to sleep, give me to wake
Girded and shod, and bid me play
The hero of the coming day!

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

ECONOMY IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

Little Savings That Go Far to Cut Down the Monthly Bills.

That useful little article, the scrubbing brush, often wears out long before its time because of bad usage. Nine persons out of ten lay the brush upside down, forgetting that any moisture will sink into the back, often causing the bristles to fall out and making the brush sodden and unfit for use.

The household broom, scornfully characterized as the woman's weapon, is, as a rule, placed in the corner straw upward. Any water left in it sinks into the center, rusting the wire and rotting the straw. A broom should always be hung on a nail or placed in one of those patent arrangements that hold it firmly from the floor so that any dust or water may fall from it when not in use.

Where do all the clothes pins go? Strewn through the grass here and there to be raked up by the mower, soiled and broken, when he cuts the grass on his monthly round. Every one lost requires a new one to fill its place. And what of the clothesline left out through all weather, notably, as we have seen from one week to another? "Such little things are not worth mentioning," some one may say. Nay, all these little things and many more count largely in making up the yearly household budget, as every housekeeper well knows. These are the unnecessary expenditures that spoil the balancing of accounts.—The Housekeeper.

FOUR BOTTLES IN ONE.

Quarter Sections Each Intended for a Different Liquid.

The handy if homely old-fashioned castor which was wont to stand in the center of the dinner table within reach of every arm has been outdone in convenience. Now along comes a bottle with four compartments and as many stoppers, each quarter section being intended for a different liquid. On each division is engraved the name of the beverage it is to hold. One may have bottles marked for whisky, rum, gin and brandy; and there are what the dealer pleasantly styles, "afternoon bridge" bottles, bearing the inscriptions "sherry, claret, sauterne and madeira." Smaller bottles are made for liqueurs, and who knows but others will shortly follow, marked conveniently, "pickles, catsup, salad dressing and maple syrup?" The sectional bottles are said to be a revival of old colonial sideboard decorations, and some of them come with little stands of filigree silver or gilt.

Making a Book of Novel Recipes.

The girl who has just been married would be delighted with a booklet made from unruled tablet paper and tied into book form between cardboard backs, covered with gay chintz or water color paper.

If the latter is used a narrow gilt line can be painted as a border and on the front can be lettered: "What Mother Used to Make" or "Favorite Dishes."

There should be a page for each day of the year, and on each one should be clearly written a time-tested recipe that cannot be found in a printed cook book. A recipe can be written on each side of a sheet, or if it seems better to use only one side, on the opposite blank page could go menus for different meals, quotations about eating and odd bits of culinary information.

Little Lobster Creams.

Pound the flesh of a small lobster with one gill of milk, rub it through a sieve, add a teaspoonful of anchovy sauce, a pinch of cayenne pepper and a squeeze of lemon juice. Beat all well together; whip rather less than half a teacupful of cream and add half of this to the mixture, whipping all the time you are adding it. Fill some small china cases with the mixture and pile the rest of the cream on the top. Pound the coral of the lobster and rub it through a sieve, sprinkling the top of each case as you pass it through. Stand on ice and serve cold with brown bread and butter.

Potato Rolls.

Three small potatoes, boiled and mashed; one cup warm milk, two eggs well beaten, one cake compressed yeast, one tablespoon salt, one cup potato water. Melt butter and lard in milk, mix well together and pour into flour in mixing; take care not to use too much flour. Let rise and work down twice. Then cut with small biscuit cutter, dip tops in melted butter, fold and place in pans one-half inch apart. If wanted for six p. m. set about nine a. m.

Royal Pudding.

One cupful of bread crumbs well crumbed, one pint of milk, one-half cup sugar, the yolks of two eggs well beaten, grated rind of one lemon, one tablespoonful butter. Bake until done. Spread on the pudding a layer of jelly or jam. Then whip the whites of two eggs stiff, beat in one-half cupful of sugar and the juice of the lemon. Pour over the pudding, bake in the oven until slightly browned.

Baked Omelet.

One cup bread crumbs soaked in one cup of sweet milk over night. Beat the yolks of three eggs, add the bread and milk, stir well, then add a pinch of salt and the well-meaten whites of the eggs. Bake 20 minutes.

White Meal Gems.

One egg, one cup of milk, quarter cup of butter, two tablespoonfuls sugar, one cup white cornmeal, half a cup of flour, one teaspoonfuls cream of tartar, half a teaspoonful of soda. Bake 20 minutes.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 11, 1909.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Life lessons for me from the gospel of John.—John xiv, 1-21. (Consecration meeting.)

It would be impossible in such limited space to discuss in any detail the many important questions that have arisen concerning the gospel of John. That John wrote the gospel cannot be successfully denied. It is true that his name is not directly attached to it, but the author in modesty speaks of himself as "that disciple whom Jesus loved." This expression can be applied to John alone. It is true also that the style of writing is different from that of John's epistles and the Revelation, which he also wrote. But there is no argument here against John's authority of the gospel, for no author of ability would use the same style of composition in three books so vastly different as John's gospel, his letters and his ecstatic vision, which he received on the island of Patmos. History requires one style of composition, letters another and a vision dealing with sublime symbols and imagery still a third. It is true also that John's gospel differs in form from those of Matthew, Mark and Luke. But this lies simply in the different purpose John had in view. They told the story of Christ's earthly life, recorded his sayings and deeds, but John's distinctive purpose, as declared by himself, was to set forth the divinity of Christ. "These are written (the words of his evangel) that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that, believing, ye might have life through His name." Eusebius, the historian, quotes Clement of Alexandria as saying that "John, the last of the apostles, perceiving that the bodily things (of Jesus) had been made known in the gospels and being at the same time urged by his friends and at the same time being borne along by the Spirit, wrote a spiritual gospel."

This was John's purpose, and hence his gospel differs in character from the other gospels, but he is none the less the author and what he says none the less true. Men who deny the divinity of Christ have fiercely attacked the gospel of John, simply because to accept it would be to acknowledge the diety of Christ. But regardless of all assaults it has gone on in its career of revealing the divine side of the nature of Christ, with its records of his highest spiritual addresses, strengthening the weak, comforting the sorrowing and leading men unto eternal life through "Jesus the Christ, the Son of God." Human attacks fall helpless when they are aimed at that which is divine.

The gospel of John alone records Christ's attendance at four Passovers in His public ministry, which makes this period of His life three years long. See John ii, 13; v, 1; vi, 4; xii, 1. The gospel may upon this basis be naturally divided as follows:

1. Prologue.—The deity of Christ (chapter i, 1-14).

2. The Introduction to Christ's Public Ministry.—Preaching of John the Baptist, calling disciples, wedding at Cana of Galilee (chapter i, 15; ii, 12).

3. First Year of Public Ministry, Covering Labors in Judea, Samaria and Galilee.—Cleanses the temple, Nicodemus, woman of Samaria, heals nobleman's son (ii, 13; iv, 54).

4. Second Year of Public Ministry.—Healing of lame man at port of Bethesda and discourses (v, 1; vi, 4).

5. Third Year of Public Ministry.—Feeding of 5,000, various incidents, blind man healed, Christ as shepherd, raising of Lazarus, last week of Christ on earth, crucifixion, resurrection (vi, 5; xxi, 25).

The gospel of John contains one of the most comforting addresses delivered by Christ. It begins with the fourteenth chapter and closes with the seventeenth, which contains His intercessary prayer. The address opens with the familiar words, "Let not your heart be troubled." He was about to leave them and comforts them. The basis of the comfort is faith—faith in God, faith in Christ, faith in a future life, when they shall be reunited. "I go to prepare a place for you, that when I am there ye may be also." To faith He adds the coming of the Holy Spirit to represent Him and the important work which He has to do. Faith should be the ground of all comfort. He who believes unto salvation need fear no evil. "Let not your heart be troubled."

BIBLE READINGS.

John i, 1-14; xxxv, 41; iv, 24; vi, 26-49; lxvi, 69; x, 11-19; xi, 38-44; xii, 1-8; xx, 26; xv, 1-10; xx, 30, 31.

One—With God.

Australian Endeavorers are also engaged in floating Christian Endeavor work. Five societies have been started on vessels in Sydney. These floating Endeavorers keep in touch with their comrades ashore. They have often great opposition to meet and sometimes persecution. One of them writes: "I am having a hard fight. Fourteen men are against me, but Christ is for me. I am in the majority." And later: "Twelve are now against me. Two surrendered to Christ." Still later: "Nine men against me. Three more down with the Christian Endeavor fever. Bless the Lord! Pray for me."

French C. E. Badge.

France has a modest little pin for a Christian Endeavor badge. The letters are A. C., and stand for Activite Chretienne, or Christian Activity. Paris has now a number of earnest Christian Endeavor societies whose members are doing a noble work for their Master.

NEW BUILDING PERMITS

Inspector T. O. Doane Has Granted Eighteen Permits in a Month.

ALL FOR RESIDENCES HERE.

None for Big Structures—The List Complete from June 9 to Present Date.

Building permits issued since Wednesday, June 9, show that the industry is not abating, but on the contrary is on the increase. No less than eighteen permits for brick and frame structures in various parts of the city having been approved by Building Inspector Doane.

Following is the list: J. R. Kelly, a two-story and attic frame dwelling at 556 East Front street, to be built by Fred Roffe; Woolston and Buckle, a brick stable at 132 and 134 East Second street, for which the plans were drawn by Edward V. French; Martin Becker, a two-story and attic dwelling on Clinton avenue, Alexander R. Herlich being the contractor; Thomas L. Hughes, two and a half story frame dwelling on East Second street, near Buckman street, contractor George E. Fullager; Alexander Stites, a two and a half story frame dwelling at 1603 West Third street, to be built by Samuel M. Titus.

Erastus Thomas will build for himself a two-story and attic frame house at 322 East Fourth street; John Lonzeaux a two and half-story frame dwelling on Lenox avenue; Marcus Silbert, a two-story frame house on Sycamore avenue, north of Front street; Caroline C. Clark, a two-story frame house on Netherwood avenue near East Second street; A. C. Laurence, a two-story and attic residence on Madison avenue near Randolph road; Mrs. Joseph C. Blimmer, a two-story and attic dwelling on Darrow avenue, for which Ambrose Smalley has the contract.

Mrs. M. Galbraith, a two-story frame house on Laramie road near Park avenue; John C. Abbott, a two and a half story dwelling; Andrew Bobrovenski, a two-story and attic house, to be built by himself; Michael F. Watson, a two and a half-story frame dwelling; Enoch Berry, a two-story frame dwelling at 251 Leland avenue; M. Rossi, a two-story dwelling on Terrell road for which Rouse and Fullager have the contract.

NEXT C. E. CONVENTION AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Discussion of method in various Christian activities was renewed yesterday before the Christian Endeavor convention in progress at St. Paul, Minn. Christian Endeavor methods were taken up by Clyde E. Vandermaatin. The discussion of missionary methods was led by Rev. John M. Moore and Bishop Samuel Fallows.

At a prolonged meeting of delegates last night, Atlantic City was selected as the place of next year's convention.

Little Miss Utzinger Surprised.

Elizabeth Utzinger, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Utzinger, of Elizabeth, was given a birthday party yesterday at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, on Grandview avenue, she being seven years old. Little Miss Utzinger was the recipient of a number of presents from relatives and friends. Games were played, recitations and piano selections enjoyed and refreshments were served. Among those present were Ruth Winkler, Alice Pope, Dorothy Pope, Frederick Ferguson, Robert Winkler, Frank Hersh and Elizabeth Utzinger.

To Maine by Auto.

Alexander Milne and Hugh A. Todd left this morning in the latter's automobile for Portland, Me., where they are due to arrive on Monday. They will stop tonight at New Haven, Conn., and tomorrow night will be spent at The Hub. On returning from their ten days' outing, the tourists will come by way of Bretton Woods. While in Maine, Mr. Milne will look over some large lumber tracts he recently purchased.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Ackerman, of Central avenue, announces the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan R. Ackerman, to F. Willard Downes, Jr., of this city.

—Closed large contract for Chalmers-Detroit and Hudson automobiles. Andrew C. Thompson has just closed a $85,000 contract for the Chalmers-Detroit and the Hudson automobiles for Union county. Mr. Thompson as well as several other local dealers have been trying hard to close this contract for some time, having made several trips to Detroit. ***

EXPECT BIG CONVENTION

Essex County Endeavorers Charter Special Train for Meeting Here.

300 SOMERSET CO. DELEGATES

Presence of Rev. Dr. F. E. Clark, Founder of Order, Will Act as a Magnate.

At a recent meeting of the Essex County Christian Endeavor Union it was voted that the Endeavorers of that county arrange for a special train to attend the Friday session of the State Christian Endeavor convention to be held here on October 6-8. President Charles Windham, of the Somerset County Union, is planning to have three hundred delegates from that county present at the final session to hear the address of Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, the founder and leader of the movement. Mrs. Clark is expected to address the Junior Endeavorers on Friday afternoon.

Two thousand attractive circulars printed in the local Union colors announcing the coming of Dr. Clark, have been issued, and are being sent to all the societies in the State. The secretary of the convention committee has also received communications and inquries from various sections of the State.

So general is the interest that President Sproull has advised the local committee to arrange for overflow meetings. The singing, which will be a feature of the convention, will be in chrage of Frank Stewart, chairman of the music committtee, and will be conducted by Charles L. Lewis, of this city.

"SHARPERS" AT WORK AT THE GALASCHAUEN

Owing to the fact that several of the individual shows at the Galaschauen have not been on the "level" and that unsuspecting people have been buncoed out of their money by unfair games of chance the Mayor has ordered the crooked ones out of the city. Some of these who were notified have gone but there are others, it is reported, who have remained in spite of the warning.

Judge Runyon said this morning that he had received no complaints of any kind so that the police could take no action in the matter, although he had been told of the conditions. The prosecutor's office in Elizabeth, when question made the same reply. However, the fact remains that some parts of the show, according to report are unworthy of attendance by the public, and it would be well for those who contemplate going tonight to be very careful as to how they attack any of the games where the chances are all against them. Those who have tried and lost are reluctant to say anything about it because of the fear of publicity, but it would have been better to have done so in order that many others should not have become victims of the sharpers.

CRUISER CHARLESTON WINS GUNNERY PRIZE.

The cruiser Charleston, now on the Pacific coast, won the trophy for gunnery in the cruiser class during the last contest. The Tingey stood first among the torpedo vessels. Last year the Albany won the cruiser trophy and the Sperry was first among the torpedo boats.

The standing of the other vessels in the cruiser class was: Charleston trophy winner, 64,115; Cleveland, star ship, 55, 678; Yorktown, 51,-656; Denver, 48,643; Albany, 45,-839; Galveston, 36,908; Tacoma, 36,857, and Chattanooga, 28,076. The battleship trophy will not be awarded until the record of the target practice of the Atlantic fleet are gone over.

OWNER BEQUEATHS BIG HOTEL TO ITS MANAGER.

The Plaza Hotel and restaurant property, on the ocean front at Asbury Park, has been bequeathed, at the termination of a life trust, to James Kelsey, Jr., and his wife, Irene Kelsey. For several years the Kelseys managed the hotel for Col. Henry J. Bly, whose will was offered for probate at Freehold yesterday. Mr. Kelsey gets the good will of the restaurant property at once. He is to lease or manage the hotel for the purpose of carrying out a trust for taking care of Colonel Bly's daughter, Mrs. Nellie E. Brien, during her lifetime. At Mrs. Brien's death the property is to go in fee to Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey.

TWO ENGAGEMENTS ANNOUNCED AT PARTY

At a party given for Miss Nora Schenck at her home on Manning avenue, last night, in honor of the twenty-third anniversary of her birthday, two engagements were announced, that of Miss Schenck and Charles F. Windham, also of the borough, and Miss Nellie Briggs, of Reaville, and William Latourette, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Latourette, of East Fifth street. There were about thirty-five guests from this city, the borough and out-of-town.

The guests were invited to the birthday party of Miss Schenck, being kept in ignorance of the announcements until they arrived. The surprise came when Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, announced the engagements. The couples were then showered with congratulations by those present. The rest of the evening was devoted to sociability, games, music, etc., after which refreshments were served.

Both Miss Schenck and Mr. Windham are active workers in Warren chapel, the former having been a member of the choir there for a long time and interested in other departments of chapel work. Mr. Windham is prominent as a Christian Endeavorer, being president of the Somerset County Union, also active in local Endeavor circles. Mr. Latourette is a member of Trinity Reformed church and also prominent in the Endeavor Society there, while Miss Briggs is equally active in church work at her home in Reaville. She has been the guest of Miss Schenck, and it was thought to be an opportune time to announce the engagements. No date has been fixed for the wedding, but doubtless both couples will be wedded at the same time.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS TEACHERS IN SESSION

A rally of superintendents will feature the session tomorrow of the school of methods of the New Jersey Sunday School Association, now in session at Asbury Park. To this feature invitations have been issued to 300 superintendents of the State and this city will be well represented. At this session a new feature for the benefit of superintendents will be introduced. The exercises will be under the auspices of the New Jersey Sunday School Association, of which Edward W. Dunham, of Trenton, is president.

A feature of the sessions of the week have been lectures by Clarence R. Erdman, of Princeton Theological seminary. The speaker has taken characters from the Bible. Today he talks on Nehemiah. The lectures are held in the High school auditorium and are attended by upwards of 500 persons, the public being privileged to be present.

The sectional work of the convention is under the direction of experts. Miss Frances W. Danielson, of Connecticut, is in charge of beginners' section; Mrs. J. W. Barnes, formerly international superintendent of elementary work, has charge of the primary work; Miss Josephine L. Baldwin, of Newark, of the junior, and Miss Margaret Slatterly of the intermediate.

The object of the session is to develop better superintendents and teachers in individual department. Today the teachers' training classes have an hour in which to develop different phases of Bible history and geography. Miss Ada G. Norris and Miss Elizabeth D. Paxson, of Princeton, will have charge of the work.

NEW YORK TO BE MOST BRILLIANT WORLD SPOT.

The Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission in New York yesterday adopted plans for making New York City the most brilliant spot in the world from September 29 to October 9 next. The display is part of the celebration arrangements and it is proposed to use a million more lamps than are ordinarily used.

The locations where the extra lights will be placed include the four East River bridges, New York City Hall and the various borough halls, Riverside Drive viaduct, the Washington Bridge, the various soldiers' and sailors' monuments of Manhattan and Brooklyn, Grant's Tomb and the line of parade through Manhattan, which takes in Fifth avenue and Eighth avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street.

WANT DRINKING TROUGHS

But the S. P. C. A.'s Plan is Opposed by Some Veterinarians.

CLAIM THEY TRANSMIT DISEASE

The Board of Health Considering Proposition—Another Idea is Advanced.

A plan of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to place drinking troughs for horses in various parts of the city, has been submitted to the Board of Health and is under the consideration of the food and drink committee of that body. The society has asked that five drinking fountains be placed throughout the city, and the committee, of which Dr. T. S. Davis is the chairman, has the matter under consideration.

Local veterinarians, and some members of the committee feel that the establishment of such drinking troughs would be a means for the spread of various diseases of the horse, notably glanders, a case of which recently developed in Westfield, and are said to be opposed to the project for this reason. These persons advocate the erection of hydrants at various parts of the city, and would have teamsters carry pails for their own horses.

The danger of transmission of disease by the use of a drinking trough has not been overcome in any of the designs for such troughs known by the members of the Board committee. In a disease like glanders, the infection is from the saliva of the animal, and no design of fountain has been found at which the water is constantly kept pure for its entire depth at all times. While there is a drain at the side of some troughs to carry off floating impurities, it only is effective when the fountain is full, and does not protect from infection a horse which comes to the trough immediately after one has finished drinking. Then again, much impurity and infectious foreign matter settles to the bottom of the trough, where the water is never changed, and the thirsty horse, plunging its nose deep in the trough, stirs up this infectious matter and swallows it.

Those who advocate the use of pails by the teamsters would have hydrants placed in the streets, instead of troughs. Such hydrants would be about the height of a fire hydrant, with the spigot extending horizontally from near the top. A spring faucet could be placed at the top, so that when released, it would automatically shut off. The teamster's pail would stand on a concrete platform beneath the spigot, and any surplus water would be carried off to the storm sewer by a drain, in this platform.

The board committee has written to prominent veterinarians in different parts of the State, asking for opinions from experience on the danger from disease in the use of drinking troughs. The Board will meet to decide the matter the first part of the week.

ACCUSE EACH OTHER OF ATROCIOUS ASSAULT

Henry Wagner and Frank Hadley, both of Dunellen, were both locked up in the New Brunswick jail yesterday on a charge of atrocious assault and battery. They were arrested by constable Robert Pierce. Each was held for the grand jury on the other's complaint.

Wagner threw a cobblestone through a window at Hadley, who grabbed up a shot gun and emptied its contents into Wagner's body. The cause of Wagner's assault of Hadley is not known, but it is believed to have been an old grudge, which he wanted to settle out of hand.

Award School Contract.

The Board of Education of Scotch Plains met last night and awarded the contract for the building of a two-room addition to the public school to John Bornman, of that place. The entire cost for the addition and the furnishing of the two rooms will be about $9,000. The work will be started on Tuesday and efforts will be made to have the same completed when the fall term of school opens.

More Charter Day Contributions.

The Charter Day finance committee today announced the receipt of 4$5 in additional subscriptions for the celebration. The donors are:

Every once in a while we discover a man who's possessed of perennial youth.

William A. is a sample and shining example of that sort of a person, forsooth.

He insures against losses which follow a fire, and in settling them up he's a sage.

But we're all sort of jealous, because he won't tell us the way he insures against age.

WELDON COMPANY GETS THE MACADAM CONTRACT

The road committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders met yesterday and opened the bids for macadamizing, with a top course of Amiesite, Terrill road from South avenue to Raritan road, a distance of about two miles. The bid of the Weldon Contracting Company, Rahway, $26,044.27, was the lowest and the contract was awarded to that concern. County Engineer Frank J. Hubbard had charge of the bids, having prepared the specifications under the direction of the road committee.

The bids were as follows:

Weldon Contracting Company, Rahway, $26,044.28; Union County Contracting Company, Cranford, $30,753.90; O'Rourke Bros., Yonkers, N. Y., $30,082.65; Henry R. Edwards, Yardley, Pa., $33,882.31.

Clothes Destroyed by Fire.

The careless starting of a bon-fire in the rear of the flats on Watchung avenue, in the rear of the old trolley stand, yesterday, resulted in the destruction of one of the tenant's clothes which were hung on the line to dry. The fire was started by some colored people to burn up some rubbish and the flames ascended high enough to ignite one end of the line of clothes. Before anything could be done they were all destroyed. The fire department was not notified, as the adjacent property was not in danger.

Newark Salvationists Coming.

Adjutant Nellie Downey, who has charge of the Newark Corps, accompanied by Mrs. Captain Weir, of Toronto, Canada, and ten members of the brass band, will conduct the service at the Salvation Army tent at Watchung avenue and Fourth street, Tuesday night, July 13 at 8 o'clock. An interesting program will be given including music. Adjutant Downey and Mrs. Captain Weir will sing several duets, and there will be selections by the brass band.

Dr. Anderson Will Speak.

Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, will address the gospel meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. There will be special music and a cordial invitation is extended to the public. There are now 200 children at the Home and everything is running along smoothly.

Next Excursion to the Shore.

The next excursion from Plainfield to Asbury Park will be that of the Sunday-schools of the First Presbyterian, Congregational, Park Avenue Baptist and Dunellen Presbyterian church, on Thursday, July 15. This is a combination hard to beat, and all who go to the shore that day are assured of a fine time.

PRIMROSE MINSTRELS COMING HERE JULY 21

George Primrose and his big minstrel company, coming to the New Planifield Theatre, Wednesday night, July 21, will present minstrelsy in its up-to-date form by the merriest organization ever toured in this country. Mr. Primrose has shown good judgment in surrounding himself with a host of well known comedians and vocalists. The stage settings for the first part are of great magnificence, the costuming throughout is costly and elegant.

In addition to the large number of vocalists and comedians, a complete operatic orchestra of soloists under the direction of Prof. Charles Prokop are carried. Many novelties will be seen this year in the clio, some of the many are: Harvey, Henderson and Lewis, comedy musical act; Happy Jack Gardener, in a new monologue; the Church City quartette; Mosher, Hayes and Mosher, sensational comedy bicycle act, direct from a four year's tour through Europe; the "Guess Who Girls," laughable novelty skit; the Ward Brothers, delineators of plantation darkeys and George Primrose, in his new act "Dancers Past and Present," the idea of this act and the charming way he does it, is said to be one best bet of the great minstrels long carried. All the famous minstrel men since the days of Billy Emerson to thoes of the present time are portrayed by either song, dance or story. Fifty people are said to be incorporated in the presentation of this big minstrel carnival.

College Graduates to Meet.

The second annual college day of the Ocean Grove College Association will be held Friday morning, July 23, at 9 o'clock at the Young People's Temple. At that time the various colleges and universities of the world will be represented. All college students and alumni are urged to attend. Addresses will be delivered by prominent educators. The college music will be under the direction of Tali Esen Morgan.

Special Musical Service.

Mrs. E. D. Young, soprano, will be the soloist at the special musical service in Grace M. E. church, tomorrow night. This will be the program: Anthems, "The Lord is Exalted," West; "Abide With Me," Parry; soprano solo, "By the Waters of Babylon," Watson; anthem, "Saviour, Again to Thy Dear Name we Raise," Denza.

Junior C. E. Picnic.

The members of the West End Tabernacle Junior C. E. Society enjoyed their annual picnic at Seeley's Mill, yesterday, and the day was spent delightfully, playing games and fishing and a bountiful lunch was served at noon.

YOUNG BRAKEMAN KILLED

Wade Davidson, College Graduate, Received Fatal Injuries on Central.

HIS HEAD WAS CRUSHED IN.

Victim Dies on Way to Muhlenberg Hospital—Body at Cole's Undertaking Rooms.

Wade Davidson, twenty-two years old, of Hampton Junction, a brakeman on the Central road, was so badly crushed by the cars of his own train that he died on the way to Muhlenberg Hospital this morning. The accident happened as the 7:40 train was backing into the Dunellen station.

Davidson was a graduate of Lafayette college, class of 1908, and was a teacher of modern languages, merely working during the summer vacation for the purpose of helping his mother.

Davidson who had received his pay yesterday had been to his home to turn over part of the money to his mother as was his custom. He returned in time to board his own train at Dunellen. He missed his footing while boarding the moving train and was thrown under the wheels. His head was crushed in, his left arm cut off and his body otherwise mutilated.

The ambulance was summoned from this city and Davidson sent to the hospital after Dr. D. C. Main had attended the injured man. The dead man leaves a brother, Harry S., of Cameron avenue, a conductor on the road, and his mother at Hampton Junction. Mrs. Davidson is prostrated with grief over the untimely end of her son.

The body was taken to Cole's undertaking establishment to await the action of the coroner.

BUSINESS SECTION TO BE ILLUMINATED TONIGHT

The Plainfield Merchants' Association has made an arrangement with the Public Service Corporation, whereby the latter will illuminate the business section of the city tonight from 8 until 11 o'clock, as was done last Saturday night. The innovation attracted thousands of people to the business district and it was agreed that the streets were never so crowded as on that night.

Negotiations are now pending between the merchants' association and the P. S. C. with a view to continuing the present illuminating scheme and if the expense is not too great this will be done, the merchants standing for the cost. The merchants are discouraged over the inaction of the Common Council in the matter of better lighting for the business section, and have now decided to do something themselves.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF THOMAS W. BAKEWELL.

The funeral services of Thomas W. Bakewell, whose death occurred suddenly in a court in Pittsburg on Wednesday, at the conclusion of an argument, were held this morning at 10:30 o'clock from the residence of his brother-in-law, G. I. Holdship, 1175 Murrayhill avenue, Pittsburg, and the interment was private.

Mrs. Bakewell and her children, who were spending the summer in the Thousand Islands, left there on Wednesday for Pittsburg as soon as they learned of Mr. Bakewell's death. At present their plans for the future are not known, although it is said they may continue to reside on West Eighth street.

EIGHT HOUR DAY FOR CONVICTS

Two Hours Lopped Off at Caldwell to Save Health of the Men.

Because the health of the convicts in the Caldwell penitentiary who are engaged in making handkerchiefs has been affected by the severe routine of a ten-hour workday, the hours of labor have been reduced to eight. When the convicts were required to work ten hours a day they had very little time for recreation, and this affected their health.

The convicts were under contract to Jerome M. Schwerin for a term of years. Schwerin was required to pay Essex County $8,000 a year for his right to utilize the convict labor. A new contract has now been made, whereby he is required to pay only $6,400, with a proportionate decrease in the amount of labor to be received.

AMONG OUR NEIGHBORS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

That the present personnel of the Dunellen Fire Department is soon to be changed was stated yesterday to be the sequel to the recent disturbance anent the inability of the men to turn out with their apparatus in the Charter Day parade. It is reported that more than half of the members are determined to resign at the next regular meeting of the company, and this action will in all likelihood bring tolight the cause of dissatisfaction that exists amon gthe members. As far as now known the reason why the men could not turn out with the other rural companies was the lack of suitable uniforms. A subscription had been started for the purpose of raising the necessary money for their purchase but the response was not up to expectations and the matter was dropped. Another factor in the general discontent is that many of the members are employed on the railroad, and are therefore seldom able to be on the job when needed. The recent joke of Wednesday, while it was not intended that way, has served to show up the conditions through the discussion it has aroused and, according to one of the members seen yesterday, the farcial turnout was the best thing that could have happened for the good of the company. It will probably be the cause of a reorganization mutually beneficial, and may put the department on a more solid basis. Anyway that is the drift of the talk, and further developments will be watched with keen interest.

While driving to the Dunellen station Wednesday evening, Miss Vera Nelson, daughter of F. O. Nelson, the popular milk dispenser, met with a mishap which might have resulted in serious injury had she not had the presence of mind to jump from the buggy in which she was riding. Miss Nelson had as companion her sister's (Mrs. Fred Tousou) baby. The horse stumbled and fell over a pile of crushed stone, left by the road repairing gang, at the corner of Walnut street and New Market road. The wagon cramped so that Miss Nelson in order not to fall out had to take a flying leap with the baby in her arms. She landed safely, however, and with the assistance of George Cornwell and Charles E. Tinsman, got the horse to his feet. According to Miss Nelson there was no lamp to indicate the presence of the stone and the night was dark. A lantern indicating the presence of the pile of stone would have prevented the occurence.

W. L. McCauley and family have moved from the former home on Greenbrook road to Mount Vernon, N. Y., and the new owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, of Montclair, have taken possession of the handsome property.

B. C. Carpenter, the energetic but patient plumber, has had a telephone installed in his house after a wait of about a year and half from signing of the contract. A special wire had to be strung for the instrument.

One of Frederick W. Voorhees' little children was severely burned on the arm yesterday when she pulled over a pot of scalding hot tea at the dinner table.

Joseph Miller, of Bound Brook, has the contract for building a 14-room house for Frank T. Travell at the corner of Grove street and New Market road.

W. H. Wilson and family, of Brooklyn, N. Y., have taken apartments for the summer with Mrs. Gangloff at the "Orchard."

Mrs. Isaac T. Randolph, of Dunellen, left yesterday for Jackson Centre, O., where she will spend a month with relatives.

Miss Irene Day, of Dunellen, entertained the G. E. Club Thursday night. The club will hold no more meetings until fall.

Dr. T. L. Gardner, of Plainfield, will supply the pulpit of the First Baptist church of New Market tomorrow morning.

Miss Blanche Selling returned home Thursday from Elizabeth, where she visited friends over Independence Day.

Frederick C. Gaskill, of New Market, went to Moosic, Pa., Thursday, where he will spend a two months' vacation.

Charles Thornton, of New Market, returned Thursday from a week's stay with friends in Jersey City.

Jacob Lam, of Caldwell, has taken possession of the old Titsworth place, near New Market, for the summer.

Miss Elsie Garrettson, of Dunellen, went to Gloversville, N. Y., yesterday for a two weeks' stay.

Michael A. Gallagher is confined to his home with an obstinate attack of lumbago.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Frentz, of the local ball team, is negotiating with Warry McLoughlin to do the box work for the ball team for the balance of the season. Warry is said to be back in condition this season and is pitching a strong game.

Service tomorrow at the Baptist church will be morning preaching by the pastor, Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews at 10:45. No evening preaching service will be held.

Miss Edna Rogers, who has been visiting her grandfather, William S. Correy, of Park avenue, has returned to her home at Schenectady, N. Y.

The local fans will have to do without their usual Saturday afternoon game this week, as the local team has an off date.

John Schroeder, who has been visiting Mrs. Frank Hosinger, of Park avenue, has returned to his home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Morel, of Park avenue, have been entertaining their neice, Miss Warta, of Seigfried, Pa.

Rev. and Mrs. James S. Braker, of Lynn, Mass., have been visiting the Misses Hayes, of the borough.

Rev. Mr. Grisnel will lead the weekly prayer and praise meeting at the Methodist church tonight.

Miss Harriett M. Squiers, of the corps of teachers, is spending part of her vacation at Cape May.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

George Gage, of Plainfield, formerly of this place, will be seen in the lineup of the local baseball club this afternoon.

Joseph Kelly, of New York, is spending a short time with Mr. and Mrs. James Galligan.

Mrs. George May has returned to her home here after a six months' visit in England.

Mrs. David Bigley is suffering from a slight attack of heart trouble.

Neil Herran, of Brooklyn, is visiting his uncle, Morris Higgins.

C. Smith, of Perth Amboy, was in town yesterday on business.

Thomas Terrill was in Plainfield yesterday on business.

DOCTORS SAY DOG THAT BIT CLERK HAD RABIES.

Health Officer Edward Rowe, of Summit, received word yesterday from the research laboratory of the Department of Public Health, New York, that examination of the head of the fox terrier that bit Roy Chandler, the bank clerk, of Asawood avenue, Summit, Tuesday, reveals the dog had hydrophobia. Chandler went to New York yesterday to prepare for taking the Pasteur Institute treatment for twenty-one days.

Chandler was bitten on the right arm by the dog, which was a family pet. Six dogs which, the police learned, were bitten by the terrier after its attack on Chandler, were shot by Policemen Sheridan and Sullivan. Following receipt of the information that the dog had rabies, Mayor J. Boyd Risk issued a proclamation today, ordering that all dogs be muzzled for sixty days, and directing the police to kill all canines without muzzles.

Asks Divorce From Wife.

Franklin G. Spiker, of Trenton, yesterday filed a bill in the Court of Chancery asking for a divorce from his wife, Florence, who he says is now living with her parents at 444 East Tulpehocken street, Germantown. Spiker charges his wife with violating her marriage vows with A. Randolph Spiker, but the bill does not say whether the co-respondent is a relation.

WILL HOLD CLINIC FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

Elizabeth to Open Course of Free Treatment on Next Thursday Afternoon.

The Elizabeth Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis will start a clinic in the General Hospital on July 15, it was announced yesterday. Patients will be received every Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The decision to hold the clinic was made by the executive committee of the association.

Orlando F. Lewis, president of the association, gave out the following announcement yesterday:

"That there are many persons of small means in Elizabeth, who are suffering from tuberculosis, is undoubtedly true. The clinic, which will give free examination and treatment to those not able to pay for treatment will meet a long felt want. The Charity Organization Society will co-operate with the hospital, the district nurse of the organization being in attendance at the clinic to assist the physician in charge and also to visit the patients during the week.

"This first result of the work of the reorganized Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis has been made possible by the cordial co-operation of the hospital staff, a number of whom are upon the executive committee of the association. It is the desire of the committee that wide publicity be given to the announcement of the opening of the clinic, which will be a boon to sufferers."

FEAR LABOR WAR IN STEEL CIRCLES.

American Federation Starts to Organize the Workers in the Pittsburg District.

Pittsburg, July 10.—The American Federation of Labor has taken up the fight against the United States Steel Corporation, and has sent organizers into the Pittsburg strike district for the purpose of attacking territory which for years had been exempt from the work of organization. An earnest effort will be made to reclaim the territory which was lost by organized labor years ago, and if the statements of the Amalgamated Association heads are to be believed, there is now good hope for reunionizing all the plants of the Steel Corporation.

Three federation men reached Pittsburg yesterday direct from the Federation of Labor headquarters in Washington and placed themselves under President P. J. McArdle, of the Amalgamated Association. This, with the announcement that President Thomas Lewis, of the United Mine Workers of America, will today address the tin plate strikers in Newcastle, gives rise to fear in Pittsburg that there is to be a labor war of good proportions.

TRENTON CAR SEIZED.

Mayor Madden Takes Drastic Step in Trolley War.

In order to test the vidality of a provision in the franchise of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania Traction Company fixing a maximum charge of five cents for all points within five miles of Trenton, Mayor Madden yesterday revoked the license of one of the cars. When the car was started from the terminal of the road it was seized by the police.

Later in the day the company obtained an injunction from Vice-Chancellor Walker enjoining the city from interfering with the operation of its cars.

The road is one of the Tom Johnson lines in the vicinity of Trenton. Recently it raised the fare between Trenton and Yardly, Pa., from five to ten cents, contrary to the stipulation upon which its franchise was granted. The company claims that the agreement is non-enforcible.

$50,000 FOR IMPRISONMENT.

Jersey City Man Threatens to Bring Suit.

Suit for $50,000 damages for false imprisonment was threatened yesterday by William R. Armstrong, of Jersey City, against James H. Strain, of New York, when Armstrong was acquitted in the City Criminal Court at Elizabeth of a charge of slander preferred by Strain.

Timothy Kelly, Armstrong's counsel, declared in court that the arrest of his client was an outrage. Armstrong was thrust into jail immediately after he was arrested July 1, and stayed there five hours before he could get bail in the sum of $1,000. "I don't want any money," Armstrong said. "All I want is to make Strain serve an hour for every minute I passed in jail."

FREED OF COUNTERFEITING.

Jury Declares Man and Woman Not Guilty.

Mrs. Serafine Bocchina and Michael Vitale were acquitted of the charge of making and passing $2 counterfeit notes by a jury in the United States District Court at Trenton yesterday.

Detective Brogan and Patrolman Novello arrested the two on June 18. The bills said to have been in the possession of the accused were good counterfeits, except that they were a little off color.

FIANCEE, DENIED SEEING ACCUSED MAN, WEEPS.

Placed in a cell at Atlantic City, after the police had taken $23 from him, believed to be all that is left of the $17,000 which officials of the Second National Bank of Atlantic City charge he took, Eugene Wiltbank, note clerk of that bank, is awaiting the arrival of federal officials of the Department of Justice for a hearing which he courted by returning to the city last night.

Facing a charge of misappropriating money of the bank, the young man is perfectly cool and declares that he welcomes the outcome as preferable to his dodging and fear of arrest.

Police, who are guarding the young man closely, have refused admission to his cell of his closest friends and relatives who applied at the jail yesterday. Miss Margaret Lauers, acknowledged fiancee of the young man, was among the first to try to see him, and she wept when refused admission to the jail.

The statement made by Wiltbank this morning that he was "tired of being chased," is the only explanation for his sensational return from Boston. Wiltbank, who was a trusted official of the bank and in charge of their foreign correspondence and dealings with correspondent banks, walked out of his comporament in the bank just twenty days ago. Other employes called attention to his absence, and hurried examination was made of his accounts.

Detectives put on Wiltbank's trail failed to find him after days of search. Detectives were preparing to go to Europe on the belief that the young man had bed the country, when Chief of Police Woodruff received a telegram from Wiltbank yesterday, stating that Wiltband was on his way to Atlantic City from Boston. Detectives met him at the train last night and he was placed in the cell where he will remain until taken to Camden today for a hearing before Banking Commissioner Morgan.

Officials of the bank say they have received no overtures for settlement, and insist also that they knew nothing of Wiltbank's intended return until notified by the police.

PICKING STATE RIFLE TEAM FOR SEA GIRT

Expert ribemen who have "won their spurs" in many hard-fought contests on the rifle ranges will have a number of newcomers to contest with them for places on the New Jersey State team this year at Sea Girt. Several of the old reliable long-distance shots are missing from the roster of those who comprise the "shooting squad" for the State team, and it is largely due to the fact that they are unable to get away from their work to spend the time that is necessary in practice on the range.

The ribemen who will compose the "shooting squad" for this year are as follows: Brig. Gen. iBrd W. Spencer, inspector-general of rifle practice, who will probably act as team captain; Lieut. Col. William Libbey, assistant inspector-general; Lieut. Col. William A. Tewes, assistant inspector-general; Lieut. Col. Arthur Rowland, division staff; Major William B. Martin, Second Regiment; Major Winfield S. Price, Third Regiment; Captain Charles F. Silvester, Second Regiment; Capt. A. H. Pfeil; Captain John Malcolm, Fifth Regiment; Captain William A. Higgins, Fourth Regiment; Captain J. J. Fearon, Third Regiment; First Lieut. Arthur G. Jaggard, Third Regiment; Color Sergeant James P. Madden, First Regiment; Sergeant George W. P. Silvester, Second Regiment; Corporal Raymond B. Vanderhoef, Second Regiment; Private Fred G. Snellen, First Regiment; Private W. C. Lanser, Second Regiment; Sergeant A. W. Muller, Third Regiment; Quarter-master-Sergeant L. C. Dehn, Fifth Regiment; Captain Owen Smith, Fourth Regiment.

Lieut.-Colonel Libbey; Lieut.-Colonel Tewes, Lieut.-Colonel Rowland, Major Martin, Major Price, Captain Silvester, Captain Malcolm and Sergeant Silvester are among the "old-timers," as they are often known, and all are expert riflemen in every sense of the term. Should any of these officers be chosen to shoot on the State team they may be depended upon to give a good account of themselves on the firing line.

COLBY AND LENTZ.

Old Political Rivals Exchange Friendly Greetings in Restaurant.

The diners in one of the popular resaurants of Newark which is patronized largely by politicians, received a mild shock at noon yesterday, when they discovered former Senator Everett Colby and Major Carl Lentz talking to each other. It is a good many years since these political rivals had spoken, the estrangement dating back to the time that Colby defeated Lentz, who was Republican boss of the county, in a contest for the nomination for Senator.

Colby was walking to one of the tables in the restaurant when the major spied him, and in loud tones shouted out, "Why, hello, Senator! How are you?"

"Why, fine, major," said Colby; "how are you?"

"Never better," responded the major.

"That's good," said Colby, as he made for a table at the other side of the room.

WINE VANISHED IN SHIPMENT.

Paterson Man Suing Marine Insurance Company for $8,000.

Jacob Sarnishan, of Paterson, is suing a marine insurance company to recover $8,000 on fifty-eight barrels of wine which he purchased in the island of Cyprus. Mr. Sarnishan, who is in the wine brokerage business in New York, says that when the barrels reached him there was at the bottom each only a little sour substance, and that the wine must have evaporated or leaked out of the barrels while they were aboard ship. The value of the wine is estimated at about $11,000.

The insurance company holds that it is simply responsible for the safe transportation of the wine, and that the loss was due to defects in the barrels, and not to any error or neglect in the transportation. Mr. Sarnishan got $50 for the empty barrels, and that was all he realized on the consignment.

LOSES $500 DAMAGE SUIT.

Springfield Man Says He Was Falsely Arrested.

Judgment for the defendant was entered in the District Court at Elizabeth yesterday in the suit of David M. Anderson against Albert P. Cain, both of Springfield, for $500 damages for alleged false arrest.

Cain, who is a Justice of the Peace, was charged by Anderson with haying maliciously caused his arrest and imprisonment in the county jail for seventy-one days without just cause. He was accused of stealing a pony and $52.50 in cash.

Proctor's Bill Makes a Hit.

The new bill at Proctor's theatre yesterday made a big hit, especially Mme. Clotide, who stands on her head and sings a son. The sketch, "A Lesson of Love," presented by Barret & Stone, is one of the best yet seen, while the The Joyces in a camedy talking and dancing act are great. The same bill will be offered today with all new life motion pictures.

CONFEDERATE BATTLE ABBEY SITE SELECTED.

The Confederate Memorial Association will soon purchase a site for Battle Abbey, the popular designation of the Confederate Memorial Institute. An appropriation of $25,000 for this purpose has just been made by the Richmond Common Council. The southeast corner of Monument avenue and Addison street, Richmond, has been selected as the location.

Under the resolution making the appropriation it is provided that the building shall be erected within three years, and if, when erected, it be not perpetually maintained as a Confederate memorial, the lot shall revert to the city of Richmond.

In choosing the location the association has contrived to bring about an even more pronounced grouping of Confederate memorials.

To either side of the proposed building rise the monuments of Jefferson Davis and Robert E. Lee, and but one block away stands the Jefferson Davis Memorial.

At the recent reunion of United Confederate Veterans at Memphis there was some regret expressed because of the delays that have marked the preliminaries incident to the establishment of Battle Abbey, and general satisfaction will be created in their ranks by news of the appropriations having been made.

SEEK BURGLAR; FIND BIG SNAPPER.

Armed, members of the family of Charles H. Fisler went down stairs last night at Clayton, expecting to find at least a half dozen burglars in their restaurant, for, from their sleeping apartments overhead, they heard chairs and tables overturned and other unaccountable noises. Afterdiligent search the intruder was found under an overturned table and proved to be a huge snapper, weighing 36 pounds.

No one could account for its presence until this morning, when Frank Myers arrived and explained that he had nailed the snapper in a strong box in the kitchen the night before.

Farmers Bewail Lack of Rain.

Unless a little rain falls soon the farmers say about here, the fields of growing vegetables will be smothered to death with dust. Not in years, the farmers declare, have they known it to be so dry and dusty. The heavy traffic of automobiles and wagons along the country roads has kicked up a pile of dust. Potatoes are suffering the worst for want of rain, and such plants as lettuce, egg plant, carrots and beets are so covered with layers of dust as to be hardly recognizable in the gardens.

Bail for Former New Jersey Woman.

Mrs. Vera de Noie, held on a charge of being an alien unlawfully in the United States, was released on $1,000 bail at Seattle, Wash., yesterday. Her attorney offered testimony in the form of letters of identification given to Mrs. De Noie some four years ago by Governor Franklin Murphy, A. C. Francis United States Senator John Kean and Walter Reed, Mayor of Long Branch, all of New Jersey. Mrs. de Noie says she was born in Eldora, Iowa, of American parents; that she is the wife of William H. Bray, of Red Bank, N. J., and that her relatives are prominent in Iowa and New Jersey. She came recently from Hong Kong.

Boynton Beach.

All interested in fishing should be sure to visit Boynton Beach. Seldom in its history have the fish been more plentiful. The other day an automobile party left the Beach after an early morning catch with a string of sixty-five weakfish. This may sound like a big "fish story," but, nevertheless, it is true. Boynton Beach provides all the necessities for fishing. They have a well equipped boat-house, many boats, and always the best of bait on hand. Any fishing party will receive the greatest courtesy from the manager of the boat-house.

DETECTIVES GUARD PAY CAR FILLED WITH COIN.

A new pay car of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company left Jersey City yesterday, containing heavy vaults filled with money and guarded by six heavyily armed detectives. The company in this way inaugurated the plan of paying its employes in cash instead of by check.

This involves a good deal of trouble and risk. It is understood that the company is doing it for the welfare of some of its men, particularly in Jersey City, whom the check system has led into bad habits.

When some of the men got their checks they would naturally want to cash them, and the saloons furnished a temptingly easy way to do it. Of course they wouldn't ask the saloon man to cash them without buying something, and, as they generally went in a body, there was a lot of treating, with the result that the pay was seriously diminished before they left.

Some of the Jersey City resorts made a point of laying in thousands of dollars in cash the day before pay-day, for the cashing of the checks. This will all be done away with under the new system.

Each man will get his month's wages handed to him direct. Of course, that won't keep him from the saloon if he wants to go there, but the cashing excuse will be gone.

Today the pay car visits Newark and Jersey City to hand out its wealth. Monday it will go to New Brunswick and from there work down to Philadelphia, coming back later on to pay off on the branch lines.

The new pay car is much larger than the old one. Every precaution has been taken to safeguard the money.

AT 90 HE IS GIVING AWAY LAST MILLION.

Chicago, July 10.—Daniel K. Pearsons, already famous for his gifts to the small colleges of this country, has announced that he will devote the remainder of this, his ninetieth year, to distributing among the various educational and philanthropic instiutions of this city, his last million dollars.

This will round out the sum that he had always intended the colleges to have when he celebrates his ninetieth birthday on April 14 next. Mr. Pearsons declined to indicate what institutions will benefit by the remainder of his fortune.

In the last quarter of a century Mr. Pearsons has given away considerably more than $4,000,000. His gift to Chicago will mark his retirement from the role of philanthropist, for he will have only enough to ensure himself a comfortable old age.

WOMAN IN PATH OF EXPRESS.

Engineer Unable to Stop in Time and She is Fatally Injured.

Mrs. Lillian Patten, of Ferndale, was struck by an eastbound train on the Erie Railroad at Hawthorne yesterdy morning, and is dying in St. Joseph's Hospital, in Paterson, with a fractured skull. The woman was lying on the tracks, the railroad men say, and her position indicated that she had contemplated suicide.

As the train drew near, the engineer says he saw the woman raise her head as if to see how close the train was to her. She then lay back on the tracks and awaited death. The emergency brakes were jammed on, and the passengers were shaken up like pills in a box. The train could not be stopped in time, and the woman was hurled from the track.

Nothing is known of Mrs. Patten, and no relatives have appeared at the hospital.

Walked Home in a Blanket.

Compelled to walk six blocks to his home clad only in a blanket that had been loaned to him for the occasion was the experience of Andrew Kane, of Jersey City, at an early hour yesterday morning. Kane visited a number of saloons the night before, and in one of them met a man who gave his name as Arthur Nelson. Kane was feeling hospitably inclined, and the two had several drinks. In the morning, when the saloons were all closed, the stranger invited Kane to spend the night with him at a lodging house. When he awoke he found his roommate and his clothing missing. Nelson was seen in the street later, wearing a suit much too small for him, and he was arrested. Kane identified the man.

INVITED TO CHURCH IN THEIR BATHING SUITS.

Innovations have been introduced by clergymen so that it is now possible for bathers and rolling chair patrons to attend divine services on Sunday at Atlantic City without any inconvenience. The Rev. Arthur Elwood has opened Sunday services in a Boardwalk theatre and announces that everyone is welcome, even bataers wearing their robes dripping from the surf.

The trustees of the First Presbyterian church, in that city, with a place of worship at Pacific and Pennsylvania avenues, have also come forward and announced that they will soon make alterations in their church so that invalids and others who may use rolling chaids can be wheeled close to the pulipt on Sundays. The congregation has recently let a contract for the erection of a new brownstone church edifice to cost $80,000 in which special provision is to be made for roller chairs. A large alcove near the pulpit is to be set aside for them and the aisles are to be especially wide and roomy for their entrance and exit.

The Salvation Army of Atlantic City is also making special efforts to reach bathers, and recently several of the army officers have sought permission from Mayor Stoy to hold services at the water's edge on the beach. Heretofore they have been content to conduct services on the strand at the outer edge of the Boardwalk.

A SON OF SIAM'S "WANAMAKER" HERE.

Soon Leng, of Ching Mai, the 17-year-old son of Loang Nykyn, known as the "Wanamaker of Siam," is in Trenton for a business education. After a course in school there he will enter some corporation office for practical experience. The boy came from Siam with William Harris, Jr., a Presbyterian missionary. He will remain at Trenton four years.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The annual reunion of the Pancoast family was held at the home of Johnson L. Bennett, in Millville, Wednesday.

The Cumberland County Freeholders will hold their July session in a pavilion at Tumbling Dam Park, Bridgeton, next Wednesday.

Mrs. John Goorley, wife of the pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Salem, broke her right arm while playing with the children on the Sunday-school picnic.

Falling from the arms of another boy while at play in Camden Thursday, Warren Burgess, seven years old, of 632 South Fourth street, sustained a fracture of the left arm.

A public lawn party is to be given at the home of former State Senator Howard E. Packer, at Burlington, today, to raise funds for a free camping expedition for poor boys.

Raymond Hughes, while trimming a tree on his farm near Daretown, fell about thirty feet and landed on a barbwire fence. His arms, face and head were badly lacerated.

William Rohrer, night marshal, who fell into a pit while looking for a supposed burglar in Vineland Wednesday night and had two of his ribs broken, is in a serious condition.

Attacked with vertigo, Mrs. Thos. Gleason, of Thorofare, fell off the back step of her home and broke her left shoulder, dislocated an arm and broke the little finger on her left hand.

Convicted, in Camden, of attempting to assault Bessie Evans, colored, Adam Riggs, colored, was Thursday sentenced to three years in the State prison. He attacked the girl while she was alone in a house at Merchantville.

Ida Wilson, colored, who was with Walter Owens when he shot Conductor Clarence Cline on his trolley at Woodbury several weeks ago, and who has been held in jail as a witness, was released on her own recognizance Thursday.

As he placed a board on his shoulder Thursday afternoon, L. P. Davis, thirty-six years old, of 11 North Twenty-first street, Camden, ran a long splinter through his right arm. The splinter was removed at the Homeopathic Hospital.

The Board of Education of Woodbury Wednesday put an end to the buttonwood tree squabble by giving the contract to Walter Leslie to cut it down. Leslie, to make sure of the job, before he was beseiged by those opposed to destroying the tree, soon felled it.

Nearly all the Mercer County and Trenton city officials spent the afternoon Thursday in the grove on the Interstate Fair grounds. The occasion was the annual outing that City Clerk Salter arranges for the office holders, and it excelled all similar events of the past in the matter of enjoyment.

While cutting grass with a sickle in the yard of her home at Oaklyn, on Independence Day, Mrs. N. S. Coles, sixty-nine years old, cut one of her fingers and paid little attention to a supposed slight injury until Thursday, when at Cooper Hospital, Camden, it was found she was suffering from tetanus. Her jaws were partially locked.

Found guilty of the larceny of 1,600 pounds of lead pipe from the plant of the Welsbach Light Company, at Gloucester City, Jacob Green, Jr., was Thursday sentenced to nine months; Louis Green six months, and Robert Warwick four months in jail in the Camden Criminal Court. The pipe was found hidden at the home of hte Greens, in Gloucester.

Ralph Porch was riding with Charles Weatherby in the latter's automobile and while speeding down the pike at Pitman the coupling pin came out, causing the front wheels to separate. Mr. Porch jumped out of the machine before it rolled into a ditch and broke his left leg below the knee. He was removed to Cooper Hospital, Camden.

Convicted in the Camden Criminal Court Thursday of assault and battery on Mrs. Annie Di Montlord, who operates a sanitarium at Winslow, Dr. Martin Curran, of New York, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs. The physician was the medical director of the institution. During a fuss with Mrs. Di Montlord over money matters, he is alleged to have struck her.

While Lorenzo Fisher pried open the door of Pietro Biraldi's little store, in Whittaker avenue, Trenton, early Thursday morning, and ransacked the place for money and valuables, Patrolman Pege stood in a shadow on the opposite side of the street and watched him. Fisher was carrying a bag when he emerged from the shop, but he dropped it when he found himself in the embrace of a policeman.

Suffering from the effects of a cartridge wound in the palm of the hand, George Hagel, twelve years old, of 1830 South Fourth street, Camden, showed symptoms of tetanus when he was admitted to the Homeopathic Hospital Thrusday. After the anti-toxin remedy was applied the physicians declared that the case would not prove fatal, nearly all signs of the dreaded lockjaw having disappeared last night.

The Public Service Corporation, which controls the Camden, Gloucester and Woodbury trolley road, Thursday granted a concession to the people of Gloucester City, when it changed the fare limit between there and Washington Park. Under the new order passengers can ride on the cars from Burlington street to Washington Park in either direction for five cents. In order to go to Woodbury for one fare it will still be necessary for people to go to Jersey avenue to board the cars.

When Charles Brim, colored, was acquitted in the Camden Criminal Court Thursday of a charge of assaulting Adaline Adams, fourteen years old, the mother of the girl fainted. Brim told the court that he had no knowledge as to what happened to the girl until he was placed under arrest. Evidence showed that the child at first told her mother that the crime was committed by another. After hearing the testimony Assistant Prosecutor Wolverton stated that he could not ask for a convicioin.

Predicting cool weather in August, Rev. D. B. Ackley, an impromptu auctioneer, at the sale of privileges of the West Jersey Grove campmeeting, Thursday afternoon, sold the oyster stand privilege to Harry Bates for $32; then, by predicting very hot weather in August, sold the ice cream privilege to Warren Potter for $53.50. His prediction that this year would be the greatest camp ever held in Newfield, brought a shout of "Amens," and Rev. Sanford Nichols said he believed Brother Ackley was telling the truth this time.

J. S. Wheeler, of Cross Keys, was a surprised man Wednesday when Albert Johnson, of Connecticut, called upon him and paid a debt which he had owed Wheeler for ten years. Ten years ago Robinson was in need of money and Wheeler helped him out. Since that time Robinson had not been heard of, and Wheeler thought his money as good as gone. Wednesday when Robinson told him that he could not rest until he paid the debt, Wheeler concluded that it wasn't a bad investment after all.

Claiming that he was given knockout drops and then robbed of a gold watch and clothing, E. K. Collings, a sailor, employed on a private yacht, told Captain of Police Hyde, at the Camden City Hall, Thursday that he found himself in a dazed condition in a freight car at Third and Mechanic streets, about a mile from where he had been talking to newly made friends in a saloon. The sailor gave his address as 2800 Gray's Ferry road, Philadelphia, but was unable to give the police any tangible clue as to the identity of the robbers.

E. C. Williams, a glassworker, twenty-five years old, played hide and seek with the Vineland, Millville and Bridgeton police Wednesday night and all day Thursday. Williams, it is charged, issued about $75 worth of worthless checks, and A. Kollmar, a merchant, who cashed one for $25, made complaint before Justice of the Peace Browne. At 11 o'clock Wednesday night Williams telephoned to Borough Recorder Lyons that he was home, and wanted an officer sent around to his house. When the bluecoat arrived Williams had gone to Millville, where he stayed at the Weatherby House. Thursday morning he got two checks cashed in Millville and engaged a team to go riding at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The police got busy, but Williams had hied, it is supposed, to Bridgeton.

FRANK AVERY FORGIVEN.

Jailbreaker Once Saved Life of Prison Keeper.

Frank Avery, a Hudson county man, indicted at Trenton for attempting to escape while serving a term in the State prison, was let off without punishment in Mercer court yesterday, when it was related to Judge Gnichtel how he had once saved the life of a prison keeper when the latter was attacked by a murderous negro.

The rescue of the keeper, who was on the floor and being pummelled by his assailant, was effected after Avery had been foiled in his attempt to escape, and it was this act that convinced the court that the man must be possessed of some good points of character. Avery was placed on probation instead of being sent back to prison.

SWIM TO PERTH AMBOY.

Five Men Will Attempt Trip from Elizabeth.

Five ambitious swimmers of the downtown section of Elizabeth will dive from the new public dock today and try to swim to Perth Amboy.

They will swim with the tide and the launch Chester will stay alongside of them in case they need help. They will dive from the new public dock this afternoon at 2 o'clock when the tide changes.

The swimmers are William Wallace, William Kaiser, Neil McMillian, William Duff and Inslee Long. They are out with a challenge to all swimming clubs in the city for a swimming contest for any number of miles.

Salmon Salad Conceit.

When making salmon salad, add a hardboiled egg or two, carefully diced.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Plainfield People, and What They Say Is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press: are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to sand on.

Thomas Haskard, retired, 927 South Second street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "During service in the Civil War I contracted itching piles and they bothered me off and on for a long time. I tried several salves and ointments but never found one that would relieve my trouble until I commenced using Doan's Ointment. Three boxes of this preparation cured me and I have never experienced a return of the affliction."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Accomplished Mrs. Thompson

BY NORVAL RICHARDSON

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

"Dick, it's wonderful! I've found the very woman."

This was Aunt Sarah's greeting to me after my absence of three months, but it was so characteristic of her—this plunging into the middle of a subject without any preliminaries—that I dispensed with the customary questions about health and other minor details and followed her to a quiet corner of the cafe, where she had already procured a table.

"What is her name?" I asked, feeling that I ought to ask some kind of a question.

"Mrs. Thompson."

"A married woman! Any children?"

"No children, and I don't think a husband. Of course I didn't like to inquire too particularly."

"Did you engage her?"

"Yes, and she is waiting now for you to appoint the day for her to come."

I told her of our little journey in England, and how Bettie had decided to remain with some relatives when I was called back to New York on business. She was to join me, however, in a week now, and had written me to be sure and procure a maid-of-all-work and begin housekeeping in the little suburban cottage which we had bought and furnished before leaving on our summer trip. Of course I had done nothing of the sort, and had gone to a hotel until she came.

But as the time approached I felt conscience-stricken in not having the house open for her arrival. In my predicament I had telephoned Aunt Sarah, who was spending the summer at a nearby seashore resort, asking her to come in town for a day and select the maid and anything else that was necessary.

"There is just one thing more that I want you to do for me, Aunt Sarah," I said, when we could keep away from the all-important subject no longer. "I have to leave town in the morning for several days. Will you go out to the cottage with Mrs. Thompson to-morrow, and show her around? You know I expect Bettie to arrive next Thursday, so that will only give her a few days to get the house in running order. I thought I should not move out until Bettie comes, but that will not keep the maid from getting her things out there, and, for that matter, she can remain after to-morrow, if she wishes to."

Aunt Sarah agreed with me about this, so I left town the next morning, feeling that I was a particularly lucky man.

When I returned the next Thursday I found a Marconi message awaiting me at the hotel, saying the steamer was due to arrive at noon that day. This gave me just two hours in which to get down to the dock. There was also a note from Aunt Sarah, saying that she had left everything in beautiful order at the cottage, and had returned to the seashore, adding that she felt sure that we would find Mrs. Thompson a treasure.

My first thought was to telephone Mrs. Thompson that my wife and I should be out in time for dinner, and to have everything in readiness. It was only a few minutes before I received an answer to my call. A low, distinct voice at the other end asked who I was and what I wanted. I asked if it were Mrs. Thompson, and then stated that we should be out that evening.

"I'm delighted! Everything is in readiness," came the low, modulated voice.

---

We had so much to say—Bettie and I—that housekeeping and the cottage did not enter once into our conversation until we had reached our suburb and were on the trolley car nearing our home.

"Oh, Dick, tell me about the cottage and the maid! You didn't disappoint me and not get one?"

"Oh, no," I answered complacently; "I have one."

"Tell me all about her. Is she satisfactory? I hope that she is fairly decent looking."

"I don't know about her appearance, but she has a charming voice."

"But why don't you know about her appearance?"

"Well, you know, I've never seen her."

"I can't understand, Dick. What do you mean?"

Then I gave her a full account of the whole affair.

When we reached our street I gathered up the grips, and we both walked a little excitedly towards the cottage. Bettie was frankly impatient to see the maid, and I must confess that I was somewhat interested myself; for a woman with such a voice could not possibly fail to be interesting, I felt sure.

The hall door was open and the cottage lighted brilliantly—it was half after six in the evening—so that our homecoming was hospitable, to say the least.

When we were on the steps she came out to greet us—a charming apparition in a spotless white gown, elbow sleeves, and white shoes. A jaunty black bow was thrust in her hair, which was quite golden—a shade beyond criticism—and with dark blue eyes, a perfect complexion, and a most fetching smile upon her charming countenance—in fact, to be quite frank, she was stunning.

"Do come in, Mrs. Osborne. I know you must be fearfully fagged. And this is Mr. Osborne! I am delighted to see you both."

After this Bettie and I followed her meekly into the hall. I dared not look at Bettie, and, whether purposely or not, she would not meet my eyes either.

"Of course you want to go right up to your room," she continued, closing the front door. "Dinner is all ready when you wish it. I've prepared a corking repast in honor of your return."

At this I took the grips and ran up the stairs, for I knew there was no telling what Bettie might say to this last outburst.

In our bedroom I fell into a chair, breathless, and waited anxiously for Bettie's appearance. She followed in a few moments, entering the room in a most stately manner, a dark flush on her face.

"Well, what do you think of her?" I hazarded.

To this Betty deigned no reply, turning upon me with a withering glance.

"Don't you think you had better hurry into your evening clothes for the corking—good—dinner?"—this still with the cold dignity.

"Of course I'm not going to dress for dinner to-night, Bettie. Let's go down just as we are."

She agreed coldly to my suggestion, and in a few minutes we were seated at the table, as stiff a couple as I ever hope to see. Oh, that dinner! I hope the man who said we never forget anything was a liar, for if I must go through life with the memory of that dinner with me always, I shall end in an asylum.

After it was over she arose and without a word flew to her room.

---

When I entered the room I found her lying across the bed and sobbing as if her heart were broken.

"Why, Bettie!" I cried, putting my arms about her. "What in the world is the trouble?"

"Get away from me, you brute!" she cried. "To think that I came all the way back from Europe to a man like you!"

"Bettie, what do you mean?"

"You know what I mean. It's that horrid woman! And you told me you had not even seen her before!"

And then came another outburst of weeping.

"But, Bettie," I said, completely puzzled, "I never saw her before to-night. I don't understand."

"Of course you don't understand. You don't want to understand. Didn't I see her smile at you during dinner in that horrid, confidential ways of hers? Besides, she had on a finer dress than I ever hope to have. It was all hand-embroidered linen. You can't fool me, Dick Osborne."

At this I felt it was my time to become angry.

"I explained to you thoroughly that Aunt Sarah engaged her and made all the arrangements. No matter what you mean by your insinuations, I never saw her until this evening. Of course I see that she is too familiar, and that we do not want her, but why you should act so silly is beyond me. It would be very much more sensible for you to stop crying like a baby and help me to decide what is best to be done."

"There is nothing to do but to tell her to leave at once. If she does not go to-morrow, I will."

"That is easily enough arranged. I shall tell her in the morning that we shall not need her after she has served breakfast."

Early the next morning I knocked on Bettie's door.

"Come in," was the faint reply.

"I think you had better go down with me when I tell her that we do not need her any longer. It's a woman's duty, anyhow."

Bettie was standing at the window with her back to me, and vouchsafed no reply. I had repeated my request before she answered:

"If you will come here and look out of the window you will see that it is unnecessary for either of us to tell her anything."

I went to the window and looked out.

A large red motor car was at the curb in front of our house, and Mrs. Thompson was just climbing in and taking a seat beside the chauffeur as I looked out. In a second the car was gone up the street and had disappeared from our view.

"Well!" I gasped. "What does it mean?"

"I don't know, I'm sure," Bettie said, turning away from the window, and not failing, I thought, to see the astonishment on my face.

"Jove! but I'm glad," I said, with a mighty relief. "I didn't know how to tell her to go."

Downstairs I found this note on the table:

Dear Mr. Osborne:

I find myself in a most embarrassing situation, and it is best to be perfectly frank with you, so that you will not think hard of me. I left my husband two weeks ago, and applied for a position as housekeeper and maid combined. I had no means of support, and knew I was best fitted for this work. Your house was the first position I have held. My husband found where I was, and has just come for me this morning. We have agreed to overlook our little differences of temperament, and so I am going back with him at once. Tell Mrs. Osborne she will find the coffee made and on the gas stove. Believe me,

Always sincerely,
MRS. THOMPSON.

"Does that restore your confidence in your husband, or do you need still stronger proof?" I said haughtily to Bettie.

But I never showed her a telegram that awaited me at my office. It was this:

You have my deepest sympathy in your conjugal alliance. You are what I should call [illegible] VIOLETTE [illegible] THOMPSON

Corporation Notice.

Commissioners of Assessments' Report for Sewerage Construction on Consideration Before the Common Council, Plainfield, N. J.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J., held on Tuesday, the sixth day of July, 1909, there were presented and laid before the Common Council (the same having been first filed in the office of the City Clerk on the same day), the Report and Assessment of Robert A. Meeker, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald, the Commissioners of Assessments for said City heretofore appointed under the Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled 'An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," which said ordinance was approved February 8th, 1905, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the laying and putting in complete operation sewers in and through the following streets and avenues and rights of way for sewer construction, or particular sections thereof, to wit:

Randolph Road, from Central Avenue to Park Avenue;
Park Avenue, from Ninth Street to South End Avenue;
Arlington Avenue, from Union Street to Randolph Road;
Arlington Place;
Martine Avenue, from Park Avenue to Hillside Avenue;

BEING ECONOMICAL

"VE got to give it up," sighed Loretta. "I simply can't economize and there's no use trying."

"What's the matter now?" asked her brother. "I roke again?"

"Yes, but that isn't it. It's the way things count up, no matter how hard you try to keep them down."

"I've heard that complaint before. What is your particular trial?"

"Well, I started out to save on everything—"

"That's always a bad beginning."

"So I bought only two summer gowns this year in addition to my light-weigth suit. I had to get a lot of new waists because they don't wear short sleeves any more, but my summer dresses were going to be cheap enough to make up for that. I don't have time to sew, so I took my dresses to the dressmaker."

"And probably forgot to ask how much she'd charge to make them?"

"Indeed, I didn't. They were to be $4.50 each without the findings."

"The what?"

"The hooks and eyes and thread and things. They added quite a lot to the cost. Then there were the trimmings. The dressmaker wanted 12 yards of embroidery for the pink dress and she showed me a sample. I went cheerfully down to buy that and found it would cost $13.20."

"Whew!"

"That particular dress cost $3, so $13.20 for trimmings seemed a trifle large. I hunted around till I found some for 50 cents a yard that looked almost as good. The saleswoman didn't think it would wear very well, but I said it would have to do."

"Was that all?"

"Then I had to get the trimmings for the blue dress. They cost me $5 and I came home feeling crushed in soul and pocket book."

"Cheer up! Other people have their troubles."

"Wait!" cried Loretta. "That is only the beginning. When it came to hats this spring I bought a walking hat and took my last summer's best hat to be made over. Though the milliner laughed when she saw it, she made it look all right for a small price, and I thought I was fixed. But neither of those hats could be worn with these light gowns."

"Some young women are too particular."

"So I went to the milliner's again and was obliged to invest in a $10 straw."

"That's economy for you!"

"It wasn't much for the hat. It's Milan straw and can be used next year—though the milliners always say that and hats never can be used next year. Besides, I always expect to have more money next year. The roses are lovely. Still, the milliner wouldn't guarantee that they would not fade. She said I positively must have a parasol for sunny days."

"You never use one."

"I know it, I perfectly hate them!" said Loretta, fiercely. "But I went meekly and bought one. That made $6 more."

"I can see you swelling around at a summer resort."

"But you know I'm going camping this season. These creap dresses were for just wearing around home. That wasn't all, either."

"Go on."

"The dressmaker sent word at the last minute that she would need three yards of embroidery and four more of lace or the dresses would be ruined. So of course I obediently sent the material to her. I bought the original trimming at sales and when I got the extra amount I had to pay almost double what I paid at first. Three different days the dressmaker forgot to telephone me that she was not ready for me and besides I had three true fittings; so, as it takes two car fares to get to her house, that added $1.20."

"Anything else?"

"She sent the dresses home Thursday of last week and her girl got no answer when she rang our bell, so she took them back again. Then I had to pay a boy to go and get them for me. They have just come with the bill and I've been counting up how much those two cheap gowns have cost me."

"Well, never mind, they'll look fine."

"That's the worst of it!" groaned Loretta. "They are so provokingly simple-looking that everybody'll think I made them myself or bought them ready-made. I saw one downtown not a bit less pretty for $6, yet the two outfits cost me $47.80. The next time I economize I'll know it. I might as well have the fun of being extravagant from the beginning."

Sandy's Boycott.

"These Turks are barbarous people," remarked the cottage housewife as she got out a rhubarb pie.

"Yes, mum," responded Sandy Pikes, with a low bow; "to show my antipathy for dem I have formed a boycott."

"A boycott, my poor man?"

"Yes, mum. I have promised meself never to use a Turkish towel or take a Turkish bath."

The New Chalmers Cars for 1910

No Increase in Price

Note the pictures. Our "30" has a 115-inch wheel base—with 34-inch wheels. A longer, higher hood to accord with a roomier tonneau. Lines like the costliest cars on the market.

Yet not a penny of additional price. The car still sells for $1500. Let us tell you how we have done it.

1,000 More Cars

Last season's output of "30's" was 2,500 cars, yet we ran 800 cars short of our orders. We were obliged to refuse trade to the extent of $1,200,000.

This year we have built a new factory, and our 1910 output of "30's" will be 3,500 cars. Those 1,000 extra cars will be made without adding a dollar to our fixed expense.

They will also be made with last year's tools and machinery. We have almost no new expense there. For mechanically, the car is not altered at all. Experience has shown us no way to improve it.

Thus we effect immense savings. And all of these savings have gone into the car—to make it more sightly, more roomy, more like the costliest cars.

Nine Per Cent Profit

Our profit this season will be the same as last season—exactly nine per cent.

Our customers have created these savings by calling for more of our cars. And every penny we save will be spent in giving them more beautiful cars. That is our permanent policy.

Please note the result. Note what a large and showy car—note the exquisite lines. Just think that $1500 now buys this amazing car.

Lower Prices

We will fit this $1500 car with a Bosch magneto, a Prest-O-Lite gas tank, and two Atwood-Castle gas lamps—all for $100 extra. The regular price of these extras is $175.

We will furnish our "30" with a Lenox mohair top for $75 extra. The regular price is $125.

We shall give you all the advantage of our quantity buying. So this 1910 model, fully equipped, costs you $135 less than did our 1909 model, equally equipped.

A longer, higher hood, roomier tonneau, longer wheel base, larger wheels and daintier lines. Yet the cost equipped is considerably less than the model of 1909.

No Records Like These

One of the Chalmers-Detroit "30's" has been run 32,000 miles, and has just completed a path-finding trip from Denver to Mexico City. Never has any car, at any price, made an equal endurance record.

Owners have paid us for repairs on their 1909 cars exactly $2.44 per car. That is a world's record.

On June 18th, a "30" won the Indiana Light Car Race, the greatest contest of its kind ever held in America, doing 232.74 miles at an average speed of 51.5 miles per hour.

On an economy test, made by the New York Auto Dealers' Association, it ran 25.7 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Never has a car at any price proved so satisfactory. Never did a car show such low cost for upkeep.

That is why we make no radical mechanical changes. Experience has proved that the 1909 "30" is absolutely right mechanically.

The Larger "Forty"

Our "Forty" for 1910 has 36-inch wheels. The wheel base is 122 inches—ten inches longer than last year. The car seats seven, while last season's seated five.

Upholstered in hand-buffed leather. Fitted with Bosch magneto, gas lamps and gas tank free.

Yet the price remains $2,750.

We will equip this car with a $150 Newport mohair top for $125 extra. The two extra seats will cost you but $75.

So this larger car, with larger wheels, when fully equipped, costs considerably less than last year.

This is our "Forty's" fifth season. It is known far and wide as the best medium-priced car on the market. It has been purchased by scores of the best experts in America for their personal use.

This season, with its extra room, there is not a car at any price which can reasonably claim to excel it.

Made as touring car, roadster and pony tonneau.

See These New Cars

Every Chalmers-Detroit dealer now has photographs of these new models. Demonstrating cars will be ready this month. Deliveries to users begin August 1st.

See them before you buy.

The tide of automobile demand is turning to these medium-priced cars. Not alone because of their prices, but mainly because of their savings on upkeep. The day of extravagance is past.

Last season these cars had no real competition. The demand was a third greater than could be supplied. This season, no medium-priced car will be anywhere near in their class.

Get your order in early, for orders are filled in rotation. August delivery gives you five months' use before the car's year begins.

Today's Baseball Games.

The following baseball games are scheduled for today in Plainfield and vicinity: Plainfield Baseball Club vs. Bound Brook, at Bound Brook; Monroe A. C. vs. Grace M. E., on Clinton avenue; St. Mary's A. C. vs. Westfield A. C., at Hope Common; Plainfield A. C. vs. North End A. C., at Elizabeth; Dunellen F. C. vs. Cranford A. C., at Dunellen; South Plainfield vs. Peerless B. B. C., at South Plainfield; New Market F. C. vs. Trinity A. C., at New Market; Y. M. C. A. vs. Newark Alerts, at Crescent Oval; Scotch Plains, no game.

Some Were Disappointed.

More than one hundred local baseball fans journeyed to New York yesterday to see the double-header between New York and Pittsburg. Some of them saw both contests, while others were on the "outside looking in." While the crowd attending the game was probably the largest ever recorded at the Polo Grounds, the method of handling the thousands of patrons was very poor. The police were like so many toy soldiers, being utterly unable to cope with the crowd. It was necessary to call out the reserves.

There is a strong probability that the Orange Riding and Driving club will soon go out of existence, first disposing of its property. Edward M. Before the automobile made inroads on the popularity of the horse it was an annual social function of interest, not only to the Oranges, but to New York and other social centres as well, when the horse show took place.

SECOND UNION SERVICE

First Baptist, First Presbyterian, First M. E. and Trinity Unite.

HEAR SERMON ON PRAYER.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss the Preacher—Rev. Garrett Conover Presides—Service Well Attended.

A large congregation attended the union service in Trinity Reformed church last night and listened to a remarkable sermon on "Prayer" and the answers to the petitions of those who are true believers and those who are sceptical. The meeting was presided over by Rev. Garrett Conover, pastor of the Grand Avenue Reformed church, Asbury Park, who had exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Broek. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson made the prayer.

Rev. Dr. John A. Chambliss, the speaker of the evening, took for his text part of the fifteenth verse of 1 Corinthians, 14th chapter, "I will pray with the spirit and will pray with understanding." Dr. Chambliss said in part: "There are two spirits, Man and God, the finite and the infinite. They are in constant communication. The infinite is moved by the petitions of the finite. The omnipresent spirit must be conscious of every prayer; even before it is formed God knows it. If God does not hear human prayer he ought to.

"Man prays instinctively. Abraham Lincoln said that he was often driven to his knees by an overwhelming conviction that he had no other place to go. God would not excite expectations that he did not intend to fulfill. But there are obstacles in the way, practical differences which we must not pass by. Many requests of the best Christian people are denied. For instance, your boy asks you for a knife. He wants the sharpest one you can get for him. He importunes you many times a day. A knife such as he asks for would be a danger to him and you deny his wish, but you give him something else and make him happy in another way.

"Who have the right to pray? Surely not the purely selfish man nor the man who scoffs at the efficacy of the petition to God, but those who pray as Christ has taught them. He said 'pray to your Heavenly Father, saying, hallowed be Thy name, Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done, give us this day our daily bread.' He did not mean that we should literally repeat the Lord's prayer every time we prayed, but that we use it as an order of our petitions.

"How can God answer the petitions of two persons who are praying for two directly opposite things? During the war of the rebellion the people of the South were praying for the same thing that engaged the prayers of the people of the North. He answered them both and in the way calculated to be best for both as the sequel has proved.

"In our prayers we overlook the will. The will makes things but does not violate the laws of nature. If the will of man can control law without violating it what may we expect of God? Why should we not pray for good harvests and rain when we need it? If God is unchangeable where is the necessity for prayers? Man's petitions modifies God's attitude toward him. God is not unchangeable in His administration of his laws. 'What is man that thou art mindful of him, or the son of man that thou visitest him?'

"The greatness of God is something more than the vulgar bigness and He teaches us that man is the greatest thing He has made. Pray on then O child of God! In every doubt look for the mighty Counsellor. In every hour of darkness look to the Father of light. Take everything to Him who would draw you to Himself by his infinite love."

"God Himself alone can know how far our prayers have affected the conditions and determined the results which so intimately concern our lives, and His kingdom on earth. In India, where textures of most exquisite colors are woven by most primitive methods, children sit on the ground close to the looms, winding the rich-hued silken threads upon little spools, which they put in the weaver's hands. The weaver takes the spools, arranges them, and uses them as he needs them. He puts them into his shuttle and weaves the varied colors with the long beautiful warp. But as fast as it is woven it is rolled silently upon the beam and disappears from sight. Not until the whole is completed is it unrolled to reveal the design.

"We are the children, sitting at the Weaver's feet, winding our wishes in prayer. We place the prayers in The Great Weaver's hands. He weaves them; he uses them. Our prayers become the woof that is

FIRST AIRSHIP MADE HERE

Aero-Plane Constructed by Plainfielder Who Built First Automobile in This City.

ENTERED IN HUDSON CARNIVAL.

Allen Fulmer, P. H. S. Youth, May Make Initial Trip in the Aero-Plane—To Study Aerial Construction Abroad.

The first airship ever built in Plainfield was shipped Saturday to Otto Barkman, of Newark, to be entered in the Hudson-Fulton carnival this year. The aero-plane was built by Charles Fulmer, of Sycamore street, who likewise has the distinction of having built years ago the first automobile in Plainfield. The aero-plane is a unique machine embodying the latest ideas in aerial construction and the first trip in it will probably be made by Allen Fulmer, the 19-year-old son of Charles Fulmer, of this city, along with the inventor.

The airship is of the aero-plane variety and is a combination of the Wright, Graham Bell, and Tetraedral construction. It was designed by Mr. Barkman, who has made a study of arerial apparatus and designing abroad, and he holds patents on his machine. All of the construction work, all mechanical and motor devices and drives was done by Mr. Fulmer in this city.

The aero-plane is 47 feet wide, from the tip of the planes; 27 feet long, and 17 feet high and is driven by an eight cylinder motor of 60 horse power. As far as areo-planes go, it may be said to be fairly graceful. The inventor is enthusiastic about his machine and hopes to carry off the gold prize in the Hudson-Fulton celebration this year.

Previous to entering the machine in the celebration Mr. Barkman will try-out his machine near Newark. Allen Fulmer, of South avenue, has been invited to make the initial trip in the machine with Mr. Barkman, who was much impressed with the latter's knowledge of machinery and of creative construction. Mr. Fulmer is 19 years old and built his own motorcycle while a student of the city high school, where he completed his course this year. Later he will study aerial motor construction, and aero-plane construction abroad. He will probably do this in the fall.

The fact that Mr. Fulmer is the first builder of an aero-plane in this city, recalls the fact that when the first designs for horseless carriages came out, Mr. Fulmer built the first automobile in this city for Hugo Stummel, who then lived on Fifth street, this city. The automobile was three wheeled like a tricycle, with a smaller wheel in front. The inventor built an engine of his own to run the machine which failed to work, and as a result, the machine failed to live up to the expectations of the inventor when he displayed it to a prospective buyer. Stummel sunk all of his fortune in the enterprise, and finally left the city suddenly leaving in his wake a trail of dissatisfied creditors. Later he was heard of acting as a mechanic in a small garage along the Jersey coast. His design of automobile construction was quickly given up when automobile manufacture settled down to practibility.

Commencement Dance Reports.

Reports of the annual commencement dance, given by the classes of 1907 and 1908 of the city high school to the graduating class, have been filed with the clas presidents. The dance this year was held in the high school auditorium for the first time, and was the most sucessful ever held, financially and otherwise. This was due largely to the management of C. Bertram Leggett and Arthur Titsworth.

"Dick" Waring Loses His Horse.

"Ascetic Silver," a horse recently purchased by Richard Waring, of Park avenue, from Harry Bull, of New York, met with an accident at Sheepshead Bay, Saturday and had to be shot. The horse was entered in one of the big races of the day and on the first lap fell, breaking its leg. Mr. Waring was one of the spectators and he deeply regretted the loss. He had owned the animal about a week.

Parkhurst Wins Prize.

Andrew Richmond Parkhurst, formerly a local newspaper man, has removed to New York. Mr. Parkhurst is now a copy reader for the New York Evening World. Mr. Parkhurst was recently rewarded with a money prize by the proprietor of that paper for clever work in conducting an exposure of fraud made by that paper.

WHO MUST PAY THIS WOMAN'S BOARD BILL?

The township of Cranford has a woman boarder, who is at present quartered in the most luxurious hotel in the place at the town's expense. She is Mrs. M. B. Block, a former Plainfield woman, who several weeks ago, had her husband arrested for non-support. At the trial Block was allowed to choose between going to jail, or furnishing a bond for his wife's maintenance. He gave the bond, and for a time made the weekly remittances.

Then Mrs. Block was informed that instead of cash she must come to Plainfield to live with her husband's relatives. After a time the woman, it seems, became tired of law relatives and returned to Cranford and insisted upon her rights as a pauper resident. The township authorities not knowing what else to do with her, engaged board for the woman at the leading hostelry.

The township attorney, Berkely C. Austin, began suit against Block's bondsman. The case is now in the hands of Judge Wittemore for his decision. If the decision is in the town's favor, Mrs. Block's board bill will have to be paid by the bondsman; if not, less luxurious quarters will be found for the woman during her maintenance as a public charge in Cranford.

MONDAY MORNING IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

Antoni Jargebenski had a tooth pulled Saturday, and his dentist, he says, recommended that he take a couple of drinks of whiskey to ease the pain. The Italian thought it would take more than a couple of drinks to ease the throbbing cavity, and he poured down the fire-water a little too freely. When he no longer felt the pain—or knew much about anything else, as it happens—he got on a trolley car to go home. The liquor went to his head, and he was unable to sit up. When the car reached North and Watchung avenues early in the afternoon, he was arrested as a helpless drunk by Patrolmen Myers and Sweeny. John P. Owens appeared at court this morning to explain the "mitigating circumstances" and sentence was suspended by City Judge Runyon.

Ludlow Frazee was sentenced to serve a sixty day sentence in the county jail at his hearing before City Judge Runyon today, following his arrest for drunkenness and disorderly conduct on Park avenue Saturday night, when Patrolman Messler found him with a scrappy jag. Frazee was arrested just a week ago, when he and his brother had a fight at the same corner.

Because he started to raise a rumpus on Front street after many, many drinks Saturday night, Harry Molleson, Jr., was arrested by Patrolman Vanderweg, and at his hearing before City Judge Runyon today was given the "$10 or twenty days" alternative.

"DOC" IS DEAD.

Retired Fire Horse, Aged 25 Years, Is No More.

"Doc," the old fire department horse, one of the first purchased by the city for use in that department, died on Thursday on the farm of Mr. Freeman at Oak Tree, where it had been in his charge for the past five years, at which time it was decided that it was no longer fit for duty. "Doc" was about twenty-five years old and was considered one of the best horses owned by the city. Thursday night he got down in his stall, and owing to advanced age, was unable to get up and it was in this position he died.

"Doc" was first used with another horse to draw the steamer and later was assigned to No. 1 hose wagon, Captain Daly driving the animal for many years. It was a comparatively easy matter to train the horse. He was always quick to respond to every alarm of fire and was usually the first to arrive at a conflagration.

Oiling Borough Streets.

The borough streets have been swept and oiling began on Watchung avenue this afternoon. The oiling will extend from the city line to Mountain road. This is only a beginning of what it is hoped will solve the dust problem in North Plainfield. The other streets to be treated in the same way are Somerset and Grove streets, Washington avenue, Prospect place and Craig place.

Funeral of Mrs. Bauer.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Bauer, mother of County Engineer G. W. Bauer, was largely attended Saturday afternoon at the residence of her son at Linden. The deceased was seventy-eight years old and had been a life-long resident of Linden township. Her husband died in 1880. Six children survive.

SHOW SENATOR'S STAMPS

Ernest R. Ackerman Has Part of His Collection on View at Trenton.

EXHIBITS AMERICAN STAMPS.

Plainfielder is a Member of the Royal Philatelic Society of London.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, who among his other accomplishments is recognized as one of the foremost philatelists of the times, is well represented in the exhibit of the Trenton Philatelic Society, which opened in Trenton today. Senator Ackerman's exhibit includes some of the rarest of American stamps among which are the stamps which represents the "Stamp Act," as it was called, which was passed March 22, 1765, and which was to become effective on November 1, 1765 against the remonstrances of the friends of the Colonies both in and out of Parliament. Senator Ackerman is a member of the Royal Philatelic Society of London, England, of which the Prince of Wales is the president, and of which King Edward is a member.

The stamp referred to above is the two shillings and sixpence, and is embossed on heavy blue paper attached to parchment by means of small pieces of lead; on the reverse side are the words: "Honi Soit qui Maly Pense," the legend on Britain's coat of arms, and which means "Evil to Him who Evil Thinks."

Among the other rarities of Senator Ackerman's exhibit are the halfpenny America 1765; the two-penny America 1765; two plates containing six copies of the two-pence, 1765, and the bottom part of a proof sheet dated May 24, 1765, noted for its historical rarity. Money cannot but this exhibit.

The collection of Norwegian and Swedish stamps in fact those of the entire Scandinavian peninsula, which the Senator has gotten together is one of the finest if not the very finest in the world, and has proved to be the winner of prizes wherever exhibited.

The exhibit now going on is the annual exhibit of the Trenton society and is one of the best ever held by that organization.

REV. GARRETT CONOVER IN TRINITY'S PULPIT

Rev. Garrett Conover, pastor of the Grand Avenue Reformed church of Asbury Park, exchanged pulpits with Rev. John Y. Broek yesterday, and in the morning preached a strong sermon on faith to a large congregation.

Mr. Conover took for his text part of the twenty-second chapter of Genesis, in which the sublime faith of Abraham in not questioning God's motives when told to take Isaac, his son, and make a sacrifice of him is apparent, and said: "Abraham's greatest love was centered in this son and it would, therefore be the greatest thing he could have offered unto the God he would obey implicitly. So it is with us who are just as human in our love as was the ancient patriarch.

"But we must remember that the greater the sacrifice, the greater will be God's blessing. Could we but grasp the meaning of such a faith as was Abraham's what a magnificent and boundless unity we would become in our relations with our Father. There would be no heights we could not ascend, and the depths of sorrow and trouble in this world would reveal blessings which can only be seen by the eyes of a perfect faith.

Watchung Woman an Inventor.

A new and improved method for forming tips on shoe laces has been invented by Miss Mary A. Bartels, of Watchung, and will evidently prove a boom to the manufacturers. The shoe lace is made in a very simple and economical manner and with a view to rendering the tip permanent without the use of the customary metallic stiffening and will also allow giving the tip the same color as that of the body of the shoe lace.

Congregational Supplies.

The supplies at the Congregational church during the absence of Pastor Goodrich and his family abroad, will be as follows: July 18, Rev. Dr. Washington Choate, of New York; July 25, Rev. L. R. Howard; August 1, Rev. Edward Shaw; August 8, Rev. James M. Whiton, of New York; September 5, Rev. Dr. R. S. Campbell, of the borough.

RELEASE ASSAILANT IN THOUSAND DOLLARS BAIL

Charles Sprigg, of West Front street, who was arrested at a Park avenue hotel last Monday night for engaging in a fight with Thomas Caulfield, of Johnson avenue, was released in $1,000 bail Saturday, after having been held a prisoner in a city court cell since Thursday. Louis Sprigg, the man's brother, was his bondsman.

The condition of Caulfield, which was considered very serious Saturday, shows improvement today, and Dr. P. J. Zeglio, who is attending him, says that there is a chance for his recovery. Caulfield, who was intoxicated, struck Sprigg, who returned the blow. Caulfield fell heavily, receiving an ugly bruise on the head, for which he was treated at the emergency hospital at police headquarters. Complications have developed.

AUTOMOBILE COLLIDES WITH BUTCHER ARNOLD'S WAGON.

Walter Arnold, son of Charles Arnold, the Liberty street butcher, accompanied by Patrick Powers, while driving on West Front street, near Grant avenue, Saturday afternoon, delivering orders, collided with a touring car, the number of which was 6204 N. J. The young men were thrown out of the wagon, Arnold spraining his ankle and receiving cuts, while Powers was scratched about the arms. The occupants of the car left their number, but would not give their names.

Arnold was driving across Front street, when the auto bore down upon them going east, striking the wagon broadside. The rim of one wheel was taken off and the rig otherwise damaged. The horse escaped uninjured.

First M. E. Supplies.

During the absence of Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, on his summer vacation, the following ministers will occupy the pulpit at the morning service: August 8, Rev. Stanley F. Davis, of Elizabeth; 15, Rev. Dr. D. W. Couch, of Brooklyn; 22, Rev. George Whitehead, of Bayonne; 29, Rev. H. R. Robinson, of Red Bank. Sunday night, August 1, there will be a union service at the First M. E. church.

Arrested at Galaschauen.

Edward Lloyd, who disposed of watches at the Galaschauen, caused the arrest of Angelo Carpione, a Newark man, at the carnival grounds Saturday night, declaring that he used profane and indecent language and attacked him. The Italian was given a hearing before Mayor C. J. Fisk, who suspended sentence.

Autos Collide.

An automobile owned and driven by M. D. Cook, of Brooklyn, collided with the touring car belonging to Arthur Swinton, of Somerville, at Watchung and Woodland avenues at about 8:30 o'clock last night. Mr. Cook's machine was badly damaged, but no one was hurt.

THEY DON'T KNOW HOW LARUE MET HIS DEATH

The body of George W. LaRue, of East Las Vegas, New Mexico, who died Thursday, has been shipped eastward, according to a despatch received by the dead man's brother, James F. LaRue, of Westervelt avenue, and will arrive in this city on Thursday. It is believed by some that Mr. LaRue, who was an enginner on the Santa Fe railroad, was killed in a wreck of an Elks' special train near Salt Lake City. Details of the fatality are lacking. The funeral arrangements have not been made, but the interment will be in the family plot at South River.

Mr. LaRue is the brother of Ira L. LaRue, of East Second street. Mrs. James LaRue received a postal card from the man on Tuesday, and he wrote that he had been assigned to a special train carrying a delegation of Elks to the convention at Los Angeles. A newspaper dispatch from Salt Lake City, tells of a collision between an Elks' special and a freight train on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, near Helper, Utah, and it is possible that this was the fatal wreck.

Mr. LaRue, who was about fifty years old and unmarried, was born in New Brunswick, and had been a resident of this citp up to a few years ago. Aside from the three brothers living in this city, the dead man is survived by a brother living in Ohio, who is now on his way East, and a sister. His mother lies with the sister in Brooklyn.

$5,000 Fire at Cranford.

Fire destroyed two residences at Cranford Saturday. The blaze started from a defective flue in the home of Benjamin Johnson on Cranford avenue, and an adjoining double house caught, both being destroyed. The fire department was called out, but it is said that a poor water pressure made them helpless to cope with the fire. Bucket brigades were formed and adjoining property was saved. The loss will amount to $5,000, partially covered by insurance.

Editors of the American Here.

Editors McKenney and Cook, of the outing contest conducted by the New York American, were guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linke, of West Second street. Their son, Julien Linke, was one of the contestants who won an American tour, which starts next Monday and extends over a period of forty-five days. They were delighted with Plainfield and took occasion to congratulate young Linke upon his success.

Money for Charter Day.

The Daily Press acknowledges a check for $20, sent by "Civic Pride" to this office for the Charter Day fund. It also acknowledges a check for $5 sent by "Cash" for the same purpose. Both contributions have been handed to the chairman of the finance committee for the celebration.

LIQUOR MEN ARRAIGNED

James Regan and John Hermann Both Plead Non Vult.

ADOLPH BOHREN IS CLEARED.

Mrs. Holster and Her Drivers to Plead Friday—Haurand Will Plead Tomorrow.

Adolph Bohren, James Reagan and John Hermann, all of the borough, Somerset county, who were indicted on a charge of selling liquor in this city, Union county, without a license, were arraigned before Judge Atwater at Elizabeth, this morning, to plead. William G. DeMeza of counsel for the accused, entered a plea of non-vult for Reagan and Hermann, and the action against Bohren was nolle prossed and he was released. Reagan and Herman will be sentenced on Wednesday, July 21.

Mrs. Lena Hoester and her two drivers, Patrick Traynor and Michael Kane, indicted on a similar charge, will be arraigned Friday before Judge Aawater, and Henry Haurand, who was also indicted for the same offense, will appear in the Union county court tomorrow to plead.

The North Plainfield liquor dealers and their drivers were arrested in this city on June 11, all charged with selling liquor here without a license.

The recent activity of the authorities in this matter has made it one of State-wide interest.

FIRST SUNDAY SERVICE AT FRESH AIR HOME

The first of the summer Sunday afternoon services at the open air auditorium of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home was held yesterday, when Rev. Dr. Charles W. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, delivered the address to the three hundred New York children and mothers now at the camp. The service was largely attended, about 500 people constituting the congregation. As is the custom at the services at the camp, music was a feature, and George Sharpe was in charge of the singing, which included several solos and gospel hymns by the children.

Arthur Humble, of the First M. E. church led the meeting, and was assisted by Mr. DeGraft. Dr. Anderson's talk was on the parable of the Good Shepherd, and he applied the lesson of the ninety and nine to the work Miss Sara Curry is doing among the New York poor. At the conclusion of the service, many of those attended remained to renew the acquaintances of previous years, and to inspect the Home, where several improvements have been made since last year.

PLAINFIELD ELKS IN A KANSAS CLOUDBURST.

A collision between a freight and a passenger train on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad occurred near Helper, Utah, Saturday. No passengers were reported injured. In consequence thirteen trains, carrying Elks from New Haven, Conn.; Pittsburg and Alleghany, Pa.; Detroit and Marquette, Mich., and other cities were detained at Grand Junction, Col. It is not known whether the Plainfielders were affected by the wreck or not.

The Plainfield party, however, on Thursday last had an experience it will not soon forget. While passing through Quenemo, Kansas, a section that was widely affected by the great floods, there was a cloudburst and more than nine inches of rain fell. That whole section was flooded and the train ran over tracks covered with ten inches of water. The Plainfielders witnessed the rescue of many people from the housetops and in letters received here by friends, they gave thrilling descriptions of their experiences.

Helen Gertrude Stevens.

Helen Gertrude, the seven-years-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew R. Stevens, of 765 West Eighth street, died yesterday after an illness of over four months of rheumatic fever complicated with heart trouble. The funeral will be held from the home of her parents tomorrow at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Will Hold Lawn Festival.

A lawn festival will be held at the Netherwood Reformed church, Leland avenue, tomorrow evening, commencing at 6:30 o'clock, under the direction of the Ladies' Guild of the church.

Boston is Fourth City.

Boston, July 12.—Boston now ranks as the fourth city in the United States in point of poulation, with 624,921 persons, according to figures compiled by the city's Board of Health. In Greater Boston there are 1,195,663 people. Previously St. Louis stood fourth, but now goes to fifth place. The leaders are New York, Chicago and Philadelphia. The figures show that Boston has gained 63,599 since the last federal census and 29,111 over the State census of 1905. Chelsea, despite the great fire of last year, now has 40,080 persons, against 37,289 in 1905.

The July Clearance Sale

Meets With Instantaneous Success.

Values tell and here are telling values—the kind that bring crowds and that repay the crowds for coming. And how the people thronged every department during the opening hours of this sale! How eagerly they bought—and with what enthusiasm they praised the big values so plenteously provided. There will be no let-up to the daily crowds during this event because there will be no let-up to the great value-giving.

We hold this sale for the sole purpose of effecting a clearance of odd lots, left-overs, odds and ends, etc.—and so we name prices far below any figures likely to be named anywhere this season. Every department is represented with a full quota of exceptional values—the whole store is one big, busy, bustling bargain bazaar.

We will crowd every hour of the day with irresistible money-saving inducements—affording exceptional economies on summer necessities of all kinds.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT TO ATTEND TUNNEL OPENING.

Jersey City, July 12.—Plans have been completed for the celebration of the opening of the Hudson and Manhattan tunnel, from Cortlandt street, Manhattan, to Exchange place, this city, July 19. The plan and scope committee, of which Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn is chairman, Saturday announced its program. The first train is scheduled to run through the tunnel from the terminal building at Cortlandt and Church streets, New York, at 10:15 o'clock in the morning.

William McAdoo, president of the Hudson and Manhattan company, with Engineer Jacobs, who built the tunnel; Charles J. Fisk, of the banking firm of Harvey Fisk and Sons, which financed the enterprise, and Vice-President of the United States John S. Sherman, Cornelius Bliss and members of the New York Board of Aldermen as guests, will send word to Charles Hendrickson, Jr., chairman of the fireworks committee of the celebration, who will be in the office of Manager Frank L. Sheppard, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. When Hendrickson receives word that the train has started he will signal men on the roof of the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, and they will set of twenty bombs to announce the fact. The vessels in the Hudson River and the harbor will spread the news by means of their whistles. Before the last bomb is exploded the special train is expected to reach the Jersey City Station, the trip from Cortlandt street taking but three minutes.

The committee announced that the plans for the accommodation of the Jersey City guests who will ride upon the first official train have been changed, and that instead of being taken to New York through the tunnel, owing to mechanical difficulties, they ferry to Cortlandt street and take the train at the terminal building.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Wheeler and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Cleaves, of Watchung, have returned from an auto trip through northern New Jersey.

JERSEY MAN TO HEAD CONGRESSIONAL NINE.

Washington, July 12.—Congressman Eugene F. Kinkhead, who represents the Ninth New Jersey District, a Democrat in politics, and Representative John K. Tener, Republican, of the Twenty-fourth Pennsylvania District, both old-time baseball players and incurable fans, after scrapping over baseball during the session, have at last decided to settle the issue. Kinkhead is to get up a nine of the Democratic members of the House, while Tener will pick a team from the Republican side.

Kinkhead was a baseball and football player at Seton Hall College, South Orange, in 1896, and had a reputation as an athlete in his college days.

Tener was a star pitcher for the Chicago Nationals, under Pop Anson nearly two decades ago.

The game is to be played this afternoon at American League Park and Vice-President Serman will act as umpire.

BUILDING AND LOAN MEN UNITE FOR PROTECTION.

Atlantic City, July 12.—Two-thirds of the 515 building and loan associations of New Jersey were represented here Friday evening in the organization of the New Jersey League of Building and Loan Associations. There were represented by the 300 associations present $68,000,000 in assets and 155,000 members.

The object is to protect the organization from adverse legislation and unjust taxation.

Officers chosen were: President, Joseph McNamee, Atlantic City; vice-presidents, H. H. Maxfield, Mercer; W. W. Smalley, Somerset; secretary, Howard Cloud, Atlantic City; treasurer, Charles S. King, Camden; solicitors, Theodore Schimpf, Atlantic City; Charles H. Stewart, Essex; Abram Cochran, Salem; finance committee, W. R. Tilton, Atlantic City; Andrew D. Bogert, Bergen; Harry R. Hines, Essex.

The New Brunswick newspapers think that "Dave" Driscoll has made a mistake in scheduling so many games with Plainfield. According to announcement eight contests have been arranged. If they are well patronized and prove money-makers, there can be no mistake, but if it should be the reverse it will be an easy matter to cancel the remaining games.

Nolen is a good man for the Plainfield team as long as he "cuts out" his foolishness. He is a fast fielder and an almost sure hitter.

Jack Martin, the short stop on the New Brunswick team, is constantly growing in popularity with the fans of the town, and they think that he is about the best infielder that has appeared there in many a moon. Plainfield fans always did think that of Jack.

MILLIONS OF POSTALS FROM ATLANTIC CITY.

Atlantic City, July 12.—Nearly $250,000 worth of stamps, $500,000 in money orders issued, and the handling of more than $1,500,000 in all sources is the record made by the Atlantic City postoffice during the year ending June 30, according to the annual report just issued by Postmaster Harry Bacharach. Another interesting item was that 7,264,542 postcards were dispatched. The major portion of these were of the illustrated kind, which the visitor is wont to send to his or her friends almost as soon as getting in the city.

FRESH AIR CAMP SITE.

Now that the Netherwood Fresh Air Home is about to come into possession of a bequest amounting to $100,000, the opportunity is presented for the erection of a substantial camp in a more suitable location. The southern slope of the Watchung mountain, near this city, affords a fine site for such an institution. Some years ago, the City Union of King's Daughters wisely built its baby camp on the Johnston drive, realizing that because of the high altitude and picturesque woodland it furnished the most ideal location for its work. The Fresh Air Home Association would do well to follow its example.

A "GREAT WHITE WAY" AT NEWARK WEDNESDAY

Newark, July 12.—Newark will have a notable demonstration next Wednesday evening, when a new "Great White Way," similar to that on South Broad street, but of considerably greater extent, will be formally opened on Market street, one of the city's principal business thoroughfares. A large crowd of visitors is expected from out of town and the residents of the city will turn out in big force. There will be band music and other special features, and business houses along Market street will be decorated with flags, bunting and colored lights. The new "Great White Way" will extend through the heart of the city, from the handsome and conspicious structure in High street—recently replaced the old Essex County courthouse to the Market street station of the Pennsylvania railroad, crossing Broad street at the "Four Corners," the busiest street intersection in New Jersey. There will be fifty-eight arc lights, each of 9,000 candle power. They will be placed at a height of twenty-six feet, higher than the arc lamps of the old type which now illuminate Market street. Experts are agreed that at the increasing altitude the lamps will yield much better distribution of light and produce a more imposing effect.

Newark has led the world in brilliant street lighting. When the flaming arc lights on South Broad street flashed out a few months ago the name and fame of the city on the Passaic were heralded to every section of the country. South Broad street is the most brilliantly illuminated throughfare in the world. Now comes Market street with a longer blazing chain of high power arcs, and in a short while the Broad street illumination is to be extended across Market street to North Broad to decorate the city's great business centre with a cross of light that will far surpass in effectiveness any spectacle of the kind anywhere esse presented.

The project of a "Great White Way" on Market street originated with a few progressive business men who got together for the mutual betterment of their interests, and organized the Market Street Business Men's Improvement Association. It means under the auspices of their strong and energetic association that the lighting project was taken up and carried to a successful issue.

In honor of the installation of the new lighting ssytem, Wednesday, July 14, will be made a special bargain day in all the stores in Market street along the new "White Way." The merchants will hold open house all day, and visitors from far and near will find hospitable welcome. The stores will remain open in the evening, in order that late comers to town may have an opportunity to take advantage of the rare and special opportunities that are to be offered to purchasers.

The decorations will remain in place for a week or two, so that persons who may not be able to visit Newark on the night of the opening can have the opportunity later to see Market street a blaze and in her gala attire.

PERSONAL.

Miss Sadie Beardsley, of Bayonne, has returned after a brief visit with Mrs. G. O. Staats, of Second street.

Sidney J. Rockwell, of Front street, was a recent visitor at Belmar, where he established a camp.

Mrs. Rose Belle Jackson, of 610 West Fourth street, left Saturday for Richmond, Va., where she will visit relatives.

John Sanderson, of Woodland avenue, leaves tonight for Selkirk Beach, where he will spend the summer with his parents.

Harry Knowles of the Newark Call, a former local newspaper man, will reside in Plainfield for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Charles E. Booth, of Bayonne, has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Smalley, Jr., of Greenbrook road.

Miss Esther Champton, valedictorian of the class of 1908, of the city high school, will shortly for Iowa, where she will spend the summer.

John Carney, of the Monarch Printing Company, left this morning for Roanoke, Va., to take a position with the Stone Publishing Company.

Mrs. H. Y. Schaffer and daughter, Miss Marie Schaffer, of Flemington, have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Teeter, of Grove street.

Former Principal and Mrs. Ira W. Travell of the city high school, will return shortly from Europe. Mr. Travell will devote the latter part of the summer to making plans preparatory to taking up his new duties at Morristown.

Rev. John Butscher, who has been visiting his brother, Phillip B. Butscher, returned on Saturday to assume his duties as assistant at the Woodside, N. J., Roman Catholic church, having been transferred to that place by Bishop O'Connor from Paterson, where he was assistant to Dean McNulty.

LITERARY

Within are short and interesting extracts from articles appearing in the July, 1909, issue of the Technical World Magazine. They are especially prepared for the use of Literary and Exchange Editors. We shall be glad to grant permission to reprint entire articles, provided proper credit is given. We shall thank you for calling this offer to the attention of your Sunday editor. Please send a marked copy of your paper containing anything from the Hechnical World Magazine to the Managing Editor, Chicago, Ill.

It is only fair to warn people who prefer fiction of the gloomy, risque, or generally horrible kind that they will not be interested in the July Lippincott's. Not that the contents are entirely frivolous—there is, as there should be, a leaven of seriousness; but the general tone is joyous, uplifting, encouraging the reader to cheer up and view the world "through rose-colored glasses," as did the nave little heroine of the complete novel—"Color of Rose," by Dorothea Deakin. Like all writers, this author's work varies in quality, but none of it has ranked very low, and some of it—including the present story—deserves a very high place indeed.

In "Our Fourth at Rubicon," Woman's Home Companion for July gives the actual Fourth of July experience of a town that has abolished toy cannons and fire-crackers. The substitute works, and works finely, and will work in any other town that really wants to do away with powder-pocked faces and mutilated fingers.

Every one who reads the Atlantic Monthly for July will be struck by the compact and telling appeal which A British Marine Officer makes to America to build and support a national merchant marine, so that our flag may not utterly disappear from the seas of the world. Other lessons which America may learn from foreigners are exemplified in this number by a suggestive article on "The German Way of Making Better Cities," by Sylvester Baxter, and A. F. Sanborn's significant paper on "Grench Conservatism."

Among the well known writers of fiction who contribute of their latest work to The Red Book Magazine for July are, James Branch Cabell, Leo Crane, Marion Hill, Mabel Nelson Thurston, Edwin Asa Dix, Maude Radford Warren and Mary Mary Imlay Taylor.

All vacationists, and all the stay-at-homes, for that matter, will be immensely pleased with Recreation for July, which is now on sale by all newsdealers. The July number of this magnificently illustrated magazine is chockful of information and entertainment for out door people, and contains a half-dozen or more features, any one of which alone is worth the price of the magazine. The article on dry fly fishing which is published in this issue is nothing hort of sensational—but in the best sense. The popular "how to" character of eRcreation is well lived upto in the article on building a log cabin. H. F. Porter's brief biographical sketch should and will be read by every person interested in athletics.

"Lift Men from the Gutter? Or, Remove the Gutter? Which?" is the interrogative title of Ray Stannard Baker's article in the July American Magazine. Mr. Baker draws some interesting comparisons between the work of the famous McAuley Mission and that done by Christ Church—both in New York City. "The Confession of a Rebellious Wife" is a remarkable human document which will interest every married man and woman in this country.

In the July number of "Success Magazine" Henry M. Hyde pays his respects to the new order of American ambassadors in an article, "Shirtsleeves at Foreign Courts." In "Cities that Pay Dividends" Franklin Clarkin shows how a well-managed city can be run without paying taxes. "The New West from a Postman's Cart" by Robert Haven Schauffler proves the social value of the rural free delivery. Dr. Woods Hutchinson in an article, "The Sweet Tooth and Why It Is So Keen," praises sugar as a food for infants and adults. Orison Swett Marden's editorial is an appreciation of "The Precedent Breaker."

Fiction and serious articles are pretty evently balanced in the July Century, with the second of the anonymous "Thirteen at Table" stories to pique curiosity—anonymous in the sense that the reader may judge whether each story is written by Margaret Deland or Dr. Weir Mitchell or Owen Wister. This second tale—called "The Waiting Hand"—is based upon grusome extract taken from a singular will, actually drawn in Maine in 1874. How the prophecy of the will is fulfilled makes an unusual and startling story. The author has given the story's gay, fashionable, motor-tourist characters a dramatic setting against a generation old New England tragedy.

CENTRAL'S TICKET CASE SETTLED OUT OF COURT

The Central Railroad of New Jersey has settled its case against five local young men who were accused of trafficking office business of commutation tickets, out of court. The defendants will pay the court costs, and the injunction will be granted, by which the young men agree not to use or traffic in commutation tickets again. Lawyers for the defense were in court today and it is said that the total cost to each of the young men will be about one hundred dollars.

William Feiring, Alexander Lusardi, Tony Lusardi, Joseph Cadmus and Samuel Rothberg were apprehended in the traffic of loaning out commutation tickets after some detective work on the part of William Able for the Central Railroad. The warfare against traffickers in these tickets has been going on since the first of the year, and it recently came to court.

CRANFORD'S CARNIVAL A GREAT SUCCESS

The annual water carnival held under the auspices of the Cranford Canoe Club took place on the Rahway river in Cranford Saturday night. It was largely attended and together with the handsomely decorated canoes and illumination along the banks of the river, the event surpassed anything heretofore held. Nearly one hundred decorated canoes took part in the parade which started at 8 o'clock and headed by the commodore's boat, proceeded down the river as far as Sperry's Park, then back to the Eastman street bridge, covering the course twice.

At Speery's Park the Imperial Military Band, with Charles Suhr, of this city, leader, gave a concert and the Seventh Regiment Band, of New York, discoursed music at the clubhouse. Prizes were awarded for the best decorated canoe as well as prizes for novelty designs.

ELIZABETH NORTH END DEFEATED PLAINFIELD

The Plainfield A. C. was defeated by the North End A. C. at Elizabeth Saturday afternoon by a score of 6 to 1. Slocum pitched a fine game, striking out fifteen men, while Brennan, of the home team, fanned thirteen batsmen. Each pitcher was touched for five hits. Hanson and Moran, of the Plainfield team, did good work with the stick. A return game will be played in this city on Saturday, August 14. The score:

VIGILANT POLICEMAN FRIGHTENS WOMEN.

False Burglary Alarm in Elizabeth Gives Two a Serious Scare.

Elizabeth, July 12.—Mrs. George Hartsell, of 142 Catherine street told last night how it feels to be stalked on a dark night by a big burly policeman and to have him suddenly pounce on one from the shadows near the sidewalk.

It was all because an excited person telephoned to police headquarters Thursday night that some one was trying to get into the house of Russell Bonnell at 908 North Broad street, and four policemen were rushed out from headquarters to get the burglars. It was discovered later that the alarm had been aroused by the late homecoming of one of the maids in the Bonnell household.

"I had been visiting at the house of my sister-in-law, Mrs. James J. Masterson, at 1214 North avenue," Mrs. Hartsel said, "with Mrs. Cavanaugh, the wife of a local newspaperman, who boards with me. We started home rather late and had gone but a short distance from the house when we noticed that a man was following us. We were walking in the middle of the street. Suddenly the man jumped out at us.

"Both of us were scared to death, and we ran. We ran just as fast as we could. But the man discovered that we were women then and called out: 'Don't run; I'm only a policeman.'

"When we got back to Mr. Masterson's house we told him all about it, and he walked with us to the car. We did not see the policeman again."

The two women were badly frightened, but suffered no ill effects from the experience.

THINKS SHE HAS CLAIM TO ALLEGED BIG FORTUNE.

Friends of Mrs. Henry Burstyn, wife of the health commissioner of West Hoboken, learned yesterday that Mrs. Burstyn's visit to Germany, on which she started on the Kronprinz Wilhelm on Monday, was not undertaken solely for pleasure. Commissioner Burstyn admitted yesterday that his wife hoped to establish a claim to a $1,300,000 share in a $13,000,000 estate said to have been left by Bishop Franke, of Breslau.

Commissioner Burstyn said that his wife believed the bishop to have been in uncle, long lost to his family, and that she was armed with proofs to establish this relationship.

Mrs. Burstyn learned of the death of the bishop through an account in an old German paper, stating that no heirs had been found to the estate.

RUNAWAY HUSBAND SIGNS OVER WAGES.

Willis Hinman, of Trenton, yesterday was chraacterized by Police Judge Harris, of that city, as "the meanest man who ever came before me." The prisoner was up before the court on the charge of failure to support his family. He ran away from home, and the wife and children had to be supported by the overseer of the poor at public expense.

The prisoner had a smile on his face when he came before the court, but he willingly signed over his wages to his family before he quit court.

REFUSE $30,000 FOR OLD PASSAIC COURTHOUSE.

The Board of Freeholders at Paterson Wednesday afternoon flatly refused an offer of $30,000 for the old courthouse property. The offer was made by L. Werksman, of Passaic, acting for a New York concern. Mr. Werksman appeared in person while the committee was in session.

The property will be sold at auction. When it is so offered an upset price will be fixed. If the New York concern had secured the property it planned to erect a large department store on the corner of Oliver and Main streets in Paterson.

WILL HELP ITS AGED.

The Fifth Battery of Polish Artillery of Elizabeth, filed incorporation papers in the office of the county clerk at Elizabeth Saturday.

The purpose for which the corporation is formed is to relieve and support such of the members as shall by sickness, casualty, old age, or other cause, be rendered incapable of attending to their usual occupation or calling.

The principal office is at 154 Front street, Elizabeth, and the statutory agent is Stanislaus Gural. There are five trustees, as follows: Stanislaus Gural, Stanislaw Rudttys, Stanislaw Hondo, Michael Rado and Julius Kondratawicz.

Meaning of "Grafter."

Chicago, July 12.—The word "grafter" is not necessarily slanderous, Judge Foster held Wednesday in the Municipal Court. By the opinion, William H. Haskell, former superintendent of construction of the Board of Education, lost his suit for damages for $1,000 against Dwight H. Perkins. The court directed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendant.

"'Grafter,' the court said, "does not necessarily imply dishonesty. If a man tipped a waiter, that latter might be called a 'grafter.' So far as I can see the plaintiff has suffered no damage."

PROPOSALS

For Laying Out the Grounds of New Washington School on Darrow Avenue, corner Essex Street.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held July 6th, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Tuesday evening, July 20th, 1909, at 8 o'clock, at the Board room in the High School Building, corner Ninth street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for laying out, grading, putting in cement walks, and all work called for on the plans and specifications on file in the office of Frank J. Hubbard, engineer, 203 Park Avenue, where all information can be obtained until the day of meeting of the Board as above mentioned.

Proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for work on grounds for the New Washington School, Darrow Avenue," and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received prevous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board of Education.

Proctor's High-Class Bill.

Harry S. Sanderson has decided to make another change in his weekly bills at Proctor's theatre. He is anxious to obtain the best vaudeville possible and finds that he can do this by changing twice instead of three times a week as before. The change is effective today, and the bill for the week, comprising all topliners is as follows: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Earl & Bartlett, Irish comedy sketch; Lussier Sisters, singing and dancing artists; Margaret Cushing, operatic contralto; Dave Malcolm, comedy juggler. Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Harry Waiman, boy violinist and impersonator; Lester & Mildred, singing and dancing artists; The Mandys, novelty act; Alva McGill, singing comedian. The pictures will be changed daily.

Automatic Electric Block Signals in Railroad Operation.

The result of a series of tests of operation and observance of automatic signals by the operating officials of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, just completed, showing complete observance on the part of engine men so tested in a series of 150 surprise tests, is a gratifying demonstration of the carefulness with which trains are operated on that road. The Lehigh Valley is equipped throughout with automatic electric block signals, and these surprise tests are conducted at frequent intervals to maintain the efficiency of the service, thus mimimizing the possibility of accidents.

Ends Life as Her Children Play.

Mrs. Julia Kearney, fifty years old, the mother of seven children, committed suicide yesterday afternoon at her home, No. 35 East Thirtieth street, Bayonne, while several of her children were playing in an adjoining room.

Steel Passenger Cars for the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

An order has just been placed by the Lehigh Valley Railroad for fifteen steel passenger coaches for use on its line between New York, Philadelphia and Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

James E. Church conducted the gospel services at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel at Watchung, last night.

Miss Lizzie Stafford, formerly of the borough, but now of Providence, R. I., has been visiting friends here during the past week.

CHAPTER I.

The Wrecking Boss.

News of the wreck at Smoky Creek reached Medicine Bend from Point of Rocks at five o'clock. Sinclair, in person, was overseeing the making up of his wrecking train, and the yard, usually quiet at that hour of the morning, was alive with the hurry of men and engines. In the trainmaster's room of the weather-beaten headquarters building nicknamed by railroad men "The Wickiup," early comers—sleepy-faced, keen-eyed trainmen—lounged on the tables and in chairs discussing the reports from Point of Rocks, and among them crew-callers and messengers moved in and out. Two minutes after they had their orders and were pulling out of the upper yard, with right of way over everything to Point of Rocks.

The wreck had occurred just west of the creek. A fast east-bound freight train, double-headed, had left the track on the long curve around the hill, and when the wrecking train backed through Ten Shed cut the sun streamed over the heaps of jammed and twisted cars strung all the way from the point of the curve to the foot of Smoky hill. The crew of the train that lay in the ditch walked slowly up the track to where the wreckers had pulled up, and the freight conductor asked for Sinclair. Men rigging the derrick pointed to the hind car. The conductor, swinging up the caboose steps, made his way inside among the men that were passing out tools. The air within was bluish-thick with tobacco smoke, but through the haze the freightman saw facing him, in the far corner of the den-like interior, a man seated behind an old dining-car table, finishing his breakfast; one glimpse was enough to identify the dark beard of Sinclair, foreman of the bridges and boss of the wrecking gang.

Beside him stood a steaming coffee tank, and in his right hand he held an enormous tin cup that he was about to raise to his mouth when he saw the freight conductor. With a laugh Sinclair threw up his left hand and beckoned him over. Then he shook his hair just a little, tossed back his head, opened an unusual mouth, drained the cup at a gulp, and cursing the freightman fraternally, exclaimed: "How many cars have you ditched this time?"

The trainman, a sober-faced fellow, answered, dryly: "All I had."

"Running too fast, eh?" glared Sinclair.

With the box cars piled 40 feet high on the track, the conductor was too old a hand to begin a controversy. "Our time's fast," was all he said.

Sinclair rose and exclaimed: "Come on!" And the two, leaving the car, started up the track. The wrecking boss paid no attention to his companion as they forged ahead, but where the train had hit the curve he scanned the track as he would a blue print. "They'll have your scalp for this," he declared, abruptly.

"I reckon they will."

"What's your name?"

"Stevens."

"Looks like all day for you, doesn't it? No matter; I guess I can help you out."

Where the merchandise cars lay, below the switch, the train crew knew that a tramp had been caught. At intervals they heard groans under the wreckage, which was piled high there. Sinclair stopped at the derrick, and the freight conductor went on to where his brakeman had enlisted two of Sinclair's giants to help get out the tramp. A brake beam had crushed the man's legs, and the pallor of his face showed that he was hurt internally, but he was conscious and moaned softly. The men had started to carry him to the way car when Sinclair came up, asked what they were doing, and ordered them back to the wreck. They hastily laid the tramp down. "But he wants water," protested a brakeman who was walking behind, carrying his arm in a sling.

"Water!" bawled Sinclair. "Have my men got nothing to do but carry a tramp to water? Get ahead there and help unload those refrigerators. He'll find water fast enough. Let the damned hobo crawl down to the creek after it."

The tramp was too far gone for resentment; he had fainted when they laid him down, and his half-glazed eyes, staring at the sky, gave no evidence that he heard anything.

The sun rose hot, for in the Red desert sky there is rarely a cloud. Sinclair took the little hill nearest the switch to bellow his orders from, running down among the men whenever necessary to help carry them out. Within 30 minutes, though apparently no impression had been made on the great heaps of wrenched and splintered equipment, Sinclair had the job in hand.

The freight conductor, Stevens, afraid of no man, had come up to speak to Sinclair, and Sinclair, with a smile, laid a cordial hand on his shoulders. "Stevens, it's all right. I'll get you out of this. Come here." He led the conductor down the track where they had walked in the morning. He pointed to flange-marks on the ties. "See there—there's where the first wheels left the track, and they left on the inside of the curve; a thin flange under the first refrigerator broke. I've got the wheel itself back there for evidence. They can't talk fast running against that. Damn a private car line, anyway! Give me a cigar—haven't got any? Great guns, man, there's a case of Key Wests open up ahead; go fill your pockets and your grip. Don't be bashful; you've got friends on the division, if you are Irish, eh?"

"Sure, only I don't smoke," said Stevens, with diplomacy.

"Well, you drink, don't you? There's a barrel of brandy open at the switch."

The brandy cask stood up-ended near the water butt, and the men dipped out of both with cups. They were working now half naked at the wreck. The sun hung in a cloudless sky, the air was still, and along the right of way huge wrecking fires added to the scorching heat. Ten feet from the water butt lay a flattened

"Water!" Bawled Sinclair, "Have My Men Got Nothing to Do But Carry Tramps to Water?"

mass of rags. Crusted in smoke and blood and dirt, crushed by a vise of beams and wheels out of human semblance, and left now an aimless, twitching thing, the tramp clutched at Stevens' foot as he passed. "Water!"

"Hello, old boy, how the devil did you get here?" exclaimed Stevens, retreating in alarm.

"Water!"

Stevens stepped to the butt and filled a cup. The tramp's eyes were closed. Stevens poured the water over his face; then he lifted the man's head and put a cupful to his lips.

"Is that hobo alive yet?" asked Sinclair, coming back smoking a cigar. "What does he want now? Water? Don't waste any time on him."

"It's bad luck refusing water," muttered Stevens, holding the cup.

"He'll be dead in a minute," growled Sinclair.

The sound of his voice roused the failing man to a fury. He opened his bloodshot eyes, and with the dregs of an ebbing vitality cursed Sinclair with a frenzy that made Stevens draw back. If Sinclair was startled he gave no sign. "Go to hell!" he exclaimed, harshly.

With a ghastly effort the man made his retort. He held up his blood-soaked fingers. "I'm going all right—I know that," he gasped, with a curse, "but I'll come back for you!"

Sinclair, unshaken, stood his ground. He repeated his imprecation more violently; but Stevens, swallowing, stole out of hearing. As he disappeared, a train whistled in the west.

(To be continued.)

BOUND BROOK CRUSHED

Fans See Plainfield Slaughter Crack Somerset Nine.

UMPIRE'S DECISIONS POOR.

Nolan, Emery and Washburn Star With the Stick—The Box Score.

The hopes entertained by a majority of the fans, 1,000 of whom attended the ball game at Bound Brook Saturday, is that some other umpire than Mr. Graham will be asked to officiate in future games. This sentiment was expressed by Bound Brook fans as well as Plainfielders.

Umpire Graham robbed Plainfield of at least three runs by rank decisions at third base and home, besides being wobbly on balls and strikes.

Plainfield won hands down notwithstanding the handicap. The features of the game were the sharp fielding and heavy batting of Plainfield, and a triple play in the ninth by Bound Brook.

The run getting started in the second session. Nolan, the first man up smashed a two-bagger to left and was followed by Seery with a neat single through short. Ortleib advanced the runners a base and got on himself with what was intended for a sacrifice. With three on bases and none out Schott lined out a single scoring Nolan. Robertson in trying to catch Seery at third, threw over Power's head and Ortleib followed Seery over the rubber. This ended Plainfield's scoring until the eighth, when Martin started a batting fest that ended after seven hits had been registered, and six runs scored.

In this inning the whole nine faced the Bound Brook slab artist, and Martin got up twice. The bingles rattled all over the lot and with a base on balls and an error, contributed by pitcher Martin, the tallies came thick and fast.

The batting of Nolan, who made four hits in five times up, and Emery and Washburn, with three a piece, were features; while the fielding of the entire nine was, with exception of Ortleib's wild heave to catch Powers at second in the fourth inning, was perfect.

Bound Brook scored one in the fourth, another in the sixth and two in the eighth; the latter being gifts, as Ortleib just lobbed them over. In the ninth, with the bases full Ortleib hit a short fly to Flaherty at second, who caught Nolan off first, and by a quick throw Robertson caught Washburn trying to get back to second, thus completing the first triple play of the season, and disposing of the Plainfield's hope for a larger score.

During the early part of the game a fire was started on the roof of Bound Brook's Hook and Ladder house, by a spark from a passing locomotive, and the resulting excitement nearly caused a panic in the grand stands. The fire company extinguished the blaze after half an hour's work. The house will have to be re-roofed.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN BOYS WON THE CUP

The mile relay race between the First Presbyterian and the First Baptist Sunday schools was run off Saturday afternoon, and was won by the former in 4 minutes, 3 and 3-5 seconds. The winning team was awarded the cup offered by Harry W. Marshall, as well as the gold medals offered by the Charter Day committee.

Mr. Marshall said this morning that the matter had not yet been satisfactorily settled as to which team was entitled to the cup, but George L. Listman, the referee of the contests and secretary of the Sunday School Athletic League, said that the race of Saturday was final and that as no protest had been entered within the time limit prescribed by the rules—24 hours—the race would have to stand as run. Acker, Smith, Dunning and Hoagland formed the First Presbyterian team.

NEWARK ALERTS EASY FOR PLAINFIELD Y.M.C.A.

The Newark Alerts, members of the Newark City Baseball League, and said to be one of the fastest semi-professional teams in Newark, received the worst defeat in their career on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, when the Y. M. C. A. boys took them into camp by a score of 25 to 4. If the Alerts constitute the best in the Newark League, there is little hope for the other nines.

The locals gathered a total of nineteen hits off of the opposing pitchers, Bambrick and Consat, and they were able to score at will, in fact they got tired running the bases. In every inning but the second, seventh and eighth they tallied more than one run, and in the third six came over the plate. Manager Listman tried out several pitchers, giving "Warry" MacLaughlin, Jack Peacock and Murphy a chance in the box. All were equally effective, the visitors being able to make only eight bingles during the contest. They were also credited with six errors. The score:

SOUTH PLAINFIELD NINE BEATS THE PEERLESS

There was some classy twirling yesterday afternoon at South Plainfield, when Dufford and Slocum, the right and left bower of the Plainfield A. C. team, opposed each other. The South Plainfield boys defeated the Peerless Baseball Club, of this city, by a score of 6 to 5. Slocum, who pitches for South Plainfield on Sunday, won his second game yesterday. Dufford, who opposed him, showed great form. If he had been given good support yesterday, he would doubtless have won his game. However, Slocum pitched a hard game Saturday. The South Plainfield team will play North Plainfield next Sunday. Slocum and Moran will oppose the Perry brothers. In yesterday's game, Tommy Mullin pitched the first three innings for the home team and Slocum finished the contest.

The lineup and score by innings:

South Plainfield—Moran, 3b; T. Mullin, c; Sopher, 2b; Sebring, 1b; TenEyck, rf; Miller and Randolph, cf; O'Loughlin, lf; Smith and McDonough, ss; Slocum, p.

Perless B. B. C.—Kregar, cf; Coon, 3b; W. Mullin, ss; Schropfer, c; Corriel, 1b; Denhinger, 2b; Layers, lf; Hunt and Taynor, rf; Dufford, p.

WESTFIELD TROUNCED BY THE ST. MARYS

St. Mary's nine defeated the fast Westfield team on St. Mary's Oval, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 5 to 2. "Hub" Conover and Dixon were the battery for St. Mary's aggregation and Douglas, Butler and Demicourt worked for Westfield. Conover held Westfield safe at all times, striking out twelve batsmen and allowing but four hits. Douglas had to be relieved in the third inning by Butler, who also pitched good ball. Kiely, of the home team, gave a fine exhibition of sharp fielding by throwing a man out at first after he had made what looked good for a couple of bags. The score by innings:

St. Mary's— . . . . 0 0 4 0 0 0 1 0 x—5
Westfield . . . . . 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0—2

Base on balls—Off Conover 1, off Douglas 5. Two-base hits—Dermicourt and Miller. Struck out—By Conover 12, by Douglas 4, by Butler 3. Umpire, Parent; scorer, J. Mottley.

—A surprise party was given Friday night in honor of Miss Louella Phillips at the home of her sister, Mrs. Emma Springer, 508 West Third street. Saturday Miss Phillips left for Lynchburg, Va., where she will visit relatives.

The New Chalmers Cars for 1910

No Increase in Price

Note the pictures. Our "30" has a 115-inch wheel base—with 34 inch wheels. A longer, higher hood to accord with a roomier tonneau. Lines like the costliest cars on the market.

Yet not a penny of additional price. The car still sells for $1500. Let us tell you how we have done it.

1,000 More Cars

Last season's output of "30's" was 2,500 cars, yet we ran 800 cars short of our orders. We were obliged to refuse trade to the extent of $1,200,000.

This year we have built a new factory, and our 1910 output of "30's" will be 3,500 cars. Those 1,000 extra cars will be made without adding a dollar to our fixed expense.

They will also be made with last year's tools and machinery. We have almost no new expense there. For mechanically, the car is not altered at all. Experience has shown us no way to improve it.

Thus we effect immense savings. And all of these savings have gone into the car—to make it more sightly, more roomy—more like the costliest cars.

Nine Per Cent Profit

Our profit this season will be the same as last season—exactly nine per cent.

Our customers have created these savings by calling for more of our cars. And every penny we save will be spent in giving them more beautiful cars. That is our permanent policy.

Please note the result. Note what a large and showy car—note the exquisite lines. Just think that $1500 now buys this amazing car.

Lower Prices

We will fit this $1500 car with a Bosch magneto, a Prest-O-Lite gas tank, and two Atwood-Castle gas lamps—all for $100 extra. The regular price of these extras is $175.

We will furnish our "30" with a Lenox mohair top for $75 extra. The regular price is $125.

We shall give you all the advantage of our quantity buying. So this 1910 model, fully equipped, costs you $135 less than did our 1909 model, equally equipped.

A longer, higher hood, roomier tonneau, longer wheel base, larger wheels and daintier lines. Yet the cost equipped is considerably less than the model of 1909.

No Records Like These

One of the Chalmers-Detroit "30's" has been run 32,000 miles, and has just completed a path-finding trip from Denver to Mexico City. Never has any car, at any price, made an equal endurance record.

Owners have paid us for repairs on their 1909 cars exactly $2.44 per car. That is a world's record.

On June 18th, a "30" won the Indiana Light Car Race, the greatest contest of its kind ever held in America, doing 232.74 miles at an average speed of 51.5 miles per hour.

On an economy test, made by the New York Auto Dealers' Association, it ran 25.7 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Never has a car at any price proved so satisfactory. Never did a car show such low cost for upkeep.

That is why we make no radical mechanical changes. Experience has proved that the 1909 "30" is absolutely right mechanically.

The Larger "Forty"

Our "Forty" for 1910 has 36-inch wheels. The wheel base is 122 inches—ten inches longer than last year. The car seats seven, while last season's seated five.

Upholstered in hand-buffed leather. Fitted with Bosch magneto, gas lamps and gas tank free.

Yet the price remains $2,750.

We will equip this car with a $150 Newport mohair top for $125 extra. The two extra seats will cost you but $75.

So this larger car, with larger wheels, when fully equipped, costs considerably less than last year.

This is our "Forty's" fifth season. It is known far and wide as the best medium-priced car on the market. It has been purchased by scores of the best experts in America for their personal use.

This season, with its extra room, there is not a car at any price which can reasonably claim to excel it.

Made as touring car, roadster and pony tonneau.

See These New Cars

Every Chalmers-Detroit dealer now has photographs of these new models. Demonstrating cars will be ready this month. Deliveries to users begin August 1st.

See them before you buy.

The tide of automobile demand is turning to these medium-priced cars. Not alone because of their prices, but mainly because of their savings on upkeep. The day of extravagance is past.

Last season these cars had no real competition. The demand was a third greater than could be supplied. This season, no medium-priced car will be anywhere near in their class.

Get your order in early, for orders are filled in rotation. August delivery gives you five months' use before the car's year begins.

WANT PUBLIC FOUNTAINS

But S. P. C. A. is Waiting Permission from Health Board to Install Them.

SOCIETY OPENS LOCAL OFFICE.

Cruelty Complaints Now Received at T. S. Armstrong's Drug Store and Fanwood Officer Acts Promptly.

Pending the decision of the Board of Health in regard to the installation of drinking fountains for horses petitioned by the S. P. C. A., the members of the local branch of the society could take no action in reference to the proposed fountains at its meeting held yesterday afternoon in Judge W. R. Codington's office. There was, however, an informal discussion of the style of drinking fountain to be adapted in case the Board grants permission. The food and drink committee of the Board, which is headed by Dr. T. S. Davis, has taken the matter in hand and is awaiting replies from veterinarians who have been queried in reference to the danger of transmitting disease among horses by the use of the fountains.

The local society has petitioned the installation of hydrant fountains, where the water will be dispensed to the horses in round bottom galvanized pails by the teamsters. The pails will be furnished by the Society, and will be kept at the hydrants. After use, they are to be emptied and turned upside down. The hydrant is to be fitted with a spring faucet, so that pressure will be necessary to make the water run.

There is a feeling by the Board members that contagious diseases may be transmitted by the practice of diseased horses drinking at the fountains and infecting the pails. In Newark and Elizabeth, where the use of drinking fountains was stopped because of the realization of this danger, they have been again put in commission on the plans proposed for use in this city, because it was found that there was more danger to horses from lack of drinking water in the hot weather than there was danger from disease.

The S. P. C. A. has arranged for a branch office to be conducted at T. S. Armstrong's drug store, and here blanks are supplied for complaints of cruelty or improper nourishment of horses and other animals. Such complaints will be promptly attended to by the local society, through its officer, Mrs. Van Hoesen, of Fanwood. Should the case require immediate action by the society, Mrs. Van Hoesen can be summoned by telephone from Armstrong's drug store. The society has been doing a quiet and efficient work for the relief of animals, especially during the three days of the Charter Day celebration. It requests the cooperation of the Plainfield public in order that it may become thoroughly efficient.

MASONIC HONORS AT A BRAKEMAN'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Wade Davidson, the young Lafayette College instructor, who was killed at Dunellen Saturday by the train on which he was brakeman, was held this afternoon at his home in Hampton.

Rev. Ward C. Peabody, pastor of the Musconetcong Valley Presbyterian church, preached the sermon, assisted by Rev. George Vanduesen, pastor of the Methodist church. Lebanon Lodge, No. 6, F and A. M., of Glen Gardner, of which Mr. Davidson was a member, had charge of the services, and he was buried with Masonic honors in the Musconetcong Valley cemetery. He leaves, besides his mother, one brother, Harry Davidson, of Plainfield, and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Long, of Califon, and Miss Maude Davidson, of this place.

Trolley Hits Automobile.

Struck by a westbound trolley car in front of an East Front street department store at about noon today, the automobile owned by Judge William R. Codington was hurled against a livery rig belonging to A. C. Blair, standing in front of the store. The lamps of the automobile, in which were seated Mrs. Codington and the chaffeur, were broken, the shaft of the carriage was broken and a wheel badly sprung. The rig had been hired by out of town people.

Some Good Photographs.

Pictures of the auto hill-climbing contest, the floats in the civic parade and of the firemen participating in the Charter Day celebration, all excellent photographs, may be obtained from the Penn Photo Co., A. Senekoff, manager, 614 East 140th street, New York. ***

MRS. WILLIAMSON DEAD

Union Co. Probation Officer Passes Away at Her Home in Elizabeth.

STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY.

Identified With Many Charitable Organizations—A Familiar Figure in Local Police Court.

Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, the Union county probation officer, died at her home, 646 Pearl street, Elizabeth, this morning at about half past 1 o'clock, stricken with apoplexy. Mrs. Williamson, who is known all over the State because of her years of charitable and philanthropic work and her activity in the suppression of vice and crime among children, was stricken yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, and the second and fatal stroke came early today. Rev. John R. Atkinson, rector of Trinity P. E. church, of Elizabeth, of which Mrs. Williamson was a member, was with her when the end came.

Mrs. Williamson had been county probation officer for the past seven years, having been appointed by Governor Voorhees in 1902. She was president of the State Charities Aid Association, president of the State Board of Children's Guardians, president of the Home for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, and formerly president of the State Federation of Women's clubs. It was through her efforts that the State reformatory was established at Rahway. Mrs. Williamson was the wife of Benjamin Williamson, Jr., who died in 1900, and used a considerable amount of her personal income in the furtherance of charitable work, especially among children. Her husband was the son of State Chancellor Williamson, who was for many years counsel for the Central railroad. Mrs. Williamson's maiden name was Emily Hornblower, an old New England family. Her only surviving blood relation is Miss Emily Williamson Hornblower, a niece, who lives in Elizabeth.

As County probation officer, Mrs. Williamson was a familiar figure in the city police court, with her assistant, Major Irwin. Tactful and conscientious in the discharge of her duties, the woman won the respect of the local authorities, and it was through the influence of Chief P. S. Kiely that she was granted the privileges of the floor at the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs, held at Buffalo about two weeks ago. Her speech before the police heads there was the only address made to the association by a woman in the history of the organization. No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.

Her succesor will be appointed by Governor Fort.

B. C. BENTLEY HELPS GET SOCIETY FORGER

Instrumental in effecting the capture of Mandeville de Marigny Hall, the society lion locked up in the Washington county jail, at Kingston, R. I., in default of $1,000 bail for embezzlement of the Fifth Avenue Bank, New York city, was B. C. Bentley, of Westerly, R. I., who is a brother-in-law of County Chairman Frank H. Smith. Mr. Bentley rented Hall, who is related to the Duke de Villabrossa and Louis von Hoffman, of Paris, an automobile, while the society man was staying at the Watch Hill House, Westerly, R. I. When a bill for $170 was presented, Hall ignored it and Mr. Bentley had him arrested at Narragansett Pier. It was while he was trying to arrange the difficulty of the automobile bill, Hall was arrested on the more serious charge, preferred by J. C. Miller, paying teller of the Fifth Avenue Bank.

Arraigned before the clerk of the Third District Court at Westerly, R. I., the society man was charged with having drawn checks amounting to nearly $500 on the Fifth Avenue Bank, where he had no money on deposit. Hall, who obtained a divorce from his wife, who was Miss Florence Teal, July 2, married Miss Vida L. Whitmore, a chorus girl, in Jersey City a short time ago, and was an ardent admirer of Miss Virginia Marshall, another actress, to whom he frequently sent expensive gifts. He was arrested in London last winter and sentenced to nineteen months imprisonment in the Paris jail for obtaining an automobile there on a worthless check.

FRANK SHEPPARD HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Quick action on the part of tillerman George Mehl, of the hook and ladder truck, prevented the heavy piece of apparatus from passing over Frank Sheppard, who fell off at Washington street as the firemen were answering the alarm from box 28 at shortly after 11 o'clock this morning. Seeing the young man fall, Mehl twisted the tiller suddenly, swinging the rear wheels almost into the curb and missing Sheppard's body by but a few inches. Sheppard, who swung on the truck at Church street, was dragged the entire block and badly bruised about the head and shoulders.

The fire was in the kitchen of the residence of Charles L. Stanley, of 1126 South avenue. A line of clothes, which hung over the range to dry, broke and the clothes caught fire. The flames spread to a basket of clothes standing near, but the blaze was killed with a hand extinguisher. Damage to the clothes is the only loss.

LOCAL PAINTERS AT BIG CONVENTION

Lemuel B. Woolston, James C. Hansen, Harold Hansen, A. D. Pope, Theodore Martin, Charles E. Rice and Thomas Osment are attending the fifth annual convention and exhibition of the New Jersey State Association of Master Painters and Decorators at Atlantic City, today.

The convention is being held on Young's $1,000,000 pier, and will last three days more.

Among those who will read papers on special subjects are A. A. Sippel, of Newark; J. T. French, of this city; D. E. Kent, of Paterson; F. B. Thompson, of New Brunswick, and B. F. Davis, of the Hudson County Association.

The officer of the State Association, which is affiliated with the International Association of Master Painters and Decorators, are as follows: President H. Schoonmaker, Paterson; vice-president, W. James Fowler, Elizabeth; secretary, Charles Greenhalgh, Paterson; treasurer, H. L. Batholomew, New Brunswick; State organizer, Theodore A. Titus, Montclair.

SECRET SESSIONS HELD BY EDUCATION BOARD

When former Principal I. W. Travell, of the city high school, returns from abroad next month to take up his new duties as superintendent of the Morristown schools, he will have to deal with an education board that has been holding secret sessions to the disgust of the taxpayers.

Since attention has been directed to the annual financial statement of the local Board of Education in which over $62,000 was expended without bids or advertisements, except one instance, it has been asserted by members of the board that the law doesn't require that the financial statement be published.

"We don't have to publish the statement," said a member Saturday. "It has just been a custom, but the law doesn't say we must do it."

If the local Board of Education does not publish a financial statement of its receipts and disbursements, as the members say the board is not compelled to do, and the fact that secret sessions of the board are still indulged in, the taxpayers are wondering how in the world they are every going to know how the school money is spent.

New Church to Have a Bell.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, received a letter today from Rev. Dr. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, Newark, informing him that if the new Netherwood Reformed church was in need of a bell, Cornelius H. Vanderhoef, an elder in his church, who is greatly interested in the new house of worship, was willing to assist the work by giving a suitable bell. Mr. Broek immediately answered the letter, expressing his pleasure over such a gift and said that it would be most acceptable.

Mrs. Frances J. Gulick.

Mrs. Frances J. Gulick, who died in New Brunswick on Saturday, was a sister of Mrs. Augusta Moore, and aunt of Frederick Moore, of this city. The funeral took place from her late residence, 48 Bishop street, New Brunswick, at half past two this afternoon.

NEW CURATE AT GRACE

Rev. Elory Bowers, Classmate of Rev. G. A. Warner, Now Dr. Stevenson's Aid.

A PERMANENT POSITION HERE.

Assisted A. V. D. Honeyman in Genealogical Research and Was At College With P. H. S. Teacher.

The Rev. Elory G. Bowers, a classmate of the Rev. George A. Warner, of Holy Cross church, at the General Theological Seminary, has been appointed curate of Grace church. He conducted his first service Sunday in place of the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, who is now abroad. Not since the death of the late Rev. Dr. Erskine M. Rodman has Grace church had a curate, and hence the appointment of the Rev. Mr. Bowers indicates a wholesome activity in that parish. The position is to be permanent.

Mr. Bowers was graduated from Union College in 1897, and was a senior there when Samuel B. Howe, Jr., of the City High School faculty, was a freshman. Later at the General Theological Seminary in New York, he was a classmate of the Rev. George A. Warner. He completed his studies there in 1900, and for two years was curate of Trinity church, Newport, R. I. While there he gathered data for A. V. D. Honeyman, of this city, who was compiling a book containing the genealogy of his family. An ancestor of Mr. Honeyman was the second rector of Trinity church, Newport.

Following this Mr. Bowers was curate at Christ church, Elizabeth, under the Rev. H. H. Oberly, a position previously held by the Rev. William Vincent Dawson, who was rector of St. Stephens church, Netherwood, some years ago.

The Rev. and Mrs. Bowers will move into a house on East Seventh street the first of next month. Temporarily he is living at 137 Crescent avenue. Mr. Bowers is a man of a quiet, pleasing personality and is cordial. He expressed a liking for the beauty and attractiveness of the city, and from his brief experience, is much pleased with his new field of labor here.

REV. CHARLES S. KEMBLE SCORED BY BAPTISTS

Rev. Charles Sumner Kemble, pastor of the Monroe avenue M. E. church, who preached at the Ocean Grove Auditorium, was severely arraigned yesterday morning at the conference of the Monmouth County Baptist ministers, held at the First Baptist church, Asbury Park.

Mr. Kemble preached on the theme "Sonship," and during the course of his remarks said that the heathen and people living in the slums of our cities were one kind of sons of God, even if they did not know it. That there were different sorts of sons of God and that without faith and repentance there could be admission into the brotherhood of God seemed decidedly repulsive to a number of the Baptist divines.

Rev. Dr. O. G. Spenger, a prominent Baptist preacher of Brooklyn, said that such teaching was the worst kind of foolishness and to say that a man could be some sort of a son of God and yet not a son of God was all tommyrot. From the outset, he said, repentance was a condition precedent to citizenship in the kingdom and that no man would be safe, as far as getting into heaven was concerned, if he went around with his chest out relying on any such teaching as was expounded Sunday night in the auditorium.

"There is no such thing as the universal brotherhood of man as far as the teachings of God are concerned, that is, we may all be brothers in the material sense, but not in the spiritual," said the Brooklyn pastor, in conclusion, and all this talk to the contrary is ridiculous."

Ira LaRue Injured.

Ira LaRue is suffering from a wrenched back and other bruises, the result of being thrown from his buggy by the frisky pony he attempted to drive yesterday. The pony is a new one and is not thoroughly city broke according to Mr. LaRue's friends, and when he started from the stable on Front street yesterday morning the animal shied, tipping the buggy so suddenly that Mr. LaRue had no chance to save himself from a fall. He will be confined to the house for a few days.

Behold the faithful auto cop, who says to all joy-riders, "Stop!"
Who races all around the town and calls the reckless drivers down.
The weak and helpless look to him, preserver both of life and limb,
And thank their stars Policeman Bob is such a dandy on the job.

G. H. GODDARD RESIGNS FROM HOSPITAL BOARD

George H. Goddard, one of the oldest members in point of service, tendered his resignation as a member of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at the July meeting of the board last night. He retires because of a pressure of other business matters demanding his full time. Mr. Goddard expressed sincere regret for the necessity of this action and the feeling of deep loss to the hospital was expressed by the governors in accepting the resignation. Mr. Goddard was then elected an honorary member of the board in recognition of his many years of active and valuable service.

The report of the medical board was as follows: Remaining at date of last report, 42; total number of patients admitted, 50; discharged cured, 37; discharged improved, 4; discharged not improved, 2; died, 4; total number treated, 92; remaining, 45; number of operations, 62; daily visits to dispensary, 152; total number of hospital days, 1,221.

RECTOR C. W. CAMP DIES AT RICHMOND HILL

Rev. Charles William Camp, who died at his home at 524 Lefferts avenue, Richmond Hill, L. I., Sunday night, aged 64 years, of Bright's disease, was rector of the Church of the Holy Cross about thirty years ago, and is well remembered by some of the older residents of the city. He was rector of the borough church for about a year, succeeding Rev. Charles Ward. He made many many friends here and was much beloved by all. His pastorate was before the church was deeded over to the present congregation.

Mr. Camp went from Plainfield to St. John's church, Kingston, N. Y., and then to Grace church, Lockport, N. Y. His father was rector of the Episcopal church at Saratoga, and his maternal grandfather was the Right Rev. John Henry Hopkins, first bishop of Vermont. He fought in the Civil War in the First New Jersey Cavalry. At one time he was assistant rector of Christ church, New York. He was secretary of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company from 1903 until its dissolution last year. After that he joined the staff of the Protestant City Mission Society, New York. He was at one time chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Free Masons of New York State. He leaves a wife, son and daughter.

Salvationists and Brass Band Here.

There will be a big rally at the Salvation Army tent at Watchung avenue and Fourth street tonight at 8 o'clock. Adjutant Downey, assisted by Captain Weir and the brass band from Newark, will have charge of the service. This will be the first visit of this band to Plainfield and a treat is in store for those who love good music. Besides the selections by the band there will be plenty of vocal music and a strong gospel talk by Adjutant Downey. The public is invited.

L. B. VAN NESS WILL NOT PRESS COMPLAINT

L. R. H. Labaw, of Neshanic, the automobile owner who ran over eleven-year-old Ormond Van Ness, of Mariners place, on West Front street last Monday night, was at city court this morning and the case was brought up for a hearing before City Judge William N. Runyon. G. B. Van Ness, the injured boy's father, who was with him at the time of the accident, would not press the complaint, and as Mr. Labaw agreed to settle the bills for medical treatment of the boy, the case will be settled out of court.

Young Van Ness, who was with his parents, was struck by the automobile as he got off the trolley car at his home corner after witnessing the fireworks exhibition on West End avenue. He was removed to the emergency hospital at police headquarters in Mr. Labaw's automobile, where his injuries were treated by City Physician C. B. Lufburrow. He was later removed to his home, where a physician has been in regular attendance.

ENTERTAINING ELKS AT LOS ANGELES MEET

Elks by the thousands flocked to Pasadena, Cal., yesterday where the first entertainment provided for the annual reunion of the Grand Lodge took place yesterday morning. The Grand Lodge members and their escorts were provided with automobiles, and after a trip over the city were deposited at Tournament Park, where athletics, chariot races, and feats of horsemanship were provided for their entertainment. At noon there was a monster barbecue. In the afternoon a number of athletic events were run off at Ascot Park.

At night the opening public ceremonies of the reunion of the Grand Lodge were held in the auditorium theatre. Gov. James N. Gillette, of Californa, Mayor George Alexander, and Motley Flint, Postmaster, spoke welcome to the visitors. Grand Exalted Ruler Rush L. Holland responded.

Belated special trains bringing thousands of Elks from all parts of the country have been arriving. The city of Los Angeles is given over to the visitors, and perfect weather prevails. The first meeting of the Grand Lodge, when new officers will be elected, will take place today.

It is estimated that 50,000 visitors have arrived. The battle for votes for the office of Grand Exalted Ruler has become lively between J. U. Sammis and August Herrmann. William H. Atwood of Dallas is regarded as the dangerous dark horse.

Annual Meeting C. E. Society.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church for the election of officers and reception of reports of officers and chairman of committees will be held at the church, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

ALL PLEAD "NOT GUILTY"

Bail Fixed at $300 for Department Store Drivers Who Delivered Liquor C.O.D.

TRIAL SET FOR SEPTEMBER 20.

"Beer Ark" Drivers, to Be Sentenced July 21, Change Plea to Non Vult.

As the result of Chief Kiely's crusade against the local delivery of liquor by New York department stores, the four drivers arrested in this city in May, were arraigned before Judge E. S. Atwater at the session of the Union county court at Elizabeth this morning, entered pleas of "not guilty" and were held under $300 bail for trial September 20. Bail was furnished in each case except that of Thomas Sheehan, a driver for the Merchants' Express Company, who was remanded to jail.

The drivers were Louis Wexler, employed by R. H. Macy & Co., Thomas Sheehan, employed by the Merchant's Express Co., Edw. Coleman, employed by the Siegel-Cooper Company, and Alvah Dunham, employed by Acker, Merrall and Condit. Chief Kiely was at court with a dress suit case and a satchel full of bottles of whiskey, exhibits in the various cases, when Detective Charles Raney, of Newark, was employed by the city to assist the police in running down the alleged violations. Each of the prisoners entered a plea of not guilty. Coleman was represented by McDermott & Enright, of Jersey City, attorneys for the firm which employs him, and Acker, Merrall and Condit were represented by Frank P. Laughran, of New York city, who looked after the interests of Alvah Dunham, a resident of North Plainfield. Sheehan had no counsel.

Some weeks ago, Judge Joseph Cross in Trenton refused to grant a preliminary injunction restraining the State from further prosecution of the charge of illegal selling against Edward Coleman, a driver for Siegel, Cooper & Company. The decision was given on June 22, and was a test decision, inasmuch as it applies to each of the other three cases. The agitation by the local police head was brought about in fairness to the Plainfield liquor dealers, who pay $1,000 a year as a license, and who claimed that a big liquor trade was being carried on by the metropolitan department stores.

Thomas Lyons, a driver for the New Jersey Bottling Company, and August Hendricks, a driver for Henry Haurand, were arraigned on charges of selling liquor in Union county without a license. Each retracted a plea of not guilty, and pleaded non vult, on advice of counsel. The indictment against Henry Haurand was nolle prossed. The reason for this was because Hendricks, his employee, refused to implicate him in the charges. These drivers will be sentenced July 21.

AUTO AND CYCLE COLLIDE; NO ONE IS INJURED

In trying to steer out of the way of William Bird, of this city, who was driving a Mitchell motor car, and Charles Davis, who was on a bicycle, William Westcott, of Newark, his wife and two children sustained slight injuries and the car that he was driving was put out of commission at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the corner of Richmond street and South avenue.

Westcott was driving a new Buick car and was using it for the first time. He reached the top of the hill at South avenue and let the car come down the hill under its momentum, though he held it under perfect control. Just as he neared the bottom of the hill, Bird driving along Richmond street in a Mitchell car, suddenly crossed the street. Charles Davis was riding on a bicycle along South avenue, and in order to get out of the way of him, Westcott had to steer his machine into the curb. By doing this, he avoided a collision with Bird who was driving the Mitchell car, but crowed Davis up against the sidewalk so that he sustained slight injuries. Westcott's machine was damaged considerably and the occupants were thrown out, but save for the shock, none were hurt. Westcott sustained slight injuries.

The Misses Mamie Shearn, Grace Sutter and Margaret Moynihan, of Easton, Pa., are visiting Miss Mamie Brady, of West Front street.

John Powers, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Gavin, of Columbia avenue, the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baynon, of this city, leave on July 28, on the Lusitania for Europe, and they will return August 21 from Liverpool. They secured passage through Mulford Estil's agency.

Midshipman William Burtis, of Fairview avenue, who is stationed at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, has now returned to his ship at New London, Conn., after visiting his parents in the borough.

Edmund Rushmore, of this city, accompanied by Dr. Bache, of Bound Brook, left Sunday for Lake Dunmore, Vt., and will enjoy a couple of weeks tramping and camping over the Green Mountains after trout.

Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich and son, Carter, of West Seventh street, leave tomorrow on the Teutonic for Europe, returning on the St. Louis, September 24. Tickets were secured through the agency of Mulford Estil.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, formerly pastor of the First M. E. church, but now of Newark, accompanied by his old friend and classmate, Rev. Dr. Ferris, will leave on July 17 on the Minnehaha for a two months trip abroad.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Albert J. Alexander will preach at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday morning.

The Board of Trustees of the First Baptist church will hold its quarterly meeting Thursday night.

The mid-week prayer service will be omitted at the Congregational church during the pastor's absence.

Miss Bertha Jones will have charge of the music at Hope chapel for the next six weeks, substituting for Mrs. L. R. Howard.

Seventy-four new members have been enrolled in the home department of Hope chapel Sunday-school during the past six weeks.

The entire choir of the First M. E. church will be given a vacation during August. At present a quartet assists in the Sunday services.

The Union service will be held at the First Baptist church, Sunday night and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will preach.

Edward Maynard, who has been the sexton of the First Baptist church, for a great many years, is enjoying his first vacation. Napoleon Wyatt has taken his place temporarily.

The Sunday-school library of Hope chapel is for the use of the home department as well as for the rest of the school. Books may be obtained by any member on Friday afternoons between 2 and 4 o'clock and during or immediately following the school hour on Sunday.

The July Clearance Sale

Meets With Instantaneous Success.

Values tell and here are telling values—the kind that bring crowds and that repay the crowds for coming. And how the people thronged every department during the opening hours of this sale! How eagerly they bought—and with what enthusiasm they praised the big values so plenteously provided. There will be no let-up to the daily crowds during this event because there will be no let-up to the great value-giving.

We hold this sale for the sole purpose of effecting a clearance of odd lots, left-overs, odds and ends, etc.—and so we name prices far below any figures likely to be named anywhere this season. The Eastern League race is a wonderfully close one, with five clubs shifting about daily.

"Come, take the ball right!" shouted Boss Clarke last Saturday when Storke used only one hand to catch Wagner's throw.

Don't lose heart over the Giants. They can play better ball than they have the last three days and are strong on the recuperative business.

Miller of the Pirates is a smooth workman with his hands on ground balls. Like Wagner, he spreads them out to make a barricade and the ball rolls into them.

Eddie Collins and Honus Wagner are likely to make their hundredth hit any day now. Each closed last week with ninety-eight, according to one set of averages.

The Rev. Billy Sunday picks the Giants and Cubs to fight it out for the National League pennant. Fred Clarke, who is nearer to the scene of action, probably would pick the Pirates.

Jimmy Austin won't steal any ninety-eight bases in the American League, but he has stolen a goodly number just the same and would have pilfered more had he played in every game.

Wagner fumbled a slow hit last Friday which resulted in the bases being filled with nobody out. It proved the following learned comment from a rooter: "Wagner did that a purpose. He's got some trick he's goin' to pull off."

GOLF.

There will be a special competition at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, when the members will engage in an approaching and putting contest for a prize offered by W. V. Byard. The competition will be for mixed couples.

East Jersey League golfers will assemble on Thursday of this week on the links of the Glen Ridge Golf Club for a special one-day tournament. The two contestants making the lowest gross scores in the morning eighteen-hole medal play round will qualify to play off at eighteen holes match play for a cup.

Conditions also call for a team competition, four from each club, at thirty-six holes, medal play, and there will be prizes for each member of the winning quartet. There will be an eighteen-hole handicap in the morning and another in the afternoon, for which cups for the best two net scores have been offered. The all-day handicap of thirty-six holes, coincident with the other events, will be for the Glen Ridge Cup, presented by members of the home club for the best net score. Prizes have also been given for the second and third net scores. A cup has also been presented for the player making the best nine hole round.

No person can win more than one cup, and another rule stipulates that no player, by reason of his handicap, will be allowed a net score for eighteen holes less than 72, the par of the course, nor less than 144 for thirty-six holes. All ties will be decided by a play-off of nine holes.

This tournament is open to all members of the following clubs of the East Jersey Golf League: South Orange Field Club, Forest Hill Field Club, Suburban Club, Canoe Brook Country Club, New Brunswick Golf Club, Colonia Country Club and Golf Club of Glen Ridge. The tournament committee consists of Robert Knebler, president; E. W. Congdon and M. A. Wilson.

The eleventh annual amateur championship tournament of the Western Golf Association will be held July 26 to 31 at the Homewood Country Club, Florsmoor, Ill. According to the conditions, the first two days will be devoted to qualification, eighteen holes each day. Those with the thirty-two best scores will earn the right to continue on at the match game, all rounds to consist of eighteen holes, save the final, which will be an all-day affair.

Y.M.C.A. SUMMER CAMP IS NOW IN FULL SWING

With land and acquatic contests, long walks and other out-of-door avocations, the first section of 100 boys at Lake Wawayanda, the summer camp of the Young Men's Christian Association of New Jersey, recently opened, have been finding a plenty of advantageous recreations. Improvements made at the camp since last year have come in for general commendation. Greater interests in photography has resulted from the introduction of a darkroom and the bathhouse facilities have been increased by separating it from the camp shop. Harold Birchenough, of Paterson, has charge of the latter and is also editor of the "Wawayanda Whirlwind," which is being published this year.

Commodore Longfellow, of New York, general superintendent of the United States Volunteer Life-saving Corps, has been a visitor at the camp. He put the three boat crews through a trial and demonstrated various methods of life-saving, the handling of boats and tricks in the water. Montclair captured the largest number of points in the aquatic contest for the first section, Murray Kitchen and Miles Suarez each having received fifteen points. Silver watch fobs will be awarded them.

Quoit and tennis tournaments are in full swing. Several parties of campers have taken the sixteen-mile "hike" to Warwick and a party left yesterday with Charles R. Scott, director of the camp, for the Trenton encampment. They will also visit the Tri-County camp, conducted on the Delaware river near Frenchtown, and will stop at Easton and Lafayette, returning to Lake Wawayanda tomorrow.

The first section will close Thursday and the boys for the second two weeks will arrive the same day. They will be in charge of Arthur Wilson, of Orange. Those who will comprise the section from here are: S. Delmore Weinberger, C. William Bingerman, leaders; Paul R. Manning, Gerald Linke, Joseph T. Sattels, F. S. Coombs.

DEATH OF DOG MAY COST FIVE HUNDRED.

Five hundred dollars for the loss of a pet bull terrier is the damages asked by Arthur C. Lounsbury, of Roselle Park. Mr. Lounsbury began suit to recover that amount against Charles S. Snyder, chairman of the Roselle Park Police Committee. The case was called for trial in the District Court at Elizabeth yesterday, before Judge Clark McK. Whittemore.

The plaintiff claims that Snyder maliciously and wilfuly shot the dog, which Lounsbury valued at $100, and which he had specially trained to play with children. Lounsbury claims that the dog was a great pet of the children and a valuable watch dog.

The dog was shot by Snyder May 31 last. According to Snyder's testimony the dog was struck by a trolley car on Westfield avenue, Roselle Park, about 7 o'clock on the evening of May 31, and fatally injured. As an act of mercy to relieve the dog's sufferings he said he shot the animal.

Snyder's testimony as to the dog being struck by the car and fatally injured was corroborated by an eye witness, Ernest Vincenzo, of Roselle Park.

CHICKS TURN WITNESSES.

Alleged Thief Held in $200 for Grand Jury.

Among the witnesses who offered testimony against Christian Jacobwitz, the Bloomfield man, charged with having violated the exclusiveness of Alfred Cockefair's chicken roost, were twenty-five young chickens in a bag. Jacobwitz was held in $200 bail for the Grand Jury yesterday by Recorder Cadmus, of Bloomfield.

The chickens were not placed on the stand, but it was alleged by Cockefair, who captured Jacobwitz Sunday morning after a fight, that they were the same fowls the prisoner dropped in a swamp while trying to escape. Jacobwitz declared he couldn't recognize the fowls and knew nothing about the matter.

Proctor's Show a Good One.

The new bill of vaudeville at Proctor's theatre is an exceptionally good one, including Earl & Bartlett, in a clever Irish sketch full of comedy; the Lussier Sisters, who can sing and dance; Malcolm, an eccentric juggler and an operatic contralto. The show was enjoyed by a large audience last night.

KENILWORTH'S CASE IS DECIDED AGAINST STATE.

Justices Reed, Bergen and Parker, in the Supreme Court at Trenton yesterday, heard the argument in the action of the borough of Kenilworth, Union county, against State Comptroller West and the twenty-one county tax boards for a writ of certiorari to review the apportionment of the State school tax among the counties for this year, together with the abstract of ratables upon which the apportionment was made.

The real purpose of the suit is to prevent the assessment on second-class railroad property being included in the ratables upon which the assessment of the school tax is based. Franklin W. Fort, son of Governor Fort, argued the case for Kenilworth. Samuel Swackhamer appeared for Union county. Several other counties were also represented. Decision was reserved.

Mr. Fort showed that nineteen counties in the State included the second-class railroad property in their abstract of ratables, one county excluded it and one county included a part and excluded the remainder.

In the counties like Union and Hudson, which have large valuations in second-class railroad property, to include those assessments in the ratables affects, to a considerable degree, the amount of school tax to be raised, he said.

CRANFORD COLORED MEN CAUGHT IN GAMBLING RAID.

Policemen Otto Behnert, William Woods and James Hennessey made a raid on the sheds adjoining Cook's storage warehouse on South avenue, at Cranford, Sunday night, and found several colored men playing poker and gambling. Five of the men were arrested and when brought before Judge Toucey yesterday were fined from $5 to $20. Other arrests are to be made this afternoon.

All of the men are colored. Those arrested were William Scott, Benjamin Brown, Henry Bronson, John Brown, Henry Pinckney, James Harris and Burley Johnson. The charge against the men was for disorderly conduct and gambling.

DELAWARE AND RARITAN CANAL PROBE JULY 22.

Bordentown, July 13.—Having completed a physical examination of the forty-four miles of the Delaware and Raritan Canal from New Brunswick, on the Raritan River, to this place, on the Delaware River, Saturday, the special Senate committee which has the inquiry in charge will begin an investigation into the causes of the growing disuse of the waterway Thursday, July 22. On that date Senators Silzer, Bradley and Leavitt, who comprise the committee, will meet at Sea Girt with Attorney General Wilson as counsel and arrange for the examination of witnesses at subsequent meetings that may be held in Trenton, New Brunswick, Bound Brook and Bordentown. At all of these points manufacturers and mill owners, who formerly used the canal for transportation purposes, are located, and may be able to shed some light on the marked decalence of the canal as a waterway.

On the trip, which occupied a little more than seven hours, all on board the canal company's steamer Relief expressed themselves as satisfied with the apparent excellent condition of the waterway property. Superintendent A. P. Gest and his assistant, H. W. Dunn, admitted that the waterway was as good as when it yielded an annual profit of more than $350,000, instead of a loss of about $150,000, according to the official report of last year. W. Holt Apgar and Charles E. Gummere, of counsel for the company, said it was even better than the law required, as it was capable of carrying vessels of eight feet draft, while the company charter called for accommodations for vessels of only seven feet draft.

As for the falling off in tonnage, which was said at one time to have been graeter than that of the Suez Canal, the company officials attributed it to the time-saving facilities, railroad freight transportation and the building of low arch bridges over the canal at New Brunswick, which blocked the passage of larger vessels. Only two mule-drawn boats of the old type and five-power propelled vessels were pased on the tour. It is believed the investigation will show that the company is responsible for this condition by removing the facilities for rapid transit through the fourteen locks on the canal. As a sample it was shown at the Bound Brook lock, where steam power attended by four was formerly used to operate the lock, one man is now required to do the work by hand.

NEW JERSEY BALLOONIST MAKES GOTHAM "RUBBER."

All Manhattan looked up yesterday to see a big dirigible balloon driven by Frank Goodale, the 20-year-old aeronaut ,go sailing over the city, tacking and veering in and out among the skyscrapers and circling the big hotels in the uptown district. Goodale's flight, which was unadvertised and impromptu, attracted thousands to the housetops and balconies along the devious route he took above the city.

At Broadway and Forty-second street, the busiest corner in the United States, traffic was held up for ten minutes while everyone in the neighborhood craned his neck to get a glimpse of the gray ghostly airship.

Goodale started the flight from his balloon house in Palisade Park, N. J., and after sailing across the Hudson river guided his airship down toward the business part of lower Manhattan. The big balloon answered the helm wonderfully and throughout the flight was altogether successful.

IRRIGATION COMMISSION TO MEET AT SPOKANE.

Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, has received a communication from the National Irrigation Commission which will hold its seventeenth annual meeting at Spokane, Wash., August 9 to 14, which says that North Plainfield is entitled to a representation by five delegates. An advantage which may be enjoyed by the delegates who are selected to attend the commission is the fact that they may take in the Alaska-Yukon Exposition at Seattle without any additional expense for railroad fare, the tickets which are issued for attendance at Spokane being good for the trip to Seattle.

Jersey City Boy Drowned.

Edward, the twelve year old son of John P. Stockton, a lawyer, of Jersey City, was drowned in the Hackensack River yesterday afternoon. Young Stockton was a grandson of the late Attorney General John P. Stockton. He went to River Edge yesterday to join friends who had established a camp there. While swimming in about ten feet of water, Stockton gave a cry, as though suffering from a cramp, and sank before his friends could get near him. The body was recovered.

To Discuss Irish Scholarship.

The proposed establishment of a scholarship in Irish history at Seton Hall College will be discussed at a meeting of Division No. 9, Ancient Order of Hibernians, at Gallaugher's Hall, Elizabeth, tonight. Four candidates will be initiated and there will be a special observance of the fourth anniversary of the establishment of the division.

MEN IN CAB ABANDON GIRL, SENSELESS IN ROAD.

Wheehawken, July 13.—Just before dark Sunday night a cab drove up the boulevard from Hoboken with two men on the seat and a man and woman within. When it reached King's Wood, just above the police station, the cab was halted. One man got down from the box and with the aid of the man within carried out the unconscious form of a girl, and taking her into the edge of the woods, dropped her on the grass. They then jumped into the cab and were driven rapidly toward Hoboken. Miss Quinn, daughter of Detective-Sergeant Quinn, of Hoboken, happened to be near and gives a good description of the men and the cab. Miss Quinn hurriedly went to the side of the girl and, seeing that she was alive, summoned John Semple, a boy, who sent him to the police station. Before he arrived Mrs. Stevens, wife of Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, came along in her automobile and stopped. The chauffeur and Miss Quinn put the girl in her car and then rode to the Town Hall. The police hurriedly took her to the North Hudson Hospital. On regaining consciousness the girl said she was Miss Mamie Cassidy and lived in 169 Bright street, Jersey City. She professed ignorance of having been with any man and pretended not to know how she came to that place or how she became unconscious. She said she had not been drinking nod had she attempted suicide.

Doctors Stelwagen and Kendrick examined her and failed to find a bruise upon her body or any indication that she had been ill treated further than that her clothing was torn and soiled. The physicians in the hospital said the woman had been intoxicated and later she was allowed to go. Inquiry at the address given in Jersey City failed to find any one who knew a woman of the name or the description of the patient. The police are now searching for the cabman and the young woman and the men.

FUNERAL FOR SPOT'S TAIL.

That Was All That Was Left of Dog That Carried Papers in Jersey.

The had a funeral yesterday in Cedar Grove, behind the postoffice. Edward Taylor, village postmaster, was gravedigger. What they buried was all that was left of the newspaper carrying dog, Spot—just a long black tail.

That was what a big yellow automobile left of Spot. He had belonged to Chester Taylor. Chester bought him for all his savings a year ago when his owner, a peddler, said he was "a pure blooded mongrel." Chester didn't know what a mongrel was, but from the way the peddler said it he felt that the dog was cheap at $3.

Before that Chester had delivered papers; now he took Spot along the route, and Spot soon learned everything about the business. So, after a little Chester took his marbles along with the papers out under the big tree before the postoffice. He would give Spot a paper, "Here, Spot," he wouldsay, "Cy Sawyer," and Spot would dash off like a streak. When he got back he would watch till Chester finished a shot, and Chester would hand him another paper and say: "Here, Spot, Jones," and so on right down the list.

Now yesterday he had a paper for Jim Willis, and Spot figured to save a trip. Anyway, he met the yellow car head on, and the car continued its course. As to Spot, some say he went mainly over a fence toward Singac, where Mme. Schumann-Heink lives, but they only found the tail.

PLANS FOR INVESTITURE OF MONSIGNOR WHELAN.

Announcement was made during services at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Newark, yesterday morning that the investiture as monsignor of Rev. Isaac P. Whelan, rector of the church, who is a brother of William J. Whelan, of this city, would occur at a public ceremony in the cathedral, July 25.

Bishop O'Connor will preside at the ceremony, which will begin at 11 o'clock in the morning with a procession to the sanctuary. Canting a hymn, the choir boys will walk in the lead. The clergy will follow them, the bishop and the new monsignor closing the line.

The papal brief, creating the cathedral's pastor a monsignor will be read in both Latin and English by the diocesan chancellor, after a profession of faith by the new dignitary, Bishop O'Connor will formally invest him with the purples of the office. Monsignor Whelan will sing a solemn mass and the ceremony will conclude with a hymn, "Praise Ye the Lord," sung by the choir and worshipers.

Thomas Carey, Jr., Shot.

Thomas Carey, Jr., of Elizabeth, is in the Twin City Hospital, Pawtucket, R. I., suffering from a gunshot wound in the leg. Young Carey is a son of Deputy Sheriff Thos. Carey, of South Spring street, Elizabeth. The youth was at Salyesville, R. I., for his vacation, and on Saturday went out with some companions to hunt. Carey's gun went off accidentally and the bullet entered his leg.

Girl Attacked and Choked.

While on her way home from Newark yesterday, Anna Rensing, eighteen years old, daughter of Anthony Rensing, a farmer, of Bloomfield, was attacked by a man, who choked her and tore the clothing from her body. Her screams attracted her father and a number of others to the scene, but when help arrived the man had disappeared. Some time later Wenzel Nebroval, a farm hand, was captured in the woods near the Morris Canal, and he will be arraigned in court today charged with the crime.

HERE AND THERE.

Glenside Park, formerly Feltville, a "deserted village" near Scotch Plains, on the Plainfield-Scotch Plains Road, is once more becoming populous and attractive. The town was founded by David Felt, a New York stationer and manufacturing printer, in 1845. The town was inhabited by workers at the big plant which Felt erected. When the Civil War broke out Felt, who did a big trade in the South, had his markets cut off, and the works were shut down. Samuel P. Townsend then bought the land and water rights, and he let the village decay while he tried to develop fruit orchards and a stock farm. With his bankruptcy the entire enterprise was abandoned, and it was then Feltville was truly a "deserted village." In recent years, however, the village has become a retreat for residents of Newark, Montclair, Orange and other New Jersey towns in summer. —New York Tribune.

HORSE DEAL MAY END IN A MURDER.

Middlesex county is likely to have another murder trial as the result of a shooting affray in New Brunswick Saturdaq afternoon in which Charles McLaughlin, a young horse dealer, was the victim. Robert Allen, of Highland Park, is in the county jail charged with atrocious assault with intent to kill, with the possibility of the charge being changed to murder should McLaughlin die.

Allen and McLaughlin had a horse deal some time ago, and ever since Allen has been waiting to get square with him. Saturday afternoon he walked into the doorway of McLaughlin's office at his stables on Neilson street and asked McLaughlin, who sat at his desk with his back to the door: "What are you going to do about that team of horses?"

"Oh, go away and don't bother me," replied McLaughlin. Allen then drew out a revolver and fired at McLaughlin twice, both bullets entering McLaughlin's back and one piercing a lung. Allen attempted to escape, but Henry Richardson, who was standing by, caught him and held him until Sergeant John Clinton arrived and took him to police headquarters in an express wagon.

Recorder Houghton committed him to jail without bail, pending the result of McLaughlin's injuries. Dr. Condon was summoned and had McLaughlin removed to St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, in the ambulance.

Allen claims McLaughlin and he had a fight about a year ago, when McLaughlin knocked out one of his teeth. The fight was over a horse deal, and he has been waiting since then to even up matters. He was formerly coachman at New Brunswick, for the late Mansfield Hillhouse, who had a home on College avenue. It is said by the police that Allen has served time in prison in New York for bigamy, having married a Miss Nugent, of New Brunswick, when he already had a wife living.

SUMMER SESSIONS OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Cambridge, Mass., July 13.—The sixth year's annual summer conference of the Episcopal church was opened here yesterday. A noon meeting at St. Paul's church, which will be continued daily, and a reception at the theological school in the late afternoon, constituted yesterday's program. The meetings will continue until July 25. The conference is in charge of the Seabury Society of New York, named for the first American bishop of the denomination, and has in past years met at Richfield Springs and Smith College. The topics to be discussed deal mainly with missionary enterprise.

Among speakers will be Right Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, bishop of Central Pennsylvania, and chairman of the executive committee of the board of missions; Rev. Dr. Arthur S. Lloyd, general secretary; Miss Julia C. Emery, secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary, who has just returned from a mission tour of the world; Rev. Dr. Samuel Hart, secretary of the Episcopal house of bishops; Rev. Karl Reiland, Sunday night preacher at Grace church, New York, and Rev. Harvey Officer, Jr., of the Order of the Holy Cross.

DR. OSLER REACHES HIS PRESCRIBED AGE LIMIT.

Baltimore, July 13.—Dr. William Osler, the former savant of Johns Hopkins University at Balt, is sixty years old today, and this fact recalls his reputed utterance, several years ago, to the effect that when a man reaches three-score he should kindly oblige humanity in general by taking a large dose of chloroform.

Dr. Osler is not in Baltimore. He is in England, where he is a professor at Oxford. Dr. Osler was here several weeks ago, but suddenly packed up and departed for foreign shores. The departure was so quiet that few of his friends knew about it until he had gone. Ever since then there has been a sort of an impression hereabouts that the learned doctor was well aware of the fact of his approaching sixtieth anniversary and was certain that his friends would not miss the opportunity of having some fun with him.

CAPTURED MAN ADMITS THEFT OF A BICYCLE.

After an exciting chase of more than a mile, in which pursuers and pursued were on bicycles, Patrolman James Ratchford, of Roselle Park, shortly after 9 o'clock Saturday night captured James Powers, of Elizabeth. Since his arrest Powers has confessed to stealing at Cranford the wheel he was riding. Ritchford, however, only wanted Powers for riding without a light.

The Cranford police were notified and came for Powers late Sunday afternoon. Before going to Cranford with the officers, the prisoner was arraigned before Judge Woodruff and fined $2.10 for riding the wheel without a light.

While in the lockup in Roselle Park, Powers was looked over by Captain John A. Peters, of the First Precinct, Elizabeth, and Detectives James Ward and Patrick Brogan. Elizabeth, it seems, has been bothered with bicycle thieves, and the officers suspect that Powers may know something about the missing wheels in that city.

The police questioned Powers in an effort to ascertain whether he knew anything about the stealing of a wheel from the residence of Chas. G. Kemp in Clay avenue on Saturday afternoon. He denied all knowledge of that theft.

AGED NEGRESS DIES IN HOSPITAL AT ELIZABETH.

Mrs. Pauline Morris, whose friends assert she was the oldest negro woman in New Jersey, and who, they assert, would have celebrated her 113th birthday anniversary in August next, died in the General Hospital at Elizabeth Sunday.

She had only been ill three weeks. Before that she used to make weekly rounds of favored negro families in the town, who believed that if she crossed their thresholds bad luck would be inclined to seek other quarters.

Her husband, who died forty years ago, was said to have been a famous voodoo doctor, and she always claimed that her long life was due to his powers.

All the colored people of Elizabeth are sure that she communicated with his spirit. She had a local reputation as a medium. Mrs. Morris was in good health up until three weeks ago. Physicians at the hospital believed her statement that she was 112 years old. According to one of her stories she was a slave girl in New Orleans when Farragut won his memorable victory.

$25 Weekly Alimony.

Pending a trial of a suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Tillie J. Bolton, a Brooklyn school teacher, against James H. Bolton, an accountant in the Controller's office, New York, and the son of the late Rev. James H. Bolton, of Somerville, alimony at the rate of $25 a week and a counsel fee of $200 was awarded her by Supreme Court Justice Erlanger yesterday in New York. Mrs. Bolton names Mrs. Emma Zellick as co-respondent, but Bolton denies his wife's allegations.

Potato Whip.

If the potatoes are dark colored, pare them and let them lie in cold water for several hours before using them. A delicious way of serving potatoes is to boil them until tender, drain and mash immediately. Add enough hot milk or cream to make them soft, and season with salt and paprika. Add the beaten white of an egg, whipping it in well with a fork until very light. Serve at once.

Booze Made Rooney Scrappy.

Harry Rooney, a tire repairer of North avenue, was arrested last night after considerable of a struggle by Officer Pope, of North Plainfield. Rooney was ejected from Blatz's saloon at midnight but refused to follow the advice of friends and go home. He became scrappy and was finally landed in the cooler. Borough Recorder Dolliver imposed a fine of $5 this morning which Rooney paid.

News Not Yet Received.

No further news has been received by members of the LaRue family as to the cause of the death of George W. LaRue, whose body is now on the way east from East Las Vegas, New Mexico. It was said, however, at the home of Ira LaRue that a letter was on the way which would explain fully the sad occurrence.

BAPTISTS TO PAY ALL INDEBTEDNESS

A movement is about to be inaugurated among the leaders of the Baptist denomination in New Jersey to free all the Baptist churches of their mortgages and floating indebtedness during the coming year. Dr. DeWolf, secretary of the State convention, is writing letters of inquiry to the churches all over the State asking the amount of their indebtedness with a view to ascertaining what amount of money need to be raised.

The churches of the northern convention completed in May a similar effort to raise, $1,500,000 to free three great misionary societies—the Missionary Union, the Home Mission and the Publication Society, of their debts, and this was done by the apportionment plan. All churches of the denomination were apportioned an amount to raise to the end proposed. The effort was successful. Now the same plan is proposed in New Jersey to free all the churches of their mortgages and floating obligations.

The State convention meets in the First Baptist church at Asbury Park from Oct. 26 to 28, and at that time the above movement will doubtless be started.

DEMENTED MAN STIRS RESIDENTS OF VILLAGE.

The residents of Elkwood avenue and River street, New Providence, had a scare Saturday night, due to the actions of demented James Mahon, of Orange.

Mrs. Max Kipple heard a knock at the kitchen door, and sent one of her children to answer it. A stranger stood there, muttering to himself, and the child gave a scream, whereupon the man ran for the woods. Mrs. Kipple gathered her children about her and ran to Constable Jacob G. Miller's residence, and told him of the occurrence. Miller started to search the woods, but was not able to find the man.

In the meantime Louis B. High, who resides on River street, heard his dogs bark, and, going out of doors, saw a man run from the barn toward the village. Alfred Ball, residing on the same street, was on his way home, when he was stopped by a man, who wanted to know the way to Morristown, and Mr. Ball directed him, but instead of going the right way, he turned and started for Elkwood avenue. That made Mr. Ball suspicious, and he called William E. Samson, and told him to get Constable Miller, while he would follow the man. Miller arrested the fellow and took him before Justice of the Peace William Woodruff, who learned that he lived in Orange. The prisoner refused all other information, and was locked up.

Sunday morning police headquarters in Orange announced that the man was James Mahon, who lived there with his mother and sister. He had been sick for three years, and wandered away Saturday. His illness had made him demented, but harmless.

CLAIMS NUNS WITHHOLD CASH THAT IS DUE HER.

Mrs. Patrick Coffield, who until a few days ago was Miss Anna Chambers, and who created a sensation at Trenton by marrying a wealthy resident twice her age, is planning to sue the sisters in charge of the Catholic Home at Beneff at Trenton, for $1,000, claiming this amount is being illegally held from her. Coffield is eighty years old and his bride forty.

The bridegroom evicted his son and his son's wife from his home at the time of the wedding. The bride declares a near relatives died last April in the home, leaving her $1,000, which was supposed to be deposited in a Philadelphia bank. It was discovered the account was closed, before the death of the depositor. Mrs. Coffield asserts the sisters either have the money or can locate it.

RESCUE FISHING PARTY.

Yacht Strikes Bar and Is Wrecked in Great Egg Harbor Inlet.

Captain William Garrison, R. A. Brice, C. N. Slack and H. Walker, who composed a fishing party on board Captain Garrison's yacht, the Marie, which started out from Ocean City yesterday for the fishing banks, narrowly escaped a watery grave when the yacht struck the bar in the Great Egg Harbor Inlet and capsized.

The heavy sea running smashed the cabin from its fastenings on the deck, and two of the men clung to that, while the others clung to the bottom of the boat. Men of the life-saving station saw their signals of distress and ran out the lifeboat. With the aid of a tow from the launch Comanche they succeeded in rescuing the men.

Fifty Days for "Peepers."

Two men have been sentenced to spend the next fifty days in the jail at Paterson for gazing too long into the bathroom of the nurses of the General Hospital of that place, on Saturday night. The prisoners, when arraigned before Recorder Carroll, gave their names as Homer Bassagne and Seratrice Clayton.

Attacks Higher Critics.

At the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Denis Roman Catholic church, Manasquan, Sunday afternoon, Bishop James McFaul, of Trenton, denounced in strenuous terms the higher critics in the colleges and declared the Roman church accepted the entire Bible, including the snake story in Genesis, and the whale story involving Jonah.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Dora Nelson and her heirs, devisees and personal representatives, Christian Nilsen, Hans Nilsen, David Nilsen, Nilsine Severine Nilsen, Annie Neilson, and Pierre Neilson.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein John H. Van Winkle, executor of the last will and testament of Catharine R. Webster, deceased, is complainant, and you and others are defendants, you are hereby required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant on or before the Twenty-third day of August next, or in default thereof such decree will be made against you as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

The said Bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Dora Nelson to Catharine R. Webster (now deceased), dated November sixth, Eighteen hundred and ninety-six, and recorded in Book 137 of mortgages for Union County on page 361, &c., to secure payment of the sum of Eleven hundred ($1,100) Dollars with interest on lands situate in the City of Plainfield, in Union County, New Jersey, and are located on the northerly side of Jackson Avenue sixty-six (66) feet northwesterly from George Street in said City and has a width on front and rear of forty-four (44) feet and a depth of one hundred and four and seventy-five one-hundredths (104.75) feet and was conveyed to said Dora Nelson by deed of Watson Whittlesey and wife, dated October 16th, 1891, and recorded in Book 234 of deeds for Union County on page 545, &c. And you and each of you are made defendants because you own said lands or have some interest therein or some part thereof.

Dated June 22, 1909.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Several corn fields in South Jersey will hide a horse, notwithstanding the dry weather.

The scale is killing many apple orchards in South Jersey, and the crop, it is declared, will be light.

A boulevard connecting Lakewood with New Egypt is the latest project of the citizens of Ocean county.

Horace Stonater, of Hightstown, aged twelve years, has lost a foot from blood poison as the result of injuring it while in swimming. The foot was amputated at St. Francis' Hospital, Trenton.

Venturing out too far while wading in the Rancocas Creek at Delanco, Edith Gilbert, seven years old, got beyond her depth Saturday and would have drowned but for the timely assistance of Mrs. C. F. Fisher.

Harry, nine-year-old son of Alex. McNeil, of Clayton, while climbing for pigeons in the peak of a barn, fell and struck his head on a plank, which rendered him unconscious. It is feared he is fatally injured.

After Mrs. Mary Rogers, of Norristown, had been robbed of her pocketbook and screamed an alarm that threw a crowd on one of the Atlantic City piers into a panic, the police arrested Fred C. Snelson, seventeen years old, for the theft. Snelson denied his guilt, but was sent to jail.

Shot in the left hand with a blank cartridge on the Fourth, Everett Penn, thirteen years old, of Salem, was taken to the Cooper Hospital, Camden, Sunday, suffering from the symptoms of lockjaw. His condition was reported to be exceedingly grave.

Miss Lulu Bloom, of 707 East Twenty-fourth street, Paterson, while in an unbalanced frame of mind Sunday, jumped through the windows of the first floor of her home and sustained a laceration of the hand. She was taken to the General Hospital, where the injuries were dressed. Later Dr. Norval advised that the young woman be removed to St. Joseph's Hospital.

After grappling for the body of Beverly Warwick, fourteen years old, of Third and Joint alley, it was recovered by the Camden police Sunday, near where the boy was drowned at the foot of Clinton street. It developed that Beverly had quite a reputation as a lifesaver, he having rescued a companion one day last week. He was drowned as a result of being seized with cramps.

George Lewis, a Philadelphian, nearly perished while bathing in Atlantic City Sunday because of a prank of boys who unhooked the life line from a buoy. Lewis had been caught in the current, and in answer to his calls Lifeguard Smallwood grabbed the buoy and threw it to him. Lewis grabbed the support, but Smallwood discovered it was loose from the line. He then launched a boat and rescued the sinking man.

About to board a train at Bellmawr, Camden county, on the Reading Railway, early Sunday morning, John Cowitz, thirty-nine years old, of Allegheny avenue and Richmond street, Philadelphia, slipped under the wheels and had both legs cut off. He was taken to Camden on a train and hurried to Cooper Hospital, where he died in a short time. He was weak from loss of blood, and did not regain consciousness.

Cecil, Gloucester county, was the Mecca for the nearby country Sunday afternoon at the dedication of the Mission chapel, built entirely through the efforts of the women of Cecil. In the big cranberry sorting house of M. M. Chew long tables were set, each seating 100 people, yet it took several sittings, and was after dark before the last of the throng were fed. During the afternoon the little church was filled and hundreds waiting about in the shade of the grove outside. Rev. J. Morgan Read, president of Pennsylvania Seminary, was the chief speaker, assisted by Rev. Edward Mount, pastor of the Williamstown M. E. church, and Rev. J. Calvin Krause, pastor of the Williamstown Presbyterian church.

A man who says he is Samuel L. Mathews, of Philadelphia, was arrested at Bordentown Sunday, charged with assaulting Policeman Quinn. Quinn arrested Mathews and a companion for being drunk and disorderly on the street Tuesday night, and they were fined by Mayor Gabel. Mathews remained about town, threatening Quinn. Saturday night the officer met him, and Mathews said he wanted to apologize, but instead dealt Quinn a stinging blow in the face. The officer struck the man on the head with his club, knocking him down. In falling Mathews' head struck the trolley tracks and it was found necessary to take him to Mercer Hospital, Trenton.

Greenroom Club Rehearsal.

Asbury Park, July 13.—The seventh annual midsummer full dress rehearsal of the Green Room Club will be given in the Casino at Asbury Park, on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, July 24. Among the artists who will appear are James O'Neill, George Cohan, Raymond Hitchcock, Harry Bulger, and John E. Henshaw. The club's annual clambake will be held at Avon, near Asbury Park, on Sunday afternoon, July 25.

CHAPTER II.

At Smoky Creek.

Karg, Sinclair's crew foreman, came running over to him from a pile of merchandise that had been set off the right of way on the wagon road for loot. "That's the superintendent's car coming, ain't it, Murray?" he cried, looking across the creek at the approaching train.

"What of it?" returned Sinclair.

"Why, we're just loading the team."

The incoming train, an engine with a way car, two flats, and the Bear Dance derrick, slowed up at one end of the wreck while Sinclair and his foreman talked. Three men could be seen getting out of the way car—McCloud, the superintendent, and Reed Young, the Scotch roadmaster, and Bill Dancing. A gang of trackmen filed slowly out after them.

The leaders of the party made their way down the curve, and Sinclair, with Karg, met them at the point. McCloud asked questions about the wreck and the chances of getting the track clear, and while they talked Sinclair sent Karg to get the new derrick into action. Sinclair then asked McCloud to walk with him up the track to see where the cars had left the rail. The two men showed in contrast as they stepped along the ties. McCloud was not alone younger and below Sinclair's height; his broad Stetson hat flattened him somewhat. His movement was deliberate beside Sinclair's litheness, and his face, though burned by sun and wind, was boyish, while Sinclair's was strongly lined.

"Just a moment," suggested McCloud, mildly, as Sinclair hastened past the goods piled in the wagon road. "Whose team is that, Sinclair?" The road followed the right of way where they stood, and a four-horse team of heavy mules was pulling a loaded ranch wagon up the grade when McCloud spoke.

Sinclair answered cordially. "That's my team from over on the Frenchman. I picked them up at Denver. Nice mules, McCloud, ain't they? Give me mules every time for heavy work. If I had just a hundred more of 'em the company could have my job—what?"

"Yes. What's that stuff they are hauling?"

"That's a little stuff mashed up in the merchandise car; there's some tobacco there and a little wine, I guess. The cases are all smashed."

"Let's look at it."

"Oh, there's nothing there that's any good, McCloud."

"Let's look at it."

As Bill Dancing and Young walked behind the two men toward the wagon, Dancing made extraordinary efforts to wink at the roadmaster. "That's a good story about the mules coming from Denver, ain't it?" he muttered. Young, unwilling to commit himself, stopped to light his pipe. When he and Dancing joined Sinclair and McCloud the talk between the superintendent and the wrecking boss had become animated.

"I always do something for my men out of a wreck when I can; that's the way I get the work out of them," Sinclair was saying. "A little stuff like this," he added, nodding toward the wagon, "comes handy for presents, and the company couldn't get any salvage out of it, anyway. I get the value a dozen times over in quick work. Look there!" Sinclair pointed to where the naked men heaved and wrenched in the sun. "Where could you get white men to work like that if you didn't jolly them along once in a while? What? You haven't been here long, McCloud," smiled Sinclair, laying a hand with heavy affection on the young man's shoulder. "Ask any man on the division who gets the work out of his men—who gets the wrecks cleaned up and the track cleared. Ain't that what you want?"

"Certainly, Sinclair; no man that ever saw you handle a wreck would undertake to do it better."

"Then what's all this fuss about?"

"We've been over all this matter before, as you know. The claim department won't stand for this looting; that's the whole story. Here are ten or twelve cases of champagne on your wagon—soiled a little, but worth a lot of money."

"That was a mistake loading that up; I admit it; it was Karg's carelessness."

"Here is one whole case of cigars and part of another," continued McCloud, climbing from one wheel to another of the wagon. "There is a thousand dollars in this load! I know you've got good men, Sinclair. If they are not getting paid as they should be, give them time and a half or double time, but put it in the pay checks. The freight loss and damage account increased 200 per cent. last year. No railroad company can keep that rate up and last, Sinclair."

"Hang the company! The claim agents are a pack of thieves," cried Sinclair. "Look here, McCloud, what's a pay check to a man that's sick, compared with a bottle of good wine?"

"When one of your men is sick and needs wine, let me know," returned McCloud; "I'll see that he gets it. Your men don't wear silk dresses, do they?" he asked, pointing to another case of goods under the driver's seat. "Have that stuff all hauled back and loaded into a box car on track."

"Not by a damned sight!" exclaimed Sinclair. He turned to his ranch driver, Barney Rebstock. "You haul that stuff where you were told to haul it, Barney." Then: "You and I may as well have an understanding right here," he said, as McCloud walked to the head of the mules.

"By all means, and I'll begin by countermanding that order right now. Take your load straight back to that car," directed McCloud, pointing up the track. Barney, a ranch hand with a cigarette face, looked surlily at McCloud.

Sinclair raised a finger at the boy. "You drive straight ahead where I told you to drive. I don't propose to have my affairs interfered with by you or anybody else, McCloud. You and I can settle this thing ourselves," he added, walking straight toward the superintendent.

"Get away from those mules!" yelled Barney at the same moment, cracking his whip.

McCloud's dull eyes hardly lightened as he looked at the driver. "Don't swing your whip this way, my boy," he said, laying hold quietly of the near bridle.

"Drop that bridle!" roared Sinclair.

"I'll drop your mules in their tracks if they move one foot forward. Dancing, unhook those traces," said McCloud, peremptorily. "Dump the wine out of that wagon box, Young." Then he turned to Sinclair and pointed to the wreck. "Get back to your work."

The sun marked the five men rooted for an instant on the hillside. Dancing jumped at the traces, Reed Young clambered over the wheel, and Sinclair, livid, faced McCloud. With a bitter denunciation of interlopers, claim agents, and "fresh" railroad men generally, Sinclair swore he would not go back to work, and a case of wine crashing to the ground infuriated him. He turned on his heel and started for the wreck. "Call off the men!" he yelled to Karg at the derrick. The foreman passed the word. The derrickmen, dropping their hooks and chains in some surprise, moved out of the wreckage. The axmen and laborers gathered around the foreman and followed him toward Sinclair.

"Boys," cried Sinclair, "we've got a new superintendent, a college guy. You know what they are; the company has tried 'em before. They draw the salaries and we do the work. This one down here now is making his little kick about the few pickings we get out of our jobs. You can go back to your work or you can stand right here with me till we get our rights. What?"

Half a dozen men began talking at once. The derrickman from below, a hatchet-faced wiper, with the visor of a greasy cap cocked over his ear, stuck his head between the uprights and called out shrilly: "What's er matter, Murray?" and a few men laughed. Barney had deserted the mules. Dancing and Young, with small regard for loss or damage, were emptying the wagon like deckhands, for in a fight such as now appeared imminent, possession of the goods even on the ground seemed vital to prestige. McCloud waited only long enough to assure the emptying of the wagon, and then followed Sinclair to where he had assembled his men. "Sinclair, put your men back to work."

"Not till we know just how we stand," Sinclair answered, insolently. He continued to speak, but McCloud turned to the men. "Boys, go back to your work. Your boss and I can settle our own differences. I'll see that you lose nothing by working hard."

"And you'll see we make nothing, won't you?" suggested Karg.

"I'll see that every man in the crew gets twice what is coming to him—all except you, Karg. I discharge you now. Sinclair, will you go back to work?"

"No!"

"Then take your time. Any men that want to go back to work may step over to the switch," added McCloud.

Not a man moved. Sinclair and Karg smiled at each other, and with no apparent embarrassment McCloud himself smiled. "I like to see men loyal to their bosses," he said, good-naturedly. "I wouldn't give much for a man that wouldn't stick to his boss if he thought him right. But a question has come up here, boys, that must be settled once for all. This wreck-looting on the mountain division is going to stop—right here—at this particular wreck. On that point there is no room for discussion. Now, any man that agrees with me on that matter may step over here and I'll discuss with him any other grievance. If what I say about looting is a grievance, it can't be discussed. Is there any man that wants to come over?" No man stirred.

"Sinclair, you've got good men," continued McCloud, unmoved. "You are leading them into pretty deep water. There's a chance yet for you to get them out of serious trouble if you think as much of them as they do of you. Will you advise them to go back to work—all except Karg?"

Sinclair glared in high humor. "Oh, I couldn't do that! I'm discharged!" he protested, bowing low.

"I don't want to be overhasty," returned McCloud. "This is a serious business, as you know better than they do, and there will never be as good a time to fix it up as now. There is a chance for you, I say, Sinclair, to take hold if you want to now."

"Why, I'll take hold if you'll take your nose out of my business and agree to keep it out."

The New Chalmers Cars for 1910

No Increase in Price

Note the picture. Our "30" has a 115-inch wheel base—with 34-inch wheels. A longer, higher hood to accord with a roomier tonneau. Lines like the costliest cars on the market.

Yet not a penny of additional price. The car still sells for $1500. Let us tell you how we have done it.

1,000 More Cars

Last season's output of "30's" was 2,500 cars, yet we ran 800 cars short of our orders. We were obliged to refuse trade to the extent of $1,200,000.

This year we have built a new factory, and our 1910 output of "30's" will be 3,500 cars. Those 1,000 extra cars will be made without adding a dollar to our fixed expense.

They will also be made with last year's tools and machinery. We have almost no new expense there. For mechanically, the car is not altered at all. Experience has shown us no way to improve it.

Thus we effect immense savings. And all of these savings have gone into the car—to make it more sightly, more roomy, more like the costliest cars.

Nine Per Cent Profit

Our profit this season will be the same as last season—exactly nine per cent.

Our customers have created these savings by calling for more of our cars. And every penny we save will be spent in giving them more beautiful cars. That is our permanent policy.

Please note the result. Note what a large and showy car—note the exquisite lines. Just think that $1500 now buys this amazing car.

Lower Prices

We will fit this $1500 car with a Bosch magneto, a Prest-O-Lite gas tank, and two Atwood-Castle gas lamps—all for $100 extra. The regular price of these extras is $175.

We will furnish our "30" with a Lenox mohair top for $75 extra. The regular price is $125.

We shall give you all the advantage of our quantity buying. So this 1910 model, fully equipped, costs you $135 less than did our 1909 model, equally equipped.

A longer, higher hood, roomier tonneau, longer wheel base, larger wheels and daintier lines. Yet the cost equipped is considerably less than the model of 1909.

No Records Like These

One of the Chalmers-Detroit "30's" has been run 32,000 miles, and has just completed a path-finding trip from Denver to Mexico City. Never has any car, at any price, made an equal endurance record.

Owners have paid us for repairs on their 1909 cars exactly $2.44 per car. That is a world's record.

On June 18th, a "30" won the Indiana Light Car Race, the greatest contest of its kind ever held in America, doing 232.74 miles at an average speed of 51.5 miles per hour.

On an economy test, made by the New York Auto Dealers' Association, it ran 25.7 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Never has a car at any price proved so satisfactory. Never did a car show such low cost for upkeep.

That is why we make no radical mechanical changes. Experience has proved that the 1909 "30" is absolutely right mechanically.

The Larger "Forty"

Our "Forty" for 1910 has 36-inch wheels. The wheel base is 122 inches—ten inches longer than last year. The car seats seven, while last season's seated five.

Upholstered in hand-buffed leather. Fitted with Bosch magneto, gas lamps and gas tank free.

Yet the price remains $2,750.

We will equip this car with a $150 Newport mohair top for $125 extra. The two extra seats will cost you but $75.

So this larger car, with larger wheels, when fully equipped, costs considerably less than last year.

This is our "Forty's" fifth season. It is known far and wide as the best medium-priced car on the market. It has been purchased by scores of the best experts in America for their personal use.

This season, with its extra room, there is not a car at any price which can reasonably claim to excel it.

Made as touring car, roadster and pony tonneau.

See These New Cars

Every Chalmers-Detroit dealer now has photographs of these new models. Demonstrating cars will be ready this month. Deliveries to users begin August 1st.

See them before you buy.

The tide of automobile demand is turning to these medium-priced cars. Not alone because of their prices, but mainly because of their savings on upkeep. The day of extravagance is past.

Last season these cars had no real competition. The demand was a third greater than could be supplied. This season, no medium-priced car will be anywhere near in their class.

Get your order in early, for orders are filled in rotation. August delivery gives you five months' use before the car's year begins.

WRECK ENDS "JOY RIDE"

Local Chauffeurs Pinned Under Touring Car, Over-Turned Near Metuchen.

MIRACULOUSLY ESCAPE DEATH.

Hugh McIver, Geo. M. Macintyre, Walter Kettenring and George Mitchell, the Speeders, Are Held.

Judge Runyon presided at a preliminary hearing given the "joy riders" at police court this afternoon. Assistant Commissioner Shinn, representing State Motor Cycle Commissioner J. B. R. Smith, pointed out to the court the seriousness of the offense and urged that a goodly amount of bail be fixed. The defendants were in no shape for a hearing and requested that it be postponed for one week. Their request was granted, Judge Runyon fixing the bail for each at $500, which was furnished.

Pinned under a big Mitchell touring car which turned turtle in a vacant lot near Metuchen early today, three local chauffeurs miraculously escaped death as the culmination of a wild "joy ride" to Perth Amboy, when their lives were saved by the driver of the machine, who was thrown clear of the automobile when it overturned and who prevented the wreck from taking fire by extinguishing the lamps. The "joy riders" were Hugh McIver and George M. Macintyre, employed at F. L. C. Martin's garage; Walter Kettenring, chauffeur for E. D. Middlekauff, of Central avenue, and George Mitchell. The four men, who escaped with slight injuries, are held as prisoners at police headquarters, pending an investigation of the case by J. B. R. Smith, of Trenton, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, in whose hands the matter has been placed by F. L. C. Martin, owner of the car.

The party, which left Perth Amboy at midnight to return to Martin's garage, from which the car had been secured, was upset about three-quarters of a mile from Metuchen, when McIver, who was at the wheel, steered the big car off the county road to the left, drove it through a thick clump of bushes, and jumped out, uninjured, when the machine struck rough ground in the field and turned turtle, pinning the other three men beneath its wreckage. Extinguishing the lamps to prevent fire, McIver ran along the trolley tracks toward Perth Amboy and hailed the crew of a trolley car for assistance. Motorman and conductor helped him turn over the wrecked automobile and extricate the other members of the party, who were taken to Perth Amboy on the trolley. An examination by Dr. Meinzer, of Perth Amboy, at a Perth Amboy hotel, showed that in some miraculous way the members of the party had sustained no broken bones or serious injuries, although all were badly bruised and scratched. City Physician C. B. Lufburrow, who examined the men at their arrival at police headquarters with Chief of Police Kiely, Mayor Fisk and F. L. C. Martin this afternoon, said that it is a marvel that they escaped with such slight injuries. Macintyre was taken from the wreckage unconscious, Kettenring sustained an ugly cut on the forehead, Mitchell's back is strained, and McIver walks with a limp, but none of the injuries are serious.

The trip was a "joy ride" in every sense of the word, for the party stopped frequently at saloons and were hilariously drunk when they left Perth Amboy for the return trip.

F. L. C. Martin, who heard of the accident at about 2 o'clock this morning, went to the scene of the spill this morning in an automobile with Chief of Police Kiely and Mayor Fisk and brought the four "joy riders" to police headquarters, where they are held on a technical charge of speeding. He has been in telephonic communication with Commissioner Smith and says that he will see that the case is pushed to the extreme limit of prosecution. The party is guilty of a violation of the State automobile law adopted July 4, which provides that no person shall drive an automobile without having secured permission from the owner, and that no person shall drive an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

McIver this afternoon confessed that he had lied to Thomas Van Zandt, night manager at the garage, in order to secure the car. The automobile, which has been rented for the summer months by a Seabright party, was sent to the local garage Monday to be fitted with a cover. The job having been finished, McIver, who was in charge of the car, was told to drive the machine back to Seabright this morning. He went to Mr. Van Zandt at the garage at about 6 o'clock last night, with Mac-

GIRL'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM WATERY GRAVE

Catherine Bartels, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bartels, of Watchung, had a narrow escape from drowning in the Watchung Lake, yesterday afternoon. The girl in company with several companions were playing on a spring-board at one end of the lake, when she slipped off and fell into the water at one of its deepest points.

The other girls were greatly frightened and their screams attracted the attention of John Haberle, who was doing some work nearby, for Freeholder William Demler. He ran to the lake and reached there just as the Bartels girl was going down for the second time. Without further thought he jumped into the water with his clothes on, and at considerable risk rescued the child. She was carried to the bank in an unconscious condition, but after giving the proper treatment she was soon revived. Today she was reported as doing well, although she will be detained at home a few days.

RELIGIOUS ARGUMENT ENDS IN POLICE COURT

Crazy drunk, infuriated by a big cargo of red-eye whiskey taken on a two days' debauch in New York, Roman Loiezyk, a Polish tailor, writhed and cursed in a city police court cell yesterday afternoon, handcuffed to the bars by the police to prevent him from killing himself. The man, who was arrested at about noon on Madison avenue by Patrolman Nolan, paid a fine of $8 after his hearing before City Judge William N. Runyon today.

Loiezyk is employed by Isaac Shrager, a Madison avenue tailor, and threw "boss" and fellow workmen into a high state of terror by coming into the shop yesterday noon and starting a demonstrative religious argument. One of the men raced out to get the patrolman, who arrived at the store in time to see everybody within safely ensconsed in a hiding place, and the Pole denouncing them one and all. On the way to police headquarters in the patrol wagon, Loiezyk roared out malignation at the top of his voice, and when locked up threatened to harm himself by butting into his cell walls, broke his bunk, and finally had to be handcuffed to the bars. The whole tailoring establishment was at court this morning to see the "wild man," but he came from his cell meek as a lamb, and said it was all due to "bad whiskey."

HORATIO SEYMOUR BELL, AGED TWENTY-FOUR, DEAD.

Horatio Seymour, formerly of New York city, son of the late William J. Bell and Henrietta Bell, of New York, died at the home of his uncle, Rowland A. Smith, 1266 Park avenue, yesterday morning of tuberculosis.

Mr. Bell was in his 24th year. He had a hemorrhage last Friday and did not rally after the attack. He was a member of the Sunday-school and of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 10'15 from his late home, the services being conducted by Rev. J. A. Vaughan, of New York city, assisted by Rev. John Broek, of Trinity Reformed church. The interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.

Fished for a Sewer Key.

Fishing in a sewer for a lost sewer key was the novel experience of William Nitschwitz, of Fairview avenue, a local civil engineer. While a gang of men under Mr. Nitschwitz's direction were flushing out a sewer at the corner of South and Woodland avenues yesterday afternoon, the sewer key was lost in the sataract below. The key is about nine inches long, and in order to recover it, Mr. Nitschwitz put one of his men at work with an improvised bent wire in an endeavor to fish it out. After many unsuccessful trials the job was finally given up.

Plainfielders at Atlantic City.

Eighteen Plainfielders were among the large number of people who went to Atlantic City today on the special excursion conducted by the New Jersey Central. This is the first mid-week excursion that the company has arranged for Atlantic City this season, and if a success others will probably be planned during the season. The Sunday excursions to Atlantic City have always been well patronized.

MR. SAUNDERS DEFERS HIS TRIP TO PANAMA

Owing to the fact that it is impossible for the two other delegates to accompany him, former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, has postponed his Panama trip in the interests of the New York Chamber of Commerce until the fall. It is expected that the committee of three appointed by the chamber to investigate and report upon the preference between a sea level and a lock canal at Panama, will perform their duties in September.

Mr. Saunders, who is president of the Ingersoll-Rand Company, which supplied all the drills and many other parts of the equipment for the Government's work there, is known as an advocate of the lock canal, while the two other members of the chamber's committee are said to favor the sea level plan. The Plainfielder has already made several trips to Panama in the course of his own private investigations, and it is said that he is more convinced than ever that the lock canal would be the more desirable.

HUSBAND ASSESSED FOR PUMMELING PIKE

Joseph W. Pike, of East Front street, has secured a verdict for $300 against Joseph Serf, proprietor of the Guarantee Clothing Co., of Cookman avenue, Asbury Park, in a damage suit arising from alleged insults to Serf's wife at the Asbury Park railroad station last summer. Through his counsel, Charles E. Cook, of Asbury Park, Serf has filed a writ of error and will have the case taken to the Supreme Court.

Testimony in the case, heard before Judge Foster at the Monmouth county court, was given by eye-witnesses of the fight between Pike and Serf at the railroad station, and the defendant's witnesses sought to show that Serf had struck Pike with his cane in self-defense. Serf took the stand and testified that he went up to Pike at the station for the sole purpose of demanding an apology for an alleged insult to his wife, and he said that Pike not only refused to apologize but raised his cane and struck him. The defendant told how he warded off the blow and knocked Pike down.

Serf claimed that he had sufficient justification for striking the plaintiff, but Judge Foster charged that verbal insults do not form sufficient justification for an assault. The judge over-ruled Counsellor's Cook's order to prove communications to the defendant of insults to Mrs. Cook by third persons. The defendant's counsel cited the Thaw trial to show that such communications should go in, and there was a long argument about the point in the court-room. The jury was out two hours and a half.

Party for Florence Waglow.

A birthday party was given in honor of Miss Florence Waglow, of Elm place, on Monday, she being nine years old. The affair was attended by a large number of young folks and Miss Waglow received a number of gifts. During the celebration refreshments were served. Those present were Margaret Keenan, Laura Taylor, Gertrude Blimm, Marian Thompson, Ruth Compton, Helen Thompson, Maud Edell, Mary Raleight, Mary Blimm, Margaret McCabe, Elsie Townley, Anna Reynolds, Amy Lorton, Dorothy Herman, Bertha Cashman, Velma Taylor, Florence Pangborn, Elmer Blimm, Clarence Hook, Russel Lorton, Leslie Compton, Charles Waglow and Robert Sheppard

Eulogized Mrs. Williamson.

Suitable recognition of the death of Mrs. Emily Williamson was taken in the Union County Court, this morning, when eulogistic remarks were made by former Governor Foster M. Voorhees, Judges E. S. Atwater and Benjamin Vail and Attorneys W. R. Wilson, Edward Nugent and Prosecutor C. Addison Swift. Resolutions will be drafted by a committee appointed for the purpose and the courts will be closed tomorrow when the funeral will be held.

Bicycle Coaster Thrown.

While coasting down Hyde's hill on Mountain avenue last evening, William Lambert, of East Fifth street, struck a stone and was pitched over the handlebars. The front wheel was demolished and Lambert sustained several cuts and bruises.

Water Main Burst.

Streets were flooded this morning, when a water main burst at Craig place and Duer street, and the water supply was shut off from residences in the vicinity until the break could be repaired.

PUNISH COCK FIGHTERS

Thirty-Three "Sports" All Escape by Paying a Nominal Fine.

PENALTY IS TEN DOLLARS.

One of the Raiders Is Held in Bail for Cruelty to Animals. Mild Sentences Are a Surprise.

William Watts, of this city, together with seventeen other men who were indicted on a charge of being implicated in a cock fight at Scotch Plains several months ago, and convicted, were arraigned for sentence before Judge Atwater in the Union County Court, this morning. The defendants were represented by William G. DeMeza and Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., of this city, and Edward Nugent, of Elizabeth. All made strong pleas in behalf of their clients.

Mr. DeMeza openly accused a member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, under whose direction the raid was conducted, with being a promoter of the fight and taking tickets at the door of the barn, where it was held.

Judge Atwater said that he believed the men had been sufficiently punished through disgrace and in other ways, and he would be merciful. He then imposed a fine of $10 on each one.

In connection with the affair, Mr. DeMeza yesterday caused the arrest of Special Officer Sickles, of Newark, who assisted in the raid on the cock-fighters, on a charge of cruelty to animals. He charges that on the night of the raid Sickles shot a horse belonging to a man of the name of Perrine of Westfield and left the animal to suffer. County Detective Galatian arrested Sickles and he was arraigned before Justice Toucey at Westfield, and held in $200 bail for the action of the Grand Jury.

NEWCORN TRUSTEE FOR SACHAR AND SACHAR

The first meeting for the creditors of Kussell Sachar and Kaspar Sachar, trading as Sachar & Sachar, furniture dealers on East Front street, petitioners in bankruptcy, was held before Atwood DeCoster, referee, at Newark, this morning. The petitioners were adjudicated bankrupts on June 21. Judge William Newcorn was appointed trustee, and was required to furnish bonds in the sum of $5,000.

Judge Isaac P. Runyon represented the creditors and after the hearing, Francis J. Blatz, representing the bankrupts, made a proposition of compormise to settle the claims for 25 cents on the dollar. Referee DeCoster announced that he would issue the notice to the creditors and awaiting their consent or dissent, the case will be continued. The firm's liabilities are $13,000 and the assets about $4,000.

PLAN FOUR MORE COUNTY ROADS FOR SOMERSET

Four important thoroughfares in Somerset county are soon to be made county roads. At the meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders yesterday, word was received that State Road Commissioner Gilkyson had ordered a survey of the roads recommended as county thoroughfares. This means that the roads will be macadamized by the county with the aid of the State.

One road extends from Watchung to Smalleytown, to a point near the Passaic river bridge, another from Bedminster from Larger Cross-roads, a distance of two miles and a third road from Millstone to Groendyke's corner, connecting with the county road to Somerville. This covers a distance of about four miles and will give the residents of that part of the county their first improved road to the county seat. The fourth one is the road extending from Liberty Corner to Far Hills, a distance of four miles.

The contract for building the extension of the Watchung road, which was improved last year, to Warrenville, will be given out at Somerville on Monday, when bids will be received. This is a small stretch about three-quarters of a mile and will complete a fine road from Watchung to Warrenville and points beyond.

COLORED MAN AND HIS AFFINITY FINED

With blood oozing from under a bandage which swathed his head, Thomas Henderson, colored, who will tell you today that Patrolman Messler's right arm and his nightstick are a bad combination, faced City Judge Runyon at the session of city court this morning, standing by the side of Mrs. Mildred Hills, his landlady and his affinity. "A scuttle of suds," freely passed between the two, caused the hilarious behavior of the pair which resulted in their arrest by Roundsman Higgins and Patrolman Messler at the West Second street boarding house at about midnight last night, when the entire neighborhood turned out, attracted by the squabbling, and watched the police get their prisoners. Each was to blame, in Judge Runyon's opinion, and the sentence was $10 or twenty days apiece. Both are held, pending payment of the fine.

According to the patrolman's story, Henderson, who has served a prison term for the part he took in the razor fight between the North Plainfield police and a gang of local colored gentry three years ago Chirstmas eve, was ugly when he arrested him, and fought all the way out to the wagon. He was caught on the back stoop, and on his way around the house made a grab for a fence picket to strike the officer. It was then that Messler's nightstick fell, leaving an ugly cut as it bounced from the black man's skull. Even the blow didn't calm Henderson, for he mixed it up again out by the front gate and the roundsman then assisted in the pacifying.

It was about midnight when Patrolman Messler saw Mrs. Hill's 12-year-old son, who is a cripple, hurrying toward him on West Second street. The boy sobbed that a man was killing his mother, and guided by him, the officer went to the house. When he sought to enter, however, Mrs. Hill met him and told him to "go from here." Seeing the need of reinforcements, the patrolman got Roundsman Higgins and together they entered the house. The woman was coupling good lung power with a vile vocabulary, while Henderson was sitting on the back stoop. Higgins grabbed Mrs. Hill, and Messler fought his way to the wagon with Henderson.

At court today, the "affinity" story came out. The little cripple broke down completely when he heard sentence passed on his mother, and she was allowed to take him home, returning to her cell later.

Dixon's Leg Amputated.

John Dixon, of Fairview avenue who has been a patient at Muhlenberg hospital for some time, undergoing treatment for a diseased bone of his right leg, had the limb amputated above the knee at the hospital last night. The operation was performed by Dr. P. J. Zeglio, and Dixon is resting comfortably today.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DIES AT OCEAN GROVE

Peter C. Saums, who formerly resided in North Plainfield, and was at one time bookkeeper for P. H. Currin, the Somerset street grocer, died at his late residence in Ocean Grove, yesterday from a complication of diseases. From North Plainfield, where Mr. Saums lived a number of years, he was removed to Somerville, where he took a position as bookkeeper for Smith & Schoonmaker Company, lumber dealers. He held that position until last fall when his health failed and was forced to resign.

Upon the advice of his physician, Mr. Saums went to Hot Springs, Va., in the hope of regaining his health, but found little relief. He then went to Ocean Grove, but this change did not prove beneficial. Mr. Saums was well-known here and had a host of friends.

He was a member of Court Watchung, No. 3871, Independent Order of Foresters and Noah Dove Encampment, No. 28, I. O. O. F., of this city; also the Somerville Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and I. O. O. F., of Somerville. He is survived by a wife and two children. Notice of funeral will be announced later

RECORD-BREAKING CROWD AT SALVATION ARMY MEETING.

The Salvation Army tent on Watchung avenue was crowded to the limit, last night, with a large overflow crowd outside, when Adjutant Downey, Captain Weir and the brass band from Newark Corps No. 1, took charge of the service. Owing to the fact that the band missed the train and had to come here by trolley, caused a little delay in starting the service.

The special features were the playing by the band and two duets by Adjutant Downey and Captain Weir; also a solo by Bandmaster Badenhoff. Adjutant Downey delivered a stirring gospel address, taking for her text, "Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts and be able at all times to give a reason for the hope within you." The Rev. J. W. Musson and the workers from the Temple Baptist church will have charge of the service tomorrow night.

Oscar Pierson, Jr., Injured.

Oscar Pierson, Jr., the twenty-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Pierson, of 1018 East Front street, was severely injured yesterday afternoon while working on his father's house on St. Mark's place. Pierson was descending the steps into the cellar preparatory to quitting for the day, when a block of wood fell through the open space and struck him in the face, just missing his eye. The injury will detain Pierson at home for several days.

TETANUS CAUSES DEATH

Small Son of Retired Navy Surgeon an Independance Day Victim.

A BLANK CARTRIDGE WOUND.

Joseph A. Guthrie Dies in Great Agony in Roosevelt Hospital, New York.

A victim of tetanus resulting from a wound inflicted by a blank cartridge on the fifth of July, Master Joseph A. Guthrie, 9-year-old son of Dr. Joseph Guthrie, a retired United States Navy surgeon, died yesterday at Roosevelt Hospital, New York, under peculiarly sad circumstances.

When the boy was injured first aid was given here after which he was removed to Roosevelt Hospital in New York for further treatment. He was discharged from this institution Saturday, his father being assured that all danger was passed. After a short interval of play with his companions near his home, 934 West Front street, he complained of feeling ill, and symptoms of lockjaw appearing the boy was sent back to the hospital where he died in great agony yesterday.

The boy was Dr. Guthrie's only son, his other two children being girls. The parents are prostrated with grief at the untimely death of their boy.

The funeral will be held from the home of relatives of the family in New York tomorrow and the body will be taken to Virginia, the family home, for interment.

NEW BRIDGE PROBABLE FOR WASHINGTON AVE.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders at the July meeting at Somerville, yesterday, discussed the question of building a new bridge on Washington avenue, this city, to take the place of the present county line structure which is practically worn out. No decision was reached, but it is understood that the freeholders favor the improvement. The matter will probably be decided tomorrow, when the board meets at Blawenburg to inspect a bridge there needing repairs.

Some of the members are of the opinion that if the Washington avenue structure can be secured at a right figure, it might be advantageous to replace the bridge at Blawenburg with it. This would mean a saving of a considerable sum. The members will also inspect the old bridge at Bedminster this week and it is possible that the Plainfield bridge can be used there, if not suited to Blawenburg.

According to the plans and estimates of Engineer F. J. Hubbard, of this city, a new bridge on Washington avenue would cost about $8,000, it being proposed to put up an attractive structure, one in keeping with the character of the neighborhood. It has not been decided whether to build an iron girder or concrete bridge. The Union county board sometime ago voted in favor of the proposition and is now waiting on the Somerset county board.

Officers Installed.

The installation team from Unity Lodge, K. of P., installed officers at Bound Brook Monday night and will perform the same ceremonies at Flemington tonight and at Neshanic on Friday night. Next Wednesday the same team will go to Somerville and install the officers in the local lodge. This is the team: Deputy Grand Chancellor, Fred Sears; Grand Master at Arms, Frank Putnam; Grand Prelate, Horace J. Martin; Vice Chancellor, A. C. Pope.

Enforced the License Law.

The dog license ordinance is being enforced in the borough by Chief Weiss as Louis Ciolli, a grocer of 38 Chatham street, found out to his cost this morning. The grocer was haled to court for having an unlicensed dog on his premises. Borough Recorder Dolliver fined Ciolli $2 for not having the dog registered after which the grocer paid the fee for a license.

Auto Trip to Boynton Beach.

Eighteen members of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, accompanied by Mrs. Kalman Rothberg and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Duttenhoffer, enjoyed a trip to Boynton Beach last night in the auto bus, in charge of W. A. Reason. A stop was made at the Beach, where all the attractions were enjoyed.

A. W. Chambliss, of Chattanooga, Tenn., is stopping for a few days at the home of his parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue.

The Giants are further crippled by the injury to Herzog. The speedy player broke a bone in his ankle during practice on Monday.

The total attendance at the Polo Grounds for the Pittsburg series is estimated to be about 94,000, detailed estimates being as follows: Thursday, 17,000; Friday, 31,000; Saturday, 23,000; Monday, 23,000.

The Y. M. C. A. team will play at East Millstone on Saturday and that means a lively contest for the East Millstone boys are going to "pad up."

It is understood that Bound Brook will not play return dates with the Plainfield team, preferring to give outside teams a fat guarantee to play at Bound Brook.

Fred Burchell, who is well-known here, is doing good work this season for Boston, where he is getting his share of victories.

It has been the custom of amateur players who engage in Sunday games, and professionals, too, sometimes, to play under wrong names. If their right names get in print they make a howl. It is no secret for the hundreds or thousands of spectators at a game are wise to the fact before the contest is over. If a player is so ashamed of the fact that he plays Sunday ball he should stay out of the game on that day.

The Y. M. C. A. expected good work from Jack Peacock this season, but thus far he has not displayed any unusual talent in the box. However, Jack can pitch good ball, and his friends are sure he will make good.

Linke, who has been catching for the Y. M. C. A. team this season, has made a lot of friends by his clever backstop work. He can hit the ball, too.

The Y. M. C. A. team has been doing its share of stick work this season. Oftentimes when defeated, the boys have gathered almost as many hits as the opposing team, only to lose out on a fluke of some sort.

GOLF.

Two new records have been established at the Forest Hill Field Club. Mrs. C. A. Woodruff cut the women's mark two strokes by going out in 47 and back in 46 for a 93. This included a 2 on the home hole, where Mrs. Woodruff drove to within six feet of the pin with a midiron. The distance is 140 yards.

Alec Smith, the club's professional, twice broke the record for the eighteen-hole course of the Wykagyl Golf Club at New Rochelle recently, with brilliant rounds of 74 and 70, made in a four-ball match.

In the afternoon, not content with having thus clipped two strokes off the record of 76, made by Jerome D. Travers in 1907, when, to be sure, the course was longer than it is now, Smith played even more brilliantly.

The other record is an even 70, made by Tom Gourlay, the club's professional. The fly in the ointment was an 8 at the long seventh, where the veteran had two balls in the can. Even at that he reached the turn in 39. After that Gourlay played faultless golf, save for a 5 at the thirteenth hole, but a 2 to end up with gave him a 31 home. His best previous record was 71.

Word has been received that the game is flourishing these days at the Pittsfield Country Club. In the week-end medal play handicap, H. H. Ballard won with a card of 94—18—76, while C. C. Chesney, finishing all square, won the bogie competition. There was also a driving competition, longest drive of three to count, and Weddington Smith won with 244 yards.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will preach at the Union service to be held at the First Baptist church, Sunday night.

It is possible that the Union services being held during July by four of the city churches will be continued during August. The plan has worked successfully and the attendance at the Sunday night service has been found to be large.

E. M. Cave, treasurer, of the Forward Movement Fund at the First Presbyterian church, reports the receipts for the quarter ending in May to be $112.30. This amount has been forwarded to the field representative of the church at Tokio, Japan.

Miss Adelaide Terry, of Cranford, is visiting Mrs. W. Terry, of West Fourth street.

Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, has returned from a business trip in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wharton, of West Sixth street, are entertaining relatives from Brooklyn.

Miss Edna Eckert, of Monroe avenue, who has been spending her vacation at Asbury Park, will return home today.

BIG CITY ON A MEADOWS

Immense Factory Community Will Ere Long Be Built on Waste Land.

STATE HINDERING PROGRESS.

Millions Being Spent to Transform Valueless Waste Land Into Rich Taxing Tract.

Transforming a vast area of meadows, equi-distant between Jersey City and Newark at the peninsula dividing two great waterways, is the gigantic task undertaken by the Newark Meadows Company. The work is now well underway. Since the wonderful improvement was begun some five years ago, the only obstacle met by the promoters of the scheme has been that made by the State and at times it has appeared an almost unsurmountable one. To the wide-awake and progressive inhabitant this seems to be an anomalous condition inasmuch as the State would annually reap a rich harvest in taxes as soon as the contemplated improvement is made. In its present shape, the undeveloped tract brings the State next to nothing in this respect and is entirely useless for any purpose.

Notwithstanding the indirect efforts of the State, through its expensive and vacilating Riparian Commission, to retard the improvement, by levying a tariff on progress it were, much has been accomplish already. In fact 300 acres of the 4,000 controlled by the company has been gotten in marketable shape. To bring them to such a condition has required an extraordinary amount of time, labor and money. The meadows for the most part are below the high tide level, but except in some parts have been saved from complete inundation by a system of dykes built years ago by the original owners. In many places it has been necessary to fill in fifteen feet although at others a foot or so has sufficed.

The Meadows Company tract fronts on both the Passaic and the Hackensack rivers. Its northern limit is the Saw Mill creek and its southern is where the two rivers empty into Newark Bay. The tracks of no less than six big railroad systems cross the lands, which alone gives some idea of how rapidly it would be built up into flourishing and important factory communities were the tract improved for such purpose.

The special tract now receiving consideration is a section of meadow embracing about 600 acres lying between the Passaic and Hackensack rivers, and bounded on the southerly side by the Plank Road and northerly by the Pennsylvania Railroad tract.

More than half of this section of Barbadoes Neck, the Passaic River side, has been raised about eight feet by filling, and is now solid ground. The easterly part of the tract will be filled from the Hackensack side. The filling is taken from the river by the contracting company that is dredging a seventeen foot channel 300 feet wide in the Passaic River from Newark Bay to the Greenwood Lake Railroad Bridge near Belleville. The same company is doing work for the Government in New York Bay, and has a large number of sand barges, the biggest in the country, in which it transports the sand to the Passaic River. There it is dumped in places prepared for it and pumped up by large hydraulic dredgers, which carry it back 3,500 feet over the land.

Seven dredgers are at work in the Passaic and their output also is towed in barges to the hydraulic machines and pumped on to the meadow. The bottom of the Passaic River shows about four feet of mud, and below that sand and gravel, much of which would be available for building purposes if it were needed. The marsh land shows from six to fifteen feet of meadow marsh, and below it gravel and sand, so there is a good bottom to the meadow and good foundations assured for building.

Several tracts on the Passaic River frontage have been secured by industries requiring rail and water transportation, but many who have been driven away by the delay and extraordinary demands made by the Riparian Commission. In fact, there seems to be more or less of a deadlock between the meadows company and the Riparian Commission with the State as the "goat."

The meadows were not worth over $50 an acre for assessing purposes, being mud and overflowed tidal marshes fronting on a six-foot river. Now, by expending millions, the river is being deepened and the meadows filled in until it is worth $5,000 an acre, and the increase in taxes is enough to warrant the State in granting the riparian rights for a nominal sum—at least that is the opinion of the meadows company. The representatives of the company say there should be a fixed price per foot for the riparian rights and that price should be based on some reason. The practice is to fix a new price every time a new section is asked for, and the more work the landowners do in their efforts to make their property more saleable the higher the price is raised to the owner. "The State," say the owners, "should consider that this meadow has lain in a state of nature for centuries and in that condition is useless. The landowners are improving it so that manufacturers will select sites for factories, thus increasing the ratables and providing employment for greater numbers of workmen." This, they say, will benefit the State more than the imposition of a price that is burdensome for the riparian right.

The improvement now in progress contemplates a broad canal extending from the Hackensack River to the Passaic, about half way between the Plank Road and the Pennsylvania Railroad, to add to the water frontage. The easterly end of the canal will be very nearly opposite the end of Duncan avenue, Jersey City. There will be docks and piers at that point and quite a business colony will be created across the river from West Side Park.

The land adjoining the Plank Road for two blocks will be laid out in single lots for dwellings or other purposes, and the rest of it is laid out in plots of from ten to thirty acres with broad streets separating them. These tracts will afford sites for large manufacturing plants such as cannot be built in cities without vacating a number of streets. The roads extending from the Hackensack to the Passaic will be numbered and the streets running north and south will be called avenues. Only one of these streets is yet laid out. It is graded, but not otherwise improved. If the Hackensack were bridged this street would about make a continuation of Duncan avenue. The ends of this street are to be long piers for public use, with broad docks on each side excavated back 1,000 feet.

The meadows property water front is five miles in length on the Passaic and Hackensack. The company hold title to approximately one mile of the riparian rights and is negotiating with the State for the purchase of the rest. A tract of twenty acres on the Passaic at the point of the Pennsylvania railroad bridge, to which it controls the riparian rights, has been sold by the corporation to a lumber company. This territory is already improved and represents about 200 feet of water front. Farther down the Passaic, some thirty acres of improved land, with a water front of about 260 feet for which the riparian rights have been obtained, has been purchased by Calvin Tompkins' Newark Plastic Company, and work has begun on necessary buildings. The best example of what can be done with these waste lands is shown just beyond the company's holdings on the Hackensack, where the Babbitt Soap Company has built and is operating a million dollar plant.

At the rate the operations of filling in are progressing at the present time, within a year the entire strip south of the Pennsylvania bridge will be improved. In less than ten years, the whole tract will be finished if nothing unforeseen happens. Three millions of dollars have been invested by the company having this monster undertaking in hand and many more, it is expected, will be spent.

Some idea of the expense may be gained by the cost of the equipment. For instance, each of the thirty-two barges in use cost $25,000. The larger of the suction pipes, through which the water, stone, and sand are shot across the meadows from the river represents an outlay of $20,000. This pipe is thirty six inches in diameter. The other suction pipe, now being used on the Passaic, is eighteen inches in diameter. Eighty per cent of the flow is water and each cubic yard shot through the pipe costs the company just ten cents. The eight dredges and a like number of tug boats, all built for the company, are of the most improved type and represent an enormous outlay of money.

A party of newspapermen and others inspected the operations yesterday as the guests of Harvey Fisk & Sons, of New York, who are promoting the enterprise. Mayor Charles J. Fisk, a member of that banking house, with William C. Kinney, of the same concern, and W. M. Jacobus, the chief engineer of the Meadow Company, entertained the guests, who included S. W. Niles, editorial writer of the Newark News; W. F. Keoghan, Jersey editor of the New York Tribune; F. J. Urquhart, editorial writer of the Newark Sunday Call; William Clark, of the Newark Star; James Reilly, secretary of Newark's Board of Trade, and Ralph L. Morrow. After a trip to the Newark Meadows by automobile, the party boarded the "W. F. Baldwin," one of the company's magnificent tugs, which steamed up the Hackensack meadows. A stop was made at Helfricht's pavillion, where a fine shore dinner was served. Boarding the tug again, the guests were taken down to the Newark Bay, and then up the Passaic as far as the Pennsylvania's bridge, where they landed to inspect the operations now in progress. Late in the afternoon, the party was taken by autos to Achtel-Stetter's, in Newark, where they had a dinner.

BIG CROP DAMAGE BY INDIANA STORM.

Indianapolis, July 14.—Nearly every part of Indiana was visited by destructive wind and rain storms late Monday afternoon and night, and the damage to growing crops is estimated at more than $500,000. In one county alone the loss to farmers is estimated at $150,000.

The path of the storm was marked in many sections by levelled fields of wheat, corn and oats, and in many towns the sewers were inadequate to carry off the water and houses and stores were flooded. The rainfall ranged from nearly two inches in the central part of the State to four in the Ohio River counties.

Several oil tanks in Gibson county were struck by lightning and a 12-years-old girl was killed in Hamilton.

ELIZABETH MAY HAVE A GREAT WHITE WAY.

A delegation of members of the First Street Merchants' Association, of Elizabeth, went to Perth Amboy last night to inspect the system of lighting on business streets in that city. The local business men are planning to establish a Great White Way like Newark's. Among those who made the trip were Edward S. Hersh, James A. Laurie, Joseph McManus, B. B. Miller, John P. Weber and William Hilgendorf.

Vaudeville and Pictures Enjoyed.

Another large audience enjoyed the fine show at Proctor's theatre last night. The vaudeville is well balanced with plenty of comedy, music and artistic dancing. The life motion pictures are a great drawing card, being the best obtainable. These are changed daily. There will be an entire change of bill tomorrow.

EAST END CHAPEL'S LAWN FETE A SUCCESS

A large number of people attended the lawn festival at the new Netherwood Reformed church grounds last night, and the treasury of the Ladies' Guild, under whose auspices the festival was held, must have been swelled considerably. Cake and cream and other good things appeared and disappeared in rapid succession bringing joy to both consumer and vendor.

The tables were in charge of the following members of the guild: Lemonade, Misses Iona Wood and Gertrude Berry; candy, Mrs. G. D. Merkle and Mrs. Samuel Rush; cake, Mrs. Kate Yeomans and Mrs. P. H. Wood; ice cream, Misses Lillian Martin and Maude Berry.

Many of those who attended the affair were strangers, but they soon became acquainted and the time was spent socially to mutual advantage. The church was thrown open for inspection and many took the opportunity of seeing the interior of the building, which was erected in a day and expressions of astonishment were frequent. The interest that is being shown in the new church and its enterprises is gratifying to both pastor and people. Its success is assured from the beginning.

A tablet, made by Jeremiah Van Winkle, and presented to the church by Jacob Voehl, Jr., was placed in position yesterday. As soon as the steeple and bell are added the church will be practically finished, the proceeds of last night's festival being devoted to the interior furnishing. About $40 net was realized.

The officers of the guild are, President, Mrs. G. D. Merkle; vice-president, Miss Maude Berry; secretary, Mrs. R. M. Barwise; treasurer, Mrs. P. H. Wood. The other members of the guild are Mrs. Charles Gonod, Mrs. Kate Yeomans, Mrs. Samuel Rush and Mrs. Amos Andrews.

DIVORCE IS FLAYED BY BISHOP TALBOT

Bishop Talbot, of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, created a sensation at the Episcopal Theological school at Boston, when in a caustic speech he flayed ex-Justice Brown, of the United States Supreme Court, for his recent utterance on divorce at Old Point Comfort. The bishop concluded by placing himself on record against divorce in any form. In his address the bishop said:

"Regarding divorce as a calamity and a sin, I am sorry that any judge, especially a man of such eminence in his profession, should have taken the attitude which Judge Brown is reported to have taken.

"Of course, there may be circumstances where separation may seem to be justified if there is not to be a remarriage. But I am opposed to divorce in all its forms and feel that in no case should remarriage be permitted."

It was the opening address of the summer conference of the Episcopal Church of America, during which Bishop Talbot urged upon his hearers the true definition of Christianity, not social or intellectual, but springing from the heart. Long before the Bible was ever in its present shape, he said, men believed in Christianity, because it appealed to their emotions, though back of it all was the personality of Christ.

He illustrated the power of personality in human life from literature and history, and showed it regulated all the great movements in civilization.

WRECK ENDS "JOY RIDE"

intyre, and gave him to understand that he was going to make the trip last night. He said he was going to take Macintyre home before he started. Having thus secured the machine, the two picked up Mitchell and Kettenring and started for Perth Amboy. The booze, it is said, flowed freely, and the party picked up three more men at Perth Amboy, who "showed them the town." When the saloons closed, they started for home.

When the news of the accident came to F. L. C. Martin this morning, he set out at 5:30 o'clock for the scene of the wreck with William Mazzacco, his foreman, and R. D. Martin. The machine was found in the field and was a total wreck, a mere mass of crumpled metal. The men were found at Perth Amboy and were brought back by Chief of Police Kiely, who made a second trip to Perth Amboy with Mayor Fisk and Mr. Martin.

Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church, will hold its regular meeting in the church tomorrow afternoon.

The prayer meeting service at the First Baptist church tonight will be under the direction of the Young People's Society. The leader will be A. W. Stone and the topic: "Margins in our lives, that is, not always endeavoring to be exactly on the border line between right and wrong, but doing more than is required of us."

COUNTY BOARDS OF ELECTION ARE CHOSEN

Governor Fort appointed yesterday a Democratic member of each of the twenty-one county boards of elections and a member to twelve of the Republican boards. It is expected that the remainder of the Republicans will be named in a day or two.

Of the Republican members named all were reappointments but three. The new members appointed were: Bergen County, Charles Van Elder; Gloucester county, William H. Hoffman; Hudson county, Anthany Thrasso.

The following Republicans were reappointed: Burlington, J. Howard Burr, of Pemberton; Camden, John S. Broome, of Camden; Essex, Harry Kalisch, of Newark; Hunterdon, Judson R. Kerr, of Barbertown, Middlesex, John E. Elmendorf, of New Brunswick; Ocean, Arthur B. Clute, of Tome River; Passaic, Samuel Malloy, of Pasaic; Union, George H. Stewart, of Elizabeth; Warren, John Brady, of Phillipsburg.

The Democratic appointments follow: Atlantic, John D. Carver, Elwood; Bergen, William Ely, Hackensack; Burlington, H. H. Savage, Mt. Holly; Camden, Gottlieb C. Mick Camden; Cape May, Frank W. Millen, Cape May City; Cumberland, John Ogden, Bridgeton; Essex, Edward Hartt, Orange; Gloucester, Thomas C. Dilks, Mantua; Hudson, Thomas F. A. Griffin, Jersey City; Hunterdon, James A. Newman, Paterson; Salem, Henry Stepler, Woodstown; Somerset, John H. Mattison, Somerville; Sussex, Robert T. Smith, Andover; Union, Robert H. McAdams, Elizabeth; Warren, T. Stewart White, Hackettstown.

OFFICERS INSTALLED AT FREEDOM CASTLE

The new officers of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, were installed last night by the installation team from the New Brunswick Lodge, in Odd Fellows Hall in the Babcock building. About 75 members of Freedom Castle were on hand to see the exercises and enjoy the speeches and refreshments which followed the instllation ceremonies.

Deputy Grand Chief Moore, Past Grand Chief Depew and Grand Sir Herald Jansen, of New Brunswick, made addresses as did also Grand Vice-Chief Horace J. Martin, of North Plainfield. The refreshments were served in the banquet hall by the following committee: Frank Neidig, Nelson Wylie, Walter Dennis, Louis Stites, Walter Randall and Clark Lowrie.

The following officers were installed: Past Chief, Clark Lowrie; Noble Chief, Frank Neidig; Vice-Chief, L. Martin; High Priest, Frank Runyon; Venerable Hermit, Walter Butts; Sir Herald, John Dixon; Worthy Bard, L. Hummer, Jr.; Worthy Chamberlain, Nelson Wylie; First Guard, George Church; Second Guard, Louis Stites; Ensign, Walter Dennis, and Esquire, David Weiss.

WILL SLAY RAHWAY DOGS.

Massacre Coming to Unlicensed Mongrels Per James Lynch.

Rahway again has a dog catcher. Mayor Holmes, after an energetic search and by means of a powerful amount of persuasion, has succeeded in securing again an efficient trapper in the person of James Lynch, who filled the position last year.

The dog ordinance in Rahway only calls for having a dog licensed and tagged, the fee being $1, which allows the dog to roam at will anywhere in the city. Just at this time the dog catcher has a harvest before him, as but 150 dogs have been registered, while it is estimated that there are more than 1,000 dogs in the city.

The exterminating of the unlicensed dogs will be done under the supervision of Adam Raedig, of the State S. P. C. A.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Former Senator S. H. Stanger, of Glassboro, who has been ill for some time, is able to go out.

Falling against a curb, John Esler, fourteen years old, of Gloucester, was badly injured about the knee and was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital, Camden.

When the lamp of an automobile exploded in Camden Monday John Hensen, seventeen years old, of 42 North Second street, was badly burned about the right arm. He was attended at the Homeopathic Hospital.

Alleging that she was deserted by her husband while she was ill in Cooper Hospital, Mrs. Albert A. Williams, wife of a barber, of Pitman, caused him to be held in $300 bail by Justice of the Peace Garrison, in Camden, Monday.

Frank R. Jones, of South Wilmington, Del., while in Pennsgrove Sunday rescued from drowning in the Delaware river a young woman of Philadelphia, who was at the resort for a day's outing with a party of friends in a launch.

John Scull was arrested at Millville Monday, charged with threatening to kill his brother, Randolph, manager of a market. It is believed that the man is insane and efforts will be made to commit him to the county hospital.

Moses Spetgandt, ten years old, had lacerations of two fingers on his right hand cleaned and cauterized at the General Hospital, Paterson, Monday afternoon. The lad was bitten by a dog. The victim lives at 319 Straight street.

William Toole was Monday sent to jail for ninety days by Mayor Lincoln, at Gloucester, on a charge of having picked up and failed to return a pocketbook dropped by Mrs. Samuel Hart, while she was shaking carpets near King and Market streets.

Arraigned in the Camden Police Court Monday on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill, Zachariah Harris pleaded guilty and was committed to jail in default of $500 bail. William Adams, the complainant, was badly cut about the head.

William Reinauer, of Jersey City, employed as a painter by the Wortendyke Paint Company, went to the General Hospital, Paterson, Monday, and received medical attention for an infected finger, the result of a shot wound received July 5, while celebrating.

Considerable surprise and regret is being expressed in Camden over the announcement that Rev. William Haines, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, has tendered his resignation to take effect July 25. He will take the superintendency of the Children's Aid Society of New Jersey and Delaware.

A romance, bringing together a pretty girl of eighteen and a widower more than thirty years her senior, has been brought to light by the announcement of the marriage of Miss Anna Penn, of Toms River, and Emanuel Hodson, of Trenton. The ceremony was performed Saturday by Justice of the Peace John S. Hodson, a brother of the bridegroom.

About 12:30 yesterday morning Mrs. William Dill, of Seventeenth avenue and East Thirty-third street, Paterson, wife of the secretary to the Police Board, was awakened by two men prowling near the bedroom windows of their residence. She aroused Mr. Dill, who called out to the men. Two shots were fired at the intruders, who made off in the darkness.

The Atlantic City beach police have set a new rule through the arrest of William Thompson, a youth, because his bathing suit had split to an extent that made him an object of interest to grinning spectators. Thompson ducked for shelter, but Policeman Frey, who has charge of the beach, declared that the young man was at fault for wearing a worn-out suit and conducted him to a patrol wagon.

On the ground that an order to pay $4 a week for the support of his wife and three children was not fully complied with by Thomas D. Hankins, Vice-Chancellor Leaming, in Camden, Monday, granted a writ of attachment for Hankins for contempt of court. It was explained that Hankins is not in the jurisdiction of the State and the last heard of him he was in Spring City, Pa. The writ is returnable next Monday.

Life-guards had a busy day Monday in the heavy surf that bowled over hundreds of bathers off Atlantic City. Acting under orders from Beach Surgeon Beckwith, life-guards confiscated long boards on which daring visitors had started the sport of surf riding and the game will not be allowed. Athletic young folks claim that the sport is not dangerous, but Surgeon Beckwith fears that the riding boards may endanger bathers.

Driving through the heavy surf after it had broken from moorings at the end of Young's Pier, Atlantic City, the yacht May, owned by Percy Seymour, of Philadelphia, drove in a partial wreck on the strand Monday afternoon, and ended for the time a series of mishaps that forced her owner and his friends to abandon the craft. The party reached the pier after they had been made helpless in the swift coast currents by the breaking of the rudder of their craft, and returned to their hotels.

The arrest in Atlantic City Monday of Ada Dutton, a maid in the employ of Miss Mabel C. Brisley, of Wilmington, Del., is expected to throw light on the mystery of the disappearance of $2,000 worth of jewelry which the police of Wilmington have sought for months. Miss Brisley missed the jewelry while the Dutton girl was in her employ, but would not admit suspicion of the girl until the arrest, which followed the discovery of lost waists and lingerie in the trunks of the maid. The girl will be taken back to Wilmington.

REST MADE EASY.

There Will Be Less Sleeplessness When Plainfield People Learn This.

Can't rest at night with a bad back.

A lame, a weak or an aching one.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for bad backs.

They cure every form of kidney ills.

From common backache to diabetes.

They are endorsed by Plainfield people.

Mrs. O. C. Moore, 37 Manning avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Though I have had no occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills in the past few years, I value them as highly as ever. My kidneys were in a weakened condition for years and the backache I endured were of a severe nature. Many nights I was unable to sleep at all and when I awoke in the morning my limbs would be so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Every cold I caught settled in my kidneys and increased my aches and pains. I doctored with physicians but none of the medicines I used did me any good. At length I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured them ta Randolph's Pharmacy and began taking them. They went directly to the seat of my trouble, dispelling the pain and making me feel like a new person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Stone Roads

Elizabeth, N. J.

Sealed proposals will be received by the County Road Commitee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., at the Court House, Elizabeth, New Jersey, at 2:30 p. m., on Friday, July 9, 1909, for the construction of a stone road with the second course of "Amiesite," beginning at South Avenue and extending to Raritan Road.

The length of the roadway between said points is about 9,982 lineal feet. The width of the stone work is sixteen (16) feet.

The estimated quantities of the work are as follows:

|---|---|
| Excavations | 27,367 cu. yds. |
| Excavations outside road | 2,306 cu. yds. |
| Amiesite road | 17,900 sq. yds. |
| Macadam driveways | 240 sq. yds. |
| Belgian block gutters | 44 sq. yds. |

Plans, profiles and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer, 201 Park Avenue, Plainfield, New Jersey.

Bidders must enclose with their proposals a certified check for One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), made payable to the order of Benjamin King, Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., as guarantee that if the contract be awarded to such bidder, the bidder will enter into an agreement with the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union for the performance of the work according to the specifications.

The said Board of Chosen Freeholders or its Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the county.

F. J. HUBBARD,
County Engineer.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The big second part of the George Primrose Minstrels, which will be seen here at the New Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night, July 21, is said to contain a number of interesting and amusing novelties. Several of the acts will be remembered as headliners in most of the first class vaudeville theatres throughout the country, and will no doubt, be given a big reception by their many friends here. The best known include, Happy Jack Gardner, with a new budget of songs and stories; Harvey, Henderson and Lewis, in their comedy musical skit; Mosher, Hayes and Mosher, in their laughable bicycle act; the Ward Brothers, world's greatest Patter singers and character dancers; the Church City Quartette in a medley of songs and humor; and George H. Primrose, America's dancing idol, in his new (first time here) terpsicorean novelty—"Dancers Past and Present," wherein will be shown bits taken from the work of more than twenty famous minstrel men. This act is said to be the crowning achievement of Mr. Primrose's long career. "The Guess Who Girls" are another feature, the performance concluding with a big spectacular number of plantation life, said to be a very impressing picture of the darkey as he was and is today.

George H. Primrose.

Firemen Honored.

Protection Hook and Ladder Company, of Dover, which won first prize for the best appearing and best drilled company in line at the firemen's parade here last week, is in receipt of an invitation to take part in a parade at Goshen, N. Y., in October.

PROPOSALS

For Laying Out the Grounds of New Washington School on Darrow Avenue, corner Essex Street.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held July 6th, 1909, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Tuesday evening, July 20th, 1909, at 8 o'clock, at the Board room in the High School Building, corner Ninth street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for laying out, grading, putting in cement walks, and all work called for on the plans and specifications on file in the office of Frank J. Hubbard, engineer, 203 Park Avenue, where all information can be obtained until the day of meeting of the Board as above mentioned.

Proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for work on grounds for the New Washington School, Darrow Avenue," and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received prevrious to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

For the Board of Education,
F. B. CLARK, Clerk.

"Is there any man here that wants

She Was Something Like an Apparition.

to go back to work for the company?" continued McCloud, evenly. It was one man against 30; McCloud saw there was not the shadow of a chance to win the strikers over. "This lets all of you out, you understand, boys," he added; "and you can never work again for the company on this division if you don't take hold now."

"Boys," exclaimed Sinclair, better humored every moment, "I'll guarantee you work on this division when all the fresh superintendents are run out of the country, and I'll lay this matter before Bucks himself, and don't you forget it!"

"You will have a chilly job of it," interposed McCloud.

"So will you, my hearty, before you get trains running past here," retorted the wrecking boss. "Come on, boys."

The disaffected men drew off. The emptied wagon, its load scattered on the ground, stood deserted on the hillside, and the mules drooped in the heat. Bill Dancing, a giant and a dangerous one, stood lone guard over the loot, and Young had been called over by McCloud. "How many men have you got with you, Reed?"

"Eleven."

"How long will it take them to clean up this mess with what help we can run in this afternoon?"

Young studied the prospect before replying. "They're green at this sort of thing, of course; they might be fussing here till to-morrow noon, I'm afraid; perhaps till to-morrow night, Mr. McCloud."

"That won't do!" The two men stood for a moment in a study. "The merchandise is all unloaded, isn't it?" said McCloud, reflectively. "Get your men here and bring a water bucket with you."

McCloud walked down to the engine of the wrecking train and gave orders to the train and engine crews. The best of the refrigerator cars had been reralled, and they were pulled to a safe distance from the wreck. Young brought the bucket, and McCloud pointed to the caskful of brandy. "Throw that brandy over the wreckage, Reed."

The roadmaster started. "Burn the whole thing up, eh?"

"Everything on the track."

"Bully! It's a shame to waste the liquor, but it's Sinclair's fault. Here, boys, scatter this stuff where it will catch good, and touch her off. Everything goes—the whole pile. Burn up everything; that's orders. If you can get a few rails here, now, I'll give you a track by sundown, Mr. McCloud, in spite of Sinclair and the devil."

The remains of many cars lay in heaps along the curve, and the trackmen like firebugs ran in and out of them. A tongue of flame leaped from the middle of a pile of stock cars. In five minutes the wreck was burning; in ten minutes the flames were crackling fiercely; then in another instant the wreck burst into a conflagration that rose hissing and seething a hundred feet straight up in the air.

From where they stood, Sinclair's men looked on. They were nonplused, but their boss had not lost his nerve. He walked back to McCloud. "You're going to send us back to Medicine Bend with the car, I suppose?"

McCloud spoke amiably. "Not on your life. Take your personal stuff out of the car and tell your men to take theirs; then get off the train and off the right of way."

"Going to turn us loose on Red desert, are you?" asked Sinclair, steadily.

"You've turned yourselves loose."

"Wouldn't give a man a tie-pass, would you?"

"Come to my office in Medicine Bend and I'll talk to you about it," returned McCloud, impassively.

"Well, boys," roared Sinclair, going back to his followers, "we can't ride on this road now! But I want to tell you there's something to eat for every one of you over at my place on the Crawling Stone, and a place to sleep—and something to drink," he added, cursing McCloud once more.

CHAPTER III.

Dicksie.

The wreckers, drifting in the blaze of the sun across the broad alkali valley, saw the smoke of the wreck-fire behind them. No breath of wind stirred it. With the stillness of a signal column it rose, thin and black, and high in the air spread motionless, like a huge umbrella, above Smoky creek. Reed Young had gone with an engine to wire for re-enforcements, and McCloud, active among the trackmen until the conflagration spent itself, had retired to the shade of the hill.

Reclining against a rock with his legs crossed, he had clasped his hands behind his head and sat looking at the iron writhing in the dying heat of the fire. The sound of hoofs aroused him, and looking below he saw a horsewoman reining up near his men at the wreck. She rode an American horse, thin and rangy, and the experienced way in which she checked him drew him back almost to his haunches. But McCloud's eyes were fixed on the slender figure of the rider. Her boot flashed in the stirrup while she spoke to the nearest man, and her horse stretched his neck and nosed the brown alkali-grass that spread thinly along the road.

To McCloud she was something like an apparition. He sat spellbound until the trackman indiscreetly pointed him out, and the eyes of the visitor, turning his way, caught him with his hands on the rock in an attitude openly curious. She turned immediately away, but McCloud rose and started down the hill. The horse's head was pulled up, and there were signs of departure. He quickened his steps. Once he saw, or thought he saw, the rider's head so turned that her eyes might have commanded one approaching from his quarter; yet he could catch no further glimpse of her face. A second surprise awaited him. Just as she seemed about to ride away, she dropped lightly from the horse to the ground, and he saw how confident in figure she was. As she began to try her saddle-girths, McCloud attempted a greeting. She could not ignore his hat, held rather high above his head as he approached, but she gave him the slightest nod in return—one that made no attempt to explain why she was there or where she had come from.

"Pardon me," ventured McCloud, "have you lost your way?"

He was immediately conscious that he had said the wrong thing. The expression of her eyes implied that it was foolish to suppose she was lost, but she only answered: "I saw the smoke and feared the bridge was on fire."

Something in her voice made him almost sorry he had intervened; if she stood in need of help of any sort it was not apparent, and her gaze was confusing.

"I presume Mr. Sinclair is here?" she said, presently.

"I am sorry to say he is not."

"He usually has charge of the wrecks, I think. What a dreadful fire!" she murmured, looking down the track. "Was it a passenger wreck?" She turned abruptly on McCloud to ask the question. Her eyes were brown, too, he saw, and a doubt assailed him. Was she pretty?

"Only a freight wreck," he answered.

"I thought if there were passengers hurt I could send help from the ranch. Were you the conductor?"

"Fortunately not."

"And no one was hurt?"

"Only a tramp. We are burning the wreck to clear the track."

"From the divide it looked like a mountain on fire. I'm sorry Mr. Sinclair is not here."

"Why, indeed, yes, so am I."

"Because I know him. You are one of his men, I presume."

"Not exactly; but is there anything I can do—"

"Oh, thank you, nothing, except that the pretty bay colt he sent over to us has sprung his shoulder."

"He will be sorry to hear it, I'm sure."

"But we are doing everything possible for him. He is going to make a perfectly lovely horse."

"And whom may I say the message is from?" Though disconcerted, McCloud was regaining his wits. He felt perfectly certain there was no danger, if she knew Sinclair and lived in the mountains, but that she would sometime find out he was not a conductor. When he asked his question she appeared slightly surprised and answered easily: "Mr. Sinclair will know it is from Dicksie Dunning."

McCloud knew her then. Every one knew Dicksie Dunning in the high country. This was Dicksie Dunning of the great Crawling Stone ranch, most widely known of all the mountain ranches. While his stupidity in not guessing her identity before overwhelmed him, he resolved to exhaust the last effort to win her interest.

"I don't know just when I shall see Mr. Sinclair," he answered, gravely, "but he shall certainly have your message."

A doubt seemed to steal over Dicksie at the change in McCloud's manner. "Oh, pardon me—I thought you were working for the company."

"You are quite right, I am; but Mr. Sinclair is not."

Her eyebrows rose a little. "I think you are mistaken, aren't you?"

"It is possible I am; but if he is working for the company, it is pretty certain that I am not," he continued, keeping mystification on her. "However, that will not prevent my delivering the message. By the way, may I ask which shoulder?"

New Jersey's Leading Grocers and Butchers

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

The following baseball games have been scheduled for Saturday in Plainfield and vicinity: Scotch Plains vs. Plainfield Baseball Club, at Crescent Oval; New Market F. C. vs. Climax A. C. at Berkeley Heights, at Berkeley Heights; St. Mary's A. C. vs. St. Joseph's A. C., at St. Mary's Oval; O. & T. V. C. Club vs. Raritan, Jr., B. B. C., at Raritan; Plainfield B. B. C. vs. Rahway F. C., at Rahway; Monroe A. C. vs. Grace M. E. Club, at Clinton avenue; Plainfield A. C. vs. Scotch Plains C. T., at Scotch Plains; Y. M. C. A. vs. East Millstone, at East Millstone; North Plainfield A. C. and South Plainfield A. C. have no games scheduled.

Plainfield A. C. Twirling Staff.

Manager Pope, of the Plainfield A. C. team, is justly proud of his pitching staff, which is conceded by local fans to be the best in the city. Louis Slocum has been with this team for three seasons and is pitching a better game than he did last year when he won thirteen out of fifteen games. With Slocum in the box a contest is as good as won. He has declined several good offers to play elsewhere. Christy Dufford is another high-class twirler. He has remarkable speed and is winning games right along, having a no-hit contest to his credit recently. He is the find of the season and with one exception is the only south-paw pitcher in the city. Ben. Coon, who won several games for the Highland A. C. last season, is also on the job, his style of twirling being of the spit-ball variety and hard to hit. In all a very classy trio of twirlers, who can be depended upon to win games.

Annual Excursion Tomorrow.

The annual excursion of the Sunday-schools of the First Presbyterian, Congregational, Park Avenue Baptist and Dunellen Presbyterian churches to Asbury Park, will be held tomorrow. The train will leave here at 8:15 o'clock in the morning and returning will leave the Park at 6:30 in the evening.

Mrs. William White and family, of Grove street, have gone to Asbury Park for a summer vacation.

TUNNEL TRAIN BLOCKED BY WARLIKE LAUNDRESS.

North Bergen, July 14.—Sophie Hynes, a young laundress of 9 Bishop street, Jersey City, went on the rampage Monday in the Homestead entrance to Pennsylvania tunnel, and after driving the laborers away got on the track and threatened to derail a train of dirt cars.

Sophie shook her fist at the approaching engine and dared the engineer to come on. The engineer pulled the whistle cord and rang the bell, but Sophie would not budge, and the engineer was forced to stop the train to keep from running her down. Patrolman Schaeffer was called, and after a hard fight he managed to do up the laundress sufficiently to permit her removal to the station-house, and she was later sentenced to jail for ten days to sober up.

Von Buelow Retires.

Berlin, July 14.—It is officially announced that the Kaiser has appointed Dr. von Bethamann—Hollweg Chancellor to succeed Prince von Buelow.

The New Chalmers Cars for 1910

No Increase in Price

Note the pictures. Our "30" has a 115-inch wheel base—with 34-inch wheels. A longer, higher hood to accord with a roomier tonneau. Lines like the costliest cars on the market.

Yet not a penny of additional price. The car still sells for $1500. Let us tell you how we have done it.

1,000 More Cars

Last season's output of "30's" was 2,500 cars, yet we ran 800 cars short of our orders. We were obliged to refuse trade to the extent of $1,200,000.

This year we have built a new factory, and our 1910 output of "30's" will be 3,500 cars. Those 1,000 extra cars will be made without adding a dollar to our fixed expense.

They will also be made with last year's tools and machinery. We have almost no new expense there. For mechanically, the car is not altered at all. Experience has shown us no way to improve it.

Thus we effect immense savings. And all of these savings have gone into the car—to make it more sightly, more roomy, more like the costliest cars.

Nine Per Cent Profit

Our profit this season will be the same as last season—exactly nine per cent.

Our customers have created these savings by calling for more of our cars. And every penny we save will be spent in giving them more beautiful cars. That is our permanent policy.

Please note the result. Note what a large and showy car—note the exquisite lines. Just think that $1500 now buys this amazing car.

Lower Prices

We will fit this $1500 car with a Bosch magneto, a Prest-O-Lite gas tank, and two Atwood-Castle gas lamps—all for $100 extra. The regular price of these extras is $175.

We will furnish our "30" with a Lenox mohair top for $75 extra. The regular price is $125.

We shall give you all the advantage of our quantity buying. So this 1910 model, fully equipped, costs you $135 less than did our 1909 model, equally equipped.

A longer, higher hood, roomier tonneau, longer wheel base, larger wheels and daintier lines. Yet the cost equipped is considerably less than the model of 1909.

No Records Like These

One of the Chalmers-Detroit "30's" has been run 32,000 miles, and has just completed a path-finding trip from Denver to Mexico City. Never has any car, at any price, made an equal endurance record.

Owners have paid us for repairs on their 1909 cars exactly $2.44 per car. That is a world's record.

On June 18th, a "30" won the Indiana Light Car Race, the greatest contest of its kind ever held in America, doing 232.74 miles at an average speed of 51.5 miles per hour.

On an economy test, made by the New York Auto Dealers' Association, it ran 25.7 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Never has a car at any price proved so satisfactory. Never did a car show such low cost for upkeep.

That is why we make no radical mechanical changes. Experience has proved that the 1909 "30" is absolutely right mechanically.

The Larger "Forty"

Our "Forty" for 1910 has 36-inch wheels. The wheel base is 122 inches—ten inches longer than last year. The car seats seven, while last season's seated five.

Upholstered in hand-buffed leather. Fitted with Bosch magneto, gas lamps and gas tank free.

Yet the price remains $2,750.

We will equip this car with a $150 Newport mohair top for $125 extra. The two extra seats will cost you but $75.

So this larger car, with larger wheels, when fully equipped, costs considerably less than last year.

This is our "Forty's" fifth season. It is known far and wide as the best medium-priced car on the market. It has been purchased by scores of the best experts in America for their personal use.

This season, with its extra room, there is not a car at any price which can reasonably claim to excel it.

Made as touring car, roadster and pony tonneau.

See These New Cars

Every Chalmers-Detroit dealer now has photographs of these new models. Demonstrating cars will be ready this month. Deliveries to users begin August 1st.

See them before you buy.

The tide of automobile demand is turning to these medium-priced cars. Not alone because of their prices, but mainly because of their savings on upkeep. The day of extravagance is past.

Last season these cars had no real competition. The demand was a third greater than could be supplied. This season, no medium-priced car will be anywhere near in their class.

Get your order in early; for orders are filled in rotation. August delivery gives you five months' use before the car's year begins.

Made by Chalmers-Detroit Motor Company, Detroit, Mich.

Won 2 firsts and one second prize Johnston's Drive-Hill Climb Contest, and made the best time for the day.

WOMEN HURT WHEN AUTOS CAME TOGETHER.

Hackensack, July 14.—Two women were hurt in an auto accident due to high speeding Sunday afternoon. A machine owned by F. L. Atkins, of East Rutherford, crashed into the side of the machine owned by County Engineer Ralph S. Earle, of this place. The accident happened at First and Beech streets. Atkins is a member of the firm of Bobbins & Atkins, importing florists. With him in the auto were his wife and a friend, Mrs. Herrick, and another man and woman, whose names were not disclosed.

Their machine was traveling north along First street and was going fast. Earle's chauffeur says he saw that the Atkins machine was going too fast to be stopped so instead of crossing First street, he swung from Beech street, and headed north with the other machine, but the Atkins car struck his machine even after it had turned.

Atkins and the women were thrown out. Mrs. Herrick sustained a fracture of the collarbone and Mrs. Atkins was bruised. They were attended by Dr. Harry MacDonald and sent home. Both machines were pretty well smashed.

HORSE CREATES UPROAR.

Gallops Down Street in Elizabeth, Wrecking Carriage.

A horse and wagon owned by Max Brenner, a downtown Elizabeth liquor dealer, caused an uproar when the horse ran away in the downtown district yesterday. The animal, which was attached to a light buggy, was standing in the street while its owner was transacting business, and during the wait was being watered. Suddenly taking fright, the horse started and brushing aside the man who stood at its head, ran wildly down the street. In the dash the carriage was wrecked and the harness broken.

Plains vs. Plainfield.

The Plainfield baseball club will meet its old-time rivals, the Scotch Plains nine, on Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon. The arrangements were completed today and this will mean a revival of interest in the game here.

FARMERS SUFFER GREAT LOSS FROM THE DROUTH

Secretary Franklin Dye of the State Board of Health said today that it is impossible to estimate the loss sustained by farming and dairy interests throughout New Jersey because of the continued drought, which is almost unprecedented. Mr. Dye has received no special reports bearing on the extent of the damage, but today he sent notices to the correspondents of the State board asking that the regular monthly report of crop conditions be supplemented by reports dealing in detail with the effect of the dry weather as observed in different localities.

Mr. Dye, however, has received private advices from various sections of the State from which he deduces that maturing crops have suffered great injury. Potatoes, garden truck, and small fruits are all badly in need of rain, and unless this is soon forthcoming the yield will be materially reduced. Pasture lands have literally died up, and this has entailed upon farmers a large additional cost in providing feed for their cattle, besides reducing the output of the dairies. Mr. Dye was of the opinion that should the dry spell soon be broken corn, late pasturage and late fruits might still be all right. The general outlook, he says, is regarded as most discouraging by the agricultural interests of the State.

Police Raid "Church of God."

The "Church of God," of which James Sturtevant, a negro, styles himself "pastor," has been broken up by the police of Newark, and the "pastor" is held in $1,000 bail for keeping a disorderly house. The four white girls who were found in the "church" in New Jersey Railroad avenue are held as witnesses in default of $300 bail each. This "church" and its "pastor" had long been under surveillance by the police, and Sturtevant had been in court, but each time he escaped punishment.

BURGLARS BUSY IN NETHERWOOD SECTION

Six Residences Entered By Two Men But Little Is Taken.

THE HOUSEHOLDERS NEGLECT.

Families Fail to "Lock Up" at Night—Much Wealth in Silverware Untouched.

A couple of barefooted burglars made a big haul in the Netherwood section early this morning, when six houses were entered between 1 and 3 o'clock. In each case entrance was effected through windows left open, the burglars having nothing to break open, gaining entrance by lifting the screens and climbing in the rooms. In no case did the night visitors go upstairs, satisfying themselves with taking money and some silverware on the first floor. In several instances thousands of dollars worth of silverware were passed by untouched.

The pair entered and ransacked the main floors of these houses: Charles A. Sturtevant, 1334 Watchung avenue; M. S. Farlee, 1335 Watchung avenue; A. A. Brousse, 714 Dixie lane; James Burrop, 734 Central street; Charles Kitchener, 742 Central street, and H. B. Smith, 705 Ravine road.

At Mr. Sturtevant's home, the burglars were satisfied to leave after taking $5 from the pockets of a pair of trousers. Mr. Farlee's house was entered through the kitchen window, the pair raising the screen at the open window. A stable boy, who is supposed to act as night watchman, was not at the house at the time. The Farlees, who are relatives of Mayor Fisk, were away. During the Charter Day celebration a night watchman was regularly on duty at the place, but he was laid off last Friday night. As far as investigation has gone, nothing has been found missing.

At the home of A. A. Brousse, on Dixie lane, the burglars got $10 in money and Mr. Brousse's commutation ticket, which was in a coat that they took. James Burrop, of Central street, reports the loss of $15 and a child's open-face silver watch, but at the house of his neighbor, Charles Kitchener, the burglars took nothing.

Silverware to the value of about $50 was taken from the home of H. B. Smith, of Ravine road. The burglars got away with a silver bon-bon dish, a silver bread plate, marked "D. G. F.," and a dozen silver spoons, marked "K." A straw hat, marked with Mr. Smith's initials, was also taken.

The police have no clue to the identity of the burglars, but from footprints on the piazzas know that they worked barefooted and that there were two of them. Chief Kiely believes that they dropped off a freight train, and left town with the loot by the freight line when the six houses had been entered and robbed. The men worked in a way that showed they they were familiar with the houses entered, and they were apparently undisturbed in every instance.

Fought In a Lunch Wagon.

Attacking Edward Dooley, who lives on East Fourth street, as he sat eating beans in Tierney's lunch wagon last night at about 9 o'clock, David Crull, who is employed at a Park avenue hotel, wiped up the inside of the wheeled cafe with him in a fit of jealous rage about a job. The electric fan was upset, the lights put out, and some stools broken before Patrolman Saffron interfered and arrested the pair. Crull was fined $8 for fighting at his hearing before City Judge Runyon this morning, and Dooley, who was the sinned-against party in the court's opinion, was released with suspended sentence.

The Thunderer's Empire Number.

The Daily Press has received from Thomas H. Stafford, formerly of this city and now of Manchester, England, the souvenir number of the London Times issued on Empire Day. It is a seventy-two page edition printed in diamond type, replete with news and general information concerning the United Kingdom most creditable to Briton's foremost newspaper. In fact, a careful perusal of the number, will give an American a fair education in the United Kingdom of today.

BAIL FOR "JOY RIDERS"

All But Chauffeur McIver Released For Hearing Wednesday.

MAC INTYRE MAY SUE MARTIN.

Former Employe at Martin's Garage Claims He Was Falsely Arrested.

George M. Macintyre, Walter Kettenring, and George M. Mitchell, three of the "joy riders," who so narrowly escaped death when the big touring car taken from F. L. C. Martin's garage Tuesday night ran amuck and turned turite in a vacant lot near Metuchen, were released under $300 bail apiece at a preliminary hearing of the case before City Judge William N. Runyon at the city court yesterday afternoon. The bondsmen were D. C. Smalley, for Macintyre; Fred Becker, for Kettenring, and Armstrong Mulford for Mitchell. Hugh McIver, who was driving the car when the upset occurred, has not yet secured bail, and is still a prisoner in a police court cell.

Assistant Commissioner Shinn, representing State Motor Vehicle Commissioner J. B. R. Smith, came up from Trenton for the hearing. F. L. C. Martin, from whose garage the automobile was taken through a false representation to the night manager of the garage, Thomas VanZandt, has put the case entirely in the hands of Commissioner Smith, and announces that the men will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. The four will be given a hearing before City Judge Runyon at the city court next Wednesday morning, when Commissioner Smith of Trenton, will be present, with Assistant County Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.

It is reported that at least one of the "joy riders" will start legal proceedings against F. L. C. Martin for alleged unjustifiable arrest. Macintyre is said to have retained counsel for this. The warrant on which all four are held, it is claimed, only applies to the driver of the automobile, and Macintyre is said to be indignant about his arrest. The men are held for speeding, and the charge to be brought against them at their hearing next Wednesday will be for violation of Chapter 127 of the State Motor Vehicle Act, which went into effect July 4. This chapter of the act provides that it is a misdemeanor to "drive a motor vehicle without the positive consent of the owner thereof," and "to drive a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition." Under this act, it is claimed that McIver, who was driving the car, is the only member of the party who can be held responsible.

The automobile, which was badly damaged when it ran up into the field and overturned, has been taken to a Metuchen garage. It is the same car which was wrecked on East Front street about a year ago, when Kettenring and a party of friends were "joy riding" and hit a tree.

Speaking of the accident at police headquarters yesterday, McIver said that he thought the road turned at the point where he ran the machine into the field. The accident happened near the corner of Pierson and Amboy avenues, Metuchen, where the trolley tracks change from one side of the road to the other. McIver saw that the rails curved and thought the road turned. "I don't know how we ever got up into the field through the thick bushes along the road. I saw a telegraph pole directly in front of me when I steered out following the curve of the rails, and I shut off. I don't know whether we skidded through those bushes or went up radiator first."

It is said that Macintyre acknowledges that he persuaded McIver to try and get the car from the garage, and had arranged to take the party over to Perth Amboy to meet a man named Voorhees, formerly an employee at Martin's garage. Late pedestrians on the Perth Amboy streets say that the big automobile was racing around the town at the rate of thirty miles an hour all the evening. The "joy riders" were not arrested at Perth Amboy, nor even taken to police headquarters or the hospital. Their injuries were dressed by Dr. Meinzer, of Perth Amboy, in a hotel there.

Truck's Wheel Came Off.

A heavy two-horse truck, driven by Ira Bowers and carrying five employes of the W. T. Kirk Company, collapsed at Front street and Park avenue at about 7:30 o'clock last night, when the nut came off the left hind wheel and the wheel came off as the wagon was turning the corner. The men hung on, and were not thrown out. Bowers went back along the road, and found the loosened nut on Somerset street. The wagon was repaired at the corner.

REGAN SHOOTS IN ANGER

Fires Two Shots in the Dark Without Any Apparent Motive.

THE PENALTY TEN DOLLARS.

Bernstein, the Ladies' Tailor of Cedar Street, Says Shooting Was Unprovoked—Sentence Suspended.

Solomon might have had some testimony as contradictory to disentangle during his reign as did Borough Recorder Dolliver this morning in the borough court, but it is not on the records. Patrick Regan, who has been before the court before and is therefore well known, was up on a charge of discharging firearms within the borough limits and incidental to this Louis Goldstein, a "ladies' tailor," was charged with using indecent and profane language within the said borough because of the shooting by Mr. Regan.

A mass of testimony was forthcoming which went to prove that the charge against Regan was founded on fact and for that he was fined ten dollars, and the charge against Goldstein appeared to have some foundation, but the sentence in his case was suspended.

Officer Reiman who was the first witness called in both cases, testified that he was attracted to the neighborhood of Regan's house on Tuesday night at about nine o'clock by the sounds of two pistol shots and upon running to the spot discovered Goldstein in the act of calling upon Regan to be a man and come outside without his gun and get what was coming to him. The officer said that he did not hear any profanity unless "coward" is profane.

Samuel S. Swackhamer, who appeared for Regan, failed to shake Reiman's testimony, and Walter Kettenring was called and testified that he saw the flash of the gun when fired but could not distinguish in the darkness who had fired the shots nor what was shot at.

Bertha Goldstein, a daughter of Louis, was the most entertaining as well as the best witness against Regan. She said that she, in company with other young girls, was playing hide and seek in front of her home and that suddenly, without any warning two shots were fired from Regan's front stoop, the bullets coming so near her that she heard their hiss as they passed close to her head. She also said that her father was in the house and called to her to ask what had happened. She replied that Regan had shot twice at her and the other children. Thereupon Mr. Goldstein came down stairs and proceeded to call Mr. Regan a coward, daring him to out and settle the matter "like a man." Lawyer Swackhamer could not make any material headway against the girl in his cross examination, and Walter Carver, a fifteen-year-old boy, was called. This boy was too evidently frightened to give any coherent answers to the lawyers' questions beyond establishing the fact that one shot was fired. Charles Glensman corroborated the boy.

Jacob Keller, a resident of Harrison street, said he heard two shots fired from Regan's porch, and that was all he knew about the case. When lawyer Swackhamer tried to make it appear that because he had had trouble with Regan over some poultry some time ago, he was not a disinterested witness, Mr. Keller retorted that the question was irrelevant and declined to answer. Judge Newcorn, who appeared for Goldstein, moved for the closing of the case as no evidence had been adduced to prove that his client had been guilty of using the language attributed to him. This procedure was objected to by Mr. Swackhamer who wanted to bring the testimony of Mrs. Regan and her daughter before the court. These two (the little girl was not sworn) testified that Regan was in bed and asleep when the shots were fired, and that he could not have been the guilty person. Regan himself swore that he had retired at a quarter before nine and was so sound asleep that when awakened by his daughter hardly could dress himself so as to make himself presentable down stairs, and that he consumed at least ten minutes in dressing. All the previous testimony had proved that Regan was seen on his porch within three or five minutes after the shooting.

Mr. Swackhamer made an eloquent plea for his client, claiming that the impulsed charge that Regan had shot at Goldstein's children was absurd, as no one but a natural born brute could be guilty of such a criminal offense. Judge Newcorn's pithy arraignment of the facts in the case evidently had more weight with Recorder Dolliver for he suspended

MUST PAY FOR FUNERAL

Undertaker Gets Verdict Against Heirs For Burying Mr. Schorb.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

"Don't Send the Bill to the Estate But to Widow"—John Talks Too Much.

The question as to whether Mrs. Josephine A. Mason, John Schorb, Jr., and William Schorb, representing the estate of John Schorb, Sr., should pay for the funeral and burial of the elder Schorb, who died on December 31, 1906, was the contention of a suit brought in the District court, this morning, before Judge William Newcorn and a jury of twelve men. Undertaker George Cole, who had charge of the funeral and burial sought to recover $186.80 for his work. He was represented by Francis J. Blatz, while Robert Newton Crane was counsel for the defendants.

The jury was out but a few minutes when it returned a verdict for the complainant for the full amount.

The complainant claimed that inasmuch as William Schorb called him upon the death of his father, and that he and his brother, John Schorb, and sister, Mrs. Mason, were present to make arrangements for the funeral, the bill should be sent to the estate. He was a witness in his own behalf and Miss Hulda Ptaschinska, a sister of Mrs. John Schorb, Sr., who nursed Mr. Schorb, also testified for Mr. Cole.

Mrs. Mason and her brothers, John and William Schorb, when called, denied their responsibility in the matter, declaring that in their opinion the bill should be paid by the widow. John Schorb said that at the time arrangements were made for the funeral, his brother did all the talking, that he assumed nothing, that the widow was the chief mourner; she married his father and ought to pay the bill. He further said that he told Mr. Cole before he left the house not to refer anything to him, that he would assume nothing and not to send the bill to the estate, but the widow.

According to Mrs. Mason, everyone seemed to be satisfied with the arrangements. She said that Mr. Cole said something about "duplicating mother's funeral for father," and she replied: "What was good enough for mother should be good enough for father." Mrs. Mason's memory was rather poor in recalling what actually took place at the conference held to arrange for the funeral, although she did remember telling Mr. Cole that the bill was a just one and should be paid.

Both the brothers denied having received a bill for the funeral, but Mrs. Mason said that one was sent to her as executrix of the estate. She however, believed that the widow should pay it and not the estate. While John Schorb was on the stand he caused a ripple of laughter in repeating what Mr. Cole said to him as he left the house after funeral arrangements were made. In reply to his words, "don't send the bill to the estate, but to the widow," Mr. Cole said: "Tut-tut John, you talk too much."

Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, who attended both Mr. and Mrs. Schorb, Sr., was called to testify to the condition of the latter following her husband's death, it having been stated that she was ill in bed and was not able to arrange for the funeral. The physician said that when he saw Mrs. Schorb she was able to sit up and talked rationally, although in response to a question he said that when he saw her at 12 o'clock midnight, that day, her condition was not so good.

Mr. Cole made an excellent witness, telling a clear, straightforward story. The complainant brought out the fact that William Schorb had told Mr. Cole that he was willing to pay one-third of the funeral expense any time his brother and sister were ready to pay their share.

It was also brought out in the testimony that Mr. Cole had seen Mrs. Schorb prior to being summoned by William Schorb, and that she told him that if the funeral could be held according to her wishes she would pay for it, but if according to the wishes of the children they would have to settle.

The summing up of counsel was brief, Mr. Crane contending that the matter in dispute was simply one of contract, whether it be a funeral or circus. He maintained that the witnesses for the complainant could not agree. He said that the bill was never sent to John or William Schorb, but to the estate of Elizabeth Schorb, the latter being the first wife of John Schorb, Sr., and in his opinion there was no liability on

CONFERENCE ON THE "GREAT WHITE WAY"

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, together with the Councilmanic light committee and representatives of the P. S. C. and the Plainfield Merchants' Association will hold a conference Monday night to consider the question of continuing the extra street lighting in the business section. There were 5,000 incandescent lights used for the illumination during Charter Day week, and the company used two extra carloads of coal for the purpose.

The lights were only put up temporarily and the current was fed by the trolley circuit. If the illumination is continued the company would have to change the system, as the current would have to be furnished through another course. It is considered doubtful whether the illumination will be continued.

Recently, thirty-seven members of the Plainfield Merchants' Association met and each agreed to pay $2 a month toward the expense, but this was considered only a trifle toward the actual cost.

On the basis of 5,000 lights the cost per night would be one cent for each light or $50 a night and the total cost for a year, burning then every Saturday night, would be $2,600. It is possible that the company might make a flat rate of $2,000 if the city decided to use the illumination.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD HAS THREE SMALLPOX CASES

Three cases of smallpox have been reported in the home of Andrew Hallick at South Plainfield, and are now under quarantine. It is proposed to erect a pest house on the township poor farm and remove the patients there. The residents of the place are considerably agitated over the presence of the disease and a strict quarantine has been established.

As a prevenitive against the spread of the disease, Dr. Nelson is in South Plainfield today vaccinating everyone wishing to have the treatment. The township committee has stationed George Arrowsmith, Sr., and William Reilly at the Hallick home and no one will be allowed to leave or enter the place. Last night the committee decided to build a pest house. Albert Manning has been given the contract.

Thus far it has not been ascertained how the disease was brought to South Plainfield. The first case that of an old man, was quarantined, but in some way he got out and in this way, it is believed, the other two cases developed. Where the old man got the disease is a mystery.

Michael Kenney.

Michael Kenney, aged sixty years, died this afternoon at his home on East Fourth street, of rheumatism of the heart. He was born in Ireland and prior to moving to this city ten years ago, lived at Whitehouse. He leaves a wife, four daughters and two sons.

TROLLEY CAR CRASHES INTO AN AUTOMOBILE

Suddenly stopping in the path of an oncoming west bound main line trolley car near Mariner's place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, an automobile in which Commissioner Andrew Gavett, of this city, was riding, was struck, damaged slightly, and pushed into a stone wagon standing in the street. The horses attached to the wagon took fright and started to run away, but were soon caught.

The automobile was owned by F. S. Hutchinson, of New York, and was driven by his chauffeur. Mr. Hutchinson is the agent of the Barrett Manufacturing Company, which furnishes the tarvia products being used on the city streets. He met Street Commissioner Andrew Gavett and took him out West Front street to inspect work on the street in his automobile. On the south side of the street a steam roller and fifteen or twenty barrels obstructed the path of the automobile; while on the other side of the street there was a tar kettle and a stone wagon. Unaware of the approach of the car, despite the fact that the motorman rang his bell and his way blocked on each side of the street, the chauffeur stopped the automobile and Hutchinson got out. Seeing that a collision was inevitable, A. Willis, the motorman, put on the brakes but the speed of the car was such that it plunged into the automobile, which in turn struck the stone wagon ahead of it.

The occupants of the automobile were not hurt and neither was the motorman. The trolley car passengers were badly shaken up. The damage done to the automobile was where the trolley car step ripped off a rear tire which it ran over, and a hole which it knocked in the side of the tonneau. The rear light of the automobile was smashed and the searchlight in front was also demolished as a result of compact with the stone wagon. The only damage done to the trolley car was a broken step. The automobile was towed to a local garage, wher repairs were made. The crew in charge of the trolley car was A. Willis, motorman, and William Ryan, conductor.

H. S. Bell's Funeral.

The funeral services of Horatio Seymour Bell, who died on Tuesday, were held this morning at the home of Rowland A. Smith, 1266 Park avenue, and were conducted by Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, assisted by Rev. Royal A. Stout, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church. Rev. J. A. Vaughn, of New York city, who it was expected would conduct the services, was unable to be present. The remains were taken to Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, on the 12:19 express, accompanied by Rev. Mr. Broek, who will read the burial service at the grave.

OUTSIDERS' CONTROL OF FRESH AIR HOME

Local Managers Won't Be Given Hewitt Bequest and They Withdraw.

MAY REMOVE THE CAMP.

Report That Rolston and Morgan Plan to Remove the Home to Long Island.

The amicable settlement of the will of William Hewitt, the eccentric millionaire of Oswego, N. Y., through which The Netherwood Fresh Air Home was left $100,000 and The Little Missionary Day Nursery, of New York, of which Miss Sara Curry is the matron, was left $200,000, will probably result in the removal of the Home from this city to a more convenient site nearer New York. As a result of the recent settlement among the contesting heirs, the Home will receive about $75,000, and the Day Nursery will also get a few thousand dollars less than originally bequeathed.

It has been rumored during the past few weeks that the Home would be removed to some point on Long Island, where the children could have the advantage of the sea air. This has been talked about since it became known that the Home was to be a beneficiary of the Hewitt will. It is expected that the money will be turned over to the institution within a few weeks. By that time plans will probably be completed for its removal, inasmuch as Messrs. Rolston and Morgan have assumed the entire charge of this work, ignoring the Plainfielders entirely.

At a recent conference on the part of George E. Hall and Miss Florence G. Hawkins, representing the local management, and Messrs. Rolston and Morgan, of New York, who have had general supervision of the Day Nursery work in New York, as well as that at the Home, the Plainfielders were given to distinctly understand that they could not have one penny of the sum left to the Home, but that Rolston and Morgan would take charge of the bequest and direct its expenditure and investment.

This announcement completely surprised both Mr. Hall and Miss Hawkins, and as a result both have withdrawn their help and support from the Home, as has also the other active workers from this city. It was difficult to understand just what right Messrs. Rolston and Morgan had to this money for the Home, for it was plainly left to that institution without any provisos or specific instruction as to who should handle the sum. Upon learning the attitude of the New York parties, the Plainfielders who have comprised the management committee of the Home here, decided to have nothing to do with the money and consequently signed off.

This action on their part will leave the New York parties free to act as they wish. There were some Plainfielders, who have been closely identified with the work, who wanted to take legal steps to preserve the bequest for the Home and its improvement in this city, but after a conference it was thought best not to do so. There are hundreds of Plainfielders who have sacrificed both time and money for charity, providing entertainment and arranging for the reception and the supply of provisions for the children and their mothers.

There are many who have been of the opinion that Plainfield's charities, such at The Day Nursery and the King's Daughters' Baby Camp, have been made to suffer through the support that has been given to the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, and those who have heretofore been contributing to the Home will now give to local charities.

Another somewhat remarkable feature of the situation at the institution, is that Messrs. Rolston and Morgan have taken title to the land upon which stands the building built by David Hand as a memorial to his two sons. Under present conditions they could order this building removed, if they desired. It is also understood that the New York parties are willing to sell the site of the Home if a purchaser can be found, who will pay the advanced price asked.

The situation is deeply regretted

The July Clearance Sale

Meets With Instantaneous Success.

Values tell and here are telling values—the kind that bring crowds and that repay the crowds for coming. And how the people thronged every department during the opening hours of this sale! How eagerly they bought—and with what enthusiasm they praised the big values so plenteously provided. There will be no let-up to the daily crowds during this event because there will be no let-up to the great value-giving.

We hold this sale for the sole purpose of effecting a clearance of odd lots, left-overs, odds and ends, etc.—and so we name prices far below any figures likely to be named anywhere this season. Every department is represented with a full quota of exceptional values—the whole store is one big, busy, bustling bargain bazaar.

We will crowd every hour of the day with irresistible money-saving inducements—affording exceptional economies on summer necessities of all kinds.

Join the Crowds That Will Chose From These Out-of-the-Ordinary Offerings.
